Cigaret Butts Cause of Most Forest Fires

Cigaret butts carelessly tossed away are the major cause of forest fires today. They account for more than twice as many destructive conflagrations as any other cause, says Mac Wilson, supervisor of the forest protection branch of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests in the Tweed district office.

It is a known fact that human beings are responsible for over 80 per cent of forest fires and carelessness of smoking materials is the major reason for this high percentage. Burning cigaret butts are responsible for about 50 per cent of all forest fires according to a recent report from the Tweed district office of Lands and Forests.

Cigaret smokers travelling in the forest are advised to always put the ashtray when travelling by car and always be sure a cigaret butt is definitely extinguished either by dousing it in water or by putting it out underfoot.

Miss Linda Fisher led the song service, singing the hymns

'Disturbed' Africa Topic at Tabernacle

The regular monthly meeting of Tabernacle United Church W.M.S. was held in the church parlor on May 10.

Mrs. Lookyer, the president, opened the meeting and conducted the devotional. The topic was "The Value of the Christian Home." The parent does not fulfil his duty by sending his children to church it would be of no avail unless the parents go to the children, "Come let us go to church".

In a Christian home the conversation should be such that children learn much of spiritual things. Children should feel free to discuss their problems with their parents.

The treasurer gave a most satisfactory report of funds on hand.

Mrs. McKinnon, secretary of Christian stewardship, stated that every member should not only give our money systematically, but our time and talents. When we come to the last minutes in a year, surely we will have some good items for prayer, also to visit those in need of our sympathy."

Mrs. Lookyer announced Mary Valley parity in the church Monday, May 23rd, were discussed; also plans for a visit to the Home for the Aged on the evening of May 26.

Mrs. Archibald bag charge of the lunch. Hostess, Mrs. Adria. Distributed." The speaker concerned Missionaries in Northern Rhodesia.

The youngest overseas undertaking of the United Church of Canada was started in 1953 when Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey Smith were appointed to the copper belt of Northern Rhodesia. One of their duties is the situation in the copper belt is the result of the movements of fast-moving change and disturbance are found, namely: racial tensions, industrial unrest, political turmoil, nationalism, rising standard of living and extreme nationalism.

"Nationalism manifests itself a vital contribution to make in what might be called a human relations labor. Official British policy is to prepare the territories for self government in the hope that they will stay within the Commonwealth.

"The great tragedy for Christ mas people is that the free churches have added racial segregation by ministering to segregated churches for Africans and Europeans. Thoughtful Africans lose faith in people who, while professing belief in the brotherhood of man, shrink from social contact with Africans.

"There is a long road ahead of building genuine fellowship between Christians of two races and this is precisely why the missionary meets his greatest challenge in the copper belt.

"In 1958 European churches of Congregational, Presbyterian and Methodist traditions on the copper belt did become an integrated part of the African Church now known as the United Church of Central Africa in Rhodesia. There is hope when the church demonstrates real unity within its own ranks."

Letters were read from Miss Marion Boyd, who at one time sang in Tabernacle United Church choir. Miss Boyd is now married and she and her husband are missionaries in Angola, Africa.

The meeting was closed by Mrs. Oland.

"When The Roll is Called Up Yonder" and "Yes, I Know," Miss Lois Wright read the Scripture, Psalm 91.

The ushers, Jean Post and Charlie Wright received the evening offering.

Miss Helen Patrick led in testimonies and choruses. Mr. Charlie Wright read a solo "Don't Judge Too Hard." Miss Gail Walker rendered a vocal solo, "Known Only to Him," and Mrs. Mervin Bowes of Longlac, Ontario, brought the evening message from Romans 12: 1, "I beseech you, therefore brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service.

COLLEGE HILL W.A.

The afternoon group of the W.A. of College Hill United Church met on May 11th, with 16 members present. The president opened the meeting.

The topic for the devotional was "Freedom in the Spirit". Mrs. G. Jenkinson read the Scripture lesson from Galatians chapter 5:13-25.

Mrs. H. Thomson read thoughts on the lesson which said in part "The liberty of the children of God does not mean doing what we like and following the fancies of our own desires. This freedom depends on submitting our lives to the control of Christ, and letting him direct our paths. The opposite of this is letting our lives be controlled by this world with its demands and pressures. We are not left to ourselves or rather He will guide and sustain us. He is our Master and Lord but also our "Friend", and Mrs. Hunter closed the devotions with prayer.

A short business discussion followed when the secretary and treasurer read their reports. A announcement was made of the Mary Valley Parity Meeting on May 23th and at least one carload would be attending. Final arrangements were discussed for the Brownies' mother and daughter banquet on May 17th. Women's Federation Urges French Teaching in Schools

GUELPH (CP) — Conversational French as a regular subject in all Ontario elementary schools was urged here today by the University of Western Ontario at the regional conference of the Canadian Federation of University Women.

A brief on the subject will be presented to the provincial education department this fall.

Provincial director Mrs. M. J. Sabina of St. Catharines said Ontario school boards have already applied for permission to teach French to elementary pupils. She told the 268 delegates the best age for a child to learn a foreign language is under 10.

A panel agreed too much school time was being wasted repeating subjects and teaching material pupils should learn from parents.

Panelists were F. J. Hamilton of Guelph; Mrs. G. Keller, Brantford; Mrs. M. J. Savia, St. Catharines; Rev. Finlay Stewart, Kitchener and moderator Mrs. J. C. Whitwill, Brantford.

The importance of learning a language through the ears instead of the eyes was stressed by Dr. Robert Gauthier, director of French instruction for the Ontario education department.

CAN'T FOLLOW TALK

Dr. Gauthier said many students cannot follow even the simplest conversation in French after studying the language from the text books for several years.

Miss Florence Nichols of Ottawa demonstrated an oral-aural system of teaching French. Her perception is an important part of this system and children become fluent in French under guidance of their teacher almost immediately.

people only understood each other world friendship and understanding would be promoted.

A question period followed.

ORIGINS OF WEDDING CUSTOMS

With so many weddings planned for the coming months, it might be interesting to delve into the past to see how some of our traditional customs come about.

(Q) The engagement and wedding ring? Today symbolize the betrothal and marriage vows. Where did this tradition originate, and why do the rings were on the third finger of the left hand?

(A) During the stone age, the cave man's marriage was made by capture. His bride's wrists and ankles were bound with rushes. From this ancient custom has evolved the engagement ring and wedding band that we know today. The traditions governing why these rings are worn on the third finger of the left hand are a little obscure. An old Egyptian belief was that this finger had a special vein which led directly to the heart. This theory was, of course, exploded with the medical discovery that all fingers have a vein connected with the heart!

(Q) Perhaps the belief that the custom stems from the early Christian ceremony is the correct one. Is this ritual, the bridegroom placed the ring first on his bride's thumb, then on the first, second and third fingers, saying as he did so, "In the name of the Father and the Son and the Holy Ghost, Amen." The "Amen" brought the ring to the third finger, where it remained.

(Q) Why is the custom of throwing rice on the bride and groom as they depart on their honeymoon?

(A) In ancient times people believed that throwing rice would divert evil spirits who might otherwise harm the couple. As rice has always been known as a symbol of good omens and a full larder, another legend has it that pelting the bridal couple with it would ensure prosperity and happiness.

(Q) Why are old shoes thrown after the departing bride and bridegroom?

(A) Many conflicting theories surround the origin of this old custom. One reason for throwing shoes, according to an Elizabethan poet: "Hence again backward, quick as a bee. Now for good luck, cast an old shoe at me." In India, the theory is that the custom evolved from the ritual of throwing one's slippers across a roof as a reminder that visitors would not be welcome!

(Q) What is the significance of the orange blossoms that are traditionally worn by the first-time bride?

(A) There are several theories regarding this. One, that the Moors and Saracens considered the orange blossom the symbol of fertility. Down through the ages brides have worn orange blossoms as a forerunner of motherhood.

Question: Please tell me how many cards to leave when calling on a married couple. We have the "Mr. and Mrs." engraved cards and I also have cards for myself alone. I was told I would need both of them.

Answer: You would leave one of the "Mr. and Mrs." cards and one of your husband's is also necessary. As a woman never calls upon a man, it is correct that she leave only one card when visiting a married couple. It is the man who leaves two cards. If the single cards were left in this case a woman would leave one card, and a man, two.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. V. S. — I want to tell the authorities.

Susan S. — It will be embarrassing for me.

Mrs. V. S. — My daughter, Susan, is a 19-year-old high school girl. She is pretty and friendly, but so far hasn't dated very much.

The other day she gave me the shock of my life when she admitted her high school English teacher had been trying to date her for the past six months. This man is about 30 and married. He is the father of two children. Susan has told him several times she couldn't go out with him. But he just hasn't taken no for an answer.

I think this is a case for the authorities, but Susan has made all kinds of terrible threats if I tell anyone. She says I'll be away from home when she was a youngster, so I'm afraid of what she'd do now.

Susan S. — I was afraid to tell Mother because I know she loves nothing better than a bit of blabbing. She makes a big fuss over everything. I wouldn't have mentioned it if I thought she'd carry on like this.

If I have to come to the principal's office to tell him about this, it's going to be very embarrassing. Besides, I don't want to get this teacher into trouble. I only want him to stop bothering me. He has always behaved like a gentleman, except for trying to talk me into these dates.

Now that I've told Mother and got it off my chest, I feel that I'll be better able to handle things. I just won't pay him the slightest attention any more. I'm sure the whole thing will blow over.

The Council: We agree that this matter is likely to "blow over" now that Susan has made up her mind to cut off the teacher's advances.

The big question is why did she take six months to make up her mind?

Susan's strange behavior suggests one of two possibilities. One is that she has been exaggerating or building up a dream situation out of a friendly smile and a few kindly words. The other is that she has been leading on her teacher and became frightened when she realized the situation was out of hand.

The question of whether or not Mrs. V. S. should report to the "authorities" hinges mainly on whether there is anything to report to them.

Susan may find it difficult to be honest with herself at this point, but she must make the attempt. Did she lead the teacher on for dates or did she only imagine he was hinting at it? Or did she encourage him and then duck out when he took her up on her interest in him? If the teacher was actually "bothering" her why didn't she tell her mother about it at once?

The bad part of this picture is that Susan has been reliving and brooding about this matter for months. It indicates a too heavy emphasis on day-dreaming. Even if the teacher was pursuing her in earnest, Susan reacted in a way that indicates unrealistic or self-involvement rather than positive interest in the world around her. She was aware she couldn't date a married man. Yet she chose to spend six months either thinking about it or discussing the issue back and forth with a friend. Since quite well the teacher would have to take no for an answer if she gave it to him in no uncertain terms.

The good part of the picture is that Susan has now come to a decision. Telling her mother was a step in the right direction. It means she has given up her foolish day-dreams. This is more important than revealing anything to the school authorities. Now Susan should try to find more social activity within her own age group.

Farewell Party Given Bank Manager

FRANKFORD— Business men, Legionaires and members of the Frankford Lions Club turned out in force last Friday night at the Legion Hall to bid farewell to Mr. Fred Caley, who for the past three years has served as manager of the local Bank of Montreal.

More than 70 local men who attended the party, enjoyed a light lunch during the evening and presentations were made to Mr. Caley by leaders of the various town groups.

For the past two years, Mr. Caley has served as Services Officer with the Canadian Legion, and it was at their instigation that the evening was planned.

Mr. Jack McInally on behalf of the Legion members presented a set of cuff links emblazoned with the Legion crest. In his remarks he thanked Mr. Caley for his work on behalf of the local branch.

Mr. Bruce Servos, president of the Lions Club, presented a translator radio purchased by the club members and Mr. E. Mallett presented a brief case on behalf of the town businessmen.

Mr. Caley was born at Dougas on the Isle of Mann and during mid-teens came to Canada with his parents. The Caleys moved to western Ontario and Mr. Caley considers Paris his hometown.

He joined the RCAF in June of 1940 and trained at McGill University for eight months as a radar technician. He then took up training at the then secret radar operated by the Royal Air Force at Clinton, Ontario.

Posted overseas, he served for two and a-half years with the famed "Pathfinders" installing radar equipment in Mosquito bombers at RAF Smith, Yorkshire. These fast twin-engined plywood construction mosquitos, heavily equipped with the latest radar, would sweep in fast and low over enemy targets and mark them with flares for the following bombers.

On the cessation of hostilities in Europe, Mr. Caley was transferred to the Far East for the war against Japan. However, by the time he returned to Canada, the war had ended in the Pacific theatre.

He took up employment with the Bank of Montreal in Brockville, and later served at Paris, Ontario, and for three years at one of the Seaway towns, Ingleside, before coming to Frankford some three years ago.

'Bull Sessions' Have Proved to Be Beneficial

HAMILTON (C)—One of the organizers of an Ontario detectives seminar here said Friday that "bull sessions" have proved one of the most beneficial aspects of the week-long talks.

Cyril Cole, Metropolitan Toronto sergeant of detectives, said the 100 delegates have discussed the working methods of criminals in different areas of the province.

There was bound to be increased police co-operation and co-ordination, he added.

THE SAGA OF THE SOAKED SPECKLERS,

or

The Five Fearless Fishermen, Their Trials, Tribulations and Trout.

It was a day like any other day (only it rained). The next four days were the same (only it rained). Days that go to make our times. Only THEY were there.

These trout-questing Hiawathas started for the Land of Laughing Water, 17 miles northwest of Lake St. Peter, fully equipped.

They had $75 worth of grub, gear, a truck, a small car, two boats, five chairs and a tent. They passed in a crescent saw, an axe, a case of canned beans and a gallon of fishworms. They used everything but the sun-tan lotion.

It was raining when they started.

Some hours and four million raindrops later they entered the forest primeval, the car leading the cavalcade. They drove into an old lumber camp road that had ruts a foot deep and rock goose-pimples a foot high.

They were within a mile of "Mystery Lake" when disaster struck. They crossed a creaky old bridge that bent and groaned under the truck weight.

A half mile further they reached the second bridge—and journey's end. The car crossed safely. But the bridge sagged and broke under the truck. Its rear end was down but solidly in the bridge wreckage.

It was still raining.

They decided to make camp nearby. They lugged all the gear and grub from the truck and erected their canvas forest motel.

It was a one-room affair with wall-to-wall grass carpets and no dust threat. They made ready their sleeping bags and their first supper of pork-and-beans, boiled, cooked on gasoline stoves in the open air kitchen.

They were comfortable enough, inside. They didn't worry about baths. They had an open-air shower by merely stepping outside the tent.

They pitching could have been better. It was a 1960 Ohio Valley spill-level model, built on the spot.

The next morning it was still raining. They breakfasted and lugged the boats and fishing gear the half mile to the lake.

Here they struck luck. The water was high, but clear and cold, about 42 degrees. But the trout were hungry and biting. They took the worms like a Soviet committee gulps caviar.

The lasted for about two and one-half days. Then the trout quit. The water was slowly rising, bringing in natural food. But the Fearless Five were satisfied.

They bagged well over one hundred speckles between seven and ten inches. They saved 60, divided five ways, and ate the rest on the spot.

The third day it rained again. But the boys were happy. They cooked fresh trout on the stoves in the rain. The "cook" brought in the tasty fish on platters, floating in rainwater. The toast floated on tin own platter-lakes, but who cared. One of the party fell in the water up to his waist. It could have been worse. His top half was uppermost.

But between eating and fishing and playing euchre at night, they had a problem. That was the bridge. So they took turns at repair work. They used axes and crosscut to produce large and small logs to jack up the bogged-down truck.

Finally they got the truck out. But there was a bridge to build before they could get out.

The sky cleared for an hour. Then it started raining again. They tore down parts of an old lumber shack that stood by, and by dint of hard labor reconstructed the bridge, or at least made it passable.

But the rain was falling—and the water in the lake was rising. It was estimated the level rose nearly two feet during the anglers sojourn.

At the end of the third day two decided to come home. The trout had stopped biting but the rain was still falling.

The pair bundled the 60 trout, splitting the piscatorial loot into five portions, and delivering them to the respective homes after they reached the city.

The remaining three decided to call it a week after two more days. The rain had raised havoc with the old lumber road. It took them three hours to travel a few miles to the highway.

It was still raining.

But the quintet decided it was worth it. The sleeping bags were not feather beds but they were not bad. One of the party, however, decided not to take any chances. He slept with his clothes and boots on—and for added comfort pulled his pajamas over the top of the ensemble and crewled into bed that way.

"The fun was worth the trouble," said a spokesman. "If the rain hadn't come, I don't think the trout would have quit—and we would have had a ball. Why I even forgave my wife for giving away what she could—but cal of the dozen trout I sent her. When I got home we had beans for supper."

Cub Hurler Fashions First No-Hitter Of Season

Don Cardwell Zeros Cards In First Start for Chicago; Birds Tie Chisox for Lead

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

Don Cardwell is a shining example of the old baseball cliche that a change of uniform is good for a man now and then.

Unable to last more than six innings for the Philadelphia Phillies who traded him Friday, the 24 - year - old righthander came through with a no-hit, no-run game Sunday in his first start as a Chicago Cub.

Cardwell relired the first hitter, walked Alex Grammas on a 3-2 pitch and then set down 28 St. Louis Cardinals in succession en route to his 4-0 victory.

It was the first no-hitter in the National League since Sal Maglie of the Dodgers was in Brooklyn, three one against the Phillies in the waning days of the 1956 pennant race.

Pittsburgh's Harvey Haddix, of course, pitched 12 perfect innings last year to give up a hit and lose the game to Milwaukee in the 13th. The last modern major League no-hitter was pitched by Hoyt Wilhelm of Baltimore against New York, Sept. 20, 1958.

Cardwell's only previous 1960 win was in relief against Milwaukee. He had lost to Pittsburgh and Milwaukee and failed to go the route in four starts. Over the years he has had only fair success in the majors, never getting up to the .500 mark for a full season. He said he never believed he could pitch a no-hitter.

St. Louis had one its first game on the road with a 6-1 decision in the opener. Two home runs by Ken Boyer helped break a 12-game losing streak away from home.

Orlando Cepeda's two - run triple in the eighth gave first-place San Francisco a 3-0 decision over Los Angeles. Johnny Antonelli allowed only six hits, boosting the Giants' lead over Pittsburgh to big games.

The Pirates bopped on Warren Spahn for four runs in the first inning and took the opener 6-4 but bowed to the Braves in the second 4-3 on Hank Aaron's three-run homer off Bobby Dandela in the first inning.

Cincinnati and Philadelphia players engaged in a free-for-all in the eighth inning of their first game after the Reds' Jim Brosnehec hit three Philly batters. The Philly won the first 14-3 for Gene Cooley and the Reds got even 5-1 behind Don Newcombe.

Stan Williams pitched a two-hitter for Los Angeles Saturday as the Dodgers defeated San Francisco 2-1. Pittsburgh defeated Milwaukee 8-4, Philadelphia beat Cincinnati 5-2 while Chicago shut out St. Louis 4-0.

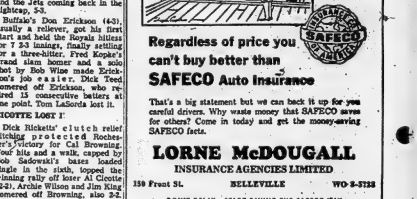
Royals Lose Ten in Row; Bisons up Lead

By the Associated Press

The Buffalo Bisons are becoming victims of habit it would seem. A late May rush last year put them atop the International League and, except for a brief period in June, they never were threatened in winning the pennant.

Now Manager Kerby Farrell's troops have a 2½-game lead over the Toronto Maple Leafs and a modest four-game winning streak that has ended, for the time being, the Leafs' chances of a keep-ing first place.

Buffalo handed the Montreal Royals their 10th straight loss Sunday, 9-2 while Toronto lost to Rochester 4-3. Miami beat Havana 3-1 and tied Montreal for seventh place, Columbus and Richmond split a doubleheader, the Virginians taking the opener 6-5 and the Jets coming back in the nightcap, 5-3.



Buffalo's Don Erickson (4-3), usually a reliever, got his first start and held the Royals hitless for 7 3 innings, finally settling for a three-hitter. Fred Kopke's grand slam homer and a solo shot by Bob Wine made Erickson's job easier. Dick Teed homered off Erickson, who retired 15 consecutive batters at one point. Tom LaSorda lost it.

Jim Archer's nine - hitter for Miami beat the Sugar Kings as the Marlins got two unearned runs to overcome an early 1-0 Havana lead and added two insurance runs on Ron Samford's triple in the eighth. Orlando Pena took the loss.

Nini Tornay's solo homer got Columbus off to a flying start in the second game after Jesse Gonder's home run off Dioneides Olivo broke a 5-5 tie in the eighth inning. Eli Grba, who lost Saturday night, gained the Richmond victory in relief, while Curt Raydon won the nightcap for the Jets. Jim Pisoni hit his fifth homer for Richmond in the opener and drove in four runs.

SoftballLeague 5-TeamLoop, Sports Centre Cancels Entry

The Sports Centre team announced its withdrawal from the Belleville and District softball league this morning, leaving a five team grouping for the 1960 season.

A number of Sports Centre players practised with the Bobcats on Thursday, this city's other league entry, and it is expected a number of them will be lining up with Bob Temple's Bobcats.

Besides the Bobcats, other teams remaining are Dorscreen Athletics Trenton Hallcrest VW's, Cobourg Merchants and RCAF Flyers.

The league opens Wednesday evening at CFRC Park with the Bobcats playing host to RCAF at 6.45. Sports Centre was to play against the VW's in Trenton Thursday night but league secretary-treasurer Bob Haines said this morning that another date would be named for that game, scheduled for 8.30 p.m.

Baird said that an attempt would be made to have the schedule drawn up today, likely at Haines' home at Trenton rather than the proposed 30 when the loop had six entries. The clubs played an 18-game schedule last year with four teams.

One other change expected because of Sports Centre dropping out is that the Bobcat home games will likely be played on Wednesday nights now instead of Thursdays. —

Friday 13th, Bad Luck Day? Not for No-Hitter Cardwell

CHICAGO (AP)—"Some kids yelled at me in the fifth that I could get a no-hitter, if I went after it."

And so, righthander Don Cardwell, only two days with the Chicago Cubs, got his no-hitter. He whacked the 25,546 Friday.

The 24-year-old Cardwell was making his first start Sunday in Kansas City since 1960. They're swarmed onto Wrigley Field and surrounded their hero, the scores of ushers and policemen needed a half hour to get Cardwell into the Cub dressing room.

MUSIAL WAS THREAT

Cardwell said: "I don't like that demonstration after the game," beamed the perspiring Cardwell. "I didn't know what to do then. I guess I'm just lucky. But, I didn't know what I was doing." Musial was threat because he was batting second. They rest in Musial to bat; he's a terrific hitter.

The pride of Winston - Salem, N.C. got the first no-hitter against a Cardinal team since 1919.

"(Jerry) Kindall (2b) Bouchee, (George) Altman and Moose (Myron) all made great catches to help me," Cardwell said. Moose's shoestring catch of Ken Boyer's drive was one for the last out was wonderful. But, Kindall helped me, including the Lord."

Sold for$ Million, Quarter 'Bally Ache' Wins Prep Race

NEW YORK (CP)—Sold a few hours earlier for $1,250,000, Bally Ache romped home by four lengths Saturday to set himself up his preparatory race for his Saturday's $125,000 Preakness at Pimlico in Baltimore.

Bally Ache led all the way in the 1-3-mile race—an eighth of a mile shorter than the Preakness. The runner-up in the one-lucky Derby a week ago, Bally Ache carried 126 pounds, four under his Preakness weight.

A syndicate headed by Joseph B. Straus of Lexington, Ky., bought the colt from Leonard Fruehauf of Detroit, Mich. Arnold said he hoped the horse would become the world's greatest money winner.

Although Saturday's prep race was for a first prize of only $2,200, Bally Ache jumped out to the lead at the break and rode home in 1:58, second fastest. Jockey Bobby Ussery never opened up much of a lead and turned on the whip in the stretch.

ODDS-ON FAVORITE

Bally Ache returned only $2.80 and $2.20, Divine Comedy was second and paid $3.

In New York Saturday, Yes You Will, an invader for Maryland Goodspeed, the favored Mad Order in the final furlong to win the $25,000 Carter Handicap by a half length at Aqueduct.

Yes You Will paid $8.40, $4.10 and $3.20. Mad Order paid $3.80 and $3.00. Dance was $4.50 to show.

At Inglewood, Calif., Clown Prince ($18.40) won the $28,750 Debonair Stakes at Hollywood Park; at Garden State Park in Camden, N. J., Be Cautious' father, Level, in 1946.

Senators, Tribe Swap Players

At the same time, the Senators announced they have asked waivers on righthander Ted Abernathy with the purpose of giving him his unconditional release.

Whisenant, an Abernathy will appire Tuesday. To make room for Whisenant, he has appeared three times as a pinch-hitter and failed to hit safely.

TIES DAD'S RECORD

HAMILTON, N.Y. (CP)—Harness driver Eldon Harner, 26, retired five winners at Buffalo Raceway Saturday night to tie the raceway record set by his father, Level, in 1946.

One Out of Three New Shows Succeeds, If You're Lucky

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—All three United States television networks stockpile programs, but the National Broadcasting Company probably will have more shows on the shelf than either of the others next fall.

"One out of three new shows succeed—if you're lucky," says Alan Courtney, NBC vice-president of program administration. "In television it has been the custom to put on the shelf shows that you're unsure about. But we are establishing an inventory of shows we think are tops, so that we are prepared to replace the failures by January."

Courtney, for instance, is excited over a series called The Barbarians, set in ancient times and produced in Rome. One of reasons it is on the shelf is because of production problems. These should be solved within a few months, he said, and The Barbarians will be one of the replacement shows of the approaching new season in TV.

"It takes around 12 weeks to get a series ready," said Courtney. "Even if you have the cycpt, you must get the script in shape, cast it and shoot it. In other years, we've had to rush things through. Next season, we'll be ready."

Martin Stops 'Sucker-Punch' In Cards-Phils Donnybrook

CINCINNATI (AP)—Billy Martin, a good second baseman, has been trying to live down his reputation as a hot-tempered fighting a comeback with Cincinnati's Reds.

But the fists were flying again Sunday and this time Martin was tagged, he says, trying to be a peacemaker.

"I never figured I'd get hit breaking up a fight," said the former American leaguer. "Sucker punched—that's what it was."

Billy said pitcher Gene Conley gave him the wallop. He wants a return engagement.

It came during the biggest free-for-all brawl seen in Crosley Field in years, in the eighth inning of the first of two Reds' games with Philadelphia.

The Phils won 14-3 though Cincinnati won the more sedate nightcap 5-1.

Reds reliever Raul Sanchez had trouble finding the plate and three times he hit Philly batters with low, erratic pitches. The third one hit Conley.

Phillys manager Gene Mauch charged at Sanchez. Redleg first baseman Frank Robinson drifted over to intercept Mauch. So did Martin.

"All I did is try to intercept him," said Martin. "I grabbed him, but from behind, somebody slugged me.

"I turn around and it's Conley. He's here, isn't he. Sucker punching."

Mauch tangled with pitcher Sanchez and that emptied the dugouts. Relief pitchers streaked in from the bullpens.

For 15 minutes players wrestled and punched in groups of four or five, or squared off, man to man. Finally peacemakers prevailed. No one was ejected.

Martin was the only combatant visibly hurt. There was a big swelling where Martin's jaw was broken by a pitch last year. X-rays later showed no break.

Billy, 5-feet-11 tall, fumed over Conley's bright.

"It's tough hitting them 6-foot-5 guys," he said, "but just gimme a stool.

"I hit him once in the neck," the second baseman said. "Cripes, he's so big I can't reach his face.

On the Tracks

Tybalt, which fought Wonder Where for the lead most of the way, finished third, three lengths behind the leader.

Winning Shot, owned by J. S. Evans, retired Toronto contractor, has won his two starts of the season. It was the first default this season for Wonder Where which won at Fort Erie and in last Wednesday's Whimsical Stakes.

Windy Ship won the second feature, the Frankford Purse for three-year-olds, with Men at Play second.

Castro Wins Cuban Big Fish Contest

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Premier Fidel Castro landed a white marlin 30 minutes before the deadline Sunday and won individual honors in the Hemingway fishing tournament.

The fish, weighing 50.3 pounds, was the only one Castro caught all day but it gave him a 286.6-pound total for five fish brought in during the three-day event.

The tournament is named after American novelist Ernest Hemingway, who landed nothing in the last two days of fishing.

Hearts, United Play 2-2 Tie

TORONTO (CP)—Manchester United and Heart of Midlothian soccer teams Saturday night played to a 2-2 exhibition tie before close to 30,000 fans at Varsity Stadium.

Heart, champions of the Scottish League, scored the tying goal against the famous English squad at the 30-minute mark of the second half. The game was the first for each team in their exhibition tour of Canada and the United States.

Alec Bawson and John Giles scored for Manchester, while the Heart scorers were George Thomson and Bobby Blackwood. Neither team appeared to be fully organized.

Davis Cup Quarter Finals

LONDON (AP)—Italy, the 1959 European zone champion, and Sweden, Belgium and Denmark won their way into the quarter-finals of the 1960 European zone Davis Cup tennis competition Sunday. They joined France, West Germany, Great Britain and Chile, who had clinched their places in the round of eight Saturday.

The quarter-finals, which must be completed by June 12, pair Sweden the surprise winners in the second round, against West Germany; France against Denmark; Britain against Belgium, and Italy against Chile.

Sweden won over Spain, last year's European zone runner-up, 3-2. Italy advanced to the quarter finals by beating Hungary 3-2.

Denmark got past Austria 3-2 in Vienna and Belgium defeated Brazil in the same margin.

Knuckleball Tough on Bird Catchers

BOSTON (AP) — It didn't take Vainy Thomas long to join the "name-a-bird" digit catching staff of Baltimore Orioles.

Purchased from Indianapolis of the American Association Wednesday, Thomas joined the Orioles here Saturday. He was sent to the box by pen with knuckle ball pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm, and 10 minutes later was a training room visitor.

"I was catching that flutter ball fellow and he banged one off my thumb," Thomas moaned. "I've caught knuckleballers before, but no one like him. He's too much."

Clint Courtney made his first start behind the plate Saturday after a long siege with an infected index finger.

Another catcher, Gene Green, lost his spot on the roster because of a sore arm and is now in Miami. Still healthy and on the roster is Joe Ginsberg, who sometimes wears full equipment when warming up Wilhelm.

"We're going to get our catchers a suit of armor," manager Paul Richards commented about the latest injury.

Thomas is expected to be ready for another action soon.

General tendencies: Until mid-afternoon a debilitating influence is in effect and there is also apt to be the need to double - check whatever is done to be sure mistakes are not made. Then the evening brings the chance for a fresh start toward whatever you wish to do that requires coping your over-all ambitions to a new, workable basis.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — See that you keep any promises you have made today before you go after your desires. Also, resisting above your means could be disastrous. P. M. have fun in the manner best suited to your mood. However, be of light heart, anyway.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — A lighter - up may not agree with you today, but be sure you do not try to assert your will over his, or hers. The evening is fine, however, for enjoying yourself with good comrades, either socially or at favorite resort. Be happy.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — You realize that you must change your modus operandi to fit in with modern trend, but be sure you first study methods well. P. M. go out on the town and seek those who will help you to expand, become more efficient.

Most Children (June 22 to July 21) — Do not follow that intuition pecking away at you, or it can lead you into all sorts of difficulty. Hold fast to the tried and true. Evening is then ideal for making new contacts, seriously studying new data, etc.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — Imperative you handle all business or personal affairs most efficiently today. This evening is right for cementing better relations with partners, whether in public life or in personal relations. Be very courteous, kind.

Virgo (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) — Particular care must be taken today in whatever it is you have to do, or there can be irreparable damage. Get out in the evening with loved one to delightful places and be more soul happy. Wear a lovely smile.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — Stop a while today and take a good look in the mirror. Know what changes should be made in appearance so that you are at your best. Then labor creatively. P. M. fix clothing.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — Be particularly careful not to hurt anyone close to you at home, and take care you do not jeopardize present position of safety. Evening is then ideal for advancement, whether financially or socially.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Steer clear of gossipy individuals today, and take care you do not speak unkindly or unwisely with anyone. P. M. bring about greater harmony at home and see that you are loyal to closest of kin.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — You may be beset with all sorts of worry over money or other practical matters today, but if you budget wisely, you win out. P. M. be sure to go out with compatible for relaxation and fun. Dress charmingly.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Be certain you practise the Golden Rule today, or you can lose a very valuable ally, friend. During the evening you will then be able to look into new interests, outlets that can be very lucrative in the future.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Settling obligations now is very important and be sure you clear up that mountain of little jobs ahead of you, too. Go out socially or for fun tonight and prove to yourself and others that you are on the beam, nicely balanced.

If your child is born today he, or she, will have a very inquisitive mind and be particularly interested in human behaviorisms. This unusual trait will prove very helpful in trouble - shooting employment. There will be the tendency to learn things the hard way. However, if you early inculcate the basic tenets, adult life can be very successful and happy. Be patient with your youngster and channel energies properly, for the nature is a restless one here.

"That's fine. Now I'll grab this other one . . ."

Use the Naran Plan to Lose Ugly Fat

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bothy fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried it and help bring back alluring curves and graceful tenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

DUMMY-MANNED

before the session ended, Soviet correspondents covering the conference said that on issue the U.S. promises to call off intelligence flights over Russia. We go ahead with the summit.

The session which started at 9:01 a.m. EST, ended at 9:06. Then Macmillan read a prepared statement followed a report by reliable sources that Premier Nikita Khrushchev declined at the first meeting of the summit conference today that the U.S. publicly renounce intelligence flights over Soviet territory.

Speaking at the formal opening, the Soviet premier also was said to have demanded that Britain and France dissociate themselves from such an American policy.

The first one to leave the meeting was Khrushchev. He descended the steps of the palace and appeared to be smiling happily. He shook hands with two or three persons at the bottom of the steps before entering his car and driving off.

The next of the Big Four to leave was Macmillan. It had been hoped that a decision on whether there is to be a summit would have been made at the private meeting where the four leaders met before the session was held, only by interpreters.

The British Minister of an American reconnaissance plane over Russia May 1 has been the big black shadow over the conference that there were rumors tonight that Eisenhower might call off the session.

Khrushchev pointedly avoided a face-to-face talk with the U.S. Eisenhower Sunday. He is said to have talked for two hours with de Gaulle and Macmillan and appeared to an equally tough mood in the opening conference session.

Foreign ministers and other advisers remained seated behind them at the formal session in the cabinet room of the Elysee Palace. Altogether, there were 24 persons at the session.

MR. K.

said the irregular beeps indicated the ship was operating normally.

Russia took full propaganda advantage of the timing of the launching. The news that the spaceship was circling the earth was read three times over Moscow radio by the station's star announcer, Yuri Levitan, and was followed by patriotic and Communist party music and songs.

Prof. Otto Schmidt, Soviet Arctic hero, a leading Russian scientist, said the time the Sputnik would stay up will depend on how long it will take the rocket to fall earthward. When these are completed, a rocket will be sent separating the cabin from the rocket.

Dobrovorsov said the launching was timed with the "International Year of Quiet Sun" into the Pacific last January.

In London, a spokesman for British Interplanetary Society estimated the rocket propelling the Soviet ship was two or three times more powerful than the current United States Atlas and Titan rockets.

NEWARK, A HUMAN

A Moscow radio review of the flight's aims said the launching in Soviet space exploration would be launching "a human" into outer spaceship and the successful return of he scientist to earth.

The commentator said a present Russia was "primarily interested in the peaceful conquest of the straits imposed on people by nature" and that the launching is a specific study of the effects of cosmic rays on the human organism, as well as the study of the influence from meteors which accompanies every space flight."

The spaceship provides opportunities for obtaining large series photographs of the sun and for the study of solar physics, a Soviet expert said in a broadcast to today's Communist party newspaper, Pravda.

Academician Vassily Fesenkov said the launching of the satellite enabled it to carry instruments "which makes possible the solution of problems which cannot be solved by ground observatories."

ray of French wines. He handled a few bottles, looked at the trade marks, grinned and chatted with his ambassador.

Khrushchev was followed to the manager and asked:

"How much does the shop make in a day?"

"About 100,000 francs ($200 a day," the manager replied.

"That's pretty good," said Khrushchev, nodding. "And how much do you, yourself, earn?"

"About 75,000 francs a month, with board and keep," Belade answered.

Khrushchev turned to Miss Dupont, and asked the same question. She piled the maids her board, keep, and 25,000 francs a month. The Soviet leader showed a trace of indignation.

"Why is there so much difference between you two?" he demanded. "In Russia, this sort of thing does not exist."

Then he asked the girl her age. Jeanette said she was 17.

"Are you a member of Christian Action?"

"No," she replied, smiling demurely.

In the 10 minutes Khrushchev was in the store, he didn't buy anything. He said not anything and wasn't given anything.

He strolled away down the street, and soon was embarrassing a worker on a cement project. Again he was mostly interested in what the man made.

PLANES EVACUATE

were knocked out. The only connection with the community was from Gogama, where the government set up an emergency radio service.

Evacuation of women and children was ordered by Ontario Lands Minister Spooner, who flew into the area to direct relief operations. Many women refused to leave, however, and others had to be persuaded by board helicopters for a flight to safety.

At least 30 more persons from among Fryckyer's 600 residents were expected to be flown out today.

Spooner said that although the river was still rising, residents were not in immediate dangers. There was hope the flooding would crest today. A works department crew was attempting to dam the river to stop the loss of water.

Another day of warm, sunny weather was forecast with a high temperature of 75.

Officials kept a close watch for disease, especially among children. Ontario government titan rushed serum and officials went in by plane Sunday.

Spooner said the "water supply is the main problem" and is piping it from Ivanhoe Lake "we have hauled in water and sent drinks."

Harry Metzloff, a pilot for Austin Airways in Sudbury, flew over Folyet Sunday.

He said the house except for a few buildings in the centre of the town appeared to be safe. some places the houses are in water right up to the roof.

Metzloff said the river is going about in boats. Some railway bridges are out on the CNR siding listed as they they had toppled over on their sides.

Metzloff landed at Ivanhoe Lake, 13 miles to the southwest, and took off at reach Folyet because, the road link was paper flooded.

Ivanhoe Lake, 27 miles long, had dropped five feet. The Ivanhoe River was about 13 feet above normal at Folyet.

Planting Shrubs and Small Trees

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Shrubs should be planted while still dormant, at least before many of the leaves have filled out. But if you are buying locally grown stock or shrubs that have been kept in cool storage or even potted shrubs the danger is lessened.

The danger in late planting lies in the chance of dry and hot weather and drying winds. The plants continue to give off moisture into the air while the broken root ends are unable to take up moisture from the soil.

With conifers the transplanting may go on for some weeks yet. They do loose moisture at a faster rate than the deciduous shrubs but they can make new roots better in April and May than they can in March.

GROWN IN POTS

Tempermental shrubs are often grown in pots or have their roots packed in moss and insulated paper to conserve moisture. Burlap, and soft paper wrapping need not be removed but should have the cords or fastening cut and the wrappings slit or pushed down to allow the roots to ex-pand. The wrappings will eventually disintegrate.

Pulling away the moss and straightening the roots should not be done. This defeats the whole purpose of the grower and may cause the death of the shrub. Shrubs grown in clay pots should be turned upside down and gently knocked out with the root and soil intact.

If it is not possible to plant the shrubs as soon as they are delivered, heel them in. That is, dig a shallow trench and lay the shrubs on a slant, covering the roots and part of the stems with damp soil. Cover with damp burlap to keep them from drying out. Plant as soon as possible. Or, place in a pail of water and pot them in a cool basement or garage out of the sun.

Prepare the hole well. The future well being of your shrubs will depend greatly upon the proper preparation of the soil now. A little extra care will pay off well, not only in a quick start but in continued good growth. Make the hole as wide and deep as the roots will need for several seasons. Break up the sub soil and replace it with good top soil. Use a mixture of good top soil, bone meal or other slow acting fertilizer as well as well balanced fertilizer for present needs.

Partially fill in the hole and set in the shrub. Do not plant it deeper than it was at the nursery. You will be able to see the line where the soil ended on the trunk. It is a help to lay the handle of a rake or hoe across the hole to mark the soil surface. Then you can see how deep to plant the shrub. Firm in the soil mixture well. Any pockets mean some starved roots. Water well and provide a mulch of peat moss sawdust or grass clippings. This will keep the soil cool and conserve moisture. Stake the tall shrub or tree. Anchor with soft cords to prevent bark damage.

Newly planted shrubs, especially evergreens need some protection from burning sun and drying winds. Erect some kind of protection with poles and burlap, plastic or cotton. Discard as soon as damp cool weather comes or new roots take over. Spray the shrubs in the early morning if the weather is hot or the winds are strong and dry.

Tiny Community Buried In Water As Dam Bursts

No Word on Fate Of Peterbell's 50 Residents

FOLEYET, Ont. (CP) — The tiny railway community of Peterbell was buried under the flood crest of the Mississabi River shortly after a dam burst at dawn today.

At 12:30 p. m. EDT no word had been received about the fate of Peterbell's 50 residents. A helicopter sent from here by the department of lands and forests had not reported on the situation.

The last report from the community, on the CNR main transcontinental line 50 miles northwest of here, said the river waters were level with the railway tracks and still rising. This would place the entire community under water.

Most of the people in Peterbell are railway and lumber company workers and their families.

Monday night a report from Peterbell said it is 50 residents were moving to high ground because of the log dam's weak condition. It was believed all were safe.

LOSES CONNECTION

The CNR in Toronto said its communications with Peterbell were broken shortly after 6:15 a.m. EDT today. A spokesman said the last report received by the railway was that flood waters were rising rapidly in the community.

Railway operations in the Peterbell area were suspended Monday night because of the flood danger.

In Foleyet, unsafe drinking water and cramped living con-

Four Occupants Of Lost Plane Safe and Sound

TRENTON (CP) — Four persons missing aboard a Wheeler Airlines Beaver plane were found safe today eight miles by miles south of Cape Hopes Advance on the northwest tip of Ungava Bay across the Hudson Strait from Baffin Island.

Occupants of the plane—two women and two men—were safe and sound when they were found by a Murray mining company aircraft piloted by Red Black.

The two women were evacuated Monday night by a civilian flight aircraft to Fort Chimo. The men will remain with the plane until fuel is flown in.

The plane, piloted by Fred De Lew, was found at 7:30 p.m. Travelling with De Lew were Mrs. Tom Notting, wife of the Wheeler Airlines head office pilot at Montreal, Miss Shirley Smith, 20, of Lockport, N.S., a teacher with the northern affairs department, and Guy Broko, airline mechanic.

An official of the RCAF Rescue and Coordination Centre here, said the plane was forced to land after the pilot became lost and was running low on fuel.

The official said the plane landed safely on skis. He said the small group suffered no hardship. They had enough food to last 15 days.

Red Satellite Seen Briefly Over Toronto

A spokesman at the suburban Richmond Hill Dunlap Observatory said the 892-pound satellite appeared at 6:18 p.m., EDT and was visible "for a short period."

The spokesman said the satellite, shaped in a southerly direction, had a starlike glow but because of cloudy skies it was not visible for a long period.

Driving Too Fast Verdict of Jury

PERTH (CP) — Motorist Edward F. Welch, 53, of Oshawa, contributed to his own death by driving too fast, a coroner's jury decided Monday night.

Welch and a passenger, Mrs. Elizabeth Lafleuh, 40, of Toronto, were killed May 7 when a collision between their car and a transport truck driven by Jean Bazaza of Perth, on Highway 7 near Magnetby, 15 miles southwest of here.

The jury attached no blame to Bazaza.

TRANS-CANADA HIGHWAY ACT EXTENDED TO '63

Consideration Speed Shown in Commons

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons got off to a burst of speed Monday night that added mileage to the Trans-Canada Highway Act and opened the way for an inquiry into Canada's atomic energy policies.

The highway agreement under which the federal government shares construction costs with the provinces was extended to December 31, 1963.

Approval was given for a select Commons committee to consider the policy, operations and expenditures of the agencies guiding atomic development—Atomic Energy of Canada Limited and Eldorado Mining and Refining Limited. The National Research Council be included in the study.

The drop in demand for Canadian uranium brought about by U.S. decision not to take up uranium-purchased options during debate on the government motion to set up the atomic energy research committee.

Full Treatment for All Narcotic Addicts Planned

OTTAWA (CP) — A plan for comprehensive treatment of criminal and other narcotics addicts, inside prison and out, was announced Monday by the federal government.

The plan approved by the government anticipates complementary legislation by the provinces probably as health measures, for fulfillment. Federal officials will confer shortly with the British Columbia government in a start on lining up such co-operation, an informant said.

This informant said provincial legislation to treat non-criminal addicts is foreseen as roughly comparable to committal of mentally-ill persons for treatment.

The plan bids in general outline, announced by Justice Minister Pullon, is based on recommendations of officials of the justice and health departments.

Canada has about 3,000 criminal addicts, convicted under federal law of illegal possession of drugs. About one-third of these are always in prison, in steady rotation.

The health department lists two other addiction classifications as the professional man, such as a doctor who has legal access to drugs and the addict whose plight results from medical treatment.

The new federal plan will require co-operation in the main from B.C., Ontario and Quebec, since the rest of the country has comparatively few addicts.

Mr. Fulton's announcement said the federal plan provides for treatment of addicts in custody. This was a federal responsibility. Long-term supervision in the community after release would be another phase, borne federally and provincially. A third phase would be treatment programs for addicts who have not broken any federal law. They would be committed for treatment under provincial law.

Dept. Refuses To Take Action On Councillors

TORONTO (CP) — Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender of Ontario told a delegation from York Township Council of Ratepayers' Associations Monday that his department would not initiate bonding actions against councillors to resign.

After the meeting, Deputy Minister Lorne Cumming said the fact that the department could not legally initiate action was not to be taken as an endorsation of any council member or his actions.

He said there is no legislation providing that councillors be removed for incompetence, poor administration or a bad attitude to their bylaws.

Meanwhile, at a council meeting, Hamilton Judge Joseph Sweet's report on York Township affairs was not mentioned by councillors.

Council however, acted on two matters concerned with the township. Capital investments limited was asked to get a $33,000 five 4 44-foot strip of township land it has been using since 1956 for possible parking for an apartment project.

Council also accepted the resignation of councillor Harold Linden, one of four men charged as to outcome of Judge Sweet's report.

Canada to Play Vital Role In Missile Warning Setup

THULE, Greenland (CP)—Canada will play a vital role in operating thousands of miles of communication links essentials for North America's new ballistic missile warning structure.

Here, 900 miles south of the North Pole, set amid a scene of glaciers and picturesque arctic mountains, giant radar screens and intricate electronic computers are being tied together to scan the sky and watch for, analyze, detect and predict the target of any enemy missiles.

But the information received through this complex and expensive system to go into operation in 1961 would be useless unless it can be transmitted with split second timing to the military forces that could retaliate or all least get airborne when the alarm sounds.

To get the information from this Greenland coastal site to the North American Air Defence Command at Colorado Springs, Air Command headquarters at Omaha, Neb., will take some 4,000 miles of submarine cable, radio repeater stations, telegraphic lines and other communications links.

That's where Canada will play its huge sections of the land and sea lines as well as radio relay stations will be located on Canadian territory and operated by Canadians, U.S. Air Force authorities said Monday.

They estimated that not only

A group of faculty members, 24 of the fulltime staff of 28, have also protested the decision taken by the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Canada last week.

A statement said the group was surprised and disappointed. The synod overruled a recommendation by the college board of governors that federation take place July 1. An owner and operator of the college, the synod has final say.

K. Leaves West's Big Three Cooling Heels At Meeting Called By De Gaulle Today

Refuses to Confer Unless U.S. Condemns Intelligence Flights

By JOHN HEFFERNAN

PARIS (Reuters)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev today brought the summit conference to a close with the announcement he would not participate unless the United States condemned the "treacherous" intelligence flights over Russia.

The long-heralded meeting closed in its second day without ever getting down to negotiations.

President Eisenhower declared at the only Big-Four session, held Monday, that the United States never could accept Khrushchev's demands.

The tough, unrelenting Kremlin leader declared late today in a statement to the press that he would only take part in the summit meeting if the United States condemned "the criminal incursions of American military aircraft," punished those guilty and gave assurances such incursions would not be repeated.

Tentative plans for Khrushchev to hold a press conference late today have been cancelled, a Soviet spokesman said.

He said earlier the Soviet premier had considered holding a conference in the informal press centre where some 3,000 correspondents have been covering summit talks.

Eisenhower promised no further spy flights would be made but he could not accept the other parts of the ultimatum.

So the first meeting of the Big Four heads of government collapsed, bringing the world the hopes of the world that some agreement might be reached on the three major issues—disarmament, Berlin-Germany and East-West relations.

An even greater crisis may be in the offing, according to Soviet threats today.

FLYING TO BERLIN

Khrushchev announced this morning he is flying to Berlin Wednesday to hold talks there with East German leaders. Soviet officials said he would carry out his oft-repeated threat to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany.

Khrushchev has said that if he signs such a treaty, all Western rights in Berlin would be nullified.

His statement, refusing to attend an emergency afternoon session called by President de Gaulle, was unparalleled in diplomatic history. He left Eisenhower, de Gaulle and British Prime Minister Macmillan cooling their heels at the Elysee Palace.

The western leaders had thought Monday's session would be a change of heart because he raced 90 miles back to Paris after a visit in the country after receiving de Gaulle's invitation.

But the Soviet mind is made it clear he would be willing to see de Gaulle privately but not attend a formal summit session.

He called reporters into the Soviet Embassy to make his statement.

The declaration was headed "Reply by N. S. Khrushchev to questions by newspaper men."

It said:

"I am ready to participate in anything with President de Gaulle of France, Prime Minister Macmillan of Great Britain and U.S. President Eisenhower to exchange view on whether conditions have materialized to start a summit conference.

"If the United States has really taken the decision to condemn the treacherous incursions of American military aircraft into the airspace of the Soviet Union, publicly express regret over these incursions, punish those who are guilty and give assurance that such incursions will not be repeated in the future, we would be ready on receipt of such assurances to participate in the summit conference."

Three hours earlier, Eisenhower had made clear in a statement that if the Russian leader refused the formal session, it would amount to withdrawal of his demand of a public apology and punishment of their responsible for the U.S. intelligence flights.

A CHALLENGE

This was plainly a Western challenge for Khrushchev to come to terms and begin summit negotiations—or face world censure for wrecking the conference.

Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Macmillan arrived at the Elysee Palace a few minutes before the appointed hour and waited there with de Gaulle for Khrushchev's arrival.

The Soviet premier had returned to Paris 20 minutes earlier. He was summoned by two police motorcycle riders who raced 90 miles to Rheanne with de Gaulle's invitation for the afternoon meeting.

De Gaulle issued the invitations in a final bid to stave off collapse of the head-of-government conference—the first since 1955.

Big American army trucks with red flags bearing the word explosives" pulled aside for the Soviet motorcade.

Khrushchev had told reporters before his dash back to Paris that he would not attend any of the summit discussions until the U.S. had apologized for the espionage flights.

REJECTS MEETING

Khrushchev in rejecting de Gaulle's invitation to meet today, said: "Gen. de Gaulle knows my position. He knows very well that we won't attend a conference as

Powerful Rocket-Detecting Radar Of Western World Ready to Start

THULE, Greenland (AP)—The most powerful rocket - detecting radar in the western world will begin operations within the next months.

But the possibility already looms that this Ballistic Missile Early Warning System (BMEWS) with its 3,000-mile range later may have to be given even greater capability to cope with the mounting technology of Russian weapon designers.

Soviet missile firings into the Pacific were made this year at ranges of more than 6,000 miles.

The 3,000-mile designed range of the BMEWS radars are to make possible detection of missiles in their climb after launching, if Russia is going into 1,000-mile range missiles, which could change future requirements.

The three BMEWS stations will scan the skies over all the approaches from Russia and her satellites. The other two are at Clear, Alaska, and Fylingdales, England.

Their purpose is to provide at least 15 minutes warning.

The Thule system is to go into operation this fall. That in Alaska is to become operative in 1961, and the English station later. Their combined cost is nearly $1,000,000,000.

Barrette Denies Making Money On Gas Stock

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Barrette stepped into favorite theme of federal-provincial relations Monday night and Liberal leader Jean Lesage took it up in Quebec's election campaign.

Mr. Barrette, speaking in Asbestos, attacked the Liberal party for what he called its false statements that he had made a profit in shares of the Quebec Natural Gas Corporation.

Mr. Lesage, conducting a hand shaking, grassroots campaign in the Lake St. John area, told a press conference of his party's stand on federal-provincial fiscal policies.

He said the plan proposes the gradual elimination of conditional grants to the provinces by the federal government for such things as old age pensions and hospital insurance.

Instead, the provinces would manage their own tax collection field if they required, and the federal government would reduce is personal and corporation taxes to avoid double taxation.

Mr. Barrette said the liberal party charged that he had made a profit of $7,785 on securities of Quebec Natural Gas Corporation, but he had in fact lost $86.

He said several chiefs of the Liberal party, in Quebec as well as Ontario, made money on shares on the corporation.

Basic Functions Of Crown Co. Told Rotarians

Local Rotarians were given an interesting account of the functions and operation of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation by King Ganong, manager of the district office located in Kingston, at their regular weekly dinner meeting yesterday afternoon. Mr. Ganong described the basic functions of the crown corporation as being to promote the construction of new houses, to assist in the improvement of existing houses, and to assist in the bettering of housing accommodations in Canada. These objectives Housing Act which specified the were determined by the National grounding of this corporation in 1945.

Several changes over the past 15 years have been introduced because the scope of the corporation's activities. Under existing financial regulations, for instance, the Central Mortgage people are concerned mostly with the financing of new houses for persons whose family income is less than $5,000 a year with up to two children, whereas a short time ago the loans were available to everyone and could also be had for home improvements as well, Rotarians were told.

The speaker also gave a brief synopsis of the activities of the organization once a mortgage has been approved and the plans for a borrowers' dwelling have been passed. The activities of the crown corporation in the field of low-cost rental projects and as agent in federal-provincial housing assembly programs for municipalities were also described by Mr. Ganong. A description of the work of the information bureau of Central Mortgage and of the corporation's work in urban renewal development and slum clearance projects was also given.

Mr. Ganong was thanked by Harold Parker on behalf of the club. Harold Mott made the introduction.

A special event for the day's program was the presentation to Miss Helen Colton on her transfer to another posting for the Ontario Society for Crippled Children. Miss Colton has been the district nurse here for 25 years.

Staff College Plans Exercise For This Area

Beginning May 18, the Canadian Army Staff College, Kingston, will conduct its first major outdoor exercise of the current College course.

The exercise, code named exercise will be held in the Trenton-Belleville-Shannonville area and will last for three days. During the period, the staff and students of the College will be based at RCAF Station Trenton.

The Canadian Army Staff College was established in 1947 for the establishment of the Canadian Army in 1946 and was located at the Royal Military College, Kingston.

Moved from the Royal Military College to its present location at Fort Frontenac, Kingston. The Staff College is one of the senior colleges in the Canadian army and its function is, by the study of war and its implications for Canada, to train officers for appointments in all three services of the staff in both peace and war.

COURSE EXTENDED

Between 1946 and 1958, annual ten-month staff courses were given. In 1958, because of the need to teach nuclear as well as non-nuclear warfare and the introduction of a wider range of other subjects in the curriculum, the course was extended to 22 months. The current course began in September, 1959, and will end in June 1961.

Fifty-one Canadian Army officers are taking the present course, the Royal Canadian Air Force, Royal Australian Air Force, Navy, Pakistan, United Kingdom, United States and West Germany, all attending the course.

In previous courses, emphasis was placed on studying conventional or non-nuclear war and outdoor exercises were held in the Kingston area. Now, however, that nuclear weapons are important to the defence battle, the current course emphasizes the study of such weapons, theatrics the necessary dispersion of forces as a defence against nuclear weapons and to study the rapid movement of forces on the nuclear battlefield, very much larger areas of land are needed for these exercises. This first one, in the Trenton-Belleville-Shannonville areas, will cover approximately 300 square miles.

long as the Americans will not give us satisfaction."

He made this declaration in a barn near the First World War M a r s h a l l e n f i e l d. Mikovsky said he was garrisoned in the barn as a private in the Russian 2nd Regiment during the battle.

Khrushchev had stated exactly the same intention earlier in a sidewalk press conference near the Soviet Embassy here on the Rue de Grenelle.

Laughing as he talked with reporters, the Soviet premier said that unless Eisenhower apologized for U.S. spy flights over Soviet territory "and admits that America made an aggression against the Soviet people the conference will not start and I will return home."

The decision to make a final try to restore the shattered picture of East-West diplomacy was made by de Gaulle, Eisenhower and Macmillan in a meeting at the Elysee Palace, de Gaulle's residence, this morning. Diplomats suggested the plan of calling a conference to see whether Khrushchev would attend.

PURSUE KHRUSHCHEV

De Gaulle then sent invitations for a Big Four session at 3 p.m. (10 a.m. EDT) at the Elysee Palace. Khrushchev's acceptance was promptly announced acceptance. Khrushchev was already on his drive and de Gaulle sent motorcycle messengers to give him the invitation en route.

READY TO LEAVE

Airport authorities said the special plane of both Eisenhower and Khrushchev's parties were ready to leave at any time.

A reporter also asked Khrushchev if, at a later date, he would renew the invitation for Eisenhower to visit Russia which he withdrew Monday. "I can reply to that at a later stage", the premier replied.

SMILES AT QUESTION

(Reuters said a Soviet diplomat smiled when told that some Western circles believed that Khrushchev was under strong pressure from the Soviet Army and Malinovsky personally to break away from the summit meeting.

"The policy of the Soviet government is formulated by the Presidium of the Soviet Communist party," he was quoted as saying.

"When this policy has been decided it means that Mr. Khrushchev will follow this line of policy. I think it is just imagination when the papers say that Mr. Khrushchev is under pressure from Soviet military circles.

("Policy in our country is decided by the party—not by the army.")

After Lengthy Debate Council Sets Rate for Devere Gardens

TRENTON — Trenton is to be "bombarded" by a high-flying plane . . . but the bombs are quite harmless . . . they will be nothing more or less than leaflets, advertising RCAF Air Force Day, May 28, and they will be hurled down upon the Trenton area during the week, May 22-28.

Trenton council last night gave permission for the RCAF to conduct the advertising stunt to encourage the townspeople to participate in the annual display at the Trenton airport, which will feature the return of the aerobatic team, the Golden Hawks.

With the summit conference uppermost in everyone's mind, the councillors twice "deadlocked" over the set rate to be charged to residents and future residents of Devere Gardens for the privilege of running the sewerage into the town's main line at the town's western boundary.

A committee, formed to look into the matter, and set the rate, had recommended a $200 initial stipend for services, which included police protection, fire protection and water and sewerage. The rate would apply only to the end of this year, at present, all feels that annexation of this area may have been an established fact by this time.

Mayor James MacDonald read a resolution to the effect that "individual householders" would pay at this rate, for the remainder of the year.

"What are you basing this rate on?" asked Councillor Ross Lange.

Councillor H. G. Aziz said that as thought the individual owner was being discriminated against if the owner of the Hendrick apartments was only charged $200. "That apartment has eight units Hendricks should pay $1600," said Mr. Aziz.

"I thought the rate was to be set by assessment value of the property," said Councillor Ross Lange.

"The town clerk suggested the flat rate to avoid complications through arguments," explained Councillor J. W. Hillyer.

Councillor D. R. Fraser said that since Hendricks was footing the bill for the original sewer from this area last year, the Gov. Boy said he should only be charged the rate that individuals would be charged.

FAYS FOR BARGAIN

"Hendricks has paid for his bargain with the town," said Councillor N. J. McNair. "I don't think he should get rewards this sewer now."

"I understand that he is not imbursed," interjected Councillor Aziz.

"Not one cent," said Councillor McNair. "I think we should leave him alone."

"I thought this decision was unanimous," remarked Councillor Lange.

"I'd like to take a poll around the table," said Councillor Aziz.

"You're out of order," said Councillor Lange.

Mayor MacDonald repeated the terms of the resolution.

"I'll vote for $75," offered Councillor McNair.

"I'll make an amendment to the resolution, naming $150 as the rate," said Councillor Lange.

"I'm afraid we're going to get into a bidding war," remarked Councillor Willmey.

"Can't I get a seconder to the amendment?" queried Councillor Lange.

The mayor again started to read the original resolution, and inadvertently substituted $2 for the $200 rate named. This brought loud laughter from the councillors.

"I'll second the amendment," said Councillor C. V. Graham.

Councillors Aziz, McNair and Whitney voted "nay" on the issue, Councillors Fraser, Graham and Lange voting "yea."

"Let's return to the original resolution," said the mayor.

For the $200 rate, Councillors Aziz, Graham and McNair voted "nay."

"Two or three nays," said Councillor McNair.

For the resolution were Councillors Fraser, Lange and Whitney.

"Enough yeas to match Councillor McNair's nays," said Councillor Whitney.

As the situation was deadlocked again, the mayor cast the deciding vote . . . in favor of the resolution.

Council Briefs

TRENTON — Flight Sergeant Bruce Woods, RCAF Station, Trenton, has been presented Councillor Vagn Lange, chairman of the Trenton Community Gardens Commission, with a cheque for $100, to be used in any way the Gardens Commission or the recreation committee sees fit. "This is a good year," said FL. Sgt. Woods. "We've got a little money left over and we thought we'd share it."

WANTS WARD DONE

Walter Murray, town engineer, told council that the public works department had started to get an amount of "fluff" grass and water on the unpaved town roads. Mr. Murray said the emulsion would "set" to a fairly hard finish within four hours, but would not be sticky after it set, and would not dissolve with rain.

"We did Sidney Street today," said Mr. Murray.

"Are you going to do Kerr Crescent?" asked Councillor Ross Lange. "I've got my ward to think about."

CONTRACT AWARDED

Council voted to award the contract for drawing dirt to the town dump to cover fill to Lyle Carr. Mr. Carr had the lowest tender for the work.

"I move that we hold back $100 of the price for the dirt as a bond to ensure that Carr carries out his year's contract," said Councillor Whitney.

NEW PARKING COMMITTEE

Trenton now has a parking committee. At last night's council meeting council members agreed to appoint Lloyd Weese, Charles Hilton and John Tripp to form a committee which will look into traffic problems and present a report on the condition of the town's parking metres and recommend any changes in the present system.

"It's a serious problem," said Mayor MacDonald. "We should get 16 or 20 thousand dollars a year out of parking."

EXCELLENT IDEA

Councillors voted as "an excellent idea" the suggestion advanced by the town engineer that the Ontario Water Resources Commission be given a plan and estimate of the cost of installing a sewer line on Sidney Street from Ontario Street to North Murray Street and on Front Street from Dundas Street West to Middle Street. Mr. Murray said the OWRC would set the municipal board to investigate the town's ability to borrow the necessary money for these projects, and draw up an agreement with the town. At this point the town could back out, if necessary, and the whole project would have cost the town one cent.

RENEW CONTRACT

With the prospect of having several water supply wells developed up along Trenton sidewalks, if the present contractor, Ross Willman, should take off, council called tenders for the job, councillors last night decided that "discretion is the better part of valor" and voted to renew the contract with Mr. Willman.

Some Resolutions

Resolutions passed at the annual meeting of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce in Hamilton provide ample fuel for a dozen controversies.

The Canadian Press report was necessarily brief and we have no details of any debates which may have accompanied their consideration and passing. It would be surprising if some of the resolutions did not provoke lively differences of opinion.

For instance, we are far from convinced of the wisdom of a Hamilton resolution, endorsed by the gathering, which requests legislation under which municipalities might deal with the misuse of such sales terms as "going out of business", "fire", "liquidation", and "bankruptcy". There are dozens of jokes about "fire" sales and there is no doubt but that this term, as well as others, has been falsely used from time to time in an effort to convince prospective customers that they are getting bargains. Surely, though, the average municipal government has enough to do, and little enough funds to do it with, without attempting to set itself up as a sort of board of business ethics. 'Caveat emptor' is still the best answer to this kind of misrepresentation.

We have considerably more respect for a Stratford resolution asking the government to protect the public from the sale of substandard meats and poultry. The question of health is involved here and thus any shady practices becomes a legitimate interest of the government.

Midland had approved a resolution protesting against the application of the Industrial Standards Act to small-scale industry. It is interesting that this act has not been attacked more vigorously during the 25 years of its history. It was, if memory serves us aright, originally sponsored by A. W. Roebuck when he was a member of the Hepburn Cabinet and was an endeavor to curb certain price-cutting practices prevalent during the depression years. We do not know the details of the Midland's objection to it, but surely it is self-evident that any act that old, conceived in times when conditions were so different from those prevailing today, must be in urgent need of revision.

Cornwall delegates won approval for a resolution which would provide for the issue of three-day fishing licences, at lower fees, in areas where fish are plentiful. This is obviously an effort to encourage short-stay visitors from outside the province. There is some merit in it, but we have always liked a policy adopted by some of the states to the south of us whereby their fishing and hunting licence fees at precisely the same level as the state or province from which the would-be fisherman or hunter comes. Reciprocity of this kind appeals to us.

Portable Pensions Needed

Co-operation between governments is all very fine, but we doubt whether many governments have made decisions on the basis of the findings of other governments.

Thus the statement by Hon. J. W. Monteith, Federal Minister of Welfare, that the findings of an Ontario committee established to study portable pension plans should be of great value is rather surprising.

Nevertheless, we applaud Mr. Monteith's observation that one of the big disadvantages of present pensions is that they are not transferable from one firm to another. This is a matter which concerns not only the individual but the country as a whole. The individual worker is concerned about the possibility of being deprived of an anticipated pension because of a change in his employment, perhaps late in his working life. The country is concerned because anything which restricts the mobility of labor in these times, when automation threatens to force many to change their jobs, weakens the whole economy. Lump sums paid out of pension funds fail to serve the same purpose as the annual pensions they would have purchased if the employee had continued to hold his job until retirement.

At least as far as pensions go, it should be possible to refute the accuracy of the saying that "you can't take it with you."

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE WISDOM OF HAPPINESS

The town we live in must be full of very wise people. It is not a large town, yet among its residents are most of the living members of two colleges. One cannot push a grocery cart through the supermarket without bumping into half a dozen Ph. D's, and practically every house is the home of a noted expert on Old French poetry, the hereditary factors in the fruit fly, or the molecular properties of rare elements.

With so many wise citizens, our town should be an extraordinarily happy one. Yet my observation is that its inhabitants are no distinctively happier than those of other towns. Add what is perhaps more surprising yet, the happiest and most useful citizens do not always seem to be the most learned ones.

Wisdom and learning do not necessarily bring happiness. Great knowledge alone is not enough to make a person happy. He is not properly oriented to God and to one's fellow men. Scholars who have not sought humility along with their other researchers are sometimes guilty of vain, unsympathetic, self-centered — and as a consequence unhappy. Neither does fame guarantee happiness; many a renowned authority, distinguished in the public eye, is miserable in his home and his personal relations.

What Makes People Laugh?

Dalton Hopkins University Bulletin

Chronic joke tellers are well aware that a joke laid to one person may draw more laughs than the same joke told by another person may fail flat. In fact, even the same person sometimes reacts differently to similar jokes, depending on his mood at the moment.

There was puzzling ignorance also in psychologists who gave up to psychologists. Why people laugh at one thing or do not laugh at another remained a challenging question and recently a group of Johns Hopkins university graduate student set out to find the answer.

The purpose of the study, which was conducted by Dr. John Strickland, was to discover "the influence of different types of motivation on the appreciation of humor."

Here is how the research was carried out:

Dr. Strickland gathered a bunch of cartoons and had 13 judges certify (unanimously) that the cartoons really were funny. He chose the 33 best cartoons and divided them into three categories: cartoons whose humor was based on hostile or sexual wit, and those that were used sex as a basis for a laugh and 11 cartoons that were humorless.

Dr. Strickland recruited 75 Johns Hopkins students and split them into three groups of 25.

One by one he called into his office each student from each group. His attitude was pleasant and noncommittal; he merely showed each student all 33 cartoons and asked him to rate the cartoons for their "funniness" on a scale ranging from zero to seven. To three Dr. Strickland acted differently. He insulted them, telling them to wait for 20 minutes during which appointments supposedly were made. Then he showed them the cartoons, which they rated.

To the last group of students, Dr. Strickland insulted and then was studying the relation between sex and humor, and showed each student a group of obscenely photos of nude, half-clothed females. Then he produced the cartoons.

The results of the test were exactly as Dr. Strickland had expected. The insulted group men thought the hostile and aggressive cartoons were even the funniest. The students who had been shown the photographs of the girls thought the cartoons which depended on sex were the funniest.

The first group of students, who had neither been insulted nor tempered with, showed no particular preferences. They thought the cartoons were merely funny.

This finding is important in two ways," Dr. Strickland concluded. First, it demonstrates how sensitive the appreciation of humor is to situational influences. Second, it shows that by separately arousing different motivations in a laboratory, a person's response to humorous material can be controlled to a considerable extent."

Brain Expert On Education

St. Catharines Standard

"Education is our only hope, our challenge, in the peaceful competition," he said.

"We would be well advised to spend on the cultivation of our wits a sum comparable to what we are spending on explosive defence."

"Any country could be made great by education, but the proposal if it would let children learn languages when they are ready to learn."

The last sentence quoted above are from the writings of Dr. Wilder Penfield, famed Canadian brain specialist, philosopher and neurosurgeon, as used in a recent article by Ron Kenyon in the Imperial Oil Review.

Dr. Penfield is the author of many books. His most frequently honored Canadian draws from his intimate knowledge of the brain for his provocative views on education.

Dr. Penfield has devoted considerable thought to the problems of education and in this field is in full accord with those who believe that the ideal time to learn languages is in childhood. This is the concept now being put out on the prairie areas in Ontario in the teaching of French soon to be used on a wide scale in many English in school children in Quebec. Other languages are also taught in public school. Dr. Penfield, a native author Kenyon, believes parents should let children hear foreign tongues in the home.

It is Dr. Penfield who has studied the brain of man there is a microcosm that is no less than that of the universe. In it the secrets of man's purpose are written as well as in the stars. Education is the key far greater importance to mankind than the study of the control the movements of the stars."

Educational experts, in the opinion of Dr. Penfield, should plan curricula with more consideration for the unfolding function of the brain. They should not be bound by short views of childhood's changing capabilities.

The brain, says the well-known Canadian, is not a machine. It is not a computer. It is a living, growing, changing mechanism—the most complicated and astonishing of all mechanisms. Educational curriculla should be planned to take advantage of the growing brain and its changing characteristics."

These are the views of a man who has made the study of the brain his life's work. He has charted the human brain to show which areas control speech, movement and intellect. He has proved that the brain is a vast storehouse of past experiences. He is, in other words, helping man to know his own brain. In the studies of the potentials of the brain few men are more expert. His suggestions are worthy of adoption.

Strictly Personal

The Public Isn't Always A Sucker

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Rarely do I quote more than a sentence or two from any source, because I am always suspicious of as a lazy man's device to write a column — using other people's words.

But in this election year I cannot refrain from citing part of an essay written 50 years ago by Frank Moore Colby, called "Taking Down to the Public." He said, in part:

"The old debaters, whether combating for a good cause or bad, appreciate the value of mere plausibility. They counterfeited candor and sanity if they had them not. Above all, they tried to ingratiate by admissions, and they never encumbered themselves with big, sweeping assumptions of incredible virtue. Lincoln, through all the great controversial speeches and writings their is a vein of reasonableness that is extraordinary.

"But most debaters today seem to have no respect for their public. The public is not thought worthy of the truth, even accidentally. There is a mortal terror of giving one's case away. A truism or two about the weather or arguments when it walks abroad. The notion that Mary's little lamb will be held back because it is supposed to be too big for us.

"Yet, even the dullest must have been hurt by breadth of view, and who can say that the slightly cast message when he was tortured every minute by the desire of being misunderstood. The truth is, the public can stand more than we are used to think of him. And the good debater, like the good writer, knows this by art, finds when he has made his masterpiece, that he has made the public dull.

Every newspaperman who has conducted a campaign or a convention can testify to the truth of these observations. He knows that our political rhetoric has become more purple and bloated in the half-century since Colby wrote. Speeches are not made to be read, but to be heard and seen. Or, even worse, they are made at different times and places, and published at different times and places.

Well, like the boy crying "Wolf!", eventually all political oratory is discounted. Ninety per cent, even when they're passing a sincere and fine sentiment, justified. Every election is a "crisis," every opponent a "menace," every issue "vital," every proposed piece of legislation either a step into the pit of "socialism" or the prison of "reaction," the law of diminishing returns compels these candidates to shout louder and louder to be heard at all. And so minds are really changed; at most, prejudices are merely confirmed.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

The first thunder storm of the season visited the Belleville district over the night with several rumbles being heard shortly after the supper hour as heavy storm clouds drifted across to the southwest. No lightning accompanied these first few rumbles however, but at four o'clock this morning the storm returned with thunder and lightning very much in evidence. Rain also fell during the storm this morning.

The swimming season at the Victoria Park was officially opened yesterday afternoon when the young lads were seen disporting themselves from off the diving raft at the end of the park. When questioned, the lads reported that the water was "fine."

A maskinonge said to weigh fifty pounds has fallen victim to the depredations of poachers, according to a report from Peterborough today. The big fellow was speared in a creek which empties with suckers, and up which muskies occasionally work their way to spawn. The fish is believed to be the one described last year as "being as long as a railroad tie" and seen spawning in Salmon Lake.

Owing to the great scarcity at present for dwelling houses in this city, the city council has under consideration the question of the formation of a company of public men to expend on the size of the breast. Some small breasts have active glands; some large ones have inactive glands.

Second, difficulty in breast-feeding a first baby does not necessarily mean that the next baby may not be successfully breast fed.

Third, there are reasons to think that there is some greater difficulty for some women in breast-feeding babies now. I do not know why, but over the years there seems to have been some change in the breast.

I still say, of course, that all mothers who can breast-feed their babies should do so.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What causes brown spots on a person's face?" — Mrs. J. R.

There are too many kinds of "brown spots" to answer this question without seeing them. If you mean the kind that develop on the face of a middle grow older, the only known answer is that the skin pigment (coloring) tends to collect in clusters.

Mrs. J. R.: I am sending you a list of all the leaflets and booklets available through this column. I will send the list to you if you enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed with the request.

Pesticides Killing Birds

Hamilton Spectator

It is remarkable how some people can see sentimental over animals and birds and remain quite indifferent to the sufferings of human beings. Compassion, it would appear, is a divisible emotion which can be grossly unbalanced. Hitler was an ardent animal-lover, as eyes filled with tears at the sufferings of his dog. But he sent thousands of Jewish children to the gas chamber and incinerator. Such minds are hard to understand.

On the other hand, the wisely compassionate are deeply disturbed, without lachrymony, about the terrible slaughter of song birds in Canada by poisonous pesticides that seem to be destroying everything that is not big or insect. One man reported picking up 24 dead robins in three days. Was that many birds are slaughtered in this country as a result of spraying projects cannot be estimated, but it must run into many thousands yearly.

Since the war pesticides have increased enormously. Not only have some of them long-lasting effects on song birds, but they also destroy insects on which birds feed to the benefit of farmers. The scorching effect of programs carried out by the highways department, which polishes hedgerows in summer must destroy both birds and bees' wholesale.

In the United States a Congressional committee has been set up into the pesticides business. Apart from effects on wildlife, there has been much concern that animals which have fed on sprayworth vermilion have carried traces of poison to their meat after slaughter.

The subject is a wide one and deserves much more careful study than has been hitherto devoted to it. In our desire to destroy insects we must not have the slaughtering at the same time more friends than foes and destroying much that is beautiful?

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

On visiting my new grandson on his arrival at the hospital, I was ushered out of the waiting room for a few moments until the nurses were ready to introduce me to him through the nursery glass window.

The waiting room was a small chintz little chamber with two chairs, a small table littered with assorted magazines, and a large inviting chesterfield. I chose the chesterfield, sank down into it, and nearly hit the floor. It had hardly any springs at all, and I was jack-knifed in it when a white-coated doctor, passing the door, glanced in and rushed to my rescue.

"What the Sam Hill kind of a man-trap is that?" I demanded, as the doctor assisted me to my feet.

"Oh, that!" said the doctor. "This is the waiting room the expectant fathers use, while awaiting the news. A lot of them faint when they see their kid for the first time. They can't sit still. They keep jumping up, walking to the door and back, and the coming back and falling limply into the nearest chair is the chesterfield. No chesterfield can take that sort of punishment for long."

While he was explaining it to me, a pallid young man, about 190 pounds, came out and sat and flung himself with a clunk into the chesterfield. Down he went, almost out of sight.

But he didn't seem to notice.

NEW FRONTIERS

I hear people say that there are no more frontiers to be explored." There will always be frontiers to battle the mind with and the will to create them. Therefore, get acquainted with big ideas, for the small ones do not give the stimulant to stir vast enterprises.

Never fail to give encouragement to those who have great faith. Those who kept adding to the numbers of men by others gave the urge and will to go further.

We are of a family in this world. Each is, or should be, a component of others. William Allen White wrote these lines in a published book of Open Talks: "Everyone expect to go further than his father went; everyone expects to be better than he was born and every generation has one big impulse in his heart — to exceed all the other generations of the past in all the things that make life worth living."

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

SOME MOTHERS LACK ENOUGH MILK TO BREAST-FEED THEIR BABIES

"Dear Dr. Molner: Your column about breast feeding prompts this letter — how about young mothers who have insufficient milk?

"I was able to nurse my first child for only 10 days. Then a supplement in the form was necessary, and finally I relied entirely upon it as my milk supply diminished.

"The thought occurs to me that perhaps I gave up too soon. But it's difficult to listen to a hungry, crying baby. — V. R.*"

As is often the case, I cannot give you an absolute, all-inclusive answer. Medicine is not an absolute science. There are so many things we do not yet know and there are so many variations from one person to another.

The best doctor, I believe, is the one who takes the pains to know what is knowable, and is willing to admit that there are things which in some areas, nobody knows.

Now to get to your questions. Her mothers should remember that in the first three days or so, a baby's job is mostly to get much milk. The sucking, or breast-feeding procedure, essentially to the infant, but a little time is required before this activity results in anything of substantial amount of milk.

A baby that is given a cup on the bottle from the beginning will take very little milk in the first three or four days. Babies, after birth, lose a bit of weight. Soon however they learn how to drink and grow and grow. So that period of lag in the beginning is quite normal.

I do say, however, it can be apparent that a nursing baby is not getting enough milk, he must then receive a supplementary feeding. I do not think you gave up too soon. There is no point in making a wee baby work and work and, for some reason, you cannot nurse adequately. You have no reason to quatms about using the bottle for a supplement.

As you know, I believe, on the basis of studious evidence, that breast feeding is best. Bottle feeding certainly is not bad, and I'm far prefer bottle to letting a child go hungry.

These three things may be worth mentioning. First, the question (that is, the formation or production of milk) does not depend on the size of the breast. Some small breasts have active glands; some large ones have inactive glands.

Second, difficulty in breast-feeding a first baby does not necessarily mean that the next baby may not be successfully breast fed.

Third, there are reasons to think that there is some greater difficulty for some women in breast-feeding babies now. I do not know why, but over the years there seems to have been some change in the breast.

FED ON GOAT'S MILK — Anne Adele King of Brantford, Ont., underweight and ill for the first 11 months of her life, now is a healthy 23 pounds at 19 months. The change came after her parents began feeding her goat's milk. Young Anne sits here with three two-day-old kids, offspring of the goat which has been giving her milk. (CP Photo).

Child Enjoys Goat's Milk, Also Fond of the Animals

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP)— For the first 11 months of her life, Anne Adele King was underweight and almost constantly ill.

Then her father, John King, bought two goats and he and his wife, Thelma, began feeding their daughter on goats' milk.

Her health improved—almost immediately, they say, and today Anne is a healthy, happy 19-month-old weighing 23 pounds.

Mr. King says he got the idea from his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom King.

DRANK IT HIMSELF

"Nothing Anne ate did her any good and when I was young the very same thing happened to me. My parents told me it was something but goat's milk that straightened me out, so we tried Anne on it.

"She was all right within a day or two. She just kept putting on weight".

Mr. King, an office worker, keeps the goats on 11½ acres of land around his home. He now has bought two more goats to be sure there is enough milk for his pretty daughter.

PLAYS WITH THEM

"She would be down with them every hour of the day if we let her out", says Mrs. King.

For the last few months, Mr. King and his goats have been cooperating with Dr. Michael Ash of Clintonville who says he has developed a process for taking the radioactivity out of hay.

By feeding one goat on ordinary hay and the other on processed hay, he says, he found that the goat eating processed hay was yielding about five per cent more milk.

He explains that his process makes the hay sweeter and more palatable and that the goat tends to eat more. Recently the goat gave birth to three radioactivity-free kids.

HISTORIC SPOT

Ferryland in Newfoundland, 40 miles south of St. John's, was founded in 1621 by Sir George Calvert, Lord Baltimore.

Two Prince Edward County men, Brian York (left) of Picton and Bernard Keogh (right) of Black River, rescued three Ohio fishermen who had been clinging to their overturned boat in the icy waters of South Bay, eight miles south of Picton, for more than three hours. A fourth man, Albert Grigsby, 53, of Cleveland, lost his life in the boating mishap.

After pulling the four men ashore, Keogh ran a mile for help while York administered artificial respiration. When Keogh returned, all five men were unconscious—two had fainted from over-exhaustion. Medical aid arrived and all but Grigsby were revived. (Hodgson, Picton).

In collision with a CNR ore train at a Picton level crossing yesterday, this car driven by Glenn Byers, 19, of Picton, was totally wrecked. Byers and a passenger, Larry Bradley, 18, of Big Island, were hospitalized, but were not critically injured. A group of students at Picton Collegiate witnessed the accident from classroom windows. 35th Anniversary Of Y's Men Club Is Observed

On Saturday evening, the Y's Men's Club of Belleville commemorated the 35th anniversary of its founding, on May 14th, 1925. A considerable number of former members from Belleville and from across the province were on hand to assist in the celebrations.

Among those present were 13 past presidents: Albert Armstrong, Court Miller, Alex Weir, Lorne McDougall, Bud Trill, Archie Boyd, Don Williams, Bryson Leslie, Linton Read, Robbie Clarke, Bill Hutchinson and Jack Fletcher, President John Lazenbie read messages of congratulations from International President Bill Fletcher, Past International President Newton Thompson, Reverend Donald Ames and other fast-flying alumni of the Belleville Y'smen.

Linton Read acted as chairman, a position of no little peril, since the combined disruptive influences of 35 years of Y'dom were directed against him. He was both helped and hindered in his endeavors by Sergeants-at-arms Court Miller and Buzz Pinkard. Historians for the occasion were Vern Weir, a charter member, who dealt lightly with the years 1925-1935 and Bud Trill ,who dealt very lightly indeed with the years 1945-1960.

Guest speaker for the evening was Group Captain G. J. J. Edwards, DFC, CD, Chief Staff Officer of Air Transport Command at Trenton. His subject was the role of RCAF Transport Command which, replaced the Training Command at Trenton in September, 1959. As part of a considerable visual display, Group Captain Edwards unveiled the new badge of Air Transport Command, an albatross, military and photography reconnaisance of the high Arctic and air transport.

Air Transport Command operates stations at such widely separated points as White River in the Yukon and El Arish in the Gaza Strip. When equipped with the new Canadair C-106 transport, they will be able to airlift 60,000 pounds and carry 135 troops from Trenton Station to France non-stop in nine hours by the great circle route. Flying time will be 9 hours to Lebanon, or 23 hours to Tokyo. At that time Canada will have the most modern Air Transport Command in the world.

Group Captain Edwards was introduced by J. Bryson Leslie and appreciation was expressed by Ronald Case.

TWO DEER KILLED

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Five deer tried to cross the Schykill Expressway at the height of a rush on the superhighway Monday. Two were killed by motorists and the others scattered in all directions. The confusion raised by the animals backed up traffic four miles.

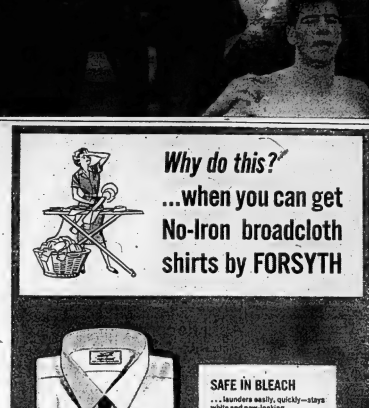
Leslie Smith Harrier Race Winner at Moira

Leslie Smith was the winner of the first Moira Secondary School harrier race held yesterday afternoon. He completed the three-mile course with a time of 16:50 minutes, leading in a field of 141 finishers. The field was started off by school principal, Mr. Jim Musgrove.



The three-mile course led competitors via sideroads and cross-country, as the appearance of some finishers evidenced to Station Street where the CNR mainliner crossing it, went along Station to Herchimer, then south to Victoria and back to the school along Farley Avenue.

Second place fell to Ralph Boomhower with Jim Sherman and Gary Goyer taking third and fourth spots respectively. Leading in the interform results was form G11B with an accumulated 190 points. The runners-up were forms G9D with 156 points and T11C with 129 points. Points were awarded both for the overall placing of form members in the results and for participation.

Participation-wise form G10A had 90 per cent of its entrants finish followed by form G11A with 79 per cent and form G8E with 77 per cent. No runners came in after the 30-minute time limit allowed for completion of the course.

Music Teachers Hear Report of Convention

Members of the Belleville Registered Music Teachers' Association met in regular session on Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rennie, 13 Eleanor Gardens.

The president, Mr. John Withers, was in charge, calling on the recording secretary, Miss Rennie for the minutes and business of the previous meeting. Amongst the correspondence was a letter asking the teachers to promote a festival. A minister's radio programs, when pupils would present weekly piano recitals, there to be in contest and over a period of ten weeks. The suggestion led to interesting discussion by the teachers present.

Mrs. Withers, who went as delegate to the convention held in Niagara Falls in April, brought an interesting report. Among points dealt with were of vital interest to Belleville teachers who hold the 1961 convention in June in the Royal York, Toronto.

At the close of the session, refreshments were served by the hostess.

Miss Woodard, of the Albert College Staff, expressed the appreciation of the guests to Mrs. Rennie for her delightful hospitality and added her thanks to Mr. Rennie for his splendid work as the official delegate to recent convention.

Grandparents Are a Staff For Youth

By ALMA MASON

25th in Series

I am sure this generation is weary of hearing Grandma and Grandpa praise of the dear old days; their merits, benefits and advantages. It is and always has been typical of an older generation to reminisce of youth as they knew it and enjoyed it. However, life thirty or forty years ago, although barren of the commodities and luxuries of our time, developed necessities, did seem to abound in an atmosphere of brotherly love and warmhearted Christian charity.

To be propelled back into that time and to adjust to its meagre living conditions would be considered extremely unfortunate by this generation, but let us hope that some of the benefits of home life of that time

Fifty years ago most children only had the interest and attention of parents but were doubly blessed if they had Grandpa and Grandma lived with them. There were very few homes or villages that did not have a Grandma and very poor were sent to the county home. The aged were not expected to spend older years in a home for elderly people was considered a disgrace.

Grandma and Grandpa lived with the head of the household, matriarch and patriarch. The years they had piled up gave them a certain prestige in the family circle. Their advice was sought and their wisdom which contributed a certain security and foundation to the budding lives of the grandchildren.

NO EIGHT-HOUR DAY

Mothers and Dads of fifty years ago did not work eight hours as they are today. Consult elderly people and you will find their days were long and filled with real gruelling labor. They had to be up early to attend to the relief our modern gadgets have given us, and were constantly busy trying to eke out an existence, the Grandparents were left to themselves. Hence, were baby sitters on their own familiar ground. They were considered a part of the family and the children listened to them and respected their advice and wisdom.

A neighbor came in today to tell us of a tragedy that occurred recently in another city. He told of the sudden heart attack suffered by a grandmother while in the home, of the sorrow of her family, as she passed away. He said that the woman's husband had died a few years prior or fatal a lonely aftermath of the death. He said "You know, he is really heartbroken." He said his wife have always lived with them, and was a wonderful mother and a very happy family. The daughter and her mother loved each other so much that they could get along well with his father-in-law. The husband is a devoted father to his grandparents as much as they did their own parents. He will not be lonely or sad because often the will be missed dreadfully. However, he has been blessed by his devoted family, so he will not need to fear old age in a lonely existence.

Most aged people today have a horror of age because often the sunset years of life are associated with neglect and loneliness of heart and mind usage. They are usually loveless years devoid of affection and kindly consideration.

STRESSES FAMILY LOYALTY

Grandparents, parents and children should have received honour and full of faults. Perhaps age deference should to magnify faults of imperfections. It is the middle group, the modern parents, are willing to show more tolerance and bridge the gap between youth and maturity age, who are they not ready and willing to reach out to the valley where age sits in sorrow and loneliness? Drawing grandparents into the inner family circle with warm hearts and tender hands will illustrate to our children that we have appreciated of the virtues of loyalty and appreciation and devotion to parents.

The warmest and brightest bundle in my personal knapsack of memories was wrapped in the bright firm wrappings of visits to grandparents. I merely had to turn over the railroad tracks and around the church to scramble in the door of grandpa's house. There I found interested ears for my childish prattle. I can still taste the succulent pork and pea dumplings, the fragrant green tea and the first ripe tomatoes plucked from Grandma's garden. There I felt a soft shoulder to cry on, boundless comfort to soothe my woes and an endless supply of appreciation to stimulate and give growth to my childish ego.

Grandma or Grandpa somewhere, at hand are life's greatest gift to youth but only, of course if young people are taught to respect them, to honor them, to hold them in high regard.

Are we setting sable our parents with intolerance and disrespect and disregard? If so, what can we expect in tolerance and respect and regard from our own children? If old age does not occupy the pedestal it used to be established on, is it not time that we placed it firmly back there. Would it help to steady some of our wavering, bewildered young people to learn to know and love and honor grandparents more? Would it take some of the bitterness out of society if we taught young hearts to live more frequently in the sun of a wise and kindred smile? If our young people are misguided and misdirected, is it not time for the application of the wisdom of old age serve as a staff and a beacon light?

Old age and middle age and youth.

Trek down a weary road;
Old age, thru wisdom, valiant of truth,
Has learned to bear a load
For life and age, beloved yet vain;
Youth free,
Of youth trite, insecure,
Old age endowed with Time's bright gain.
And intellect's allure,
Oft treads neglected and alone
The thorny path of pain
And bears a heedless, scornful stone
Chained to his crumbling fears.

Iraqi Teacher Has No Count Of Students

WINNIPEG (CP) — Mrs. Hasmeed Thalji is a teacher who doesn't know how many students she has.

She is the education producer for Israqi state television, and the only one she counts from her studio in Baghdad has been recent conversion.

Mrs. Thalji now is in Canada to study television production. She already has studied in Paris and New York.

A month before television came to Iraq in 1947, she said, it was interviewer. "I had no experience before. I tried all things myself."

Three days a week, she produces a half-hour program for electricians, engineers, radio and university students.

She is one of three women who work in the Baghdad television station. Another is a graduate engineer and the third studies design in the United States.

However, Mrs. Thalji said most Iraqi women still lead a sheltered life. Those who would get equal pay with men and marry their teachers are allowed six weeks off when they have babies.

One of her boldest television experiments was presenting a show of a girls' physical education class in which the girls wore shorts.

Her achievements have included the writing of plays for children and several books. Her husband is the bank manager now studying in England.

Salesgirls Most Influential Says French Perfume Importer

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP) — Who are the most influential women in the United States?

You might name a movie star or a woman senator, an ambassador or an authoress. The woman who most influence national and cultural events is the girl behind the counters of American stores.

"If you want to find out what's now, ask the girl behind the counter," says Kane. "She sees every new fad before it starts. She knows who is buying what and why. She has her hand constantly on the public pulse. She can suggest a new scent, a new makeup, a new table setting, a new dress style, and the first thing you know it has become a fashion.

SUCCESS FACTOR

"Designers dream up new ideas, manufacturers produce them, buyers select them, but it's the girl behind the counter who persuades us to buy or to buy them. She influences both customer and buyer. She is the direct contact with the public. She's the one who counts."

Kane recalls American saleslirls for much of his success as French perfumer. He tells of a occasion which flabbergasted his American friend, John W. Kane, of Blue Hill, Me.

"I was just out of college when I met a man named Kane. He wanted to go into the perfume business," says Kane. "I took him up on it, and I haven't been sorry. But my father thought I was a spouting whale. Couldn't understand why the son of an old sea captain was going into a stay-sounding business."

THE BEST ADVICE

Kane has had a big assist from his wife, Helen, whom he met before the perfume partnership at a store in Kansas City, Mo. She knew little about the business, and subjects each new scent to the judgment of her highly distaff partner.

"Of course," says Kane, "it's silly for men always to try to select her own perfume. The only way is tell what's the best scent for her own individuality and personality is to try it out on a man. If he gets excited when she wears a certain scent, that's her scent."

There are definite trends in perfume tastes, says Kane. Formerly heavy, exotic scents were the favorites. Now the trend is toward lighter, cleaner scents, favored by both men and women.

FISH COURSES

Many varieties of fish contain very little fat, and when boiled or baked are suitable even for young children.

Wedding

POTTS—BOWERS

A lovely double-ring wedding was solemnized recently in the Plainfield United Church, when the Reverend G. R. Wagar united in marriage Alice Marilyn Bowers, of Plainfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bowers, to Jerry Grant Potts, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Potts. Yellow chrysanthemums, Easter lilies and silver candelabra adorned the chancel rail, and white satin bows designated the guest pews.

Mrs. Harry Harrison, of Plainfield, rendered the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Arnold Dilla, of Roslin, who sang before the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer," and during the signing of the register, "O Perfect Love."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. Donald Bowers, was radiantly lovely in her waltz-length bridal gown of nylon net and acetate lace, featuring an molded bodice and bouffant skirt, accented by rows and rows of net and lace ruching, with panels of lace down front and satin. A satin-lined bolero of lace, having a pointed collar, long sheath-like sleeves with points over the wrists; a short, white tulle veil with circular nylon tulle veil with tiers of tiny seed pearls and sequins, completed her nuptial costume. She carried a bouquet of red roses tied with white satin ribbon.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Audrey Bowers, Plainfield, as maid of honor, and by Miss Gladys Parker of Campbellford, as bridesmaid, cousin of the bride. Both attendants were gowned alike in rose nylon over net and taffeta, fashioned with full waltz-length skirts and fitted bodices with flocking back panels. They wore rose-toned hats, white gloves, shoes, and carried nosegays of white and tinted 'mums, centered by a single pink rose, tied with pale blue streamers.

The two little flower girls, Miss Judy Potts and Miss Connie Sommerville, of Belleville, nieces of the bridegroom, were white nylon frocks over blue taffeta, with blue hats and gloves. Double strands of pearls with matching bracelets, thrills of the bride. Nosegays of tinted 'mums with rose centres, completes their costumes. The maid of honor and the bridesmaid also wore pearl necklaces with matching earrings, gifts of the bride.

Mr. John Stocker, of Campbellford, attended the bridegroom, while Miss Donald Bowers, jr., of Plainfield, brother of the bride, and Donald Hannah of Belleville, ushered the guests.

The reception was held in the Orange Hall, Plainfield, where the bride's table was appointed with white damask and centred by the traditional all-white wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom beneath an arch of white roses flanked by tall white candles and the bridal bouquets.

The guests were received by the bride's mother, and the bridegroom's mother, the former in a navy blue sheath with matching stroller coat, white accessories and corsage of white carnations, and the latter also in blue with white accessories and corsage of white carnations.

Guests were present from Trenton, Belleville, Campbellford, West Huntingdon and Plainfield.

The bride, prior to her marriage, was the honored guest at a shower held at the home of Mrs. E. G. Lee, of Bayside; at a shower at the home of Mrs. Grant Kerr, of Plainfield. She was also the recipient of a gift from Plainfield Sunday School, an aluminum hammered tray and casserole, white damask cloth, napkins and matching from the staff of the County Home, Trent Road. At a community shower they were presented with a chair at the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Potts will reside at 84 Alexander's Street, Belleville.

Two Dutch Girls Enjoy Leisurely World Journey

By JOSIE VILLEGAS

MEXICO CITY (Reuters) — "Around the world in 10 years and still going strong" could be the title for a book on the adventures of two Dutch girls, Robby van Der Wal and Jos de Lange Wendels.

Robby and Jos, both in their late 20s, left their native Holland together in 1949 after a year of saving money for their initial expenses.

According to their own reckoning, they probably won't get home for another 10 years.

Their luggage included a 50-pound pack with a minimum of necessities, two guitars and a tent for camping. The guitars are a most important item in their equipment for they finance their seemingly never-ending trek with performing which combine films of their journey, folk songs and questions from their audiences.

Robby and Jos have learned a smattering of the language of each country they have visited. Their Lebenese and Arabian songs make a great hit with Near East audiences because of our terrible accent," says Jos.

SAW CANADA

They have lectured and sung their way through Europe, the Scandinavian countries, the Near East and the Far East, Africa from one end to another, South America, the Caribbean—except for Cuba "because of the revolution," the United States, Canada and Mexico.

From here, they intend to continue their journey through Central America to complete their world tour and then, if possible, to visit Australia.

Among their many adventures, they remember especially one in Spain. When they arrived, there was a big famine and they walked for four days without food. Finally, they met a Scandinavian from Gibraltar, who graciously provided them with money and food to enable them to continue their travels.

In Morocco, they were the guests of the sultan for 10 days. With their singing they gained many friends in the Foreign Legion, and in Africa they took a canoe deep into the heart of the continent to visit Dr. Albert Schweitzer.

During their journey, they so far have received 27 proposals of marriage—14 for Robby and 13 for Jos. But they are not thinking of getting married—not yet, anyway.

"You must see the world while you are young and, anyway, there is time for everything," they declare philosophically.

Pr. Ed., Belleville L.C. Meets At Y.M.C.A.

The regular monthly meeting of the Prince Edward-Belleville Ladies' Club was held at the Y on May 11th.

Mrs. Ackerman presided at the piano and the president, Mrs. Sharpe, welcomed the members and visitors present by reading a poem "Cheer Up."

The treasurer reported on the finances of the club. The corresponding secretary reported four cards sent during the month. Thank-you letters were read from Meadames Lent, Skeggs, Ellis and Clegg for cards and flowers sent them while ill.

Twenty-four members and three visitors were present.

The meeting was turned over to the group convener, Mrs. Sharpe, who presented the following program: Community singing, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie" and "Silver Threads Among the Gold," in honor of Mother's Day. Mrs. M. Dempsey read "The Strange Story of Anna Jarvis," the founder of Mother's Day in 1923. She was born in Grafton, Penn., in 1864. Mrs. Earle Anderson, a former resident of Prince Edward, then read an interesting paper on the month, "Merry Maiden Month," stating how the month received its name and describing May festivities and celebrations in different countries.

Then a contest was enjoyed by everyone. How many words can be made from the word, "Mother?", the winners were Mrs. Earle Anderson, Mrs. Sager and Mrs. Bellamy.

Mrs. Mastin thanked everyone who had assisted in the program and Mrs. Sharpe closed the meeting. Mrs. Gosline and her group served lunch and a social half hour was enjoyed.

Next meeting June 8th at 2.30 p.m.

Women Form Clubs for Investment

VANCOUVER (CP) — This among 38 Vancouver women nowadays tends to turn from diapers, babies and household chores to stocks, bonds and annual reports.

The women have formed two investors' clubs with 18 members each. Husbands have come and laughed at the idea now are bringing home investment business reports and other financial information.

The first group collected some $100 before it started investing in 1958 and two more were organized later.

Investment groups, common among men, collect a monthly fee which goes toward purchase of securities. All members share in the profits.

The first group, with members ranging from young mothers to wives of retired men, meets each Monday morning in a rented office. Each puts $10 a month into the kitty and pays 25 cents per period of the room. This raises about $2,100 a year for investment.

Holy Rosary C.W.L. Names 1960-1 Officers

The annual meeting of Holy Rosary C.W.L. Parish Council was held in the meeting room with the president, Mrs. L. Mc-Guigan, presiding.

Mrs. Darlington opened the meeting.

The treasurer reported a $3 cheque sent to the Mon. Bryne Bursary, also a $3 cheque to the Good Thief Apostolate.

Welfare convener reported a bed and blanket given to a needy family.

Mrs. J. Mulvihill, convener for the salad supper to be held on May 25th, will have formed a committee in the language of each country she has visited. Their Lebenese and Arabian songs make a great hit with Near East audiences because of our terrible accent," says Jos.

Mrs. McGuigan thanked Mrs. C. Darlington and Mrs. J. Mulvihill for the splendid turnout at the communion breakfast at the K. of C. Hall.

Corresponding secretary reported ten get-well cards sent out last month, and the spiritual bouquet reported a Mass card for Mrs. Brunnel.

DO YOU KNOW WHEN TO LEAVE?

The story I am about to relate concerns a problem with which we are all familiar. Since at one time or another, most of us are on the receiving end of such a situation, and know its irritations, the wonder is that such a problem exists. But it's easy to criticize others and then turn around and do the same thing ourselves. And so — on with the story!

Last Friday evening, the Greens invited the Mr. and Mrs. Inexperienced for cocktails and dinner at seven. Dinner was over at eight-thirty. No special plans had been made for the evening, just talk, but midnight found the Inexperienceds still there. Mrs. Green was white with fatigue; Mr. Green fought valiantly to keep his eyes open. "How nice that tomorrow is Saturday," chirped Mrs. Inexperienced. "We can all sleep late." "Not in our family," laughed Mrs. Green. "My husband goes to work as usual, and of course the children get up as early as on any other day!" Still no signs of leaving on the part of the Inexperienceds.

Mrs. Green, in desperation, then used several ruses, such as calling attention to the moonlight outside (trying to get them on their feet), emptying ashtrays, excusing herself to see if the children were all right. Mr. Green even wound his watch, rather too significantly! But the Inexperienceds stayed on, and on, finally taking their reluctant leave at one A.M.

How can one cope with the guest who doesn't know when to go home? One solution is to be frank when the invitation is extended. "Come at seven so we'll have plenty of time. You see we always are in bed by eleven because we have to rise so early". And when breakfast or so arrives, if the guests show no signs of departure, simply and firmly say, "I'm sorry we have to keep such early hours, but the evening has been much too short."

The only other alternative, when guests stay on to the discomfort of their hosts, is an outright reminder of the lateness of the hour. In the case I have mentioned I think it is justified, and is not the rudeness it seems. Those who have the thoughtless, staying habit should be reminded of their lack of consideration for others and forthrightness on the part of the hosts is the only sensible course to take.

While on the subject of leaving, when you start to leave, leave! There is nothing on earth more irritating than the guest who stands forever at the door saying farewells, interspersed with bons pleas of gossip that has not been touched upon during the evening. The cold takes over while you stand, first on one foot and then the other. If, as a guest, you want a return invitation, avoid this habit!

Question: How in the world does one attempt to start a small child in the right direction when trying to teach him the rudiments of courtesy? I am going slowly crazy trying to drum some idea of what courtesy is into the head of my small son, aged four. Can you help me?

Answer: Patience and fortitude are necessary here! You can only accomplish the goal by your own actions. Remember the old saying, "monkey see, monkey do"? It applies here! When he hands you a toy, never forget your "thank you." When you ask him to do something, say "Please." "I'm sorry" and "excuse me" are more or less interchangeable. If you trip over his foot, or by accident knock over the block house he has built, one or the other of these comments must be made quickly and sincerely. Only by such examples can he be taught. Eventually it will become natural for him to do as you do, even if at the time he doesn't understand why. Don't get discouraged! It takes time.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mary A. — My husband is anti-social.

Daniel A. — People bore me.

Mary A. — My husband and I are in our early twenties and have been married a year. I hate to admit it, but I find marriage very disappointing.

The main trouble is that I would like to have some social life, and Dan just doesn't care for any. I have been lonely all my life and I have always wanted friends. I thought things would change for me after I got married, but they haven't. Dan is satisfied to sit home and watch TV every evening.

A couple of times I invited people from the office over to the house, but they never invited us back. I think the reason for that is Dan's silence. He hardly said a word the whole time they were with us. I kept the conversation going as well as I could, but everyone was uncomfortable.

Daniel A. — Can I help it if people bore me? I've always been that way. When I'm by myself I can have a pretty good time, but put me with a lot of people and I'm bored to death.

The people Mary invited to our house were the dumbest and silliest I've ever met. They asked stupid questions about our house and what I do on my job. You'd think they'd just come over on some immigrant ship.

If Mary ever expected me to run around socially she made a big mistake. We met in a library on Saturday night. Neither of us had any place to go. That's the way it always was with me and I'm not sorry because people are a waste of time. I'm beginning to wonder whether Mary married me for myself or the friends she thought I had.

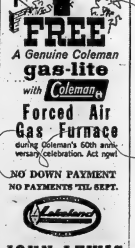
The Council: Continual boredom is a defence.



There are enough people and things in the world for everyone to find something he can enjoy. Highly intelligent persons are rarely bored because their alert minds will uncover the exciting or interesting elements in the least promising situations and individuals.

It is believed that many individuals try to hide their fear and hostility toward others behind a mask of boredom. They will not come out openly and argue points they may disagree with and they will not admit to themselves that another person makes them feel inferior or worthless. But they can say they are bored. This gives them a sense of superiority.

Despite the lonely life she has lived in the past, Mary has taken several big steps forward. The mere fact that she was able to find a man and marry despite her lack of social contacts speaks well for her. Now she wants to expand her life further and has taken steps toward that end.

Although things would be far easier and far more pleasant for her if she had her husband's full co-operation, she shouldn't let his negative attitude overwhelm her. She should go on making friends wherever she can and should try to learn from popular women among those she meets. If she can become a gay, interesting person, she will be accepted in spite of a morose husband. Or, possibly, Dan will suddenly wake up to the fact that their is a lot of fun going on around him and he may want to join in.

Above all, Mary shouldn't nag about this problem. A defensive man like her husband won't be moved by argument. He needs to be tricked into the realization that life outside his own narrow shell is enjoyable.

West Hastings WI Holds 59th Annual at Scott's United Church

By MRS. PERCY MACMULLEN

West Hastings District Women's Institute 59th annual convention was held on May 13, in Scott's United Church, 6th district, with an attendance of over 70 ladies from the seven branches.

Appropriate spring flowers adorned the church, and interesting displays, as well as pictures of the founder, Adelaide Hoodless and pioneer and early home at St. George, Ontario.

The registration was in charge of Mr. Allan Sine and Mrs. Gerald Harrington and the reception committee included Mrs. Max Dodds and Mrs. Avery Martin.

The president, Mrs. E. B. Phillips, of Belleville, presided over the two sessions, welcomed the delegates and introduced the guests, Mrs. Marion Smith, of Prince Edward County, who represented the department and Mrs. Sherman Foster, of Hillier, the new Board Director of district No. 1.

Mrs. Harold Phillips read the account of the 1939 meeting and gave a full financial report. The district has a small balance on hand to carry on its activities.

The correspondence was read and included an appeal from the blood hospital and scholarships. A discussion period followed.

Mrs. Edison Sine welcomed the guests to Scott's United Church and Mrs. Morey Phillips thanked the hostess group, and read a poem, "Success Is Doing All You Can."

Mrs. Sherman Foster conducted the ratification of the district directors and the alternates who were in attendance: Bay of Quinte, Mrs. Donald Sandercock; Chatterton, Mrs. Gerid Irvine; Pine Grove, Mrs. William Sinter; River Valley, Mrs. Ralph Ugman; Stirling, Mrs. R. H. Williams; Wallbridge, Mrs. Frank Losey; Wallbridge, Mrs. Morey Phillips, for Mrs. Arthur Carleton.

Mrs. D. Sandercock reported that there were no resolutions for this annual meeting. There was a roll call of branches. Each branch chose its own informative subject and gave the roll calls which were interesting.

Bay of Quinte, Mrs. Alva Moyers told of the F.W.I.O. president, Mrs. L. V. Tymburus, of Port Colborne, Ontario Chatterton, Mrs. E. H. Bonter, "Why I am an Institute member"; Pine Grove, Mrs. Charles Ross, gave an resume of the lovely music and singing at the Guelph conference which was a joy in itself; River Valley, Mrs. George Heasman, gave a brief historical record of River Valley community; Stirling, Mrs. Blanche Reid based her talk on "Plants and Trees," and told that in England the favorite 'Baby Trees' is called, "Mind Your Manners"; Trenton, Mrs. Morley Sine gave a few humorous highlights of the recent Guelph conference; and Wallbridge, Mrs. S. Nicholson, gave a few highlights of the recent public relations' conference in Guelph.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

Mrs. E. B. Phillips reviewed her first years as president of West Hastings. She had visited all the seven branches and was graciously welcomed each. She and the secretary, Mrs. Harold Phillips, attended the organizational meeting of the Hastings County Home, in Belleville. She closed her message with a pledge, "to love my land and to work together for Home and Country."

The reports of the standing committees brought out many interesting items of the work carried on in the county, as: Agriculture and Canadian Industries — Mrs. Grace Bartindale, reported that one branch enjoyed a trip to Napanee and Kingston, their agricultural representative gave a report, and another branch entertained three other branches and entered the contest at the Sales Barn. The highlight was that more members were preparing their own leaflet papers, many of which were most informative. Mrs. Bartindale read: "Springtime in the Country"; "Farming Yesterday and Today"; "Modern Raising"; "Paperhanging"; "Making Your Paper"; and "Mulch Gardening."

The motions included: "Country Humor," "Tips for Tractor Drivers," and "Tips for Newspaper makers." One branch auctioned plants and bulbs; several branch conveners gave items of interest at every party. The convener received many films.

Citizenship and Education: Mrs. Alex Bush reported roll calls as, "a law of the land"; "recite a poem you learned at school"; "a short reading from a magazine." Mrs. Bush read: "Our Canadian Country." The motions centred around the thought that the family is the most important part of society and urged each Institute woman to take time to read. Old citizenship was stressed with regard to income tax, the franchise, and community rights.

The contests featured names of members of parliament in Canada; a paper, "How A New Canadian Becomes A Citizen," was valuable. "The Hymns of All Nations," sung at the A.C.W.W. conference in Toronto was sung at a branch meeting. One branch had short talk each month on the activities of the A.C.W.W., which gave each woman a better understanding of the W.I. Good citizenship began in the home. Members of a family should be polite and thoughtful; good citizens are courteous to their neighbors. An example must be set for the youth of today who will be the citizens of tomorrow.

HISTORICAL RESEARCH AND CURRENT EVENTS

Mrs. Emory Dedrick outlined some roll calls as, "grandmother's favorite recipe"; "a gift for the new preacher"; "humorous memories," and "U.E.L. ancestors."

A paper was given on the development of machinery; history of pottery; many interesting facts were: Champlain was the first white man to visit Belleville. In 1840 Benjamin Loyal Orange Lodge was instituted; in 1870 the Ontario School for the Deaf was opened. The history of the Adelaide Hoodless Home and many historical readings were given and the Trenton Public Library display was displayed. All seven branches have history books.

Most branches gave current events and one tried the group system last year. Many old pictures were displayed. One motto was "the only old person is he who no longer desires to learn."

Readings of interest included: "The Old Fashioned Christmas," and "The Country Store." The convener closed with the thought, "nothing that is worthy in the past departs; no truth or goodness ever dies, it remains and lives and works through endless changes."

HOME ECONOMICS AND HEALTH

Mrs. Allen Sine, convener of this committee, spoke on the roll calls which including "cure of the eyes," "cure for the blues," "prevention of home accidents." The speakers gave talks on heart disease, mother and baby, eyesight, first aid, homemaking, mixing at ease and simple pleasures that always please. The activities included quiltings, card parties and pot-luck suppers.

RESOLUTIONS

Mrs. Donald Sandercock, the convener of resolutions, said that one branch had a dialogue on this subject; another reviewed the report found in the winter issue of the "Home and Country" on this theme, while another had a short item on this subject at nearly all meetings. The provincial outline should be followed resolutions will be members should be consulted before any resolutions are sent on to the district.

PUBLIC RELATIONS

Mrs. Percy MacMullen, convener of this committee, said this was the second report on this department, and she was glad that there is still much to learn. She explained the printed form for the year's work handed out from F.W.I.O. If every P.R.O. would fill in the report accurately, there would be fewer mistakes in itemizing the expenditures.

The charitable gifts were $140, sent to the Institute Home for the Blind, Salvation Army, Mental Health, Cancer Fund and other charities.

Educational, $101.35, included gifts to Crippled Children, Invalid kits, school parties, record player, C.W.W.I., $21.60, one branch providing a school nurse. Miscellaneous, $1,252.48 was for building expenses, fruit, flower cards and gifts, Girls' Club work, home nursing, Friendship Link in England, "Country Life in Canada," membership in Hastings Historical Society, and other items.

In the F.W.I.O. and F.W.I.C. projects the members are urged to remit their tan cans to Peterborough for the Adelaide Hoodless Homesta.g — (pictures of Mrs. Hoodless and her birthplace were on display.)

The total gifts from World Relief, Friendship Milk Fund and the Hoodless Homestead were $78.00. Each branch contributed to all three and received commendation. Institute branches should contribute to their own projects first before donating to charity. One branch gave used clothing to the value of $160.

PUBLIC RELATIONS OFFICER

Beginning May 1st, this convenership is now called public relations officer. All branches reported their meetings to the newspapers, and two papers have space in a weekly newspaper. Two re-conditioned radios were placed through the Toronto Telegram offer. Two also treated their members to a holiday, and one has kept alive its friendship link with Abbots Leigh W.I., in England.

One branch had a special speaker on public relations who stressed that it was simply, "Do unto others as you would have them do to you." One branch has sent in three items to Miss Agnes Cody, new P.R.O. and has also been on the air. The P.R.O.'s were asked to read the handbook and "Hands and Feet" for Institutes.

The convener's personal work included receiving a message for the "Jubilee Guide of Newfoundland" (50th anniversary of A.C.W.W. in 1943 and the W.I.C.W.I. in 1961) and an exchange of programs.

MESSAGE FROM A FORMER PRESIDENT OF W. HASTINGS

Mrs. MacMullen brought a special greeting from a past president, Mrs. Linnie Rodgers, of West Hill, who is a member of the Guelph district. She sent a letter of greeting to all the ladies at this gathering.

The new board director, Mrs. Sherman Foster of Hillier, spoke briefly and congratulated West Hastings on their achievement of 100 per cent reporting. She said the various reports showed much had been accomplished during the past year. She urged that pages 32 and 40 in the handbook be read before compiling reports.

Mrs. Muriel Ferguson, Reg. N. and Mrs. R. E. McKendry, of Kemptville, attended the convention. The former spoke briefly regarding the Kemptville Agricultural School and showed their calendar for 1960-61 were distributed. She announced the holiday at Kemptville will be held August 8th, 9th and 10th.

Mrs. Rose Dafoe, pianist, and Mrs. Milton Grills, song leader, were in charge of the assembly singing throughout the day.

The ladies were served a salad plate luncheon in the church hall by members of Uniondale branch.

DISPLAYS

Many displays were on view and greatly admired. Mrs. Grace Bartindale, Ringgrove, had a branch display of Institute articles in a variety of patterns and colors. Uniondale Branch had a display of hats fashioned in their recent millinery course. Some were worn by the owners.

River Valley branch under the leadership of Mrs. Gerald Brooks and Mrs. V. Emery, showed a variety of articles made by their group who attended the course, "Sew to Save Dollars and Make Sense."

During the afternoon Mrs. Percy MacMullen, convener, had been accomplished last autumn when the group were taught how to make corsages and other sewing hints. Union-Hillier displayed articles they made in this same leadership class, such as aprons, cushions and small articles.

The ACWW display by Mrs. Percy MacMullen, included a map of constituent countries, and copies of "The Countrywoman." The "friendship link" display contained newspapers, "English Home Country" and gifts received by River Valley Institute from Institute in Abbots Leigh, England.

Mrs. MacMullen spoke briefly and suggested more pen pals and an exchange of programs and such with other English-speaking countries.

She said if any branch wishes a pen pal in England or any other English-speaking country, write Mrs. John Bell, General Secretary, 78 Kensington High Street, London W.8, England, and she will send your request and the proper office.

If any member wished to exchange letters and programs with women of Jamaica, Trinidad, and St. Vincent in British West Indies, write direct to Mrs. William Kempal, Nipawin, Saskatchewan.

Mrs. MacMullen reminded the members that February is the month for "penpales for friendship." The international organization, "Country Women" provides penpales to promote their work and aims. It is the "world voice for rural women."

"As constituent societies, it is the duty and privilege of every W.I. to support it," she said.

Mrs. MacMullen urged each branch to give this subject some thought and make plans to gather in the "Country Women" sent direct to head office, 78 Kensington High St., London, England.

A Little Effort and Canada Can Tap Spanish Markets

By HENRY BUCKLEY

MADRID (Reuters)—Dr. Jean Bruchesi, Canadian ambassador here, has just completed a salesTour of Spain and found an untapped market for Canadian investors and exporters.

All it will take is little effort on their part, he said in an interview following the tour.

The potential market in Spain is one phase of the country's growing internationalism which Bruchesi said he has observed since his appointment last year.

Current trade between Canada and Spain totals only about $6,000,000 annually. In exchange for codfish, machinery and aluminum, Canada has been buying almonds, olives, olive oil and cork.

Localism from Spain.

CANADA OBSCURE:

In tourist traffic, there has been severe imbalance with 18,000 Canadians touring Spain last year compared with 230 Spaniards visiting Canada.

Since his appointment, Bruchesi has had an audience with Gen. Francisco Franco whom he found to be interested in the St. Lawrence Seaway.

"People abroad never know anything about Canada, so part of my job is to tell people about our land and, I suppose, in a way too I have to interpret Spain to Canada."

This is the first diplomatic mission for Bruchesi who is former undersecretary of state and deputy-registrar of the province of Quebec. A distinguished educationist, he is also the author of more than 20 books.

A regular tour of Spanish festivals and frequent speaking engagements have given Bruchesi little time to continue his literary career.

REPORTS ONLY

"Tonight I have three cocktail parties and then a dinner to attend," he said. "With luck I shall get to bed at 2 a.m."

With this exhausting schedule, the only writing he is able to do is official reports, he said.

"I used to think that as a diplomat I should have time to do some writing," he said.

The strange flesh - table for meals has also demanded a radical adjustment by the ambassador. Following a lunch at 2:30 p.m. and cocktails at 8.30 p.m., he usually has a three- or four-course dinner at 11 p.m. or later.

Prior to his appointment as ambassador, Bruchesi had visited Spain both as a lecturer and a tourist.

CANADIAN AMBASSADOR

Dr. Jean Bruchesi, Canadian ambassador to Spain, believes there is an untapped market in Spain for Canadian investors and exporters. Dr Bruchesi, posted to Madrid last year, based his conclusions on a recent tour of Spain. Before becoming ambassador, he was undersecretary of state and deputy-registrar for Quebec. He is also the author of more than 20 books.

The Way of the Worry-Free

Travel today has many spokesmen—each for a different way.

Haste urges you to take the swiftest road. Adventure, Glamour, Convenience—all loudly voice their reasons why.

Ask the venturer who leaves his car behind why he rides with Canadian National Railways—and you will find that luxury, restfulness, quiet and roomy comfort are all wanted things. But there is something more:

There is peace-of-mind as you go your way.

Concerned and thinking motorists contrast this ease of riding with the tension of driving—in the traffic of today's highways. And growing numbers say—"I take it easier, I take the train".

Verwoerd Home From Hospital, Faces Problems

PRETORIA (AP)—Prime Minister Hendrick F. Verwoerd of South Africa has been released from the hospital where he was taken following an assassination attempt April 9, but it will be some weeks before he returns to full-time duty.

Surgeons removed two bullets from Verwoerd's head last week, and he faces a minor plastic operation on his right ear next month.

"Dr. Verwoerd's general health is excellent," the announcement said. "So it was possible to complete the hospital phase Saturday night and he was able to return to Libertas this Pretoria home. The orthopedic injury will still take some time, while the stiffness of the jaw muscle will gradually disappear."

Verwoerd had been consulting government leaders in his hospital room for the last two weeks. He faces many problems.

DIVIDED ON POLICY

His national party forces are divided on the future course of their policy of apartheid, strict racial segregation. Moderate cabinet ministers have been carving out for an easing of the harsh racial laws and a new deal for Negroes. They have the backing of business leaders concerned over the economic effects of racial disturbances.

Nationalist diehards — with whom Verwoerd presumably is in sympathy—refuse to admit the country needs more and perhaps graver trouble and oppose any concessions to the colored race.

United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold announced in London Saturday he will fly to South Africa late in July to present the UN case against apartheid.

UN RESOLUTION

Hammarskjold is acting in accord with a UN Security Council resolution April 1 calling on South Africa to abandon its policy of racial discrimination.

The secretary-general has been conferring in London with South African Foreign Minister Eric Louw.

Verwoerd also must decide whether to go ahead with his party's plans to make South Africa a republic, and must decide whether to try to take the country out of the British Commonwealth, as some of his supporters want.

Western World Dismayed, Despondent, Angry at Turn Of Events at Summit Meeting

LONDON (CP)—Dismay, despondency and anger at Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev gripped millions in the West today as hope for resuming the Paris summit conference all but faded away.

Most newspapers put the blame squarely on the Russian premier as the Big Four heads of government pack up and go home without trying to solve the problems facing the world.

The Liberal Guardian of Manchester said Khrushchev "has done his best to torpedo the summit conference and, only a reversal of his own position can save it now."

"The first is that he has lost some internal struggle in the Kremlin and has been captured by the neo-Stalinists. The second is that he has calculated that the West is so weak and divided that he can screw more out of it by bullying than he could get by genuine agreement."

The independent London Times said Khrushchev "may have decided 'lame duck' Eisenhower was not worth negotiating with or 'reactionary' Cabinets temporarily in control of American policy."

"Another possibility is that Mr. Khrushchev is under strong pressure from hotheads inside Russia and—still more—in other Communist countries. They may argue that all the junketing and journeying of coexistence had led nowhere."

Western ideas about what Russia wants may have to be revamped, argued the Conservative London Daily Telegraph. "Any ugly possibility must now be faced that the Western leaders who argued for a change of Western attitudes to the Soviet Union, and in particular Mr. John Dulles policy of toughness, have badly misjudged it."

London Daily Mirror said over its entire front page, "Mr. K. (if you will pardon an old English phrase) don't be so bloody rude." In small letters in a black box at the bottom it added, "PS: Who do you think you are? Stalin?"

The Mirror, which has always backed a summit meeting, said Khrushchev's attack on Eisenhower "was abominable. His statement was full of hypocrisy, violence and rash folly."

In Paris, the conservative L'Aurore said it refused to give up "the last chance and to lose all hope."

Socialist Le Populaire said that if Khrushchev keeps to his present attitude "he will bear the entire responsibility for the conference failure."

The real question, declared independent Paris - Jour, "is the fate of Khrushchev himself which is at stake."

The demonstrator in East Berlin said Russia had made no secret of her intentions to "bring about a lifted demand."

A correspondent of the Czech Communist party newspaper Rude Pravo said the U.S. will have to decide the conference if it persists in its "untenable position." The American alternative will be to give up its "impossible defence of its aggressive policy."

Moscow Radio kept up a steady chorus of support for Khrushchev's summit stand. Normal programs were pushed aside for a flow of comments praising "peaceloving workers giving solid support to the premier."

The broadcasts carried the text of Khrushchev's speech to the Supreme Soviet. But as of late morning, there was no mention of Eisenhower's decision that spy flights over Russia had been stopped and would not be resumed.

In neutral Austria, the independent Die Presse said the Russian premier has "dashed all hopes in relaxation of international tension."

In Paris, the Communist newspaper supported Khrushchev. "Eisenhower's only reward holds in his hands the fate of the conference," it said.

Two independent papers in Paris criticized the Soviet premier's violent invective. Figaro called Khrushchev's attack "a monstrous outburst of vituperation" that "surpasses summit conference."

The pro - government Hindu Standard said in New Delhi that what Khrushchev "apparently wants is the summit meeting to score another propaganda victory." The paper reminded the premier he was not in Paris merely to push through negotiations.

Japanese foreign ministry officials said they believed the Russians wanted to squeeze every ounce of propaganda value out of the spy plane incident.

Study Private Cross-Canada TV Network

CALGARY (CP)—The licensing of a cross-Canada television network across Canada will be considered by the Board of Broadcast Governors at a hearing in Ottawa in September, the board announced here Monday night.

It is understood applications for such a network, probably using existing microwave connections, are being considered by one or more private film companies and the American Broadcasting Company.

Primary purpose of the network would be to serve the second, bilingual French network being licensed in eight Canadian cities this year.

Licences have been issued in Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver. The board heard two applications for the new Calgary outlet Monday and five bids for a second Edmonton station last week. It will consider Ottawa and Halifax applications next month.

It is understood from private broadcasters that preliminary plans for the private network call for use of one of the three channels now available on the cross-Canada microwave link or the sharing of the channel already used by the CBC.

Commercial possibilities of the second network are said to be wide. The attraction for national advertisers would lie in the fact they could reach 75 per cent of Canadian TV homes through programs being shown on eight of Canada's 19 TV stations.

TO EXCHANGE TAPE

Applicants for new stations in all eight cities have told the board of plans to exchange filmed or taped program progress. None would have CBC network affiliation.

The board's statement said distribution of programs by videotape "does not constitute a network. Under radio and TV broadcasting regulations made by the BBG, a network exists only when there is electronic connections—including those by cables and microwave—between two or more stations."

U.S. Decision to Suspend Flights Over Soviet Union About-Face in Policy

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Eisenhower's summit declaration that intelligence flights over the Soviet Union have been suspended and are not to be resumed shows signs of being another sudden about-face in the U.S. cold war policy.

For almost a week, the White House and the state department left unchallenged an impression among Washington newspapermen that the U.S. proposed to continue such flights despite Soviet protests and the shooting down of a U-2 reconnaissance plane over Russia May 1.

Newspaper men gained that impression—and reported it—from a statement last Monday by State Secretary Christian Herter saying the U.S. had a responsibility to the free world to undertake such flights and that the U.S. "has not and does not shirk this responsibility."

Lincoln White, state department press officer, did nothing to discourage reporters from interpreting that statement as notice that such flights would continue until adequate safeguards against surprise attack were available.

Asked point-blank if the Herter statement meant reconnaissance flights would continue, White told reporters last Monday:

"As the statement says, it is incumbent upon us to use every means we can to guard against surprise attack."

On the same day, White House press secretary James C. Hagerty denied a New York Times story reporting that Eisenhower had ordered a halt to all such flights pending an investigation. Hagerty said he knew of no such order by anyone in the Eisenhower administration.

Only Sunday night, Vice-President Richard Nixon in a television interview defended the aerial spying as vital to free world security.

The only official denial came Sunday afternoon—less than 24 hours before Eisenhower addressed the summit meeting—from George V. Allen, director of the U.S. information agency, said in another TV interview that there had been "a great misunderstanding" about the Herter statement.

Allen said Herter had stated that there is an obligation and responsibility on the part of the U.S. government and of the free world to try to obtain information to guard against surprise attack, but he has not said we are going to continue to fly."

In the statement before Monday's stormy summit meeting, in the face of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's demand that the flights be halted, Eisenhower denied the United States had threatened to continue aerial spying. He said:

"In point of fact, these flights were suspended after the recent incident and are not to be resumed."

American sources in Paris were quoted Monday night as saying the decision to stop the flights was made last Thursday.

But a congressman who has been kept informed by the administration of backstage developments told the Associated Press that he had never heard of such a plan. He asked that his name be withheld.

"This comes as a big surprise to me," he told a reporter.

Union Rejects Offer Made by Dominion Stores

TORONTO (CP)—Employees in Dominion Stores here voted Monday night to strike within 10 days unless the company meets demands on wages, length of contract and overtime.

The 1,200 employees are members of the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union (CCL) local. A strike would affect stores in nine Ontario communities and would probably spread to 10 other parts of the province.

Union membership meetings across the province earlier authorized strike action, but conciliation board was unable to bring the company and union together on a settlement.

Demands for a $10-a-week pay increase and a maximum two-year contract were modified by the union Monday to ask for $208 retroactive pay from last November, a $4 increase effective May-1, 1960, and an additional $4 Nov. 1.

Stores involved in the dispute include those in St. Catharines and Niagara Falls.

Variety Show Enjoyed by Queen, Philip

LONDON (AP)—The royal variety performance went off on schedule Monday night before Queen Elizabeth after a suggestion offered by Prime Minister Diefenbaker that he had taken "a very bellicose and threatening attitude." Opposition Leader Pearson referred to Mr. Khrushchev's "apparently brutal ultimatum" to the American, British and French leaders.

Both Canadian leaders stressed that the Paris conference must not be allowed to collapse.

Mr. Pearson suggested resolution by Dag Hammarskjold, United Nations secretary - general, to keep the Big Four talking.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he thought Parliament would want to express the hope that the conference will continue and "at the same time make it most clear to those who are our allies and friends that intimidation will not be effective in any way."

"The conference must surely be kept going," said Mr. Pearson.

CCF House Leader Hazen Argue said the leaders of the world "should quit spying, quit threatening and quit stalling." The world is "in desperate circumstances, was looking to the summit for deliverance."

Later, he suggested that, "in view of the desirability of not doing anything that might interfere with the summit conference," Parliament should not debate the spy-type U-2 planes of the U.S. Department Store Union (CCL) local. A strike would affect stores in nine Ontario communities and would probably spread to 10 other parts of the province.

Khrushchev's Action Meets With Swift Criticism in House of Commons Monday

Prime Minister Diefenbaker charged that he had taken "a very bellicose and threatening attitude." Opposition Leader Pearson referred to Mr. Khrushchev's "apparently brutal ultimatum" to the American, British and French leaders.

Both Canadian leaders stressed that the Paris conference must not be allowed to collapse.

Mr. Pearson suggested resolution by Dag Hammarskjold, United Nations secretary - general, to keep the Big Four talking.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he thought Parliament would want to express the hope that the conference will continue and "at the same time make it most clear to those who are our allies and friends that intimidation will not be effective in any way."

"The conference must surely be kept going," said Mr. Pearson.

CCF House Leader Hazen Argue said the leaders of the world "should quit spying, quit threatening and quit stalling." The world is "in desperate circumstances, was looking to the summit for deliverance."

Later, he suggested that, "in view of the desirability of not doing anything that might interfere with the summit conference," Parliament should not debate the spy-type U-2 planes of the U.S. would be allowed to fly over Canada by the U.S. bases in this country.

Mr. Diefenbaker rejected this idea. He could see "no reason" for, at this time, we should give consideration to the question" in the light of Mr. Khrushchev's statement. Mr. Diefenbaker particularly after President Eisenhower had agreed to discontinue U-2 flights.

Meanwhile, 75 placard-bearing members of the Toronto Association for Peace paraded outside the Parliament Building demanding greater effort by Canada towards disarmament.

The House comments on the trouble at the summit came on the heels of Mr. Diefenbaker's report on the London conference of Commonwealth prime ministers.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he hopes South Africa will quickly heed the appeal of all other Commonwealth countries to alter her racial separation policy", which were in conflict with the principles of racial equality essential to a multi-racial Commonwealth.

However, he said, the conference and informal discussions associated with it showed no sign on the part of South Africa of modifying apartheid.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the conference had merely postponed a decision on South Africa's apartheid policy. That might be a wise step if between now and the next conference South Africa's internal situation it improved.

Mr. Argue said Canada must oppose Commonwealth membership for South Africa if she votes to become a Republic.

Coming plebiscite and her government on South Africa's apartheid policies.

Mr. Diefenbaker's report also dealt with trade. He said he notes that Canada expects to be a full partner in the European trading area composed of the two Europe Six and the Seven and the United States. But Canada also noted that such an association would not be permitted to trading interests of other Commonwealth countries.

Mr. Pearson agreed that other Commonwealth countries should not be excluded and said it was vital that Europe not be divided from the United States of America and Commonwealth friends.

Provincial Careless Driving Laws Before Supreme Court

OTTAWA (CP) — Provincial careless driving laws were attacked in the Supreme Court of Canada Monday on grounds they invade federal jurisdiction over criminal law by providing a penalty for criminal negligence.

The court is hearing an appeal by Winnipeg motorist James Patrick O'Grady from the validity of the careless driving section of the Manitoba Highway Traffic Act is being contested.

Sidney Parlin of Hamilton, counsel for the attorneys-general of the provinces have a duty to regulate the use of cars in the protection of the public. How ever, he said, the penalty provided in the Criminal Code of Manitoba law against careless driving is an invasion of Parliament the exclusive jurisdiction of the federal Parliament.

"Whenever a parliament chooses to attach a penal consequence to anything whatsoever people do such legislation is in pith and substance criminal law," Mr. Parlin said.

QW REFERENCE

Mr. Parlin, brief reference to speed limits, Mr. Justice Douglas Abbott said that even 20 miles an hour might be careless on Toronto's Queen Elizabeth Way.

Mr. Parlin said speed is dangerous", Mr. Parlin said.

While the case before the court involves Manitoba law, the judgment will affect all provincial laws. All provincial careless driving laws are the same as or similar to Manitoba's.

For this reason Mr. O'Grady's bid to have the Manitoba law declared inoperative was supported by British Columbia, Alberta, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Ontario and Nova Scotia. The federal government is siding with the provinces.

The appeal is being heard by a full court of nine justices, headed by Chief Justice Patrick Kerwin. Judgment is not expected for some time.

H. P. Blackwood of Winnipeg, also representing Mr. O'Grady, said six judges have given opinions that Manitoba and Ontario careless driving laws are within provincial jurisdiction. Another four judges had declared that parts of the laws invalid because they invade the field of criminal law.

"Everybody is in the air over this," he said.

Whitby Man, 25, Given Ten Years For Abduction

TORONTO (CP) — John Percy Ward, 25, of Whitby, was sentenced Monday to ten years in penitentiary for attempted rape and raping a 16-year-old girl two years ago.

Mr. Justice E. G. Moorhouse, sentencing in Ward's second trial on the charges, imposed maximum sentence.

Ward was sentenced to 12 years by Mr. Justice F. H. Barlow after his first trial, but appealed and won a new trial.

Alvin Hibbitt, 24, of Whitby, was sentenced to 18 months in jail after a 10-year sentence and conviction Monday by Mr. Justice Barlow.

Court was told the girl was returning from a Roman Catholic church group meeting when she was dragged into a car by Ward and Hibbitt who drove her to a lonely sideroad and raped her. The two assailants were never brought to trial.

Ward married a 17-year-old girl in December. He told the court Monday she is five months pregnant.

Three Missing As Empty Boat Found on Shore

PEMBROKE (CP) — An empty boat was found washed up on an island in the swollen Ottawa River Monday as search continued for three persons missing since nearby Camp Petawawa since Sunday night.

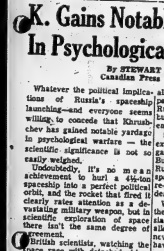
The seven-horsepower outboard motorboat was found by provincial police and identified as belonging to Craftsman Wilson Larry Smith, 21, of Ottawa, one of the three missing.

The others are Craftsman Robert J. Andrews, 26, of Stoney Creek, Ont., and his bride, Henrietta Irene. They were only recently married. Craftsman Smith's wife lives at Petawawa with their three children, the oldest seven.

The boat was found on Webster Island, opposite the military camp. The three were last reported headed for the island Sunday night after getting out at 8 p.m. on a fishing trip.

K. Gains Notable Yardage In Psychological Warfare

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer



Whatever the political implications of Russia's spaceship launching—and everyone seems willing to concede that Khrushchev has gained notable yardage in psychological warfare—the scientific significance is not to be easily weighed.

Undoubtedly, it's no mean achievement to hurl a 4½-ton spaceship into a perfect political orbit, and the record fired 23 clearly rates attention as a devastating military weapon. But scientific exploration of space there isn't the same degree of agreement.

British scientists, watching the space race with detached objectivity, used such terms as "staggered" and "astonished" to describe their reaction to the launching of the huge satellite, but they weren't ready to say the great Russia is necessarily winning the race to put a man into orbit. And that, at this moment, seems to be the ultimate goal.

RE-ENTRY PROBLEM

It has been recognized for some time that Russia, and indeed the United States, is capable of sending a man spinning around the earth, but the problem is how to get and remain, getting him back

The new spaceship apparently doesn't solve it. The Russians themselves say it will burn up when it re-enters the earth's atmosphere.

Until this problem is solved, say experts, it's anyone's race—regardless of the size of satellite. But there is a general feeling that at present the U.S. is the lead. The spaceship, quite apart from the re-entry problem, lends a great deal of weight to that belief.

What seems most impressive is the remarkable reliability of Russia's powerful rocket engines, disallowing for failures—they are known to exist—that would have made the crucial ones perfect.

On Jan. 2 last year, Soviet scientists shot a rocket past the moon, two days before Premier Mikoyan arrived in Washington. On April 13 the Lunik rocket hit the moon, two days before Khrushchev hit Washington. Now comes the new spaceship—or is it spacemanship?

Russia's long lead in heavy rockets is said to have first resulted from a 1952 program when Soviet scientists doubted whether the H-bomb could be made smaller than about four tons. While they concentrated on rockets capable of firing that weight, the Americans worked toward compressing the size of the bomb. The original Russian rocket program was never curtailed.

The British scientists who draw these conclusions think the Russian dependence on smaller rockets has rewarded them developing more compact instruments so that their relatively powerful satellites are often more effective, scientifically, than the heavier Russian models.

Stevenson Pugh, defence correspondent of The Daily Mail, writes about how the United States is gaining on Russian space research.

In a post-spaceship story, presumably based on scientific advice, he says: "I give 5 to 1 against the Americans getting their man into orbit first over the next 12 months. A year ago I would have made it 100 to 1."

Learning to Fly Whirlybirds

Young Canadians who feel the right career must combine adventure and freedom with high financial rewards are finding the answer in training as pilots for Canada's mushrooming helicopter industry. Probably no other modern machine has shown such astonishing growth in the past decade as this ungainly whirlybird which has tackled an endless variety of jobs with incredible skill and efficiency. Proud of its claim as the "cost cutting 'copter" this mechanical hummingbird—which can fly vertically, stand still in the air, or fly backwards—has proven itself under the most difficult and challenging conditions. Its appearance marks one of the most colourful items in the ledger of Canada's recent economic growth. As acceptance of this versatile wonder bird of modern aviation has spread throughout industry, the demand for helicopter pilots has grown too.

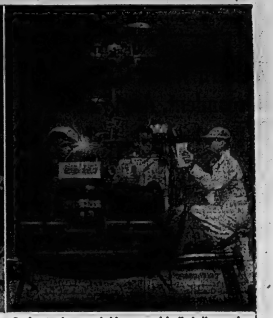
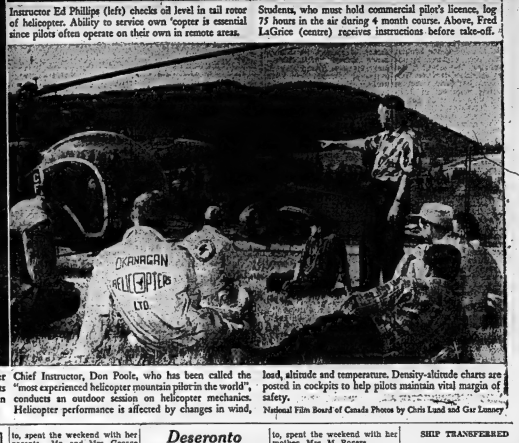
In 1950 Carl Agar, who today runs the largest commercial helicopter operation in the world, started a school for helicopter pilots in Penticton, British Columbia. The mountainous terrain of Canada's West Coast was particularly suitable for training helicopter men in the intricate skills of mountain flying and Carl Agar, known to his associates as "Mr. Helicopter", has been credited with training more helicopter mountain pilots than any other man alive.



Students at the school put in 4 months training during which time they receive basic classroom instruction and must log 75 flying hours —half of them solo. Cost of the training runs high but rewards are commensurate: salaries run in the $10,000 and up brackets. Job opportunities invariably outnumber supply. With the exploitation of Canada's mineral wealth in the north and helicopter runs forecast for several Canadian cities by 1961, it looks as though things are going to stay that way for some time to come.



Use of helicopters is growing steadily in Canada and the need for qualified helicopter pilots continually outruns supply. Above, at Canada's only school for helicopter pilots in Penticton, B.C., 3 students come in for a landing after a busy day of training in surrounding mountain ranges.

Students, who must hold commercial pilot's licence, log 75 hours in the air during 4 month course. Above, Fred LaGrice (centre) receives instructions before take-off.

Chief Instructor, Don Poole, who has been called the "most experienced helicopter mountain pilot in the world", conducts an outdoor session on helicopter mechanics. Helicopter performance is affected by changes in wind, load, altitude and temperature. Density-altitude charts are posted in cockpits to help pilots maintain vital margin of safety.

British interests studying the possibility of developing Hamilton Falls, estimated to have an 8,000,000-horsepower potential, are said to be holding talks with Russian experts.

Premier Smallwood says no financial aid would be accepted from the Russians and no technical engineers would go into the area; the province is interested only in Russian knowledge.

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It ceases to be funny, say the girls, but every time the Olympics roll around someone always a male — crawls out of the woodwork to say there's no place for women in the Games. And the gals dutifully sum up such mouthings in one word: "Baloney."

Conditioning for the Olympics is too tough for the female physique; they lose their sex appeal, say the detractors.

The latest to be heard from is Percy Cerutty, 65-year-old Australian track coach who has produced a few world beaters, including Herb Elliott, the swiftest miler on earth. Percy, at times called a screwball because of his spartan training methods — running barefoot on rock - strewn tracks and eating raw oatmeal — says it right on the line.

If the women attempted the physical conditioning undertaken by top male athletes they'd have stringy legs, hard faces, arrested bust development and unwomanly shapes. It's probable they couldn't even become mothers.

"Not this junk again," exclaimed Bobby Rosenfeld, Canada's outstanding female athlete of the half century, 1928 Olympic athlete and one-time holder of the world's record over 100 yards.

"They started yelling that stuff back in the days when the Golden Greeks had Olympics for men only and women held their own Games and ran around in shrouds or something and with a red rose sticking out of their teeth.

"Take a look at some of our women athletes. They aren't exactly revolting and I'll bet you they merit second looks from the male population.

"Sure, there's the odd girl athlete with tomboy tendencies, but they're exceptions. I can't say that the males are such good-looking athletes with their lumpy legs and knobby knees.

"I can name you a dozen Canadian girl athletes without much bestialism who are beauties," said spinster Bobby, former sports columnist and now in the promotion department of a Toronto newspaper. As a start she mentioned British Empire Games and Olympic athletes Marie Dupree of South Burnaby, B.C., a specialist in the discus and shot-put, and sprinter Diane Matheson, a native of Moncton, N.B.

SOUR GRAPES

Myrtle Cook McGowan, Montreal Star columnist, Olympic track and field athlete in 1928, mother of two sons and now a grandmother, said Cerutty must have been eating "too much of his own diet of grapes and oatmeal in some form."

"I think he had better take a tape measure to the Rome Games in August and try to improve on his theories there," she added.

"Quite a number of girls I've known in the Olympics are married and have children. I agree that training has been stepped up since my day, but I can't see that it has had any bad results or ill-effects on health."

Present - day athletes also scoffed at Cerutty.

"TALKING NONSENSE"

Jackie MacDonald Gelling, a blonde amazon in shorts and spikes, said "he's talking nonsense, of course." Jackie, who competed for Canada in the shot-put and discus in the 1954 British Empire Games and 1956 Olympics, is the mother of a four-month-old son.

"A lot of women go to gymnasiums to improve their figures, and some of the exercise is lifting weights to develop the bust," she said. "From what I have heard from gynaecologists and obstetricians, no detrimental effects have ever been shown.

"My doctor told me I could go on putting the shot while I was pregnant if I didn't go at it too hard."

Sally McCallum, 19-year-old sprinter from Vernon, B.C., who competed in the 1956 Pan-American Games, says "it haven't changed at all because of my track training" and Saskatoon's Eleanor Haslam felt that "with proper training, no harm could come to a woman physically." A sprinter, she competed in the 1956 Olympics and 1958 British Empire Games.

AUSSIES REPLY

Australia's women athletes, first to be heard from after Cerutty's blast, shucked him off.

"He's being old-fashioned," declared Betty Cuthbert, a long-legged nifty-looking blonde hurdler and sprinter and triple Olympic gold medal winner. She is a mother of two.

"He must be a woman-hater," said Mrs. Marlene Mathews-Willard, mother of four and multiple breaker of world record.

Cerutty insists on getting in the last word.

"I'm no woman-hater," he says. "I love 'em.

"But they must be womanly. I've never wanted to cuddle a weight-lifting amazon yet."

LOSE SEX APPEAL? — Percy Cerutty, 65-year-old Australian track coach, started a mild furore in the sport world recently when he said the Olympic Games are no place for women. If women are tried tough Olympic physical conditioning, he said, they'll have stringy legs, hard faces, arrested bust development and unwomanly shapes. Bobby Rosenfeld, Canada's outstanding female athlete of half century calls such statements "junk." She says she can name a dozen Canadian girl athletes "who are beauties." Three of them are (left to right): Diane Matheson of Moncton, N.B., shown breaking the Canadian women's record for the 200 metre run; Jackie MacDonald Gelling, mother of four-month-old son, who competed in the shotput and discus in the 1954 British Empire Games and 1956 Olympics; Marie Dupree, South Burnaby, B.C., discus and shotput specialist, who was in the 1950 British Empire Games. Dodgers Have Betrayed Him Says Veteran Carl Furillo

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Veteran Carl Furillo, a victim of spring cut-backs, says he has been betrayed by Los Angeles Dodgers.

The one-time batting champ was released by the Dodgers this week, too late, he says, to catch on with another National League club. Furillo, 38 and a Dodger for 14 years, becomes a free agent if he is not picked up on waivers in a couple of days.

"I think this is one of the busiest things they could have done," he said in an interview Monday.

"Why not a week or two weeks earlier? Then I would have had a chance to do something. Everybody is set now and I'm a dead duck. Maybe they didn't want me to hook up with some other ball club and come back for revenge."

Buzzie Bavasi, Dodger general manager, said there has been no talkest to manage Furillo.

"He can have his release now and go with any ball club he wants to."

The Dodgers talked to Furillo some time ago about going on the voluntary retired list. This would have permitted the club to keep him and still be free to call up another player without going over the 25-player limit. Furillo didn't want to retire because his salary and pension credits would stop.

Furillo said he would keep an appointment at Bavasi's office today.

"I'm going to let Bavasi do the talking first and then I'll decide what I'm going to do."

Larks Want Player for Billy Shipp

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes' hunter Urban and hope of keeping all-star tackle Billy Shipp with the Big Four football club.

Shipp came to Montreal from Toronto, where he has a business, for a conference with the Als management. He has indicated he would like a trade that would send him to Toronto Argonauts.

General manager-head coach Perry Moss said following the meeting: "I would hardly reckon the conclusion that only one of two things can happen.

"Either we will negotiate a trade with Toronto Argonauts for the services of Billy or Shipp will retire and sit out for one year."

Moss said the decision about Shipp is not in the club's hands.

"I would like to have him play for Alouettes. He is a great player. But the man insists that he wants to be traded to Argonauts for personal reasons. We won't stand in his way but we will insist on a good trade."

Moss said he will immediately reopen negotiations for a possible trade but said he will not trade for the type of players general manager Lew Hayman of Argos had mentioned in earlier discussions.

Shipp claimed it cost him around $5,000 to carry on his business and home in Toronto while playing for the Als.

Commercial 'B' Bowling League Holds Banquet

The Men's Commercial "B" Bowling League wound up its 1959-60 season in the customary blaze of banquet-presentation glory last night.

They enjoyed a delicious cold turkey dinner served by the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary honored collective and individual champions, split the prize money loot and set the same executive back in office.

The league's popular president Gordie Booth chaired the dinner and presented the trophies and awards to the various winners. Then he stepped down as president, took the vice-presidential job and promised to support and obey the new prexy Mark Stevens.

The league's efficient secretary Bill Brown was given another term while Mark Stevens replaced retiring Earl MacDonald.

Kit's Aces, this league champions won the Carling-McNab trophy for the second year in a row with Wilbur Kiser accepting the honor. Individual awards were presented to the champion.

Watchers were presented with the Stub Barrett Memorial Trophy presented to the league playoff championship.

High average award went to Russ Jones with a 233 with the high triple (854) and high single (410) going to Len Rumbolzieke and Harry DeRoche respectively.

Actually Russ Jones won all three individual awards with an average of 232, high triple 823 and high single of 410, but league regulations state only one award can be won by an individual player.

Playoff prizes monies were distributed as follows in order of finish. Thrasher took the top loot followed by Kit's Aces, Paints of Tweed, Kit's Aces, Booths, Lloyds and Kemps.

The league will call off free bowling night next week through the courtesy of Recreation Alleys manager, Bill Pappas.

Geo. H. Carver and Jack Devine gave brief addresses before the party broke up for games and a social evening.

Police Break Mad Scramble For Tickets

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)—Mounted policemen Monday broke up a mad scramble of soccer fans trying to get tickets for Wednesday's European Cup final between Real Madrid and Eintracht of Frankfurt.

Thousands of fans who had lined up before dawn at Hampden Park Stadium tried to rush a police barrier.

Policemen were knocked over. Several men and women suffered minor injuries.

The scene was the climax of mounting excitement in this industrial city on the Clyde, where soccer is regarded like a religion. All but the last few thousands of the 134,000 seats for the game were sold before the weekend. Those few remaining tickets went on sale Monday.

The fans who caused the trouble had not heard of a single order prohibiting overnight tickets sales.

After standing for hours they were told to get on the end of the line. They refused. There were 3,000 strong.

That was when the trouble started.

Joe Louis To Work With Floyd Patterson

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Louis has some advice for Floyd Patterson in his June 20 rematch with heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson.

"The only thing he'll have to do is not have to get hit," said Louis, who started training Patterson today at his Newton, Conn. training camp.

Louis, ruler of the heavyweights from 1937 until his first retirement in 1949, was here for a luncheon at which the promoter-writer on Ken Large was the pilot. Pete used to be a boxfish kids his knockouts before he became fully occupied with outboards. He is a big young fort, well over six feet, with the typical "Popeye" hands and forearms that a boxer gives to all boxfish guides.

Pete took me for a short ride, showing me what the boat would do. Going top speed, he turned the craft in his own length with no sign of tipping. Then he headed for a sand bar perhaps 50 yards back. Now I know that bar all too well, having been stuck on the thing several times, but I know that it is covered by not more than two or three inches of water. We shipped across that bar just as though we were in deep water.

In subsequent talk Pete allowed as how he could make a comfortable living from Travemünde to Flamingo, deviating from course only enough to pick up grouper keys and dry bars. One day he'll do it, and when he finally the trip was set for the following Sunday.

Now, I have been to Flamingo by water several hundred times. It is a devious trip and if you don't know the channels you simply do not get there. Flamingo is about 87 miles from Travemünde and the run takes about an hour in an outboard, powered with a 35-horse motor.

"WE WENT OVERLAND"

Pete set his course West by slightly North and away we went. He hit one channel which led him to a bar. Then for the rest of the time we went overland, so to speak. Steering "by color," we stayed on course and the water looked suspiciously shallow. Pete simply gave it the gun and over we went. We negotiated the shallow grass flats of Dead Man's territory and upon Jimmy Lake with no trouble and we skirted keys which terrified me, in 12 years of fishing those waters, had been only vague dots on the horizon. It was an amazing trip, an historic trip, the first across-the-bay trip by jet. I'm happy that I was on board.

Undoubtedly, jet propulsion will open up new fishing waters. I know of several places which are now regard (with longing eyes, places into which we do not dare venture unless wind and tide are exactly right. Once in these remote spots, we dare stay only so long; otherwise we risk spending a tiresome 18 hours waiting for enough water to float us out again.

The jet will solve those problems in a hurry. All we need is two or three inches of water and the powerful drive of the turbo-jet will take us to deep water right now. Admittedly, there are some "bugs" in these early designs but not insurmountable ones. It is my sincere belief that fishing Florida Bay by jet in future can very well be an even more fascinating — and safer — experience than it is today.

Victoria Park Tops Eligibles For Plate

TORONTO (CP) — Victoria Park, third in the Kentucky Derby, heads a list of 48 three-year-olds eligible for the Queen's Plate. The list was released Monday night by Jockey Club.

The 10th1 running of North America's oldest consecutively run horse race, at Woodbine May 28, will have a purse of approximately $70,000.

Victoria Park will run in Saturday's Preakness in Baltimore.

The anticipated presence of Victoria Park reduced the Queen's Plate field when owners were asked to name by $100 payment of $100 May 2. There were 189 original nominations.

At least one nominee holds the distinction of having beaten Victoria Park last season. This is the filly Bulpaumiu, owned by Frank A. Sherman of Hamilton. Bulpaumiu won last year's Victoria Stakes when Victoria Park finished fourth, suffering his only defeat on a Canadian track.

Two Sets of Three Strokes Mark Saturday's Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP)—Only three owners appeared interested Monday in racing their colts for $75,000 in Saturday's Preakness.

That's the fourth prize in the 84th running of the classic.

It is generally conceded around Pimlico that the first three colts from the Kentucky Derby are going to be tough to beat in the second leg of the triple crown. But Divine Comedy, Celtic Ash and T. V. Lark are on the tentative list of outsiders that will try.

Baby Ache ran away from all of them easily in Saturday's Preakness Prep.

Running the 1 turn was 3½ lengths ahead of Bally Ache in the Derby May 7 and Celtic Ash, Victoria Park, third in the Derby, the trio seems to have scared off competition.

The prospective preakness field of six starters looms as the smallest since 1950 when half a dozen went off.

Robert Sloan, Pimlico mutuels manager, rates Venetian Way as a probable May 2 starter. Baby Ache, sold to a Kentucky syndicate for his Preakness appearance, is figured at 2 to 1 and Victoria Park 8 to 1.

The winner of the Preakness will take down approximately $120,000. The runner-up gets $30,000 and third-place finisher $15,000.

Birds' Batter Moves Up; Mays Drops

NEW YORK (AP)—Rookie Ron Hansen, a .328 hitter in the Pacific Coast League last year, has moved into a formidable position in the American League batting race while helping Baltimore gain a share of the league lead.

The 22 - year - old shortstop collected seven hits in 17 tries last week and moved into the runner-up position behind pacemaker Roger Maris of New York. Hansen is hitting .362, Maris .362.

Pete Runnels of Boston is third with .361, followed by Bob Allison of Washington, .360, and Yogi Berra of the Yankees, .358.

In the National League, Willie Mays of league-leading San Francisco tumbled from .425 to .390. Pittsburgh's Smoky Burgess, second, climbed 31 points to .379.

Roberto Clemente of the Pirates is third with .374, followed by rookie Tony Curry of Philadelphia, .358, and Hank Aaron of Milwaukee, .341.

Aaron slammed three homers to move into a tie for the home run lead with Willie McCovey of San Francisco and Ken Boyer of St. Louis. Each has eight. McCovey continues to head the RBI parade with 24, including one Clemente.

Jim Lemon of Washington leads American League homer department with eight. He had three last season. Al Downing of New York is No. 1 in RBI with 20. Jim Gentile of Baltimore and Elston Howard of New York each have 11.

Through the Florida Keys by Jet

The most fascinating area of water in the entire world, Florida Bay, for a great many years has been the despair of the many boating fans who venture to explore its far reaches in the "bank country." Florida Bay lies in about 1600 square miles of territory. It is shallow for the most part, very shallow, depths ranging from 6 or 8 feet in the channels and "lakes" to broad flats covered by mere inches and from 6 inches to 2 feet in depth.

Crisscrossing these shallows are countless bars and keys and dotted throughout the entire bay are hundreds of mangrove keys, some of which are decidedly wet, which serve as landmarks. If you know the main channels (many of them unmarked) and how to read water learned to recognize the keys on sight, you can become hopelessly confused in a very few minutes. After all, 1600 square miles of water is a lot of water.

Complicating matters for the boating fan is the lush growth of grass and weed which covers the bay bottom. This "turtle grass" (Thalassia testudinum) is a shallow grass flat some miles in extent can be a slow, tiresome affair.

BOON TO NAVIGATORS

Now comes a boon to the Florida Bay navigator in the form of the turbo-jet motor for bay hats and skiffs. This surprising innovation in boat propulsion is completely simple. It consists of a power plant of 60 horsepower, a four-cycle, water-cooled inboard motor, hooked into the drive shaft of a jet propeller. Briefly, the turbo-jet sucks in water through an intake screened in the keel and squirts it out through a nozzle in the transom at the stern. The force of the backward flow generates an opposite force in the form of a 740-pound thrust which makes the little craft scamper like a scared bone.

The one in which I rode is the Buehler Turbocraft, manufactured by the Indian Gear Works, Inc., of Indianapolis. Its sole Purchaser and Dealer in Co., Inc., outboard motor headquarters of the Upper Keys is Harry Harrier on Key Largo was the pilot. Pete used to be a boatfish guide his knockouts before he became fully occupied with outboards. He is a big young fort, well over six feet, with the typical "Popeye" hands and forearms that a boxer gives to all boxfish guides.

Bowling Notes

The tournament schedule has been drawn, the greenskeepers have been preparing the greens and the bowlers are ready to start another season of their favorite sport. The president of the local club, William VanTassel, dropped in to announce the opening of play which will be on the holiday next Monday, that is providing the heavy rains occur in the meantime. The green is a little tender and an extra day or two will do it the world of good.

The opening will consist of a mixed jitney of two games to be played in the afternoon and each game will be 12 ends. Suitable prizes will be given and a small entry fee will be charged. The greens, under the care of Charles Matthews, are in excellent shape. Mr. Matthews has been a most valued employee of the club and he tends the greens as if they were his own garden. It took considerable effort to bring them back this year as there was a great amount of winter kill. The lawns are beautiful in their deep shade of green and the clubhouse has been cleaned and readied for the bowlers. It will seem good to get back into the open air and have a try at the "Kitty."

Members of the club have not been idle during the winter. The executive committee has met on several occasions, while the women's section has held social functions, one of which was held last Wednesday in the clubhouse. A whirl party was held and an enjoyable evening was spent.

Italy Spends $2,614,000 On Olympics

By DEREK WILSON

NAPLES (Reuters)—Italy will have spent 1,634,000,000 lire (about $2,614,000) on the construction and improvement of sporting facilities here before yachtsmen, swimmers and soccer teams arrive to take part in the Olympic Games this summer.

The main attraction here will be the yacht races in the Gulf of Naples, But, in addition, the city with its zone of its Italian cities" where 16 preliminary rounds of the soccer competition will be played and the scene of official training for the swimming events.

Workmen, architects and contractors are working at full speed to get ready for the Games and officials report that most of the work will be finished on schedule.

The construction of a new covered swimming pool already is nearly completed.

PREPARING HARBORS

The soccer games will be played in the Fuorigrotta Stadium, opened in January for the Italian - Swiss international matches.

Most of the money spent here is being devoted to preparing three small harbors to accommodate an estimated 160 to 180 yachts taking part in the sailing events.

In the harbor of Mole Siglio, headquarters for the 5.5 and Star class yachts during the games, work is nearly finished on a new breakwater, a landing dock and a small pier.

Yachts in the Finn and Flying Dutchman class will operate from the harbor of Pozzilipo, a fashionable suburb of Naples.

The best-known racing harbor here, however, is at Santa Lucia, where international championships have been held before. During the Games, this harbor will be filled with Dragon class yachts.

The port of the island of Ischia, just off the mainland, is to be used for harboring reserve yachts.

If Show Is Bad Last Man To Blame Is the Writer

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — In the book-passing world of television, it often seems to an outside observer that all successes are credited to producers, directors and stars, and that all failures are blamed on networks, advertising agencies and writers.

David Karp, a part-time and successful freelance TV writer, insists that this is a rank injustice.

"If a show is bad," he says, "the last man to blame is the writer. He could make more sense to blame the prop man. Between the time the original script leaves the writer's hands, he may have to rewrite it on order a number of times and it may be worked over by other people.

TWISTED STRONG PRODUCER

"In television, I've learned that the important person is the producer. If you have a strong producer, 80 per cent of the battle for a good show is won."

Karp says producers and advertising agencies, however, have a lot to say about subject matter.

Karp says that no show with a revolutionary war theme will get past the sponsor of an expensive specials series.

"The head of the company," he explains, "isn't very sympathetic to the revolutionist view. If he's being single, the cast and a unit of family five technicians travelled to the Western Highlands of Scotland to film exciting action sequences in such locations as Ganavan Sands, Loch Neil, Ardgour, Glenfinnan, Corrieyairack Gorge and the infamous Pass of Killiecrankie.

"The Rise and Fall of Legs Diamond," starring Ray Danton, Karen Steele and Elaine Stewart is an explosive and highly dramatic picturization - of the fabulous hoodlum in American life during the 1930's and early 1940's. It is also a deeply moving story of the blind love of a good woman for a worthless man.

Guelph Bilts Sold to N.Y. Rangers

TORONTO (CP)—Sale of the Guelph Biltmores junior hockey club to New York Rangers was officially announced this morning at an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A council meeting.

Arnold Somerville, secretary-treasurer of the Biltmores, said the team was sold to the Madison Square Gardens Corporation, which owns the National League Rangers.

Transfer of ownership was approved by the council.

Eddy Bush, manager-coach of the Biltmores' new contract still had a year to run, will not be back with the team.

Four applications for a new manager-coach are being considered.

Jack Humphreys, chief scout for Rangers, suggested a game be held for Guelph fans to decide on a new nickname for the team. He said Rangers consider "Biltmores" a commercial name.

North Bay Requests Entry To Tough Junior A League

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association Junior A council Monday night heard a request from North Bay to enter the seven-team loop.

OHA officials said a decision on the request would be made at a later date.

Morris Snyder, North Bay arena manager, and coach Pete Palangio said they represented a group of North Bay businessmen who decided early this year to try to enter a team in the OHA Junior A Series.

"We are here by request of the North Bay citizens who are hungry for hockey," said Snyder. "North Bay has been without hockey for a season.

Snyder said his city had been host to four Junior A exhibition games last year with an average attendance of 2,000 fans.

He said a meeting at North Bay city hall had nominated the Palangio brothers, experienced hockey managers, and himself to form to a team which they were to enter for some other league if rejected by the OHA council.

MAY PLAY SUNDAYS

A delegation is trying to lift the ban on Sunday sports in North Bay, he added.

Snyder said he could assure 1,500 pre - paid tickets on each North Bay home game.

In their queries, he said: "The distance from Toronto to North Bay is 225 miles, so our immediate problem appears to be travelling."

Staffing Smythe, owner of Toronto Marlboros, said: "Your biggest obstacle would be getting players. If we were to take a team from Toronto to North Bay it would mean three days—a day to get up, a day to play, and a day to come back.

"Those who work would not be able to get the time off and those going to school would find it hard to finish studies."

Snyder said he estimated the cost in expenses for the North in the league.

Lane Deal Vindicated by Performances

NEW YORK (AP) — The first monthly return is in on the most discussed baseball player trade of 1960 and the figures at this point to a decision for Harvey Kuenn over Rocky Colavito and vindication for Frank Lane, Cleveland's general manager.

Lane was verbally spanked by many Cleveland fans April 11 for trading Colavito, the American League home run king, to Detroit for Kuenn, the batting champion.

However, after a month in their new uniforms, Kuenn shows a batting average of .319 while Colavito is wallowing at .175. Colavito has been held hitless in 19 of Detroit's 21 games. He has only three hits in his last 23 times at bat, a .130 pace.

Kuenn on the other hand, has 15 hits in his last 35 tries for a sizzling .429 rate.

In all, Kuenn has 23 safeties in 72 at bats, Colavito has 14 hits in 109ps. Rocky holds the edge where expected—in home runs—and runs batted in. He has four homers and 11 RBI. Kuenn's first homer won Sunday's, nightcap against Chicago White Sox. He has seven RBI.

Had to Wait Long Time To See Marilyn on Set

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This story might be called "waiting for Marilyn."

I have waited for Monroe on movie sets. I have waited in her New York apartment. I have waited on the telephone. But who hasn't? And who wouldn't?

The word trickled down through echelons—the studio press agent must deal with Monroe's own press agent, who deals with the hierarchy around her—that Marilyn was taking. I went to the Let's Make Love set before lunch. By late afternoon, she had finished a dozen takes on a scene, a long rehearsal and whatever else she ordains people are waiting. She came over with a lacy-topped black dress and a big helio.

I said she looked good in black. Does she always wear black?

"Black, beige, red and white," she replied. "I like beige because it looks like flesh when you're red when I need a pick-me-up. Sometimes I'll mix black and white. But I don't wear prints. If I want a pattern, I get it in lace."

GREGORY PECK WITNESS

Then I asked her why all the delays on the picture.

"Oh, it hasn't been going so badly," she said. "We started with Mr. Gregory Peck, but then Mr. Peck made other arrangements. So we had to start all over again with Yves Montand. I was a little sick in the early part of the picture, but I've been all right lately. Then there was the strike."

Marilyn was hauled off to join in singing Happy Birthday to British actor Wilfred Hyde White on whose reddish face she planted several kisses. She described ice cream and cake, introduced her drama mentor, Mrs. Paula Strasberg and husband-playwright Arthur Miller.

How did Marilyn like Some Like it Hot?

"I thought it was all right," she said, "but I would have cut it differently. I thought I did some of the scenes better than the ones that were kept in."

What about the film's director, Billy Wilder, quoted as saying after working with Marilyn all day he felt like going home and beating his wife?

"My relations with Mr. Wilder were excellent. Sometimes I don't believe what is printed in the papers."

RARE, MEDIUM, - WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Tomorrow evening at 6.30 Umpire Al Kelleher or some of his officials association cohorts will chortle "play ball" and the official 1960 softball season will be under way.

The curtain rises at the CNRA Park where Bob Temple's Bobcats square off with the unknown quantity, and quality, from the Trenton RCAF.

More or less of a toil was tossed into the machinery of the league with the withdrawal of the Sports Centre entry. This leaves the city with but one representative team, and has changed the erstwhile fixture-like situation of the Bobcats to one of a player fiesta.

As matters stand the ex-Point Anne, ex-Sports Centre player roster will be available only to the Cats management. What Mr. Temple plans to do with the extra help suddenly tossed into his lap is not known at this writing.

Temple won't get any pitching assistance from the new source, but then, with the two Bobbies, Green and Hall, he scarcely needs any assistance for his mound corps.

Prior to the player windfall, if such is the case, the Bobcats' sponsor-manager said his Cats "looked a little stronger than last year, but I will be happy if we do as well." However, with his pick and choice of the footloose players, he should line up the strongest team in the league.

He already had Earl Cousins and Chuck Rowbotham for the catching department. Denny Hayden, Floyd Crawford, Keith Stacey and "Wiener" Brown comprised the infield, with Paul Russell as a spare. Bert Faulkner, Jackie Hughes and Gerry Kitts, with the hibrad Lou Smirke available soon, made up the outer gardeners with John Casey, Bob Brooks and possibly Pat Gilmore standing by.

At the moment one of the boyl infields ever developed in the city and district is on the "loose." This is composed of Chuck Kingston, Johnny Batchelor, Jackie Wardhaugh and Gary Hall. Outfielders are Gary Geyer, Jack Elliott Jr., Red Kellar and Jack Elliott Sr., if wanted.

The ex-Sports Centre pitching staff included Doug Ellis, up from the juveniles, Bruce McCurdy and Bobby Hunter, who would have been available on weekends only.

And one of the best managers to ever direct the business activities of a softball team hereabouts is also "temporarily unemployed." He is Bill Shaw, who for years was the right bower of the Point Anne team.

Speaking of Point Anne, a city and district softball league without the popular Ox Pointers in there battling is something akin to the Yankees dropping out of the American League.

If memory is correct the Point has been represented on softball diamonds at home and away since away back in the balmy days when the Percivals were gunning for and got an Ontario championship.

Men and players like the late Frank Sedore, Nicky Sero, Murney Green, among many fine ball-playing Greens, Phil Lott, the Genereaux boys, and many others proudly wore the Ox Point colors in many a hard-fought softball battle.

Point Anne always fielded a contending club. During the later years the team was among the top squads of the district and brought home a few championships. A Point Anne squad won the OASA intermediate industrial the first two years of contention when the Canada Cement Company donated a handsome trophy to the OASA for this classification.

In regular OASA playdown battles, the Ox Pointers have a fine record. While they did not bring home any provincial titles they were always very close to the top before bowing out.

Point Anne teams have always been a credit to their community, their leagues and to softball generally. They brought much publicity to this city and district—and all of it was good.

This department along with softball men of the city, was sorry to hear that circumstances forced the Ox Pointers to withdraw from the popular summer pastime and concurs with them in the hope that in the not too distant future Ox Point will again be represented in the district softball league.

Zoom up From Cellar Spot In 3-Week Victory Surge; Cincy Whittles Giant Lead

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

If a road jinx wasn't enough to make things tough for San Francisco, the National League-leading Giants now find that Bob Purkey has his whammy working on 'em again.

He beat them for the second time in two trips this season as the Cincinnati Reds mauled Sam Jones and four relievers for a 9-2 romp Monday night that trimmed the Giants' lead to one game over idle Pittsburgh.

It was the fourth defeat in nine road games for the Giants, who managed a 3-0 record against Purkey last season after losing seven of eight to the big right-hander over a four-year span going back to 1955.

CARDS WIN ONE

Third-place Milwaukee's game with Los Angeles was postponed because of rain, after 1½ scoreless innings, and St. Louis came from behind three times for a 5-3 decision at Philadelphia in the only other action scheduled in the National League.

The fourth-place Reds put away their fifth victory in their last 13 games with single runs in each of their first three frames. That chased Jones (4-3), who has suffered all his losses on the road. Sad Sam hasn't lasted longer than five innings in any start away from San Francisco's Candlestick Park—where he has pitched a one-hitter, a two-hitter and a pair of three-hitters.

Purkey (3-1) gave up a dozen hits, but didn't walk a man and blanked the Giants over the last six innings for his third consecutive victory. The Reds, who had 16 hits, made it 2-2 in a four-run fifth with the help of Vada Pinson's two-run triple and two of the Giants' four errors.

SAT WORKING

The Cards, out-hit 11-9, shook off Sunday's no-hit defeat by Don Cardwell at Chicago with three runs in the ninth for their second victory in 15 road games. Daryl Spencer twice brought them from behind, scoring his 2-2 with his solo sixth home run.

The Baltimore Orioles are all alone in first place for the first time since returning to the American League six years ago.

They did it by completing a three-week drive from the cellar with a 3-1 victory at Kansas City Monday night, winning their fifth in a row on home runs by Jackie Brandt and rookie Ron Hansen that backed a six-hit pitching job by Arnie Portocarrero and Jack Fisher.

It was the only game scheduled in the AL and broke a deadlock with Chicago. The Orioles now lead the defending champion White Sox by a half game after getting a one - day jump on the season's first eastern invasion of the west.

The Orioles have won 11 of 12 after losing five of their first six, and this was their sixth straight road victory. Hansen supplied the clincher with his second major league home run in the fifth inning after Brandt, homer, his second in the AL after a winter deal with San Francisco, was in the first. He had two of the five hits off loser Ned Garver (0-3).

Portocarrero (3-0), a right hander with only one winning season in his seven years, needed a one-hitter for four innings and a three-hit shutout for six frames. Then Jerry Fisher, 21, after a leadoff single by Whitey Herzog in the seventh, when the A's added a walk and Dick Williams' single for their run.

In the seventh inning and then making it 3-3 with a double in the ninth. A sacrifice fly by pinch-hitter Carl Sawatski scored the clincher. Joe Ganiullaro's third single got the final run home.

Ernie Broglio (1-1) won it in relief after Wilmer Mizell had given up 10 hits, one Al Dark's bases-empty homer. Jim Owens (3-4) got it.

Jumbo, Don Will Take Kalmikoffs On

If the Kalmikoff Brothers think they had a problem last week, they've got a pack of 'em come Friday.

They face well over 300 pounds of rasslin' heat on the hoof in the weekly hoe - down at the Wall Garow Gardens.

They tangle with the Mighty Jumbo (317 pounds) and new-found partner, Don Leo Jonathan (300 pounds plus).

If they can fricasset that mass of meat, or even whittle it down to ordinary roast size they'll deserve all the kudos coming to them.

Don Leo is no stranger here. The huge Norseman can be as gentle as a kitten or as wild as a raging lion. He and the massive Jumbo make a formidable team.

What should be a neat and tidy semi - final sees Big Ed Miller clash with agile Frenchy Bernard Vignal, late of Fares and a student of Edward Gardner, the acrobatic former champion of France.

The rough, tough and not-so-dusty Miller fears no one. He won an easy decision over Billy Stack last week. He will have his hands full with the speedy Frenchman.

George Drake meets the tough Tiger Traaker in the curtain raiser.

Wings Break Bison String; Marlins Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Believing that turn about is fair play, Wes Stock helped Miami Marlins vacate the International League cellar Monday night.

The righthander allowed Richmond Virginians only three hits in chalking up a 4-0 victory. Last Wednesday Stock was the victim of a 2-0 beating by the Virginians and last night's loser, Jim Bronstad. The victory gave the Marlins a half-game edge over the eighth-place Montreal Royals.

Rochester Red Wings broke Buffalo Bisons' five-game winning streak with an 8-5 decision and Havana Sugar Kings edged Columbus Jets 3-4.

Stock, who recorded his second shutout in three starts, struck out seven men and walked two. Dave Nicholas broke a scoreless game in the sixth inning with a one-on homer.

POORLY SUPPORTED

Ken Lehman of the Bisons lost his first in six decisions, thanks to some shoddy fielding in the sixth inning when Rochester scored four runs.

Dan Mckinley doubled home the first, another scored on a passed ball. After Fred Hopke muffed Bob Keegan's foul popup and the latter walked, a second passed ball let in the third run and Charley James' double drove in the fourth. It knocked out Lehman for the first time that year.

Keegan was the winner, although Dean Stone came on in the sixth to squelch a Buffalo rally that produced four runs.

Leo Cardenas' bases - loaded single with one out in the ninth gave the Sugar Kings their victory and boosted them into a third-place tie with Columbus. Reliever Howie Nunn was the winner and Al Williams, fourth Columbus pitcher, lost as the Cubans came from behind a 4-1 count.

Hemus Benches Stan Musial But Slugger Is Unperturbed

Retire? No

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Stan Musial was frisky and optimistic about his baseball future Monday night. But he wasn't in the starting lineup.

Nor was he in the starting lineup for either game of St. Louis Cardinals' doubleheader against Chicago Cubs Sunday, although he did pinch-hit, as he did Monday night against Philadelphia.

It is this indication that Musial's long and outstanding career is nearly over?

"Absolutely not," said St. Louis manager Solly Hemus. Musial agreed.

Hemus declined to say how long the 39-year-old first baseman would be on the bench.

"We've been losing games and I make sense to make changes. So far as Musial being benched, there isn't anything to it. These changes are on a day - to - day basis."

Musial seemed unperturbed that he has been left out of the 14th-place club's starting lineup.

"Solly's trying something," he said. "I feel fine now that the weather has improved. I'm simply not even thinking about retiring. I think full time about playing baseball."

Musial batted .255 last year, the first time he had gone below .300 since September, 1941, when he joined the Cardinals. This year he is batting .260 with only one of his 19 hits for extra base —three doubles and three home runs.

Says New Soccer League 'Here to Stay'

TORONTO (CP) — William D. Cox, president of the International League, said Monday night that the league, the first major attempt to make soccer popular in the United States, would begin on schedule.

Commenting on remarks by U.S. soccer officials in Toronto last weekend, Cox said: "Not only will we operate this year on schedule, but the league is here to stay."

Cox is a former part-owner of Philadelphia Phillies of the National Baseball League and former owner of the now - defunct Brooklyn Dodgers of the National Football League.

Cox said his five-man syndicate had invested more than $300,000 in the new soccer loop which has arranged for teams to come from England, Scotland, Italy, Brazil, Northern Ireland, France, Portugal, Austria, Germany and other counties.

He said Burnley, champions of the First Division of the English League, would be paid $25,000.

If the league is successful, teams from Montreal and Toronto have expressed a desire to play in it in 1961.

Cox said he hopes for an average attendance of 15,000 this season.

Candy Licks Welter Champ, Sugar Robinson Plays Hookey

BALTIMORE (AP) — Don Jordan, world welterweight boxing champion, suffered a bloody nose and his second straight non-title licking by insisting on fighting Baltimore Monday night, while Sugar Ray Robinson is in hot water for not.

Jordan was outboxed and outpunched by Candy McFarland in a 10-rounder while Bobbigan, 60 officials say, didn't even tell anyone he wasn't going to show up for his 10-round co-feature with Pedro Gonzalez.

The Maryland Athletic Commission ordered Robinson and his manager, George Gainford, to appear for a hearing Thursday.

Jordan's next boxing date is May 27 in Las Vegas where his title will be up at stake against Benny (Kid) Paret.

Jordan fell his fight with McFarland was close enough that he could have lost, but not unanimously. On a five - point basis, referee Eddie Leonard scored it for McFarland 47-44 and the two judges 46-45.

WANTS TITLE FIGHT

"I'd like to fight him again and for the title," said McFarland, a 29-year-old Philadelphia winning his 17th fight out of 24.

McFarland, who weighed 146½ pounds to Jordan's 140, drew blood from the champ's nose in the eighth round and almost knocked him down with a right to the ninth.

Jordan had insisted on going ahead with the fight even though the National Boxing Association and Las Vegas promoters protested it was taken off as a non-title match.

The fights were originally scheduled for Saturday night when rain caused a postponement.

GAINFORD'S STORY

At first, promoter Al Flora said Gainford told him by phone that he and Robinson didn't realize they had been rescheduled for Monday night.

Later in New York, Gainford said he learned afternoon Flora similar that Robinson wasn't going to appear because they learned there was an attachment on Gonzales' purse and Pedro said he wouldn't fight. Gainford also said there was no stipulation in their contract that Robinson had to appear if the fight was postponed.

Of prospective action by the Maryland Athletic Commission, Chairman Charles Rosenbaum said: "Suspend him I can. But if there's a demand for return of money by the fans, I don't know. I'll have to ask the attorney-general if we can hold Sugar responsible."

The card drew only 2,014 paid customers in Memorial Stadium which holds 37,000 for football and 48,000 for baseball. Net gate receipts were only $5,340.82, of which Jordan and Robinson were to receive 25 per cent each.

Hearts Beat Montreal 3-0

OTTAWA (CP) — The touring Heart of Midlothian football club handed Montreal Cantalia a 3-0 defeat and gave them a soccer lesson in an exhibition game under the lights at Lansdowne Park here Monday night.

The game, played in near-perfect weather, was watched by about 3,500 fans, compared with the 18,000-plus crowd that normally packs into Lansdowne to watch Big Four football contests.

Thinks Khrushchev in 3-Way Struggle Against Stalinists, Military and Chinese Reds

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

PARIS (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's performance at the summit meeting that failed to get off the ground indicates he is engaged in a struggle to maintain his claim to the world communism.

Because of that, a new cold war freeze may be in prospect, comparable even to the dangerous 1948 Stalin days of the Berlin blockade.

Unless he got an apology from the president of the United States Khrushchev insisted he would not negotiate with Eisenhower. This he added in a scold, was a matter involving the internal politics of the Soviet Union.

TREASONABLY FULL

The implication is that Khrushchev is engaged in a three-sided struggle against the Reds, the military and 3. the Chinese Communists, who he accused of giving him for what appear to be Stalin's reckless adventures in peace-making.

Khrushchev, destroyer of the image of Stalin as a demigod, seems to have bowed to the Stalinists.

The Soviet boss has been required to kick overboard all he has built with great care over the last three years. Apparently, in the Stalinist and Red Chinese view, his peace gestures went beyond the limits of peaceful communism as a constantly moving, dynamic force.

Khrushchev for years has been fascinated by the idea of a Soviet Union powerful and economically prosperous that it could outstrip the Communist countries without exporting communism or supporting it by overt action.

This has been costly to Communists in various areas.

In quest of his kind of peace—one in which the Soviet Union, after bringing about the degree of nuclear and other disarmament it would still be in a position to dictate terms to the rest of the world — Khrushchev also pared the strength of the Soviet Army and ran into opposition there.

This has increased the domestic pressure, apparently, on the Soviet leader. It is noticeable, Western experts say, in the ranks of the officers particularly. About 250,000 of them are marked for demobilization. Many are slated to move from the comfortable, easy-to-live life of the Soviet officer class to jobs in still dreary farm or industrial areas.

The fuss Khrushchev injected into the Paris conference about the U-2 incident comes home with an apology from Eisenhower. Khrushchev and a promise never to do it again. This is a humiliation the Soviet Union said.

But it may have won a round in his struggle at home if he can demonstrate that he put Eisenhower in his place, at least to the extent that the president submitted to the cancellation of flights over Soviet territory.

Khrushchev has also suffered a severe reverse on the world stage. His peaceful coexistence line has failed to win any of the diplomatic tourism and smiles. Smiles, and apparently the diplomatic tourism, are fading away now.

U.S. Presidential Candidates May Find Issues Changed

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential politicians may find that Democratic and Republican nominees for the November United States presidential election will be standing on different ground.

The expected collapse of the summit conference seemed likely to force changes in campaign revisions in political plans by both parties.

Although they had expected few concrete results at Paris, the politicians generally were looked forward to campaigning in an era of relaxed tensions. That's emphasized in their speeches would be on such nonsense's as the Soviet threat to the world toward a brightening peace.

But Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's walkout there seemed to have eliminated that prospect. Now, it appears, of course, the opposing candidates will have to find themselves debating which is more important, modernizing and strengthening the defences and which can stand up to Khrushchev best.

DISAGREE ON EFFECT

Politicians disagree on how the hard line currently adopted by Khrushchev will affect the outcome of the U.S. presidential contest.

Senator John F. Kennedy (Dem. Mass.), a leading candidate for the Democratic nomination, said in a statement that "the almost contemptuous indifference with which Khrushchev treated President Eisenhower suggested that the Soviet leader does not believe the United States has military equality with Russia."

Khrushchev's withdrawal of the invitation to Eisenhower sets out the chance that Eisenhower will be able to establish as a man of peace with a triumphant visit to Russia.

Democratic candidate Richard Nixon, the probable Republican presidential nominee, is expected to point out the chances

Most Sask. Doctors Oppose CCF Government's Medical Plan; Polls Open June 8th

SASKATOON (CP) — Saskatchewan's CCF government headed into the June 8 election campaign determined, if re-elected, to introduce in 1961 Canada's first province-wide, government-sponsored, prepaid, compulsory medical-care plan. Against it are ranged most of the province's 823 doctors.

Socialist Premier T. C. (Tommy) Douglas, who has said he has wanted to institute such a program "all my adult life," has staked the life of his government on the proposal, saying that a vote for the CCF will be considered a vote for state medicine. Saskatchewan's doctors say that will just be the beginning of the fight.

No details of the government's plan yet have been made public. Mr. Douglas has said only that it must be compulsory, be prepaid, be administered by the government, be of high quality and be acceptable to both doctors and patients.

Says Dr. J. F. C. Anderson of Saskatoon, a leading member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons and a former president of the Canadian Medical Association: "How can it work if the plan is not acceptable to the doctors? Mr. Douglas has said that our co-operation is essential."

FIRST HOSPITAL PLAN

The socialist government, first elected in 1944, introduced in 1947 North America's first compulsory hospital-insurance program. The premier predicts that if Saskatchewan votes in his medical plan by returning his administration to power June 8, most other provinces will follow suit within 10 years.

Opposing political parties are against the government's proposal. The Liberal party urges extension of existing private-enterprise plans for medical care. The Social Credit party plumps for extension of existing hospital insurance, partly run by the province. The Progressive Conservatives press for a royal commission investigation of the province's health needs before anything is done.

A 12-member committee has been set up by the government to explore the health needs of the province. Its terms of reference are: to investigate the extent of public need in various fields of health care; the scope and extent of benefits; implications of various financing methods and methods of remuneration, methods of program administration and so on.

The College of Physicians and Surgeons, through Dr. Anderson, one of three college representatives on the committee, terms the setting-up of the committee a political manoeuvre by the government to force through its own state plan.

AGAINST STATE ROLE

Spokesmen for the college argue that the doctors are not against the government's plan because it is a socialist proposal. "We're against any compulsory, state-controlled medical plan, whether it be Liberal, Progressive Conservative or anything else," says Dr. Malcolm H. Macdonald.

The doctors contend that cost will soar, medical services will deteriorate and the personal doctor-patient relationship will disappear under state medicine. They advocate extension of health and accident benefits through existing private insurance plans. To the premier's claims that many citizens cannot afford adequate medical care under the present system, they say this group is relatively small and no doctor has ever refused to treat any patient without funds.

All the province's medical doctors are enrolled in the College of Physicians and Surgeons. Its membership at the end of 1959 is listed as 698 graduates of Canadian universities, 218 from the United Kingdom and 98 from other countries, mostly continental Europe. The college claims that almost all of its members oppose state medicine.

A special assessment of $100 a member has been levied against the membership, the fund to be used to retire $25,000 in indebtedness built up in past years and to finance information centres in Saskatoon and Regina through which information on state medicine is channelled to the public and to the membership.

The college insists its opposition is non-political. No organized backing is given to those of the membership who are running as private individuals, in the election campaign and it says it has no record of the number who are candidates.

College spokesmen point to the Tariff Current region in southwestern Saskatchewan as an example of the operation of state medicine. A municipal medical-care program, covering some 3,000 persons, has operated there for the last 13 years, financed by a property tax and a small charge for home and office calls. It has incurred repeated deficits.

Mr. Macdonald said that in 1952, house calls jumped to 18,402 from 4,533 in 1947. In 1953, when a "deterrent fee" of $1 a visit was charged, calls dropped to 7,725.

To CCF contentions that the doctors who now oppose state medicine asked the government in 1946 to institute such a plan, Dr. Anderson says the medical men asked for a government-as-sisted plan, to be administered by an impartial, non - political body and were told then that insufficient funds were available to put such a plan into operation.

The doctors also contend that costs of medical care will soar under the proposed government plan. No cost estimates have been made public but Premier Douglas has indicated the medical-care plan, if approved, will cost about the same as the present hospital-insurance program—$33 for married couples and $17.50 for single persons. He also has indicated that a sales tax may help finance the program.

College spokesmen say most of the 218 British doctors in Saskatchewan left the United Kingdom because of state medicine and would leave this province if it went into effect here.

PEACE PACT WILL BAN WESTERN TROOPS

Anvil Chorus Switches Target From Ike To K, Western Europe Resents Russian Brinkmanship

LONDON (CP)—A mood of resurgent anger built up in Western Europe today amid a tide of resentment against Nikita Khrushchev for withering peace hopes at the summit.

The chorus of denunciation lately levelled at the United States over the U-2 spy flight dwarfed switched smartly to the Soviet premier's head.

The prevalent feeling was that the Russian had embarked on their own brand of "brinkmanship"—a concept never popular in this vulnerable part of the world.

Headlines in Rome and Amsterdam announced "Khrushchev sabotages summit." The London Sun branded the editorial "Wrecker (with a big K)."

Khrushchev mood was reflected in newspapers of all non-Communist shades of opinion. Commentators acknowledged almost unanimously that President Eisenhower had gone to the limit of conciliation in suspending the U-2 flights. They argued in effect: "What more can Khrushchev expect?"

Most political observers said the only good result was a toughening of Western solidarity, reducing the Allied differences to a minimum.

PEACE TOO HIGH

Most commentators asserted that summit talks must not be bought at the price of groveling before Khrushchev.

The British Labor Khrushchev miscalculated badly if he had been counting on shock tactics to increase Western doubts and fears.

The London Evening Standard, Conservative, commented:

"The breakdown of the summit talks is a major tragedy. But if the price of going on with the talks is surrender to Mr. Khrushchev, then it is better that he should go home."

Sweden's Stockholms-Tidningen said:

"Eisenhower did what he deemed filled his dignity to save the conference. But that was not enough for the Russians. They wanted a humiliating apology and confession, a total unconditional surrender. Since he ever a coexperiently had to say no."

EFFORTS TO WIDEN DIVORCE GROUNDS COME TO HEAD

309 Applications Now on Order Paper

OTTAWA (CP) — An effort to widen the grounds for parliamentary divorce that may have repercussion in the Commons comes to a head in the Senate today.

While two CCF MPs maintain their blockade against passage of divorce bills in the Commons, the upper chamber will debate the action of its divorce committee on a petition by a Quebec resident for a divorce alleging desertion rather than the currently-required fault to say so."

Call to Put U.S. Defences On Alert Voiced by Senator

WASHINGTON (AP) — A call to put American defences on the alert underlined the sober reaction in the capital today to the collapse of the summit conference.

Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia, chairman of the Senate armed services committee, cautioned that Premier Khrushchev's "erratic actions might precipitate the horror of a nuclear war."

Others, without minimizing the potential seriousness of the situation, spoke not of war but of the need for a calm reappraisal in the light of developments.

"It is not the end of the world," commented Senator Hubert H. Humphrey. Urging calmness among the people on both sides, the Minnesota Democrat said "there must be a cooling-off period" to "begin to start toward easing of international tension."

Senator George D. Aiken, Vermont Republican and like Humphrey a member of the Senate foreign relations committee, said the United States "must let the world know" we will keep on trying to reach some agreements on disarmament and other problems in an effort to find peace."

But there was general agreement that the failure in Paris at least will increase cold war tensions.

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, Texas Democrat who is the Senate majority leader, made it clear that the U.S. will stand behind its Republican president in the new crisis.

"We are going to have to dig in and maintain our unity and our sense of dedication to our freedom," Johnson said, "because it is obvious that the Soviets are going to do their best to test our nerves."

Russell, saying the cold war has been intensified and a hot war is possible, added in a statement:

"This country should make every effort to get its defence establishment in order and on the alert in order to repel and annihilate any aggressor."

Senator Thomas J. Dodd (Dem., Conn.) said the conference failed because "we could not further compromise with or appease communism."

Political Leaders at Ottawa Join in Call for Cool Heads

OTTAWA (CP)—Initial reaction of Canadian political leaders to the collapse of the summit conference was a call for cool heads in the face of disappointment.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev was blamed for torpedoing the Paris talks, but Commons opposition spokesmen Tuesday night also pointed a finger of blame at the United States for giving him an opportunity to load the torpedo tube.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said in the Commons, before the actual conference breakup but at a time when it was obviously in-

U.S. Lake Ports Further Snarled By Work Stoppage at Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—Great Lakes shipping, idled by a coast-wide dock picketing at six United States ports, was further snarled today when longshoremen refused to cross picket lines set idle. The newest walkout, by the 1,500-member International Longshoremen's Association, came after a stalemate in talks with Chicago terminal operators.

The big issue is wages.

In other ports:

Milwaukee — Negotiations broke off with 150 men off duty. All foreign shipping tied up by ILA picketing; cargoes for ports within the great lakes not affected.

Cleveland—Strike affected 270 workers, but no ships in port.

Buffalo — ILA members picketing port terminal, seeking recognition of the union by the Continental Grain Company. Terminal Steamships Incorporated, Tennessee terminal nearby was not affected.

Toledo, Ohio, also is striking.

Detroit — the harbor terminal Tuesday began 24-hour unloading operations as captains of foreign vessels, fearing labor disputes at other ports, chose to dock here. The terminal will continue on a 24-hour basis as long as the demand lasts. Five large freighters docked Tuesday while another 10 dropped anchor in Detroit River channels.

3-BOXCAR TRAIN TAKES RESIDENTS FROM PETERBELL

Essential Personnel Left in Community

PETERBELL, Ont. (CP)—Water 20 inches deep rushed across the CNR tracks here today as the deepening Missinaibi River spread and covers the countryside.

"The flood is fanning out over the low-lying areas," a CNR spokesman said.

Railway crews hooked a small engine to three boxcars Tuesday and evacuated 47 persons—the entire population of this centre about 80 miles west of Timmins.

Some were dropped at Oba, on the northern corner of the Chapleau Game Preserve, others were taken as far as Homepayne, about 135 miles northwest of here.

FULL TO SAFETY

During the night railway crews hooked up regular diesel passenger units and pulled them to safety.

The water continued to rise toward the sub-city community and no one would guess whether it would reach here.

Officials of Oba said them is spot five miles east of here and to Five Mile Creek, 15 miles south

Hydro Must Triple Capacity In Next 20 Years HEPC Member Tells Foremen's Club

In the next 20 years the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario must triple its productive capacity to 20 million kilowatts from the present six million, Dr. G. Commissioner, A. Kennedy told the Quinte District Foremen's Club Tuesday night.

The Commission now is "very interested" in nuclear power said the soldier-turned-HEPC commissioner. A small nuclear power plant now is being built and should be ready by 1965 to produce about 20,000 kilowatts, enough electricity to service a community the size of Belleville with a bit left over.

Commissioner Kennedy retired from the Canadian Army as a Lieutenant-Colonel and during the Second World War commanded the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment LL-Col. Angus Duffy, the Regiment's current commander, was a guest at the Foremen's Club's annual banquet winding up the club's activities until fall.

As regard the small nuclear plant "won't be a profitable venture in terms of dollars and cents, but we have to start somewhere." The Commission will operate the plant and later will buy it from the Atomic Energy of Canada for "about the cost of a modern steam turbine plant." Nuclear power eventually will be cheaper than electricity produced by either coal fired or hydraulic turbines.

The Commission is also experimenting with higher voltage lines at a plant near Coldwater in Simcoe County. It expects to save thousands of dollars in wire alone when the 500-mile line is perfected, he declared.

LL-Col. Kennedy outlined Ontario Hydro's history from the turn of the century, when a small dissatisfied group of the London-Kitchener area decided that power being developed at Niagara Falls was being enterprise should belong to the people for all time. Now, one of the members of the group, was laughed down with his "relief" idea of putting electricity in every home in London.

DIRECTED WITH IDEA

Sir Adam eventually became imbued with the idea that Niagara power should belong to the public. The idea preyed on him day and night. As the years went by his dream materialized. Now some 350 Ontario municipalities are shareholders in the HEPC which sprang from his dream.

The Canada Municipal Electric Commission, a "strong" group sponsored of representatives of municipally-owned utilities, "really keeps Ontario Hydro on its toes."

"We are too prone to think Ontario Hydro is a part of the provincial government," he said. "It isn't. It is, perhaps, the third largest corporation in Canada and has assets of $2.5 billion."

Ontario Hydro's 18,000 miles of high voltage transmission lines were termed "fantastic." In addition, the Commission has 70,000 miles of rural distribution lines and others serving municipalities.

"Probably by 1980," he said, "our generation will be one-third hydraulic, one-third coal and one-third nuclear."

LL-Col. Kennedy, who is also chairman of the Owen Sound Public Utilities Commission, said Belleville's consumption of electricity per each domestic customer in 1959 was 6,400 kilowatt hours, almost double what it was in 1946.

"The average Belleville householder in 15 years was using double the amount of electricity," he said. "When he started in 1930 he was paying about 1.5 cents per kilowatt-hour and the average last year he paid .78 cent. This utility, which is owned by you, can expand only if we use the distribution lines as much as possible."

LL-Col. Kennedy, who was awarded the Distinguished Service Order for gallantry during the Second World War, said that in 1930 only 17 electrical appliances were available. Now there are hundreds.

"Some labor-saving electrical household devices of the future," he said, "will include ultra-sonic dishwashers and electronic ovens which will cook your meals."

GET CHEAP POWER

"What happens from now on I don't know," he said. "But I do know we get power cheaper than any other place in the world."

The average domestic rate in Ontario is about 1.25 cents per kilowatt-hour. The average rate in Canada rate is 1.6 cents, while the average rate in the United States is 2.5 cents. When he realized the average Belleville householder was paying 1.5 cents Ontario Hydro is really doing a good job."

Sam Kennedy, past-president of the Ontario Municipal Electric Commission, was introduced by Verb Cole and thanked by Charles Morton, both of the Ontario Hydro branch offices in Belleville.

A life membership in the club was presented to Reg. Evanson by Club President Doug McLean decribed Mr. Evanson as a "very active member of the club since its inception several years ago."

Fines Imposed After Two Men Plead Guilty

Pleading guilty to charges of making false statements to the Unemployment Insurance Commission, two Belleville men collect benefits while gainfully employed, two Belleville district men were assessed fines and costs in city magistrate's court Tuesday.

Fined $60 plus $3 costs on four charges each was Frank R.H. 5 Belleville, while John R. Clark R.R. 1 Belleville, was assessed fifty plus $3 costs on three charges.

The lieu of payment, Mr. July will serve one month in Jail, while Mr. Clark will serve 21 days in the same place.

The court was told that Mr. July had earned $300 as a salesman, last June and had failed to report it to the unemployment office, so that he could collect benefits.

Mr. Clark was said to have earned $223.17—during March, September and October last year and had reported only $83.75 to the unemployment office.

48th Highlanders Compete in Semi-Annual

On May 14, two bus loads of members from the 48th Highlanders' Club of Toronto journeyed to Belleville to compete in the semi-annual sports. Each year it becomes larger and keener as more cups are donated.

This competition started out with a few men from both clubs and has steadily increased and now includes the ladies. Belleville won all honors: the cup Chantrell Challenge; cup Mabel for darts, donated by the company that stresses the label.

Belleville ladies were brilliant with their win as they only started the club this past winter.

At the completion of games a turkey dinner was served by the Ladies' Auxiliary of 40 followed by a dance.

This weekend's activities were sponsored by the men's club under the chairmanship of William Ford and his capable committees. The ladies' sports program was under the chairmanship of Isabel Gabarin, who also did an excellent job.

Sunday afternoon the bus wended their way back to Toronto, beaten out, though they tried it the best weekend yet and were fully confident the tables will be turned at the return matches in September in Toronto.

Plan Publicity Campaign Explaining One-Way Traffic

Plans for a publicity campaign to acquaint Belleville and district residents regarding the one-way street policy to go into effect in July were formulated at a meeting yesterday of the city council traffic committee.

Also attending the meeting were representatives from the Chamber of Commerce and newspaper and radio personnel.

It was generally agreed that extensive publicity would be required for a period of one to two weeks prior to the one-way traffic scheme going into effect to acquaint city and district motorists of the change.

Plans call for southbound traffic only on Front Street from Pinnacle to Dundas, with traffic on Coleman Street to be northbound only, Campbell St., McAnnany, Market Street and Dundas Street between Front and Pinnacle would be one-way arterials.

The proposal adopted Tuesday said that when the one-way traffic and light committee said provision had been made in this year's budget for the cost of signs, curbing and islands which would be necessary to put the new traffic scheme into effect.

Voters Given An Extra Hour For Balloting

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons election committee agreed Tuesday to let voters have an extra hour for balloting in federal elections. But the manner in which it proposed to do this would mean that polls would close at different times in areas where both Standard and Daylight time are in effect.

Committee chairman Heath Macquarrie noted the error after the committee meeting, and indicated the committee will correct it later.

He said the committee's intention was to provide another hour for voting, but it did not foresee the confusion which would be caused by the amendment adopted Tuesday.

It would be unsafe," he said. It was obviously a drafting error.

Under the present law, polls are open in all areas on Standard time. Thus in urban areas on Daylight time, polls operate in the same period as neighboring rural areas on Standard time.

The proposal adopted Tuesday said that when daylight time is in force, polls should be open 8 a.m.-7 p.m. Standard time. But where Daylight time is in effect it said, polling hours would be 7 a.m.-6 p.m. Standard time.

Sub-Postoffice for Downtown District to Open on Thursday

A new sub-postoffice — the fifth in Belleville — will open for the downtown district — it will be opened Thursday morning at Richardson's grocery and appliance store at the city's four corners.

Announcement of the opening by Post Office officials here was made by Lee Grills, M.P.P. for Hastings West.

Postmaster Jack Ireland will be postmaster for the sub-postoffice, while two of the store staff are also being trained in postal business to assure service during the hours which the store remains open.

Belleville Postmaster Albert Clare noted that hours for sub-postoffices normally are geared to coincide with store hours, or from 9 to 6 and closed Wednesday afternoons.

ALL NORMAL BUSINESS

Mr. Clare said normal business transactions of the regular post office would be carried on at the sub-postoffice. This includes the sale of postage stamps, money orders, and the weighing of parcels.

Mailing facilities for letters and parcels will be provided outside the store.

The need for a sub-postoffice in the downtown Belleville area has been made increasingly evident since the transfer of the post office from the premises at the corner of Bridge and Pinnacle Streets to the new Federal Building on Station Street.

GREEN. — In loving memory of a dear father, Andrew, who passed away, May 18th, 1933.

The blow was great, the shock severe,
We little thought the end was near.

And silent now the voice we hear.

The pain of parting without farewell.
More each day we miss you.

Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the grief we feel.
That lies within our hearts concealed.
—Never forgotten by his daughter-in-law, Gertrude Green and family.

WANNAMAKER. — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Lucetta Wannamaker, who passed away May 18th, 1955.

Each moment we may set
But the hearts of those who loved
Are the ones who never forget.
—Sadly missed by daughters Ethel, Alma, Alzada, sons-in-law Percy and Earl.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials came back strongly today to recover Tuesday's loss and put a more cheerful complexion on the stock market.

Papers were prominent in industrials, with Great Lakes up 1¼ at 42 and Abitibi, Minnesota and Ontario and Consolidated all ahead ½ at 39¾, 30¾ and 42. Presumably they were affected by the lower discount on the American dollar.

Steels, too, were higher, Algoma, National Steel Car and Steel Company of Canada ahead ¼ at 34½, 14½ and 76. But General Dynamics scored the largest gain, up 2¼ at 46½.

International Nickel was the feature of the mines section, up ½ at 33¾, while Noranda was off ¼ at 39¾. And among the golds, Kerr Addison dropped ½ at 13 while Dome went ahead ¼ at 17¼.

In senior uranium, Algom improved ½ at 11¼ and Denison was off 10 cents at $3.50.

On Tuesday industrials fattened during a rally.

City Road Crews Quite Busy in Annexed Areas

The gravel roads crew of the city's Public Works Department is currently quite busy with gravel roads in the annexed areas especially on Sidney Street around the College Street section where an effort is being made to improve the drainage in preparation for the improvement of the existing gravel road.

The oiling and maintenance of other gravel roads in the annexed area has been progressing. The demand for this work has been quite heavy, oiling in particular due to the combination of heavy rain and spring thaws which have contributed greatly to road deterioration.

Most gravel roads are starting to harden up for the summer however although the North end of Farley Avenue is still too soft to allow proper completion of the work scheduled for that area.

The sewer crew has been busy with the extension of the sewer on Dussek Street as approved by city council. The crew has also been quite busy with the construction of new sewer connections in the annexed area.

The time has now come for the weed inspector to commence his annual duties. This year he will also take care of spraying insecticide on the municipal trees throughout the new sections of the city. This latter work will be done with the new power fog-fogging machine acquired by the department three weeks ago.

The new section of sidewalk on East Bridge Street just west of Herchimer Avenue is nearing completion by the sidewalk crew members. They have also been well occupied with the repairing of sidewalk cuts made during the winter months for new services and gas connections to various buildings.

During the next week to ten days the office staff of the department is going to be quite busy analyzing the tenders for the departmental equipment asked for new equipment.

The department's staff is also quite busy preparing the details for proposed one-way streets plan, which the traffic committee has arrived at.

Scoring Champ Of N.H.L. Visits Kiwanis Club

Tuesday was "Bobby Hull Day" at the Belleville Kiwanis Club and for approximately 40 young gentlemen guests of the club, it was a day to remember — the day they got to meet NHL scoring champion of the Chicago Black Hawks.

Youngest of the young fans was Ward Wannamaker-and-his-Colonial Bradley Ross, son of Kiwanian and Mrs. Ward Ross, who Bobby Bradley had the honor of posing for a picture with the famed hockey star. Kiwanian Gordon Bobby presented him with an autographed miniature hockey stick by Bobby at the conclusion of the luncheon meeting.

A draw was held at the end of the meeting and winner Grant Freestone, son of Kiwanian Bob Freestone, won the autographed stick of also having his picture taken with Bobby.

In a brief address the blond, 21-year-old puckster, who started his hockey career at 14 and turned professional at 18, urged his young audience, sons and friends of Kiwanians, to stay in school and finish their education. He particularly stressed the importance of obtaining as much education as possible for a successful career in any chosen field.

ANSWERED QUESTIONS

A question - and - answer period followed during which Bobby, the "pride of Point Anne and Belleville," answered many questions on hockey.

Commenting on the plaudits he has received as last season's NHL scoring champ, he said his line-mates, centreman Bill Hay, and right-winger Murray Balfour, should share in these honors. He highly commended them for the close co-operation they have given on the ice, and predicted Bill Hay will become the "greatest centre - man in the league."

Bobby was introduced by Jack Deyton, CJBQ sportscaster, and thanked by Gord Crawford.

The program portion of the meeting was under the chairmanship of director Hal Floyd, who presented Bobby with a small token of the club's appreciation.

The remainder of the meeting was conducted by Governor George Tripp.

During the meeting Bobby was "serenaded" with a song especially written for him, entitled, "The Pride of Belleville and Point Anne."

Rotarians Hear Registrar of Ryerson Tech

TRENTON — Mr. A. Sauro, registrar of Ryerson Institute, speaking to the Trenton Rotary Club on Monday night, said that he questioned the advisability of young people spending money and years of their lives in acquiring university degrees, only to enter the business world or take up positions as journalists, sales managers, or semi-managerial positions with radio and TV stations.

The speaker said that management is every phase of business activity in Canada were beginning to realize that they had been hiring people with degrees of knowledge beyond their need. Heads of industry and commerce were turning to Ryerson graduates to "fill the bill" as far as their immediate needs were concerned.

Mr. Sauro said that when Ryerson was first opened in 1948, the emphasis had been placed on technical skill, but over the years the curriculum had been modified and the part time curriculum was two-thirds academic and one-third technical and that the emphasis was on producing "well-rounded-out graduates.

"A university education expands the individual's horizon of knowledge" the speaker said, "But it is false concept to believe that students attending Ryerson Institute are those in some quite bright enough to go to university. He went on to say that the student body at the technological institute was composed of a large group of very high grade graduates, who, for one reason or another, did not go on to attend university.

Mr. Sauro said that it was an error to say that "there is a shortage of engineers in Canada". There is a shortage of engineering technologists, and this situation can be remedied by institutions such as Ryerson.

Mr. Sauro was introduced by E. S. Mellwain and thanked by Howard Hallick.

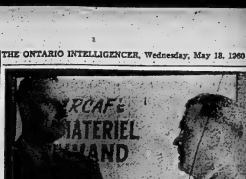
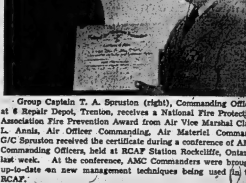
Thornhill had been placed on suspended sentence by Magistrate in 1954 for a similar offence.

Lieutenant-Ian Bursey of the Trenton Salvation Army asked that the magistrate give special consideration in the case. He said that the youth had had a good up-bringing and that he thought the pressure of his had led him to forge the cheques. Lieutenant Bursey also stated that a pre-sentence report be given to him concerning the circumstances.



Mr. Dennis Allen, probation officer, was asked to contact Thornhill's parents.

The man was remanded for one week for sentence.



When asked if he had anything to say Thornhill pointed out that a similar offence, involving the sum of $35, had not been mentioned in the list. Magistrate Wills promised to check into the matter.

'No Parking' Length of Street Will Be Asked

Belleville city traffic committee will be asked in the near future to consider the complete abolition of parking on Bridge Street from Dundas to Station streets.

This was indicated at a special meeting of the traffic committee held Tuesday when Belleville Police Inspector J. Clair Hayes said he would strongly recommend the move prior to putting the proposed one-way traffic scheme into effect.

He said the one-way traffic on Pinnacle Street would automatically put an increased traffic load on Church Street and he can see no parking regulation for both sides of the street would work.

Three Points About The Spaceship

There are three important points about the Russians' new "spaceship satellite."

The first, of course, is its weight, four and a half tons, and what this weight tells us about the power of Soviet rockets. If anybody doubted that the Russians possessed rockets which could toss a ballistic missile half-way round the world, that doubt should now have vanished.

The next important point is also related to the size, or weight, of the satellite. It would seem reasonable to accept the Russian assertion that this is a model of a spaceship, or at least of a satellite capable of carrying a man aloft. It follows that there is now no reason to doubt that the Russians can put a man in orbit around the earth, and bring him back alive. Confirmation that the Soviet scientists have yet solved the more difficult problem of re-entry, of devising some means by which a man, after having whirled around the earth, can get down alive to tell about it.

The third point which will strike the average observer is the timing of the launching of the so-called "spaceship," on the eve of the summit conference. It may be argued that the Russians had planned this feat for a long time, and that is almost certainly true. Still, their success in putting the heavy satellite into orbit on schedule speaks highly of the technological abilities of their scientists. We ought not to presume that this was just a lucky shot, but rather to conclude that they are well on the way to gaining that certainty in launching which will be imperative if man is ever to undertake the exploration of the "suburbs" of his world.

Who Pays the Piper?

"In one way or another those of us who are employed must contribute out of our resources to help share the cost of unemployment," James Coyne, governor of the Bank of Canada, addressing the Ontario Chamber of Commerce annual meeting at Hamilton.

There is only one thing wrong with that statement — the use of the word "must" might be interpreted as an exhortation to do something, (and indeed Mr. Coyne went on to advocate creating "conditions in which greater unemployment opportunities will be available".) It is a simple truth, however, that those of us who are employed are already contributing out of our resources to help share the cost of unemployment. We do not, of at least we ought not to, mind doing this, so long as our help is not being abused.

One, but by no means the only, way in which we are contributing towards the cost of unemployment is through the Unemployment Insurance Fund. It was stated in the House of Commons recently that fraudulent claims from this fund were by no means uncommon, but that it would be impossible to so police the fund as to catch every petty cheat. We can readily understand this—but cheating might be reduced considerably if we all realized who, in the final analysis, was being cheated, and reported such instances.

For those genuinely unemployed we have nothing but sympathy and would urge more, rather than less, help.

Fencing Out The Lights

Ever been bothered, when driving on a divided highway at night, about what to do about your headlights? Dimming the headlights when meeting a car approaching from the opposite direction becomes second nature to the alert driver, but the problem of how to keep a driver is apt to forget this little chore, and even to wonder whether it is necessary, since lights do not shine directly into the eyes of the approaching driver when the cars draw near each other.

British has now solved this puzzle in a novel way. Close-mesh metal fence has been placed along the centre of the highway and it has been found that it effectively cuts the dazzle of headlights. On straight stretches of road mesh as large as an inch and a half has been found effective. It sounds like a rather costly safeguard, but the fence need not be strong enough to act as scrash barrier it might be worth trying on some of the more heavily travelled portions of four-lane highways here.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

RELISH FOR THE HIGH THINGS

There is something very spiritual things which are as strange about the way appetite behaves itself in the scheme of life. Feed an appetite and it grows strong, if not stronger—then the appetites of some people build up for food and the grosser urges. Anyone who has ever reasoned with a confirmed dipsomaniac, or a St. Francis DeSales books on devotion realizes that there was a spiritual appetite as powerful as the physical. Yet spiritual things was as sharp as some men's appetites become for worldly things.

The secret of the matter is that we can develop an appetite for life's higher values if we regulate and the law of habit bind ourselves to them and let them have their way with us. This is the way appetites develop in all fields, good as well as bad. We can develop an appetite for the higher things of life as we develop an appetite for mental and if we will.

Learning Skills Is Risky

Gail Fraser Reporter

There are many differing views about educational methods and values. From the practical viewpoint, however, many will be in agreement with statements made this week by Ronald S. Bishop, employee relations manager of Imperial Oil. Speaking to the Trustees and Employees section of the Ontario Education Association, he said:

"The astounding pace of the growth of knowledge and of the change in technology today leads inevitably to a high rate of obsolescence, to machinery, equipment and plants. We can afford this because the gains are great, but we cannot afford, and what the educational system can help us avoid, is obsolete people."

The classroom who is left with only an obsolete skill and insufficient capacity for change, is condemned to a life of poverty and frustration.

"He who trains himself too exclusively in a particular set of skills runs the risk of finding himself, eventually, unemployable before he has mastered them," he said. "Any training which emphasizes particular skills in too narrow a context is likely to be able to meet neither the wide variety of demands from individual industries and firms, nor the continuous changes in these demands."

This was the reason, he explained, why firms provide their own training programs for their employees, whether they arrive with trade school skills, university degrees, or professional diplomas. A recent survey had shown that experienced, retrained U.S. companies on education and training for the 1960's and 1970's decades might well rival public expenditure on education.

Mr. Ritchie noted that one Canadian plant has a program for upgrading skills of its high-college group which is costing $50 per man per year. This price is close to the cost of a university education.

His suggested that schools should provide students with a good grounding in basic principles and analytical skills, and should prepare them for a continuation of education in quite broad fields throughout their working career. Employers, in such their own specializations, which will change with rapidly changing conditions.

Referring specifically to the world of work, he said: "What is much vocational training?" but "Is vocational training proper value?

"He who trains himself too exclusively in a particular set of skills runs the risk of finding himself unemployable before he has mastered them," he said. "Any training which emphasizes particular skills in too narrow a context

High Prices And 'Free TV' Rile Sydney

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Not long ago I returned for one night to a hotel in a small Ohio town I had not visited for thirty-five years. So far as I could tell, there were only two changes. The price for a room for the rate had tripled, and a television set now dominated one whole wall in the small cell.

There was the same cracked plaster on the ceiling, the same sickly window shades, the same lumpy mattress, apparently had been bought in a burst of affluence just before the returning army in that McKinley had won the Presidency.

The bathroom lacked a shower and a wash-cloth. The closet contained plenty of hangers — all of them tin. There still was not a single wooden hanger on which to hang a pair of trousers; and this, to my mind, is the most necessary and indispensable offense of cheap hotels.

By "cheap," I don't understand, I mean in its attitude, not in its rates. For this termite-ridden relic charges nearly as much for its dungeons as a first-rate hotel in Detroit or Detroit — and Cleveland charges for pleasant and modern accommodations.

What really irked me, though — and what brought on this unpleasant reflection — was the presence of the one-eyed monster in the lobby. In the days in the hotel now had one, as the advertising proudly boasted; the management of this relic was not content with the "added" free service of the gentle management, when, of course, the cost was simply passed on to the customer in the form of a higher nightly rate.

How much more honest and simple it would have been merely to have left the radio-cards the rooms in conformity with the hotel's shabbiness, and to patch the plaster, clean the shades, provide wooden hangers and generally improve the amenities of life.

But if you like, candidly charge a half-dollar or dollar a night for those who want to sit and stupefy themselves on fourth of a television set. No one could object to paying for a hotel is supposed to provide cleanliness and comfort, not amusement. Least of all, should it provide amusement in place of the first two.

If this were an isolated case, it would be trivial enough to merit its nay invitation in public. But it has become a prevalent pattern of business in many quarters: of ignoring or ignoring the basic functions by providing diversions that (in the end) cost the consumer even more.

I might quit such hotels only because I am the only person of my slight in them — my pants hung over a chair, my shoes wiped on a bath towel, my head buried deep in a pillow to avoid the glaring red neon sign of a used car lot that keeps flickering in through the cracks of the tattered shade and the pathetically thin strips of flimsy curtain that have fluttered thus for a night since Tippecanoe and Tyler, too.

Making Most Of Accent

Ottawa Journal

Dad an Englishman cannot open his mouth without making some other Englishman sorry for him. But now an Englishwoman need only open her mouth to make a fool of herself. Some of the English secretaries are the latest status symbol, the New York Times Magazine reports, and for those who have businessmen called "that Rolls-Royce accent."

The Times says men say they hire English girls because of a shortage of American secretaries or because their typing and shorthand are better or that the quality "the boss finds that an English accent and English demeanor add a certain sophistication to his professional stature them which nothing — neither well-to-well or expensive — can give over nor three-telephone desk is more effective."

One advertising executive has secretaries, one a girl from Brooklyn to take dictation and lady his desk, an English girl is client.

Another is a pretty girl who, arriving in the United States by hundreds to cash in on their appeal are amused by the ways they are treated. One was forced an English accent, any English accent, to get a job. Said one, "Many of you make fun of the way we speak, but secretly you admire our accent — whichever one it is — and that's why we're employed. The same sort of thing, one might say, that we feel for the American dollar."

When the Picicow-owned package freighter "Glen Allen" docks at Trenton this weekend it will mark the first time cargo under the ownership of Hepburn and Wilson, Prince Edward County merchants. Mr. W. R. McCreary of Belleville, cheese buyer and owner of a fleet of trucks announced today that he has purchased the steamer and will take personal delivery in Bar on May 18th. It is understood there will be no change in the operating personnel of the crew; the veteran skipper, Captain Bert Bowen will retain his command, and T. Wilson, chief engineer of Picton will also 'stay with the ship'.

A lagborn hen owned by Jim Wood of Mr. Thomas Monaghan, Northumberland county recently laid an egg measuring 7½ inches in girth. It weighed one-half pound.

In the list of awards obtained by high ranking students of Queen's University, prize winning Belleville students were Miss Marion Fisher, who won a University Scholarship of Seventy-five dollars; and L. M. Wise who won the $100 Susan Near Scholarship in Chemistry. Miss Elizabeth Hutton of Trenton, received the Prince of Wales' prize awarded to the graduating student in the Faculty of Arts who makes the highest standing, and also the Medal in Mathematics. The Isaac Cohen Scholarship award in Philosophy ($100) was divided between J. Hoffman of Russell and E. B. Baxter of Bloomfield.

Old Sayings Would Suffer

Milwaukee Journal

The move to get this country to start using the metric system is gaining momentum. After all, the major powers of the world except the United States and Britain are already using it. There's much to be said for uniformity and for a logical system itself.

But the National Geographic Society points out that there are more than measurements to consider. Language is one of these, according to the Washington Post, the Society says what the metric system would do to our songs and witty sayings. Here is how some of them would be affected by the change:

A mile is as good as 1,0093 kilometers, so wouldn't count that with a 3.049 metre pole. Texans wear 37.852 litre hats. Ninety-nine and 44/100 per cent. It's all wool and .9144 of a metre wide.

And other things would change, too. Imagine how a Hollywood starlet would react saying that her vital statistics were 92-61-92. She just wouldn't do it—and you couldn't make her budge 2.54 centimetres (an inch, to you.)

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

GENTLENESS

Look upon the great and you may look upon those with one of the outstanding traits among mankind—gentleness.

Some look upon gentleness as something for the weak, but the truth is buried behind gentleness and you look upon strength. Gentleness is the strength of Lincoln. So have the great of this earth. Some, however, boast over the fact.

There is a certain pride that goes with gentleness. They have this gentleness to a marked degree. I have noted one thing about gentle people and that is that they see so much good in the world around them. Unselfishness others, but praise them, and get from them the best they have. Gentleness liveth long — and is kind. She enters earth becomes the richer for every gentle person whom it shelters. How beautiful is the change in Springtime. There is something in the air that makes us want about every gentle person. The shutins among them, flavor the evening with gentleness. They keep giving from the abundance of themselves.

Uniform Pay For Teachers

Ottawa Citizen

A proposal by a provincial scale of salaries for teachers and inspectors, made the other day by Ontario's Minister of Education, and by the Ontario School Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association, according to Toronto, deserves sympathetic study. If there are any discrepancies between municipalities make it difficult to secure towns to hire well qualified teachers. A provincial pay scale would do away with weaknesses from the Ontario education system.

But it would be desirable that the level be brought up to that of the better-paid municipalities. That could not be done unless provincial grants were greatly expanded. Mr. Roberts, the Minister of Education, said the other day that the province will make an announcement soon on increasing grants. Any increase in salaries that would be satisfactory to all concerned will depend on a question whether the province is prepared to go further, and to increase school teachers' salaries.

The alternative to greater provincial help in education is a continuing crisis in the financial affairs of the municipalities. Almost all Ontario local governments had to raise taxes both this year and last. Even so, they are encountering trouble in meeting their expenses, and some are forced to cut back on services. The gamble taken by Ottawa in clearing only one side of the street of snow late in the winter is an example. Without more assistance from Queen's Park, the municipalities face great difficulties indeed in the years ahead.

To Allow More Prison Visits

Owen Sound Sun-Times

Most Canadians have never been in the prison for as much as an hour. To most, incarceration, and from that point of human contact, is the most severe punishment that can be imposed. In passing, it is always a matter for wonder why most people still enjoy a visit to a jail one day in jail because most people never think of more than be confined to prison for a few years or more.

It is welcome news that Justice Minister Pickup will soon make changes liberalizing the visiting regulations which apply to jails and penitentiaries. We understand, however, regulations only allow one visit per month by relatives and no other visits. This is a restriction which denies to most of the heaviest burdens born by prisoners—and it is often instrumental in breaking up homes. Now it is suggested that once-weekly visits may be allowed. (One compassionate business grounds additional visits are now allowed at the discretion of the warden.)

Visits are a small but prized privilege. Many prisoners will be virtually cut off from their wives, families and close friends,

The employment manager of a big corporation was telling me about a special kind of person who works in order to respect himself or to show off, and not for any hot ambition or greed or hope of self-advancement.

"They are worth their weight in gold," he said. "They work hard not to impress the employer but because they merely wish to have a decent opinion of themselves. They are the small and devoted not to earn praise but simply to enjoy a clear conscience. Many of them are religious, and are living up to principles of virtue instilled in them by their belief. But many of them are not religious at all, but have a wholly practical attitude towards their way of life. One of these, who has been with our company about a year, has actually C-lined advancement rather than waited for it. He is one of those useful employees, explained it to me this way when I was thanking him for the kind and satisfactory useful stretch of work he did for us.

"I prefer a garden," he said, "to a trash heap around my house. I work for chiefly my own standards, not my employers. In reply to my query as to right somedisappoint my boss than myself."

But he probably wouldn't be much fun on a fishing picnic.

Limit of Lake Trout Left At Five for Year Club Told

Achievement Day For S. Hastings Much Enjoyed

Last Saturday, a successful Achievement Day was held for S. Hastings for the spring and summer project "The Club Girl Stands on Guard". This project is particularly timely when farm people are becoming more and more safety conscious. 121 girls successfully completed the project and received sterling silver spoons, with the Provincial crest. Each girl received equal recognition when requirements had been met satisfactorily. Forty-four girls received certificates of Achievement, 10 girls received County Honor certificates and pins. Anne Emerson and Elaine Tufts from Bethel-Zion; Shirley Stephens and Sharon Lewis from Foxboro; Joan Milligan and Barbara Weese from Melrose; Marion Craighead from Rosslin; Barbara Watson and Joy Wright from Ryistone; and Marjorie Wannamaker from the No. 1 Wallbridge Club.

Helen Burkitt of the Uniondale Club received her Provincial Honor Certificate and pin for satisfactory completion of 12 projects.

Mrs. Clifford Reid, district president for East Hastings, offered encouragement to the girls and presented the county and provincial bouquets.

The girls spent the morning judging a class of menus for a farm family, giving reasons for their placing. Identifying 10 hazards and telling how they could have been prevented, and answering a highway safety quiz.

PROGRAM PRESENTED

An interesting program of clinic an exhibit or demonstration was presented by each club in the afternoon. Miss Joyce Pendergast, home economist for Leeds and Frontenac County commented on the club exhibits and Miss June Lillycrop, home economist for Victoria, Peterborough and Durham Counties commented on the demonstrations and skits.

Exhibits presented: Carmel — Six Books We Have Read — comment by Patsy Dafoe; Foxboro — A Hobby I Enjoy — comment by Nancy Reynolds; Quinte — Our National Pantry Shelf — Mrs. Lela Clarke; Roslin — Six Books We Have Read — Linda Ketchenson; Rylstone — It's Great to Be a Canadian — Gayle Hinds and Wallbridge II — One Way to Good Health — Carolyn Shorey.

Demonstrations and skits: Bethel-Zion — a skit "Safety in the Home" with 10 club members taking part, Melrose— "First Aid in the Home" demonstrated by Barbara Weese, Sharon Bush, Judy Cook; River Valley — a skit — "Spending Our Time Off" — with 6 members taking part. Uniondale — "Posture Plays Its Part" — demonstrated by Barbara Mattery and Marilyn Phillips. Wallbridge — "First Aid in the Home" — demonstrated by Kelly. Wendy Brown, Donna Clapp and Nancy Phillips.

The S. Hastings Achievement Day for the same project will be held May 21st at St. Johns Unit-

The reduction of the daily limit of lake trout from five to three, announced by the Department of Lands and Forests this year, has been deferred a year.

The new limit will not go into effect until 1961, Belleville Fish and Game Association members were told last night.

Hugh Dornan, fish and wildlife official of the Tweed district of the department made the announcement. He quoted an official letter from department headquarters in Toronto.

Use of licenses for non-resident fishermen, which were curtailed last year was the main reason for the deference.

The licenses stated that a non-resident could export five lake trout daily, two from Lake Simcoe.

It was felt this was not fair to Ontario residents who came under the three-a-day limit. The former limit of five-a-day will therefore be in existence until next year.

Game and Fish members who passed a motion at a former meeting to query Dr. W. J. K. Harkness Chief of Wildlife and Fish of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, regarding the reduction of the lake trout limit, heard the official's reply at last night's meeting.

President Bruce Kerr read the letter which said in part: "everything possible must be done to conserve the lake trout. It is very vulnerable to fishing particular during the winter months. It matures slowly and has a short life span. Because of these reasons and heavy fishing pressure the limit was reduced."

Dr. Harkness said that although it is possible to supplement the lake trout stocks with hatchery fish, the great decline of the lake trout fishery in the Great Lakes, which was a source of spawn supply was eliminated. "This" he said, "is another very important reason for curtailing the daily limit."

FILMS SHOWN

Dr. Harkness' letter pointed out that adjacent states have made moves toward reduction of creel limit of lake trout for conservation purposes, "in New York the limit is three per day; in Michigan two per day. Minnesota will follow Ontario's action next year.

During last night's meeting four films on fishing and conservation were shown and greatly enjoyed by four door prizes were dispensed with Jack Craddick winning the "special", a brand new five dollar bill. The fish box was won by George Brooks of Belleville.

Members were reminded of the fishing and hunting contests. They number thirteen all told with ten for the largest fish. The other three are for the largest deer, bear and wolf. Winners will be announced at the January, 1961 meeting.

A fisherman's only has to submit the length, girth and weight of his prize, which must be verified by a witness. That is if all there is to it. Information should be forwarded to Bruce Bishop of Bishop's Seeds.

Over 200 attended last night's meeting.

Royal Canadian Air Cadets Retain Drill Competition Cup

A large number of spectators saw the precision drill squad of Quinte 608, Royal Canadian Air Cadets, retain the Tri-Service Drill Competition Trophy for the second year in a row at the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment's Armouries on Friday evening. The annual competition, which has been held for three years, has won each year by the Air Cadets from the Quinte Secondary School.

The competition, held this year between the Air Cadets and the Royal Canadian Army Cadet Corps from the Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School, was very close with a very fine display of precision drill work being put on by each squad. Captain Stan Down, senior judge of the event, stated that the judges' marking was extremely close for this work and the final tie-breaker was the proficiency basic drill movements shown by each squad. The final scoring was 83.5 points for the Army Cadets and 89 points for the Air Cadets.

Captain Down complimented both squads for a fine effort and said that he looks forward to a continued high level of competition in the future. He also expressed the hope that next year would see all three services represented. This is the first year that the Army Cadets have competed. In the two previous years the competition has been held between the Sea Cadets and the Air Cadets. This year the former were unable to appear due to the close proximity of their annual inspection.

The event was held with RSM WO1 L. V. A. Simpson of the Hastings acting as Parade Marshal. The Air Cadet squad was commanded by WO1 Dwight Chard and the Army Cadet squad by WO2 Tony Wright. Assisting

Queen's Expands Facilities to Meet Needs

Queen's University during the past three years has invested nearly $9,500,000 in education-al buildings and equipment, and its plans for the next five years include other building projects totalling $9,000,000.

The current building program at the University includes a new building to be completed by September, proposed additions to the chemistry and mechanical engineering buildings and to the dining room and kitchen of the women's residences, and a number of smaller projects of renovation and remodelling.

These were some of the highlights of a progress report given by Dr. W. A. Mackintosh, Queen's University principal.

Enumerating the resources which the university has had at its disposal for financing its $9,500,000 program, Dr. Mackintosh said these included contributions to the National Fund of the University, Canada Council building grants, Province of Ontario capital grants, bequests and the annual givings of its graduates.

In 1957 Queen's University appealed to business corporations, the interested public and its graduates for contributions of $4,000,000 to the National Fund for Queen's University. At the conclusion of the campaign, the chairman, N. R. Crump, of Montreal, reported that total subscriptions amounted to $4,064,000.

It is hoped that contracts will be let shortly for a large addition to the Chemistry building; for an addition to McLaughlin Hall for mechanical engineering, and for an addition to the dining room and kitchen of the women's residences.

"In our plans for the next five years, we have other building projects totalling $9,000,000," said the principal.

Driver Charged After Collision Of Three Cars

Property damage amounting to an estimated $375 resulted to three vehicles early today in a rear-end collision at the corner of Pinnacle and Bridge Streets.

Police said that two cars had stopped for the stop light, when a third car driven by Robert Lorne Cox, 19, of Middleton Park failed to stop in time and crashed into the rear of the second vehicle which in turn was forced against the car ahead. The other cars were driven by Thomas Brawley, 6 Sixth Street, Belleville and Lorraine Mabel Scott, 624 Sidney Street, Belleville.

Police said Mr. Cox had been charged with leaving the scene of an accident. He was apprehended following the accident and has been released on bail.

Capt. Down in the judging was Lt. Robert Laughlen, also of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. The event was co-ordinated and convened by Lt. William Scrymgeour of The Regiment.

Contact Club Holds Busy Work Meeting

Monday evening, the Contact Club of Christ Church met in the parish hall, Everett Street, for a successful work meeting. The members were busy knitting and sewing articles for the mission parcel for the Arctic.

While working, a short business session was carried on. It was decided that the Contact Club join the Evening Branch of the W.A. for a closing pot-luck supper.

Mary Fletcher gave her report from the vestry council meeting and Joan Ford was appointed representative for the annual picnic. A new member, Lynn Loden, was introduced.

The meeting closed with serving of refreshments by hostesses, Joan Ford, June Fisher and Mary Hompen.

Neighbours' Aid Hears Report Of April Meet

The hostess for the May meeting of the Avondale Neighbours' Aid was Mrs. C. Sager, Avondale Road.

A splendid number of ladies was present and Mrs. M. McLean, the president, welcomed all.

The devotional period was in charge of Mrs. A. Daniels, assisted by Mrs. H. Denike. The theme centred around 1 Thessalonians 5:18, "In everything give thanks"; and the thought for the day: "Hem your blessings with praise, lest they unravel."

The business was conducted and various reports were given. Mrs. Frederick gave a splendid report on the April meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Hastings County Home. Mrs. H. Denike and Mrs. H. Wright were appointed to be the representatives for the next meeting of the Auxiliary at the Home.

The president asked for volunteers to go to the Home on May 17th and assist in repairing the library books.

The program committee, Mrs. A. Daniels and Mrs. Ken Yorke, conducted the game of "Quiz" which created much amusement and many prizes were won.

There was also a draw on a basket of groceries which was won by Mrs. T. Anger.

A delicious lunch was served by the committee in charge, Mrs. Bush and Mrs. L. Reid.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended to the hostess.

Dress-Up Dress

BY GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Bird's-eye piqué in white or yellow makes a little dress-up dress that is essentially simple. It would serve well as a graduation dress or it might be the choice of a young bride who wants a simple country wedding without any headaches. It has a concealed zipper down the back, the line set off by spaghetti bows. A built-in lining retains the shape.

8,000 Give To 'Retarded' Tag Day

The work of the Belleville Association for Retarded Children was greatly helped last weekend by the $1,000 received from their 'tag day'. This money is needed to carry on the year's work among the mentally handicapped children of Belleville and district.

The Association wishes to thank all those who donated and a special thanks to the 145 efficient taggers without whose help the day could not be successful. The association is also indebted to the following members of the Lions Club who underwrote the cost of the tags: Mr. Fred, Mr. Yorke and Mr. Burke, along with the generous contribution of the Ontario Intelligencer.

A thank-you also goes to the senior pupils of both St. Joseph's and Queen Victoria schools for their help in stringing the tags. To Harriet Stevens of CJBQ; to the Bank of Montreal for the tag day headquarters; to Mr. Massey of the city hall for assistance with the money collected, and to Mr. Watson for time spent on transportation.

It also wishes it to be known that every cent donated to this cause goes directly into the advancement of the work with the mentally retarded, none being paid to officials or voluntary workers in any shape or form.

FARM GIRLS

QUEBEC (CP) — Nine agricultural schools for girls will be operated for four months this summer in rural areas of Quebec, it was announced by the provincial agriculture department. Courses include home economics, farm management, religion and mathematics.

'Life for Gueve' Film Shown At WMS Meet

Mrs. J. Morris Smith presided at the meeting of Tabernacle United Church Evening Auxiliary of the Woman's Missionary Society and conducted a worship service based on thankfulness to refugees and cited how the W.M.S. is working co-operatively with other organizations to give relief to many persons in refugee camps in Korea, Hong Kong, the Middle East, Lebanon and Europe.

Mrs. John Babiak was responsible for the showing of a sound film "A Life For Gueve". After graduating from the Mean's School in Angola, Gueve was shunned by her village acquaintances, who had the impression that because she was educated, she thought herself above them. She wanted to enter a vocational field but her parents and family decided she should follow the tribal customs — get married and raise a family.

Because she was educated she could be exchanged for a bicycle barter — maybe two goats in-stead of the usual one. And as she was married to a "nice young man in a bank" but not a Christian. She met many problems when family worries to contend with before accepting Christian education she was able to face these difficult situations and also was able to meet the challenge of her village life and her contribution to help her friends and neighbors will long be remembered.

Gueve is only one girl in Africa one of the graduates of Mean School. There are many girls and young women in various vocations in Africa — radio workers, engineering assistants, architecture, economics, law and medicine. Where the Bolo system is abolished, Christianity helps the people take on a new life. Yes, in Africa today, if she has courage and faith, a woman with education has three choices. But she still has only one life. How will you spend it? — she is no different from her Canadian sister when she has discovered God's Will for her.

Plans were made for the 'Family Party' and the 'Mother and Son Party. Mrs. Ruth Pettifor supplied and served the delectable refreshments.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

The beautiful splashes of color of the boxes of pansies for planting was almost startling outside a store the other morning. It was a warm morning, too, which made it all the better. So good again to see the flower boxes, the shrubs and all of things, watermelon. That sight really catapulted us into summer, but how welcome it was.

We are headed for a holiday weekend, the first one of summer — let's hope the weather is good.

This type of weekend often creates difficulties for people in the produce business. It used to be that the managers of dairies had headaches because they could not estimate how many people would be out of town and not taking their regular supply of milk. Now, however, surplus milk plants in large areas are ready to take any surplus milk and manufacture it into cottage cheese, yoghurt, condensed milk, whey powder for cattle and chicken feed, and casein, which is used in making buttons, glue and paint.

The demand for yoghurt has increased enormously recently partly due to the influence of immigrants, particularly those of Greek and Hungarian origin. Yoghurt has the same food value as the milk from which it is made, which is often partially skimmed, and still a good source of many of the nutrients in milk, especially calcium, riboflavin and protein. In manufacturing yoghurt, a culture is used which develops flavor and changes the consistency. The protein in it is in the form of fine curd, which may permit more rapid digestion than is the case with plain milk. Yoghurt can be made from skim, whole or evaporated milk or a mixture of these.

In many stores you will find yoghurt fruit cup which has a delightfully refreshing flavor. Fruit yoghurt blends well with strawberries and also make an excellent dessert just as it is. We hear a Toronto woman say recently that she has prune yoghurt and coffee for breakfast.

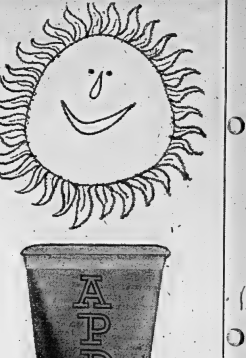
On a short drive in the country the other day, we passed many schools and noted the changes in style and atmosphere from the past. One may see a new modern school built beside the old-fashioned one no longer in use. Or a new one may stand in its own new spacious grounds. The greatest contrast comes when a modern wing is built on an old school.

We read an interesting comparison in the UNESCO Courier on the subject of schools. In 1775, the Polish National Education Committee was founded in the Poles regard it as the World's first Ministry of General Education — and laid down certain standards for construction of school buildings: "Classrooms should be spacious, well lighted and equipped with a chimney and good stove; they should have a pleasant appearance, the walls being decorated with pictures, plans of cities, etc.; they should always be kept clean so that children think of them not as a prison, but as an agreeable second home".

Compare these words with the stipulations given in the report on school buildings which UNESCO received a few years ago from the International Union of Architects: "The majority of current ideas in education should be allowed to carry their full weight in the determination of architectural practices — teaching should be adapted to the mentality of the child and therefore architecture, adapted to the measure of a child who is simultaneously developing his body, his intelligence and his personality, should be pleasant and varied. School should be an extension of the home. Education should respect the creative ideas of the child and architecture in turn should be simple and real, eschewing all artifice".



Many countries today are facing the problem of school construction: everywhere the schoolage population is increasing enormously, and nearly everywhere there are too few schools to meet present needs. Poland is aiming at one thousand new schools for the 1,000th anniversary of the Polish State.

In another part of the world, Latin America has reached a population of 200 million. They must adapt to new ways of life and at least half a million new teachers are needed for the 14 or 15 million children who today cannot be educated because of lack of schools.

Our school problems look small by comparison!

On Thursday evening the C.G.I.T. group of Centre Street United Church, under the leadership of Mrs. W. Jones, entertained their mothers and members of the board to a nice luncheon.

After all were seated the girls had a fine program, outlined as follows:

Opening ceremony, CGIT purpose, hymn, prayer, Bible reading, Luke 2: 41-52 by Linda Stapley; Lord's Prayer repeated in unison. The girls sang "Softly and Tenderly."

A sketch, "O God I Need Thee," by Shirley Huddins, Lenise Hawley and Linda Stapley.

Perfect attendance, Margaret Boyle and Verna Lucas.

"Why a C.G.I.T," by Mrs. W. Jones, who outlined their work and asked the guests to look over some of the work the girls had done which was on display. She also explained some of her background as when a CGIT girl she attended camp several times and that this had helped her to become a leader. The group motto is "Love One Another," Jesus said, John 13: 34. All joined in singing "For the Beauty of the Earth."

Benediction was given by Betty Pearson and the Rev. W. E. G. Dovey asked the blessing and everyone enjoyed the dainty lunch.

TAKES OWN LIFE

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A 35-year-old woman convict died on Tuesday, police said, a few hours after she ate a deadly mask made from crushed rosary beads and a powder form of rat poison. Mrs. Judy Majestic, mother of two children serving time on charges of passing worthless cheques, left a note saying she "killed herself because she could no longer stand the shame of being a convict.

Woman Hopes to Be First To Glide Over Mt. Everest

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — A 43-year-old woman is hoping to become the first person to glide over Mt. Everest, the world's highest peak.

"So can less ever attempted it in a glider before," Mrs. Anne Burns said in an interview. "Experts glide in the Swedish, but never over the 29,002-foot peak."

It will be a dangerous mission. There are plenty of upsets of gliders in the Himalayas, and winds hit the sides of the mountains and then go down. Sheer deflect upwards to great heights.

HAS HAD NEAR MISSES

"Under normal conditions," said Monty Fitzsmythe, who will be a member of Mrs. Burns' expedition, "a glider will climb faster than an airplane.

"If the pilot can't get back, she'll have to bail out and that would be a dangerous business on Everest. It would be the end of the glider and maybe the pilot."

Assisting Mrs. Burns will be her husband, Derrick, Dr. Reginald James and Fitzroche, all gliding enthusiasts.

Mrs. Burns, a scientific officer with the Royal Aircraft Establishment, holds many of Britain's women's gliding records.

More London High Spots

by Mary Moore

Please do not begrudge me the fun I am having, for, by the time you read this, I shall be back home with head bowed over the typewriter, a pile of mail shoulder high to answer, a garden which will need every kind of attention — but happy.

I will try and give you a thumbnail sketch of each of the four events of this week.

Marianne and I called at Brown and Polson's world famous manufacturers of cornstarch and custard powder, for their Home Economics Director, Marion Howells, having visited us when she was in Canada at the Home Economics Congress in 1958. In their ultra-modern test kitchen Althea, Marion's assistant, was making a test sample of a blanc mange dessert in a fancy antique copper tin-lined mould, I am combing the antique shops around Camberley for one like it to bring home.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY

Spaghetti Casserole with Tomato Sauce and Ground Beef Topping; Asparagus with Hollandaise (see Tuesday); Shredded Cabbage and Carrot Salad; Strawberry Shortcake; Coffee.

After our tour Marion took us to lunch at Rules Restaurant at 35 Maiden Lane. It was founded in 1798 and has definite theatrical atmosphere with pictures of actors in costume of roles for which they were famous in the last century. The waiters were in formal dress and obsequious to the nth degree. I was hard pressed when ordering for I wanted to taste everything. For their first course Marion and Marianne had honey melon sprinkled with powdered ginger. I had halved avocado with French dressing. For our main courses we had (Marion) Grilled Surrey Chicken, (Marianne) Grilled Scotch Salmon, (me) Scampi Florentine (huge shrimp with spinach and creamy mashed potatoes). Desserts were Peche Melba and English Trifle. Surrounding us were dozens of English businessmen, armed with bowlers, brief cases and umbrellas. All was so English and I loved it.

Simpson's Restaurant on the Strand, highly recommended by my brother, offered a different British atmosphere for dinner. But before describing that I must tell you that when Marianne and I were trudging down Shaftesbury Ave. after picking up our theatre tickets we spied Herbie Hall just about to cross street. We were to have met him an hour later at Swan and Edgar's, but here we were, in the middle of a city of eight million souls, and met the one person we knew and loved.

Simpson's is famous for its saddles of lamb, and baba of roast beef, which are rolled to your table on trolleys bearing immense heated silver platters. The joint is carved before your very eyes and served on own hot plates by waiters who seem to do the manner here. The place was filled with roast beef and Yorkshire pudding diners, but when 7:45 p.m. arrived almost the crowd began to thin, for it was theatre time. We were bound for The Amorous Prawn, three acts worth of continual laughs.

Later on the same week, Marianne and I went up to London again to visit West Hampstead Mission in the dock area. Reverend Stanley Turl, Superintendent Minister of this Baptist centre of practical Christianity, visited Canada in March of this year and invited us then to call at the Mission when I came over. Apart from their Memorial Church which seats fifteen hundred, they are responsible for: 1) "Greenwoods," a country Centre at Stock, Essex, where they receive its guests people in all kinds of need; 2) "Marnham House Settlement" Plaistow, where they give Christian hospitality to people from all over the world; 3) "Orchard House" in Stock, Essex, for boys in need of care and protection; and 4) "Rest-A-While," Plaistow, their home for Old Ladies where they cherish residents in their declining years. They need a lot of house keeping money for all these projects. If you care to, you can send your contribution to Rev. S. Turl, 400, Barking Road, Plaistow, England E13.

In the afternoon of the same day we walked through the tunnel under the Thames to Woolwich and were met by Madeline Bird Lacy Buff's dear English friend, and given lunch in her charming home, Gravelles Cottage, in Chislehurst, Kent.

Madeline served us thick homemade clotted cream, and cold plate of sliced Melton Mowbray pie jellied tongue, salami; tossed green salad of Bibb lettuce and homegrown peppercress; rhubarb with homemade clotted cream, and fine small homemade jelly roll, goat's milk cheese and smoked Austrian Cheddar; "black and white" coffee in Crown Derby demi tasses.

Do you suppose I can ever come down to ordinary Canadian earth?

Club Activities

SUNBEAM MISSION BAND

FRANKFORD — The Sunbeam Mission Band of Frankford United Church met on Tuesday afternoon on Rose Lowery Hall. The meeting opened by the beating of drums to "Come to the Friendship Circle". They sang, "The Lord Loves Many Children", after which Raelene Rowe, Debbie Hamilton and Linda Dafoe took charge of the business of the meeting. The secretarial report was given and roll call showed 21 present. One new member was welcomed.

Mrs. Preston Chase discussed the business. The Mission Band will assist with the program of the May meeting of the Evening Auxiliary and for a closing meeting in June, the Mission Band will have a guest speaker to show slides taken in Africa, followed by refreshments.

Offering was received by Susan Chase. Mrs. Chase gave the closing chapter of the study book "Bolili and Old Hippo".

Mrs. H. Gilmour conducted a short worship service with a call to worship followed by singing, "Jesus Loves the Little Children".

Scripture was read by Mrs. H. Gilmour.

A game was enjoyed.

Health Hints

(by Department of National Health and Welfare, Ottawa)

Working with lead or lead compounds may result in lead poisoning. Workers with this metal should watch for symptoms such as loss of appetite and weight, stomach cramps and frequent headaches. Dizziness with pallor may also be noticed, with pains in the joints and poor sleep. Such symptoms should be reported to the plant doctor or the patient's own physician.

Until food waste and containers can be burned at the cottage, such garbage should be kept in well covered metal containers and treated with disinfectant. This will repel vermin such as rats and skunks.

TIMES CHANGE

BONN (Reuters) — The once-flourishing industry of sending rafts of timber down the Rhine has almost died out and only one firm, A. Mann, continues the old tradition. Declining use of wood for building and development of modern transport has resulted in disappearance of the old custom which saw raft wive parties, with music and dancing, travelling on the big rafts of timber.

Women's Activities

PLAINFIELD W. M. S.

The monthly meeting of Plainfield W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Clarence Hall on May 10th. Mrs. Grant Kerr, president, opened the meeting with a short poem and prayer. An inspiring and helpful devotional was given by Mrs. Blanche Emerson, assisted by Mrs. Willis Sills and Mrs. Clarence Hall. She chose the three great hymns, "Rock of Ages," "Jesus Lover of My Soul" and "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross." She said in part, "Let us think of these three hymns of worship in their authorship and the soul message they carry to those called of Christ."

A reading on Christian Stewardship was given by Mrs. Vic Elliott, which was interesting and helpful. "Do you know anything about this new organization for women? We are in some of growth, expansion and change in our church. Many a worthy woman feel herself a vital part of the new organization with a personal responsibility." Mrs. Fred Sills took charge of the study book "Africa Disturbed." She explained the chapter in an interesting manner and told of the old tribal values dying out even at the roots. A thoughtful African has said, "One of today's great disturbing factors in African life is the up-heaval of people. Hundreds of thousands moving from reserves, farms, villages to the locations, the townships, the compounds, the cities. People do not know where they are. They do not know what direction to follow" quid a pastor in the growing Congo city of Tuskaloura. "It is urgent that the church, industry, education, every form of the West's contact with Africa, meet Africa with thoughtful affections and with understanding and constructive help.

"This responsibility belongs to every person, who goes from our land to Africa. May the church, which has gone to Africa, with as great a vision as a beacon of so great a power, must keep the vision clear lifting it constantly with the tide as Africa lifts. For there is no task surpassing in the hearts of men, the lifting power of Christian love. So far, that power has been the greatest force for progress in African life and its force is never spent: it grows as it is used.

Mrs. Kerr thanked Mrs. Hall for use of her home.

Attendance showed 20 adults and nine children. Collection, $10.20.

Meeting was closed by Mrs Kerr.

Mrs. Sills and her helpers served lunch and a social half hour was spent.

Council of Christian Education Holds Convention in Roslin

The Thurlow Tyendinaga Council of Christian Education held its annual convention in Roslin United Church on May 31, with afternoon and evening sessions.

The theme for the day was, "We Shall Be My Witnesses", and this thought was stressed in the devotional periods of both sessions as well as the addresses and film.

Melrose Sunday School provided the worship service in the afternoon. The meditation was based Act. 1:1-14.

Mrs. Stafford Colden welcomed the guests on behalf of the Roslin Sunday School, and Mr. Harvey Putman, president of the Township Council of Christian Education, conducted the business session and appointed a courtesy committee.

All of the Sunday Schools had been asked to give a brief report of their schools and any projects which had been carried on. These proved most interesting and the sharing of ideas will surely be a help to all present. Every S. S. but one, was represented and this was great encouragement to the new executive.

AFTERNOON ADDRESS

The Rev. H. Stobbart, Ivanhoe, Christian who lets his light shine because this is how others are drawn to the Master".

A trio of ladies from Holloway S.S., Mrs. Donaldson, Mrs. Roth and Mrs. Townsend contributed a musical number.

Three departmental discussion groups considered the subject, "How does the teacher witness?" Mr. Leafloor, Shannonville, led adult discussion, Mrs. Bruce Martin the teen-agers and Mrs. J. A. Murray, the children's discussion. The "findings" proved the value of the teacher is witnessing by her daily life, and example, as well as by her teaching.

Mrs. J. A. Murray, Children's Work secretary of the O.C.C.E. presented the literature available for purchase and told the story of "Twenty-four Hours", depicting how a girl, who was dissatisfied with her every day life, decided to take Jesus with her every where she went for 24 hours, and how He changed her life.

The Roslin ladies served a bountiful meal to about 50 guests.

EVENING SESSION

Mrs. Harry Harrison led in an excellent song service to open the evening session.

Roslin Sunday School conducted the worship session and the Junior Choir sang a hymn which was much enjoyed. Mrs. S. Odden and Mrs. Don Chisholm used for their meditation the theme "Working Together With God" which was also the title of the film which followed the worship period.

In his evening address, Mr. Clobbert said "The simple facts of Scripture are too often misquoted but if the church uses the power which is available all churches would be filled to capacity by those seeking to learn more about Jesus. A living faith inspires faith, hope and courage and such a witness is possible and is needed today more than ever before".

Carmel Sunday School provided a musical number while the evening offering was received.

Announcements of a "Retreat" in August and the fall rally were made. The Rev. Oscar Wagar announced the building at Quinte Mo-Le of more accommodation for summer camp groups.

The courtesy report was presented and Mr. Putman expressed appreciation to the capacity audience for their support, cooperation and help in making this convention one of the best ever.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by reasonable agencies and counsellors.

Dennis B. — Carol's pushing will break our son.

Carol B. — I'm determined to prove the boy is worth something.

Dennis B. — My wife and I are having a very serious dispute involving our oldest boy, 14-year-old Gary.

The problem is that Gary is a slow student in school. His IQ is considered normal but is the low average group. He can never be a world-beater or anything like that.

Carol sits with the boy by the hour, helping him with his homework. She is determined to keep him up with his class. She thinks she can even get him to go to college. He wants to be a chemist, like me, but there is absolutely no hope. We should try to find a suitable trade and get him into it as soon as possible. Carol's pushing will break the boy.

Carol B. — Dennis has always put Gary down. According to him, Gary isn't fit to be anything but a dishwasher all his life and it is ridiculous to expect anything of him.

I think Gary can become a chemist if he wants to. From my observations of Dennis, I don't think you have to be a genius for that.

Gary's teachers tell me they are surprised at what he can do sometimes when he is interested. What is the harm of trying to help him accomplish something he really wants? He knows it's going to be tough, but he's willing to work. Dennis says he wants to save us both from an awful let-down, but I'm determined to prove to him his son is worth something.

The Council: Gary's desire to follow his father's profession is a healthy sign and shouldn't be discouraged at this stage. It indicates love and admiration for his father.

Dennis is foolish to display his lack of confidence in his son. Children get their concepts of themselves and what they ought to be from their parents. It is remarkable that Gary hasn't already lost his ambition and initiative, having been so long opposed to his father's negative attitude.

Certainly, we are not in favor of attempting to push children beyond their abilities, but the fact is that most children and adults use only a small part of their potential powers. The child who is willing to work to achieve something should get help and encouragement from the adults around him. Whether or not Gary can make college or become a chemist he is undoubtedly "worth" a great deal.

Dennis should be aware that emotional factors play a big role in IQ ratings. Many children who have been rated low at one time prove themselves to be high-achievers at other periods when their emotional conflicts are lessened. It is also important to know that the validity of the IQ rating is now being seriously questioned by educators.

On the other hand, the boy shouldn't be dependent upon his mother for help with his home work. An occasional lift over a hurdle, a bit of encouragement when the going is rough is legitimate, but the child who is accustomed to constant adult aid will never learn to go along on his own steam.

If Dennis would take a less negative attitude toward his son's future, we think Carol would be less inclined to overwork the encouragement.

Quintebelles Appoint 1960-1 Officers

The Quintebelles Chapter of Sweet Adelines Inc., recently elected and installed the 1960-61 slate of officers as follows: president, Mrs. Edith Anderson, past president, Miss Muriel Johnson; vice-president, Mrs. R. Park; recording and corresponding secretar:, Miss Doris Lloyd; treasurer, Mrs. D. Kaye; historian, Mrs. E. Drennan; parliamentarian, Mrs. K. Chambers; senior councillor, Miss Muriel Johson; junior councillor, Miss Mora Wolfe.

The Chapter had a busy month in April. They sang for the BCIVS Home and School Association and also put on an evening's entertainment for the Burr's, Bowerman's and Crofton Fifty-Fifty Club.

Preparing for the 9th annual "Harmony Night" on May 7th, took up quite a few practices. The girls have enjoyed it all immensely and offer a special invitation to all ladies who like to sing to come out and join them any Tuesday at 8.15 p.m. at the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' hall, upstairs.

Girls Should Learn How To Cook, But Not From Cans

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Most housewives have too many cookbooks, says Stephen Vojlech, master chef at a large Toronto hotel.

The relaxed chef says women must learn to improvise, particularly with leftovers. His wife does all the cooking at their home. "Cooking at home is a family affair, and women are better than men at the job," he said in an interview.

"Women should pay more attention to cooking. To be in a home—that is their life. Women should teach their daughters how to cook, not out of cans but fresh foods."

CANADIAN DISH

The chef, a native of Czechoslovakia, likes to develop Canadian recipes. He regards potato pancakes and maple syrup as a typical Canadian dish, but he says that among Canadian dishes he has created his particular favorite is roast venison Canadien.

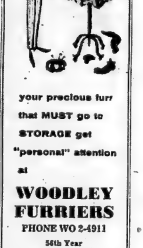
His recipe for this is based on 15 pounds of meat, and if smaller quantities are wanted it's up to the individual cook.

A selection of leg and saddles of venison first is cleaned of all tendons, larded and set to marinate for two or three days.

Ingredients for the marinade: ½ pound minced carrots; ½ pound minced onions; 3 ounces shallots; 2 cloves crushed garlic; one bouquet containing six sticks of parsley, 2 sprigs rosemary, 2 sprigs thyme and 2 bay leaves; 2 qts. dry white wine; 4 tbsps. vinegar; 2 qts. water and 4 tbsps. olive oil; 1 tbsp. peppercorns and 1 tbsp. brown sugar.

Heat the oil in a saucepan, add carrots and onions and fry them. Stir frequently. When they begin to brown add the shallots, garlic, bouquet, then the vinegar, white wine and water. Cook the marinade for 25 minutes. Add salt to taste, 1 tbsp. peppercorns and 1 tbsp. brown sugar and let cook another 10 minutes.

Cool, then pour the marinade over the venison. Keep in cool place and turn the venison twice a day, covering each time with the vegetables.



Remove the venison from the marinade and roast in a narrow baking pan in a 450-degree oven with the meat on the vegetables from the marinade. As soon as the venison is cooked, return the marinade to the pan. Stir well and reduce almost entirely. Clear the grease, then add 3-3 cup cream and one powdered juniper berry. Reduce heat by 1-3 and put through a fine reamer. Season to taste and serve this sauce with the venison.

TIPS FOR THE HOSTESS

"One who receives, or entertains another" is the definition given in Webster's dictionary for the word "hostess." Sounds pretty simple, doesn't it? Then why is it that really good hostesses are so rarely found?

We all give parties — some of them big, some of them small, some formal, some informal. Regardless of the type of party, too often there is a lack of real enjoyment on the part of both the hostess and the guests. Since the success or failure of entertaining rests so much on the shoulders of the hostess, suppose we examine a few of the attributes that make a good one.

Basically, I think, the hostess first must want to give the party. No entertainment can be a success if it is given under pressure of duty. "Oh dear, I've simply got to have the Dows to dinner, and it's such a bother." This attitude is bound to be felt by the guests. Aside from wishing to give the party, the hostess must arrange it so that she will have a good time too. If she is at ease, and enjoying herself, her guests will react in kind. Like measles, attitudes are catching.

Here are a few hints to hostesses to help them attain the poise and ease of manner indispensable to party-giving. Never attempt to entertain beyond your means, or in a way with which you are unfamiliar. Catastrophe can be the only result if, for example, one attempts to give a formal dinner without the necessary equipment and knowledge of the forms to be followed for such an occasion.

Any hostess who is governed by the overwhelming fear that this or that might be wrong, can never hope to attain the distinction of being natural and charming. Remember, too, that is isn't necessary to entertain in a large and expensive manner to be looked upon as a good hostess. I think we are all agreed that some of the nicest parties we have attended have been small, simple affairs where, led by a hostess who was thoroughly at ease because she knew what she was doing, you couldn't help but have a good time!

When planning a party, care should be taken in compiling the guest list. Ask congenial people whom you know will get along well together. Don't ask more guests than can comfortably fit into the place where the party is to be held. No one really enjoys parties where the crowd is so thick that one has to yell to be heard. If you are afraid of hurting someone's feelings by leaving them out, break up the list and have two parties.

The good hostess always keeps her head. If things go wrong all the last minute, such as the maid departing, or the chicken being burned to a crisp, she calmly controls the situation, and doesn't greet her arriving guests with a tale of woe. Above all, she never makes apologies for the food, the service, or anything else. Aside from being poor taste, to apologize is a dead giveaway that one is not sure of oneself!

To sum it all up, the good hostess is a tactful, natural person, who is completely at ease at all times. It would seem that this gracious approach does more towards making any type of entertaining a success than all the rigid following of etiquette rules and attempting to "keep up with the Joneses" can ever do.

Mother's Helper

AT YOUR youngster's party table, supply each guest with a plain paper place mat which has his name on the back, and a small box of crayons. Before you serve refreshments, give the children time to decorate the mats. The best or hostess chooses the one (or more) he likes best, and awards a prize (or prizes). Since names are on the back, Art Merit (?) wins!

Unusual Number of Beefs, Questions of Privilege, Raised by House Members

Record-Breaking Wave of Votes Given Kennedy

BALTIMORE (AP)—A record-breaking wave of votes in Tuesday's Maryland primary election has propelled Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts closer to the Democratic presidential nomination.

Reeling off his sixth straight victory in state popularity polls for those aspiring to lead the party in the November election, Kennedy outdrew the combined opposition almost three to one.

With Maryland's 26, he now has an unofficial total of 294½ votes toward the 761 needed for nomination at the Democratic national convention. However, these pledges only involve the first ballot. Political manoeuvering could negate the primary results at the convention itself.

Returns from 1,333 of 1,339 polls showed Kennedy with 200,232 votes and Morse with 69,200.

Kennedy's vote was about 72 per cent of the total cast, which in turn came to about only 19 per cent of the 866,878 eligible Democrats in the state.

But it exceeded by 66,000 the previous high of 134,000 received in the 1952 Maryland presidential primary by Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

Of Maryland's 3,040,000 residents, some 980,000 are Negroes. Catholics, 19 per cent. But Kennedy's Catholic religion was not a factor as it was in West Virginia, and was not so labor during the campaign.

Morse said in a statement issued through his Washington office that he knew he had no chance of winning in Maryland but ran only to promote "the constitutional liberal policies" he embraces. He had earlier said he would back Adlai Stevenson if he were bid for the nomination failed.

There were no entries in Maryland's Republican presidential primary.

FREAK HAILSTORM

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Tons of ice piled up in some parts of the 30th western Pennsylvania community during a 15-minute hailstorm Tuesday. Hail piled up as high as 12 inches, and broke 30,000 panes of glass.

OTTAWA (CP) —The Commons Tuesday heard an unusual number of beefs — questions of privilege — raised by MPs.

J. P. Deschatelets (L-Montreal Maisonneuve — Rosemont) complained that Vincent Brassard (PC-Chicoutimi) reflected on the conduct of the deputy speaker in a letter to the editor of Montreal's Le Devoir published April 8.

It proposed that the Commons committee on privileges investigate the letter which said that Quebec MPs have visible difficulty in getting the permission of the deputy speaker to speak while the House is in committee.

Speaker Roland Michener suggested that in view of Mr. Brassard's absence from the House, action on Mr. Deschatelets' proposal be postponed until Mr. Brassard returns.

RAPS FULTON

Another case, Paul Martin (L-Essex East) charged Justice Minister Fulton with a violation of Commons privilege as a result of an announcement Monday that the federal government has approved a comprehensive plan for rehabilitation of narcotics addicts.

He said Mr. Fulton should have made the announcement in the Commons, especially in view of the fact that Health Minister Monteith and Health Minister Pickersgill were questioned about such a plan earlier in the session.

Mr. Fulton said his announcement had gone no further than the Commons had the federal government announced in the Commons.

Government House Leader Argue, CCF House Leader, said the Commons had been misled by Defence Minister Pearkes that no toxic nerve gases are stored in Canada.

RELEASE SAID DIFFERENT

But he said that a defence department statement issued only six days later stated that nerve gases are stored in small quantities for laboratory research. There was no government reply.

Speaker Michener, dealing with a question of privilege raised Monday by H. W. Herridge (CCF-Kootenay West), said he could find no precedent for such a case and ruled that no question of privilege had been brought up.

The committee resumed use of Commons envelopes for mailing out material in connection with a new Canadian cartoon strip.

Weeks of Diplomatic Activity Fail for P.M. Macmillan

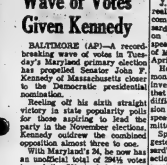
PARIS (CP)—The collapse of the summit conference brought a disheartening end to the two most strenuous weeks of continuous diplomatic activity in Prime Minister Macmillan's career.

Macmillan, the only statesman of the four-power talks since his visit to Moscow in February, 1958, initiated the chain of events that brought the chiefs of state together and found himself playing a mediator's role from the moment the summit got off to a start.

It was a task with which he was well fitted by his record in the previous 19 days in delicate negotiations to prevent an open breach in the commonwealth, prime ministers' conference over the Soviet shot down, subsequent uneasy truce between South Africa and her critics at its final session.

Macmillan's meeting with Nikita Khrushchev last Sunday, the day before the summit conference began, made it obvious that the United States spy plane incident presented as intractable an obstacle as sparkbeds the next week before.

WORKED WITH DEGAULLE



Together with President de Gaulle, the prime minister did his utmost to find a means of bringing Khrushchev and President Eisenhower together on equality.

After the stormy opening meeting of the four leaders which proved to be their last—Macmillan spent Monday evening shuttling from one chief of state to another, and sought to persuade Khrushchev to modify his uncompromising attitude.

In the end, the difference between the two conferences lay in the pervading atmosphere. Where the Commonwealth prime ministers were unanimously anxious to prevent a breakdown, Khrushchev was intent on forcing the summit talks to fail.

Jet Fuel Tax Could Create Fire Hazard

MONTREAL (CP) — The fire hazard at U.S. airports may be increased if proposed measures to tax jet plane fuels at the same rate as regular aviation fuels are adopted, an American fuel expert said today.

R. H. Wilson of Texaco Incorporated told delegates at the National Fire Protection Association convention here that if the kerosene fuels now used by jets are subject to a tax increase, most operators will switch to a gasoline-kerosene blend. The blend would be quicker-burning than kerosene and require added safety precautions during ground servicing of planes.

Storage of the blend would also be more hazardous. Vapors from the blends have more tendency to be flammable than those from either pure kerosene or pure gasoline, he said.

Delegates at the convention, the international association's 54th, were told Tuesday that fire losses in rural areas are on the increase because of more costly investments in modern machinery and buildings.

S. P. Lyle of the U.S. department of agriculture said farm fire losses there in 1959 reached $174,000,000, up about $18,000,000 from the previous year.

But deaths due to farm fires had decreased, reflecting the effect of fire-prevention education and the increasing number of rural fire departments.

Delegates also saw a demonstration of an American-designed portable dry-chemical extinguisher. It is designed to snuff out all types of fires—wood substances, burning liquids, electrical equipment and bustible metal fires.

Dr. C. S. Green of Syracuse University described experiments with treated water that smothers flames to the burning materials and smothers fire ten times faster than ordinary water.

Former Countess Named Leading Madame in N.Y.

The government said the woman, Sandra-Swan-born Elizabeth Spedding, 45, netted $100,000 a year from a stable of 30-30 tall girls—from all dispatched on an international basis from a swank Park Avenue address.

However, Miss Spedding tearfully told Judge John McGohey that despite the estimate of her wealth, she can't afford a lawyer. He held her on $25,000 cash and arranged for court-appointed counsel to represent her.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Stephen E. Kaufman said Miss Spedding once was married to a Rumanian count, Louis Marcesca, but that the marriage was annulled some time ago in Mexico.

Kaufman said Miss Spedding's activities took her to the Dominican Republic, Mexico, Cuba, France, the Virgin Islands, England and Italy during the last 16 years.

Besides providing $50-$100-a-date call girls to the New York city trade, Kaufman maintained Miss Spedding supplied girls for customers in Miami Beach, Atlantic City, Caracas and Havana.

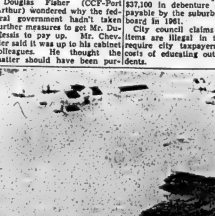
Late Premier Duplessis Failed To Pay Million Dollar Debt

OTTAWA (CP) — Efforts to get the late Premier Duplessis of Quebec to pay a $1,000,000 debt to the federal government were described Tuesday to the Commons railways committee investigating toll collections on Jacques Cartier Bridge in Montreal.

Premier Barrette is studying the matter, Transport Minister Hees said.

The bridge is operated by the National Harbors Board, a Crown agency, by agreement with the city of Montreal and Quebec province. Under the agreement each owed the federal government money.

The federal government succeeded in a suit against the city but no legal action was taken against the province.



Lionel Chevrier (L-Montreal-Laurier), transport minister 1945-57, said he called twice on Mr. Duplessis about the matter. The first time Mr. Duplessis had said that the court action against Montreal was won because of a bad defence by the city and he didn't feel obliged to be bound by it. Mr. Chevrier said Tuesday.

The second time the Quebec premier said he would send a cheque but it had never arrived.

George Marler, Liberal transport minister 1954-57, said he called on Mr. Duplessis once and had been told: "For years you have been saying that Quebec has been having deficit accounting. How do you expect us to be able to pay?"

Mr. Hees said Premier Barrette has approached last March and the matter still is under consideration.

Douglas Fisher (CCF-Port Arthur) wondered why the federal government hadn't taken further measures to get Mr. Duplessis to pay up. Mr. Chevrier said it was up to his cabinet colleagues. He thought the matter should have been pur-

Education Board Institutes Suit Against City

CHATHAM (CP) — Chatham board of education initiated a lawsuit Tuesday against city council for some $225,000 of its 1960 budget the city refuses to pay.

Board solicitor W. A. Boag-van of Chatham served Mayor Garnet Hewkin and City Clerk William Foreman with an originating motion of madamus. Mr. Donovan acted as agent of John Pallet, Port Credit lawyer who will plead the board's case.

The lawsuit came as the climax of a two-year battle between council over costs of educating suburban students in city schools.

The funds sought by the board include $187,000 in anticipated suburban tuition fees during the 1960-61 school year and $37,100 in debenture payments payable by the suburban school board in 1961.

City council claims the two items are illegal in that they require city taxpayers to pay costs of educating outside students.

Council Will Promote Interest In Centennial

OTTAWA (CP) — A national, non-governmental organization was formed Tuesday to promote interest in Canada's 1967 centenary.

The new body, known as the Canadian Centenary Council, was formed at a meeting of representatives of some 50 national organizations with a broad constitution and elected a provincial executive.

The new council is to set up headquarters, likely in Ottawa, and ensure that the "voluntary sector" of the community is represented in preparations for the 100th-birthday party.

Chairman of the provisional executive is H. M. Wallis, president of the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, who said he is optimistic about prospects of raising the $35,000 needed for the council's first year of operations.

AID FROM COMPANIES

He had approached five presidents of big Canadian corporations. All had promised financial support.

John P. Kidd, executive director of the Canadian Citizenship Council and secretary of the executive, said the council will co-operate closely with the governmental centennial committee, made up of four federal cabinet ministers and one minister from each province.

The new council will act as a clearing house and information centre and provide centenary planning facilities and services. A big task, according to its constitution, will be to establish principles and objectives for the centenary and "direct public attention to them."

Parks Commission Acquired Land Without Obtaining Authority Hearing Is Told

TORONTO (CP) — The Niagara Parks Commission has acquired land in contravention of the Niagara Parks Act, evidence at a royal commission hearing before York County court Judge Ian Macdonald indicated Tuesday.

NPC general manager Maxim T. Gray said under cross examination that the commission purchased land for parks purposes without obtaining an order-in-council. The act, prior to redrafting in 1948, provided that cabinet approval must be given for the acquisition of all lands.

Questioned by lawyer Elmer Sopha, Liberal member of the legislature for Sudbury, Mr. Gray said the commission had grouped all land purchases in Queenston in 1951 and presented it for cabinet approval. He said he believed at one time that the act of tabling the NPC annual report in the legislature was tantamount to getting the necessary approval.

The present act requires cabinet approval for the purchase, sale or expropriation of lands by the commission.

The royal commission was established to investigate Liberal and CCF members of the legislature refused to accept a $10,000 contract without approving operations of the NPC. Premier Frost has denied purchase of former parks property.

Mr. Justice Wells also is chairman of the commission.

The parks commission purchased 22 acres of land in the Broderick farm in Niagara Falls in 1943 and 1945 and 15 acres of it to millionaire Arthur Schmon of St. Catharines in 1945, Schmon sold the property to Mr. Daley in 1948.

Mr. Justice Wells said Mr. Daley gave an appearance of indiscretion in buying the Schmon property and suggested there was conflict of interest between his position as a public servant and a private citizen.

Mr. Justice Wells said whether the general manager had been involved with the part of the act concerning cabinet approval between the time the NPC acquired the Broderick property and the passing of the 1951 order-in-council.

Mr. Gray replied that he was familiar with the statutes, and had brought them to the attention of the commission. It was shortly after this that order-in-council approval was sought.

Mr. Sopha also raised the name of George Ingle, former mayor of Niagara Falls and former parks commissioner. It was Mr. Ingle who instigated the inquiry by charging the commission with, failure to call public tenders for work projects and giving business to persons had connections with members of the commission.

Mr. Sopha asked about Mr. Ingle's resignation. Mr. Ingle has not resigned, Mr. Gray said. He was dismissed by council was obtained to dismiss him.

Mr. Daley testified previously before the legislative committee that Mr. Ingle resigned after an argument.

C. F. H. Carson, counsel for the royal commission, asked if Mr. Daley had ever had any indication there may have been collusion between the labor minister and Mr. Schmon concerning the land transaction.

Mr. Gray said no. Welland Crown attorney Tobias Forestell, formerly counsel for the NPC, said he did not know of any collusion.

Mr. Gray testified that the commission had ceased buying land for ded

An important message from the President of Canadian Oil

The day after tomorrow this corporation will announce a petroleum achievement of profound significance to motorists throughout Canada. Until now, this has remained a closely guarded secret.

Late last year our chemists in Sarnia, working in collaboration with international petroleum leaders, succeeded in developing two new gasolines that combine—for the first time in Canada—the major benefits known to petroleum chemistry. The total research of the Fifties is now ready to bring you a new kind of gasoline for the Sixties.

The symbol you see below stands for this achievement—and the two new White Rose motor fuels that it created.

We recognize that, in recent years, confusing claims and semi-scientific names have made it difficult to separate promotional fiction from petroleum fact.

There will be no such mixup with the new White Rose motor fuels.

Their benefits will be told, not in vague generalities, but in terms that have tangible meaning for every motorist. If the scientific superiority of a product is any criterion, the typical Canadian car owner will soon discover that these fuels live up to the claims that are made for them.

This statement is backed by our policy of making no claims that are not matched by performance. We say to you "Here is a milestone in motoring" only because we can say it to ourselves.

But we would rather have you tell us.

In this spirit, I wholeheartedly advocate and will appreciate your using one of the new White Rose gasolines. They will be available at all White Rose service stations on Friday.

Toronto Hands Royals 11th Loss in Row

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Montreal Royals of the International League can equal a club record of dubious distinction tonight. If they lose to Toronto it will be their 12th straight. You have to go back 29 years to 1931 to find when this club record was set.

The Royals dropped their 11th in a row Tuesday night, 3-0 to Toronto, Buffalo ported a 11-2 victory over Rochester while Miami won its third straight and upstated the cellar by defeating Richmond 3-1. The Havana Sugar Kings regained third place, beating Columbus 3-2.

Ron Negray (4-0), got his fifth straight victory over the Royals, who trail seventh-place Miami by a game and a half. Negray allowed only three hits and struck out six. Sparky Anderson's single drove in the one run in the first and Don Dillard, who had doubled ahead of Anderson, homered in the sixth, his first. Babe Birrer lost.

Pitcher Dallas Green beefed up the Buffalo pitchers' hitting average to .328 and his own to .500 with two home runs that accounted for five runs in the Bisons' victory. His first gave Buffalo a 2-1 lead. The second, with two on, capped a five-run fifth inning. Bob Bowman also homered for Buffalo but Rochester manager Clyde King protested that the ball bounced through a fence and should have been a ground rule double. Bob Sadowski homered for Rochester as Lynn Rube lost.

Norm Zauchin's two-run, ninth inning homer spoiled a fine pitching job by Richmond's Mark Freeman, who had held the Marlins hitless for six innings and allowed only four hits until Zauchin's blow. He struck out six and got hit only run from Jim McKnight's homer. Winning reliever Harry Byrd gave only one hit and starter Herb Mosford allowed only two.

Havana's runs came on homers by Felix Torres, Borrego Alvarez and Joe Azcue and gave Bob Miller the victory. Prentice Browne hit a one-on home run for Columbus.

On the Track

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Jockey Club, which puts on the $150,000 - added Preakness race, is doing all it can to make Saturday's classic at Pimlico a picnic.

The track's 23-acre infield is to be thrown open to the public at an admission price of a "buck a head."

A new entrance gate has been opened for the infield patronage. It will have its open betting windows and odds board ready, plus refreshment stands and bleacherseats for 10,000.

Pimlico is urging folks to make it a family picnic affair. "Pack bands, one featuring Dixieland style imported from New Orleans, will provide entertainment. Before the regular races start there will be a "powder puff Preakness" with girls doing the jockeying.

Behind it all is an effort to boost the Preakness crowd by an atmosphere similar to that of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs.

The Louisville track annually announces crowds of 100,000 while the best ever recorded for Preakness is 42,370 in 1946—and some suspect that figure was padded.

Wright Takes Verdict From Lennie Sparks

HALIFAX (CP)—Larry Wright of Brooklyn climbed off the ropes in the first round and rallied to score a split - decision over Canadian lightweight Champion Lennie Sparks of Halifax in a 10-round non-title fight here Tuesday night.

Wright weighed 145½; Sparks 140½.

Referee Jack Delaney and Judge Alex Mickerson scored it 5-3-2 for Wright. Judge R. S. Nicholson 5-4-1 for Sparks.

It was Sparks' second loss in 21 fights. He has won 18 of them, 10 by knockouts. Sparks sent Wright to the canvas early in the first round with a sharp left hook. It was the only knockdown.

It was Wright's ninth win in 12 professional fights. He won 102 of 110 amateur bouts and was a member of the 1956 U.S. Olympic boxing team.

Earlier, Ted Doncaster stopped Eddy Henderson of Washington, D.C., at 1:07 of the first round in a scheduled 10-round non-title lightheavyweight scrap.

GRIMSBY, England (CP)—The crew of a trawler from Grimsby claim to have caught an elephant off the Yorkshire coast. Their net was broken by a huge dead animal with a trunk. The Grimsby harbor board said an elephant is hard to explain.

Flanagan Wins Over Greaves

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Del Flanagan moved a step ahead on his comeback trail Tuesday night with a unanimous decision over Willie Greaves of Edmonton in their 10 - round bout before a crowd of 3,000.

Flanagan weighed 161, Greaves 160½.

The St. Paul Irishman was in trouble only twice—in the fifth round when Greaves landed two good right hooks to the head to make him hold on, and in the ninth when body punches slowed the winner down.

Flanagan, in one of his best bouts of recent years, relied on jabs and uppercuts and bored into the fray even when Greaves was advancing. There were no knockdowns.

Soccer

Wilsons Concrete scored four consecutive goals to snap a 2-2 deadlock and defeat RCAF 6-2 in a Bay of Quinte Football Association soccer match, played last night.

The clubs battled on even terms for the first half, Wilsons taking a 2-1 lead only to have RCAF score the equalizer prior to the winners' four-goal outburst.

Georgeni sparked the victors with a pair of goals while Mommas, Schell, Tapino and Zeiel booted the others. Brown and Carroll had the RCAF counters.

FAT LADY DEAD

GIBSONTON, Fla. (AP)—Circus fat lady Dotty Blackhall, famed for her sideshow appearances with Ringling Brothers Barum and Bailey Circus, is dead. Deputy sheriff Luther Wilcot said Mrs. Blackhall, who weighed more than 500 pounds, apparently took her own life. A note believed written by the 52-year - old performer cited ill health during recent years. Wilcot said the exact cause of death had not been determined.

Raiders May Transfer to Port Huron

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP)—A tentative agreement was arranged Tuesday as the first step in a proposal to transfer Detroit Raiders professional football team to Port Huron.

The agreement calls for the team to play four of its six games next season on Sunday nights in Port Huron, with the remaining two in Detroit. The club, a member of the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union, would be known as Port Huron Raiders during its games there and as Detroit-Port Huron Raiders in games in Detroit.

Under the proposal, the Junior Chamber of Commerce would sponsor the team. But the plan still must be approved by the chamber board of directors. Details are to be drawn up and submitted by the end of the month.

A spokesman said that long-range plans for the league include possible expansion to include teams from Flint and Toledo, Ohio, as well as other Michigan cities. Currently in the league are London, Ont., Kitchener - Waterloo, Detroit and Sarnia, directly across the St. Clair River from Port Huron.

COIN COMPLICATION

LONDON (CP)—The recent national budget brought turmoil to distributors of automatic cigaret-vending machines. With prices now at two shillings and a half-penny, the slots will have to be altered to take half-crowns instead of two-shilling pieces. Alterations cost about £4 per machine.

TV Caught With Antenna Down in Recent Crisis

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Television, more often than not, finds itself bound when important news breaks or when events take unexpected turns.

It isn't TV's fault, but the medium showed itself to be a chained giant of communications as the crisis loomed in Paris this week. It served, in fact, as a mere auxiliary of both newspapers and radio.

TV's problem is that it must use motion pictures. That means it has to be on the spot with a camera when news breaks. Then it must find a fast means of getting those motion pictures to a point where they can be broadcast.

The Paris crisis found TV covering most of the vital news just as radio did: By voice.

NBC on short notice Monday night ditched an hour-long adventure show and substituted quickly a 90-minute program show about the foundering summit session. The network really lacked the pictures for a long TV show. Correspondents were forced to rehash and retell and re-interpret hour-old events—events already spread all over newspapers, radio—and events already related crisply and adequately on its own regularly scheduled news show.

At the outset, anchor man Frank McGee confessed the problem: "Things that happened cannot be shown on film," he said. "So we have chosen the spoken word." But the spoken word accompanied by still pictures of the speaker or newsreel-type shots of men riding in limousines or shaking hands is not the ideal stuff of which TV programs are made.

CBS, which took over The Texan's time for the same purpose, didn't fare much better, but it only had 20 minutes to fill. Apparently, however, its sales department is more flexible than its news department. It managed to sell the special program within an hour to a sponsor—possibly a record.

99 Per Cent Sure Champions Have Quit as Pro Dancers

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—When the curtain rose on Bye Bye Birdie on Broadway recently, another lovely one fell on the dancing career of Marge and Gower Champion.

The rousing, youthful musical is one of the big winners of the New York season, the man and wo staged the show, including the dances, was Gower Champion. The theatre's gain is the loss of those who have enjoyed the winsome, seemingly effortless dances of the Champion team.

"I'm not saying we'll never dance again ever," said Marge. "We need only heed the experience of friends and fellow craftsmen — like Fred Astaire— before saying 'never.'

"But it is 99-per-cent sure that Gower and I will never dance professionally again. Maybe more than that—99.44-per-cent sure.

MAJOR HURDLE

"This is something we have been planning for a long time. The major hurdle was to get Gower established as a stage director. Now he has that. The fact that he can also choreograph is the extra something, like the fact that George Abbot can also write."

What is Marge going to do, now that she has kicked off the dancing shoes?

"I have a full-time career—as wife of Gower Champion and mother of Gregg Champion," she said.

If her wife-mother duties allow, Marge would like to try her hand at straight acting. She has been taking dramatic lessons for the last two years, plans to do some summer stock this year.

AT THE PARK — William Campbell and Sandra Carr are youthful bandit and moll respectively in Columbia's "The Bandit of Sherwood Forest", co-starring Cyril Cusack's sensational book, showing for last time today at the Park Theatre. On the same program "The Affairs of Messalina", co-starring an all star cast of thousands.

At the Belle

Excitement, Danger, Suspense as Walt Disney presents Robert Louis Stevenson's "Kidnapped".

Master showman Walt Disney went to both sides of the Atlantic to cast his Technicolor version of "Kidnapped", one of the great adventure stories of all time and one of the greatest of Robert Louis Stevenson.

From his home base, Hollywood, his first criterion was for David Balfour, the lad who braves many dangers to claim his inheritance. This title role fell naturally to James MacArthur after his splendid portrayals in such Disney features as "Light in the Forest" and "Third Man on the Mountain". American born, the actor-son of Helen Hayes is of Scottish descent and was delighted to travel to the land of his ancestors for all exterior action.

From the Pinewood studios in England casting proceeded with Peter Finch, a London-born Australian being awarded the juicy title role of Alan Breck Stewart, the daring soldier of fortune upon whose head is a price. Finch, too, has worked for Disney before—he was the villainous sheriff of Nottingham in "Robin Hood". Recent pictures have been "The Nun's Story" and "Raoul Cade".

English actor Bernard Lee won the choice co-starring role of the treacherous sea captain, Hoseason, whose villainy nearly led to the deaths of the two Scottish adventurers.

The fourth co-star of "Kidnapped" is John Laurie from Dumfries Scotland. He comes to the role of wicked Uncle Ebenezer with a long list of leading roles in classic dramas, especially those of Shakespeare.

A young Irishman, Peter O'Toole, playing his first screen role, is sure to be snapped up by Hollywood. Finlay Currie, in his eighty-second year, is widely known and "Ben Hur" is his latest picture. Miles Malleson, writer of many screen and stage plays and actor extraordinaire, was first associated with Robert Stevenson director of "Kidnapped", in the scripting of "Nine Days a Queen". For the proper setting of "Kidnapped", with its excitement, danger and suspense, beginning today at the Belle Theatre, nothing less than the original settings would satisfy Walt Disney for his Technicolor version. Accordingly, the cast and a unit of eighty-five technicians traveled to the Western Highlands of Scotland to film exciting sequences, in such locations as Garavan Sands, Loch Nell, Ardgour, Eastdale, Glen Nevis, Craigon and the infamous Pass of Glencoe.

NATIONAL STAGE

Sweden's leading legitimate theatre, the Royal Dramatic Theatre in Stockholm, was founded in 1788 by King Gustaf III.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Senior hockey will be back in Belleville next season —and the McFarlands will be represented by a strong club.

You can take Gordie Bell's word for that. He said so at a press conference held here last night.

Bell was very optimistic over what could happen next year, player-wise. He went on a player-scouting junket in the west and to the coast—and he liked what he saw and heard.

However he did dispel the rumor—but good—that has been going the rounds to the effect he has secured eight new players.

"No player has committed himself to any team yet," he said. "To date we have not signed anyone to a concrete contract."

Bell figures that six, or thereabouts, new players will medicate the McFarland player ills.

What is badly needed is a good goalie, one or two outstanding defencemen and about three good centre players.

We were woefully weak down the middle last year and I hope to rectify that situation this season," he said.

Gordie did not let the grass grow under his feet while on his western safari. He said he will get player co-operation from one professional club out thataway. He did not think Russ Kowalchuk would be back, although the big fella would like to play here once again.

How about goalies?

"Marv Edwards told me he would not play for Millwaukee next season and wants to play here," Bell answered. "We are in the negotiation stage right now to have him join the Macs. Bob Senior, who was on loan to us last season, and who played five hockey in the playoffs will be invited to the training camp which, I hope, will start sometime in September."

Bell also likes Flori Goegan, who coached the Millwaukee team last year and came up with a fine fifth-place record. Goegan's family resides in this city and Flori might give up his coaching job to catch a place with the Belleville team. He too, will be asked to attend training camp.

A brilliant ex-junior from the west named Gerry Kruk, who recently graduated in engineering, expressed a wish to come east and play for the Macs. He will be here come training camp time, as will George Ford, a wrestler, and ex-pro veteran.

While Bell did not commit himself, he hinted rather strongly that the McFarlands will get player help from one or more National Hockey League clubs.

Was there any chance of getting Cesare Maniago?

"There is a possibility that the Toronto Maple Leafs will turn the youngster pro next season," Bell said. However, he had been assured by the Leafs' Bob Davidson that if such were not the case, the McFarlands would have a chance at securing the popular young goalie's services.

Contrary to some opinion around here, Maniago is not the property of the Chatham Maroons.

Gordie said the summertime is a difficult period to talk to, and perhaps sign hockey players, but at least some good can be planted. The McFarlands will go all out to get the necessary strength for the club and rail-birds could get a big surprise when the training camp opens in September—and they get an eyeful of whom and what is trying out.

Generally speaking Bell painted a fine verbal picture of the McFarlands' chances to secure the necessary player assistance. That there will be senior hockey here is definitely assured and the good news from the western part of the province indicates the OHA senior group will be as strong or stronger than last season with the possibility that a sixth team will be added.

Crush Boston Red Sox 11-6 As Birds Bow to Kansas 4-2; Tribe Nips Yanks, Giants Win

By Ed Wiles
Associated Press Staff Writer

There's no place like home for Chicago White Sox, so far as beaten in Comiskey Park — the ball yard with the beer garden and surrealistic scoreboard.

The defending American League champs purged back into first place with their seventh straight home victory Tuesday night, buffeting Boston Red Sox 11-6. They did it with 16 hits off Tom Brewer, the Tightheader who blanked them on two hits a week ago in Boston.

Kansas City Athletics helped by defeating Baltimore Orioles 4-2, ending the Birds' one-day stay on top and clipping their winning streak at five games. The loss dropped Baltimore to third, half a game behind and in a virtual tie with Cleveland Indians for second place. The Indians downed New York Yankees to fourth 7-6. Detroit Tigers plunked Washington Senators into the cellar, 5-3.

The White Sox tagged the Red Sox with their fourth straight defeat in a four-run fifth, scoring three on Sammy Esposito's bases - loaded double. Esposito, who came in batting .100, was 2 for 3 and drove home four runs against Brewer (3-3). Bob Shaw (3-2) won it, giving up 13 hits that included home runs by Frank Malzone, Gene Stephens and Haywood Sullivan.

HERZOG BREAKS IT UP

A two-run homer by Whitey Herzog broke up a 2-2 tie in the seventh for the A's, who had been held to three hits for six innings by loser Milt Pappas (2-3). Their first two runs came in the second on two of the game's five bases on balls, a single by starter Bob Larsen and an error. Lou Klein (4-0) won it with 2 1-3 innings of hitless relief, although he forced in the tying run in the seventh when he hit Clint Courtney with the bases loaded. Larry Sherry struck out the side in the ninth to save it.

Herzog's three homer scored the first run for the Orioles, who had five hits to the A's six.

The Indians packed away seven of their 12 hits in the first two innings, chasing rookie Bill Short (2-2) with five runs in that span. They got the clincher in the sixth when reliever Duke Maas hit winner Gary Bell (5-1) and then gave up a two-out double by Jimmy Piersall. Bell, first to win five in the AL, needed Dick Stuart's one - out relief for his fourth straight victory after the Yankees scored four unearned runs in the ninth. Mickey Mantle's third homer brought in three of them.

Detroit, 3-0 vs Washington, sent Pete Ramos (0-3) to his seventh consecutive loss since last September when Norm Cash doubled and Chico Fernandez tripled for a second-inning run and a 2-0 lead. Frank Lary (3-2) won his second in a row, both over the Nats. They scored in the third on Faye Throneberry's single, a double by Bob Allison and a foul fly by Jim Lemon—their only run in 29 innings against the Tigers.

HISTORIAN DEAD

MOSCOW (AP)—Igor Grabar, Soviet painter and art historian, died Monday, the Soviet news agency Tass announced. He was 92. Grabar was born in Budapest in 1871 but had lived in Russia since 1880. He was the initiator, editor or author of many of the chapters of the multi - volume History of Russian Art published in 1909-16.

When Frank Howard, the latest of the Jumbo Bunk, first showed up in major league baseball observers called him "The Thing" and "The Beast." But he's strictly a six-foot-six, 245-pound thing of beauty for Los Angeles Dodgers at the moment.

Howard tailed the Dodgers' top nemesis Tuesday night, beating righthander Bob Buhl and Milwaukee Braves 6-4 with his first grand-slam home run in the National League.

It was Milwaukee's sixth defeat in 10 games and let the third-place Braves just one game over .500, five games back of the leading Los Angeles Dodgers. The Giants whipped Cincinnati Redlegs 8-5, retaining their one-game edge over the second-place Pittsburgh Pirates. St. Louis defeated Chicago Cubs 11-6 with the help of six unearned runs. A game between St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia Phillies was rained out.

BRAVES OVERBAULED

Howard's third major league homer, first since being recalled from Spokane on May 1, overhauled a 4-1 Milwaukee lead in the fifth inning off Buhl.

Larry Sherry (5-3), winning his fourth game in a row in relief, blanked Milwaukee for 3 2-3 innings after Buhl (3-2), Hank Aaron, taking the league lead with his ninth, and Ed Mathews homered for the Braves' first three runs in the first inning.

Howard, 23, was signed in 1958 for an $80,000 bonus out of the Ohio State University campus, where he starred in basketball. He is batting .307 since his recall from Spokane of the Pacific Coast League.

GIANTS LET LOOSE

The Giants, matching their run production of the last five games, scored seven runs in the first three innings. They picked up four in the first against young Jim O'Toole (3-3), who had a shutout string of 18 innings.

Willie Kirkland, Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda homered as the Giants collected 15 hits after manager Bill Rigney loaded his lineup with right-handed hitters. Jack Sanford (4-4) was the winner, giving up a two-run homer in the fourth by Ed Bailey, who had half of the Reds' six hits.

The Pirates also got things squared away fast, scoring eight runs in three innings and chasing Bobbie Hoyt (1-1) after a four-run first inning. Don Hoak had three singles and Dick Stuart's two runs batted in. Bob Friend gave up 11 hits, one Ernie Banks' home run, however, for his fifth game against one loss.

Furillo Bitter as Dodgers Give Him Outright Release

LOS ANGELES (AP)—One of baseball's longest and brightest associations came to an end Tuesday when the Dodgers gave Carl Furillo his unconditional release.

The end ended not on the usual hearts-and-flowers theme but in bitterness and counter - accusations.

E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi, the Dodgers' vice-president and general manager, announced that the 38-year-old onetime hero of Flatbush had reached the end of the line with the Dodgers.

"Furillo has been given his unconditional release," said Bavasi. "We tried to get him on the disabled list but the commissioner (Ford Frick) wouldn't go for it. I had no alternative but to release him."

Bavasi later hit the celling when he read some of Carl's caustic comments regarding the manner in which Bavasi acted leading up to Tuesday's action.

"The players," declared Bavasi, "told me he would create a stink when he went out—and they were right.

"A week ago Furillo called me them Dodgers of the future," said Bavasi.

Included would be Frank Howard, the young giant who was brought to the big club last Thursday from Spokane and replaced Furillo.

"I tried to get him on the disabled list but the commissioner (Ford Frick) wouldn't go for it. I had no alternative but to release him."

Me? I hate painting! That's why I use SHERWIN-WILLIAMS

Sure you can buy cheap house paint, but who wants to paint every year? Indeed, who can afford to? Bobcats, RCAF Flyers Open Softball Season Tonight

This evening at 6.45 the curtain rises on the 1960 Belleville and district softball season.

Bob Temple's reinforced Bobcats meet the Trenton RCAF Flyers in the ushering-in ceremonies at the CNRA Park.

The withdrawal of the Sports Centre teams has reduced the league roster to five clubs. These include the Bobcats, Trenton Hallorans, Trenton RCAF, Desoronto and the Coboura Merchants.

While the Trenton RCAF and Desoronto teams are unknown qualities at the moment, it is reported they will field strong teams.

No comment is necessary on the strength of the Cobourg Merchants and Trenton Hallorans. They have added strength to last year's teams. Nuff said.

The Bobcats have benefitted by the demobilization of the ex-Point Anne, ex-Sports Centre teams.

Coach Temple has added three of the players and shaken up his lineup. Doug Hall, Davy Jones and Johnny Batchelor will wear Bobcat uniforms tonight. Hull takes over the shortstop post, Jones third base and Johnny Batchelor an outfield position.

Temple has a powerful potential and with the added strength make the Bobcats loom as one of the more powerful squads in the circuit.

Here are the line-ups for tonight's opening game:

200TH ANNIVERSARY

LONDON (Reuters) — Lloyd's Register of Shipping, oldest and largest ship classification society in the world, celebrated its 200th anniversary Monday.

Friend, Piersall Head List of Comeback Stars

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Friend of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Jimmy Piersall of the Cleveland Indians will be playters to watch when the baseball comeback of the year laurels are handed out next fall.

Friend and Piersall head an impressive comeback list which includes Red Schoendienst of Milwaukee, Richie Ashburn and Frank Thomas of the Chicago Cubs, Dick Farrell of Philadelphia, Ed Bailey of Cincinnati, A Smith and Billy Pierce of the Chicago White Sox and Arnie Portocarrero of Detroit.

Friend, who led the National League in victories with 22 in 1958, slumped to an 8-19 mark last season. This year he's rebounded brilliantly, posting a 4-1 record and an earned run average of 1.58.

Piersall, a veteran infielder, is having his best year since 1956 when he played in all of Boston's 155 games and batted .292.

The next three seasons Piersall batted .261, .227 and .216. His 1960 output to date shows a .328 batting average after 58 times at bat.

Schoendienst, sidelined virtually all of last season by tuberculosis, has participated in all except one Milwaukee game. He is batting .388 with 23 hits. Red is a 13-year big leaguer veteran with a lifetime average of .290.

World Champ Unimpressed With Louis Aiding Patterson

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (AP) — Ingemar Johansson accepted with a shrug news Tuesday that Joe Louis will try to help Floyd Patterson regain the world heavyweight title in their June 20 rematch.

"Patterson will have to be in the ring by himself," he said. "Louis won't be there. I stopped him before. Those I fight the second time I usually finish faster. I know I can do it again."

The heavyweight champ smiled as he read that Louis had said Patterson should "not have to get hit."

"I only threw one good punch last time," he said. "And that did it. Don't forget no heavyweight champ ever has come back to win it again."

Louis had joked that he thought he would be able to visit Johnson's camp because an American spy plane had flown over Russia.

"I have always been an admirer of Joe Louis," said the champion. "He does not have to come here as a spy. He is welcome any time as a friend."

At Newtown, Conn., Tuesday, Louis watched Patterson box four rounds and then the two took a look at the films of the Pattersonjohansen bout.

Majors Back Frick in Fight Against Law

CHICAGO (AP) — Major league club owners gave unanimous support Tuesday to commissioner Ford Frick's planned rebuttal to proposed federal legislation governing baseball.

The nature of Frick's statement before a Senate anti-monopoly subcommittee scheduled to open hearings in Washington Thursday was not made public.

However, Frick recently termed a proposal by Senator Estes Kefauver to bring baseball partly under anti-trust statutes as "vicious, discriminatory, disastrous and absolutely unacceptable."

Representatives of the 16 major league clubs met for more than five hours.

Three owners, John Galbreath of Pittsburgh Pirates, Phil Wrigley of Chicago Cubs and Dan Topping of New York Yankees later met with reporters.

Galbreath said Frick's statement represented baseball's position on the Kefauver bill but the owners felt they should not make specific comment on it because "it would not be fair to Frick or Congress."

Galbreath said the owners talked about the projected Continental League "in a passive way."

Kefauver's bill would aid the Continental League because it asks Congress to limit to 100 the number of players any one major league club may control. The bill stipulates that all except 40 of the 100 would be subject each year to unlimited draft by all other teams, including those in the Continental League.

Use the Naran Plan to Lose Ugly Fat

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home wave remedy. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches at excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, knees and ankles just return the empty bottle to your druggist and your money will be cheerfully refunded. Don't envy the slim figures you see around you, but get busy with this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly blemishes disappear and how better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

SUING BORGNINE
LOS ANGELES (AP)—His former lawyers are suing Ernest Borgnine because, they say, he didn't pay them a percentage of his earnings. Irving D. Glickfeld and Hyman L. Goldstein said the lusky actor agreed to pay them five per cent of his gross income during the life of a 1956-1959 contract. They said he earned $281,-646 in the period and still owes them $5,752.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Thursday, May 19, 1960

General Tendencies: You can get the favor, backing and support of those in positions of power and authority today and into the early evening by being very detailed and exact in the summation of your problems and similar abilities and interests. Fine for public relations that have been carefully worked out also. Take no chances late this evening.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — By being most practical in all that you do today, you can rise above all of your problems and make swift strides forward as well. Be sure to confer with good personal advisors, too, and follow their ideas wisely.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Every chance is yours now to cement better relations with present allies and all those who are vital to you right now. Be certain to work together in a most co-operative fashion and thereby forge ahead quickly.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — An influential person today will give you the boost you need to reach your goals more quickly. However, be careful to tell no one what you are planning, or you may have idea stolen and possibly lose out altogether on benefits.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Being sure to get out to a new and charming site with one you trust will result in garnering important new data, making new contacts, learning new systems, etc. Gather such benefits to you intelligently. Expend.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Day hours are fine for learning about a more efficient method of keeping books or records, finding much new and important data can also come your way. Please higher-up. P.M. come to better understanding with loved one. Be devoted.

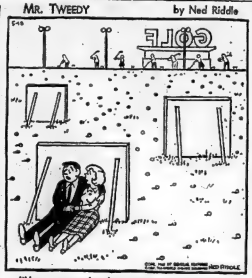
Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — You can cement better relations with an associte if you air your views specifically and in detail, and particularly if you keep nothing from him, or her, that should be told. Real serivity wins the day for you. Work.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Much of that technical and precision work can be done by you today that will bring approbation of higher-ups, personal satisfaction, plaudits of fellow workers. P.M. fix clothing. Get health better.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — It would be a very good idea to discuss important issues with a determined associte at some place of charming atmosphere today. Go to some equally enjoyable place this evening too, and round out a fine day of accomplishment.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — A day to concentrate almost mainly upon home affairs, getting real estate repaired, etc. Get is in order, making life easier for loved ones, etc. Work sensibly, economically. P.M. invite guests in for charming repartee.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Use any free time today for visits to beauty parlor, barber shop and get your appearance at its best. Then have conferences with key people concerning vital future affairs. P.M. relax or go out for sport, entertainment.



Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Analyze your true financial position today so that you know where you are secure, as well as those who look to you for support. Go over bank statements, business reports, etc. carefully. Be purposeful, down-to-earth.

that the only reliable way to secure peace would be to carry out a resolute struggle against "United States imperialism."

Not since the Hungarian revolt of 1956 had Khrushchev drawn such bitter criticism throughout the world.

Resumption of bitter cold war diplomacy was taken almost for granted, but there apparently was little fear at this stage of the imminence of a shooting war.

REDS DENOUNCE IKE

In Russia, the Communist propaganda machine moved into top gear in support of Khrushchev's tough line with the West. Press and radio poured out thousands of words denouncing Eisenhower.

The Moscow Communist party organ, Pravda, said:

"The Soviet government does not wish to be a party to such a fraud nor to carry on talks which are foredoomed to failure. Responsibility for wrecking the Paris summit conference lies squarely with the U.S. government."

The newspaper devoted an entire page to dispatches and letters in which Russians voiced support for Khrushchev's stand.

Moscow Radio said U.S. leaders in setting out for Paris had no wish to hold serious talks—"they meant of all wanted the pressing world problems settled."

"The leaders of the Republican party seem to be changing horses in midstream under the influence of the most war-minded sections of big business."

In London, the pro-socialist paper Daily Mirror says in a front-page editorial that the Soviet leader "wickedly, wantonly and tragically" killed the conference.

"Khrushchev leaves the world doubting whether responsible Western statesmen can ever trust him again, or ever hope again to have a reasonable conference with him. . . . The world will never forgive him."

The Daily Herald, Labor, declares in bitter tones: "In the eyes of the peace-seeking world what a sorry, despicable character he now appears, spilling in the face of peace. The peace-loving world will find it hard to forgive."

The Daily Telegraph, Conservative, says the neutralist world is not going to find it easy to excuse Khrushchev's "evident desire to return, at least diplomatically, to the Stalinist techniques of brutal fractiousness."

TURNS CLOCK BACK

The Guardian, Liberal Manchester paper, says: "Khrushchev has turned the clock back by seven years. The breakdown of the summit conference seems certain to mark a return to the cold war, at least for a time."

In Khrushchev's decision to fly to East Berlin "the West has already felt its first icy blast."

The alarming possibility is that Khrushchev no longer is in complete control of Soviet policy, it continues. "He has had to bow to pressure from die-hard Stalinists in the Kremlin—perhaps acting in concert with the Chinese."

With the Paris summit all but over, Western eyes are turning to Berlin—expected to be the flashpoint if the cold war again reaches a critical stage.

him into conflict with Senator Gunnar Thorvaldson PC—Manitoba, who said the committee voted 12 to 3 not to consider the petition for divorce.

Senator Thorvaldson said the committee reached no decision on whether to grant divorce. It merely decided no grounds existed under its rule of recognizing only adultery.

Meanwhile, in the hour devoted in the Commons to divorce cases Tuesday, Mr. Howard became embroiled with Robert McCleave PC—Halifax and Leon Crestohl L— Montreal Cartier for his references to Ottawa lawyer A. H. Lieff, counsel for a divorce petitioner whose bill was under detailed study.

Mr. Crestohl charged "character assassination" by Mr. Howard after the CCF MP said he thought Mr. Lieff was in to not bringing out all the information on the divorce case when it was examined by the Senate divorce committee.

The wrangle and discussion of the evidence of one bill occupied the full hour provided and no divorce bills passed, leaving 209 piled up on the order paper.

In another development the Commons gave approval in principle, second reading, to a bill increasing membership in the elected Yukon Territories Council to seven from five and establishing a territorial court of appeal.

Khrushchev Flies To East Berlin; Talks At Airport

Says Soviet Policy Is 'Peaceful Coexistence'

BERLIN (CP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev, playing the role of a mild, earnest seeker for peace, arrived in East Berlin today, promising he will be available for new summit conference in six to eight months.

Gone were the threats, the angry outbursts and the tirades of the last two days in Paris.

The Russian leader reclaimed from any threats against West Berlin. When he spoke of a new summit, he did not couple it with his Paris demand for an apology from the United States for the U-2 incident.

He declared that the Soviet Union did not plan to change its policy of seeking "peaceful coexistence" with the capitalist world.

But, he said, Russia would have to confer with other socialist countries, analyze the situation and "reach the necessary conclusions."

NEEDS TIME

Khrushchev, in a speech at Schoenefeld airport on the outskirts of East Berlin, he said:

"We need time for the situation to mitigate. In six to eight months, the Soviet Union will do all possible for a new summit conference takes place and comes to a useful conclusion."

It was too soon to deduce whether this means any change in Russian policy since the breakup of the summit meeting. In Paris, on his takeoff for East Berlin, Khrushchev said he would attend a future summit meeting "only if the United States renounces the obstacles".

Khrushchev's speech was without any threats. It was as if he were being extremely careful not to stir fears regarding the West Berlin population.

Khrushchev's speech was without any threats. It was as if he were being extremely careful not to stir fears regarding the West Berlin population.

A BIG WELCOME

His car was escorted through flag-bedecked streets by a 12-man motorcycle escort and two open cars of secret police.

West Berliners, who had seen Khrushchev on four previous visits, said the reception was the biggest Communist has been given. No anti-Khrushchev incidents were seen.

When Khrushchev announced his intention of visiting Berlin, it was feared that he might create a new situation that could cause a new East-West flareup.

But the Russian premier and the East German hosts were careful to go out of their way to assure the Westerners that nothing would change until a peaceful understanding is held.

Khrushchev told Communist functionaries who greeted him at Schoenefeld that he is ready to discuss questions which were to have been discussed between the Big Four at Paris and that are of special significance.

The important negotiations in Paris did not take place because the U.S. made this impossible, he charged.

PETERBELL FACES NEW THREAT OF FLOODING RIVER

Will Continue For Another Two Days

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Peterbell, Northern Ontario's latest water-ravaged village, today faced hastening floods of the Missinabi River.

The 47 residents of the railway community 80 miles west of Hearst were evacuated by train Tuesday. A pilot who flew over the area Wed. night said the water, from a dam break in Missinabi Lake 18 miles south of Peterbell, was lapping at outskirts of the village. No homes appeared flooded.

CNR officials said the flooding was likely to continue for another two days.

REMOVE GENERATORS

The railway removed vital generators from the district. Two command centres with field radios and helicopters were established on the main line from Peterbell to watch the situation.

At Foleyet, 80 miles southeast of Peterbell, the Ivanhoe River continued to drop. The area was partly submerged by a 13-foot flood crest which passed.

CNR work crews were sent into the area to make sandbag reinforcements of roadbed. Regular trains have been rerouted around Foleyet.

Two work trains were standing by should new flooding develop. Equipment from the survey at Fort William was being moved in and 300 employees were engaged in mopping-up operations.

FLOOD CREST MOVES ON

Further south, Lake Timiskaming's flood crest was rolling slowly down the Ottawa Valley. It did little damage but precautionary evacuations were made at various points along the river. Sixty families were still isolated from their homes at Fort Coulonge, Que.

At Collingwood, on Georgian Bay, heavy rains drained off the blue mountains and flooded streets and cellars. Truck gardens were severely damaged.

Toronto board of control, remembering the communities that came to the city's aid after Hurricane Hazel in 1954, recommended Toronto contribute $5,000 to the Foleyet relief fund.

Case of Red Spy Caught in USA Handled Minus International Row

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The case of a Russian employee of the United Nations secretariat, caught napping at the time of premier Khrushchev's visit to the United States last year, was handled efficiently and without international uproar, says Vice-President Nixon.

The unexpected revelation of the Russian spy case enlivened the windup of the vice-president's New York state tour.

The Russian was identified at UN headquarters as Vadim A. Kirilyuk, a former political affairs officer in the territorial research and analysis section of the trusteeship division.

At first Nixon said that two members of the Russian UN delegation had been caught spying in the U.S. The very time Khrushchev was addressing the UN in New York. Later, an aide said Nixon meant to say the incident was in Springfield, Mass.

Then Nixon confirmed that the pair actually had not been arrested. Later he said one Russian, a UN secretariat employee, had been sent home after an investigation by Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

Nixon said he had been directly involved and is still in the U.S., but that an American from whom the pair sought highly secret information at Springfield is in the clear, the vice-president said.

Nixon came to Buffalo after visits to Auburn and Syracuse. He was greeted at the airport here, and again at appearances at a politici reception and two receptions, in a campaign-like atmosphere of bands, banners and shouting crowds.

Mohawk Indian To Be Ordained Anglican Priest

KINGSTON (CP) — Glendon Brant, 25-year-old Mohawk Indian, will be the central figure in an historically significant event next Sunday on the Tyendinaga Indian reserve near Deseronto.

The young man will be ordained as a priest of the Anglican church. The first time in the long history of the church that a full-blooded Indian has been raised to the priesthood.

The service will take place in Christ Church, on the reserve, filled with history of the stirring days when the Mohawk band first set foot on its soil, May 22, 1784.

Mr. Brant is descendant of this early group of Christian Indians.

His ordination as a priest of the Anglican church follows his studies at Trinity College, University of Toronto, and his work as assistant rector at St. George's Church, Trenton.

USA, Britain, France Stand Supported by NATO Council

PARIS (CP)—The permanent council of the North Atlantic Treaty organization expressed unanimous support of the United States, Britain and France today in the tense situation following the breakdown of the summit conference.

The Big Three Western foreign ministers reported to a special meeting of the NATO council on last week's stormy diplomatic events. The 15-country council reaffirmed its "complete solidarity" and pledged to back the foreign ministers' readiness to continue to seek solution of world problems by "peaceful means through negotiations."

The council also expressed approval of Big Three readiness "to take part in such negotiations at any suitable time in the future."

A NATO spokesman told reporters the delegates "paid tribute to the spirit of conciliation of the three Western chiefs of government and the calm and dignity they showed" during the shortlived negotiations to get the summit conference going.

This was the first step in Western strategy for the new cold war conflict expected to grow out of the summit failure.

A high NATO official said the collapse of the talks had "produced self-interest" at the alliance's headquarters.

The NATO leaders felt that in the face of possible spectacular or dramatic moves in the East, the western powers should cogently proceed with an "agonizing reappraisal" of all the factors of the unity.

The official said this reappraisal should mainly concern the economic sphere, where discord among NATO powers had been increasing on the eve of the summit.

Canada, NATO leaders hoped, both the six-country European Common Market and the "Outer Seven" European free trade association would draw nearer to each other in the face of political and economic challenges from the East.

Industry Rejoices, Govt Pleased With Dollar Drop

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Industry is rejoicing and the government showing satisfaction here as the premium on the Canadian dollar declines.

In terms of United States money the Canadian dollar dropped Wednesday to $1.01 31-64, the lowest figure the dollar has reached in more than a year.

Industry, particularly paper firms, mines, hotels and those connected with tourism, applauded the drop, at the same time counting the savings it will bring them—or, in the case of the tourist industry, the revenue it would mean.

"It's a the government showed quiet pleasure, but adopted a wait-and-see attitude before saying anything publicly.

ITS FISCAL POLICY

The trend fits into the government's fiscal policy. Both the present government and the former Liberal administration have taken the ways to bring the dollar down easily without upsetting government control that would bring inflation.

Even if the dollar dropped no lower than Wednesday's mark it would mean a huge annual gain for the pulp and paper industry, which estimates it loses $10,000,000 yearly for each one per cent premium.

D. W. Ambridge, president of Abitibi Power and Paper Limited said the dollar premium cost his firm $4,000,000 last year.

Metal producers benefit from the decline. Each one per cent drop in premium means $1,500,000 added annual revenue for gold producers. Each drop means about $10,000,000 additional yearly income for other mineral extractors.

TOURIST BLOCK

"The premium on the Canadian dollar has in past years been perhaps the biggest single stumbling block to travel by U.S. tourists in Canada," said Erwin Swarbrick, executive assistant of the Canadian Travel Association.

Besides the increased value, the dollar drop will mean less embarrassment for resort operators or merchants with a large U.S. clientele.

They either took th U.S. money and accepted a loss, or explained patiently to American visitors that their U.S. dollars, though worthless, were worth a worth face value in Canada.

But now the Americans dollar meant the government had to use taxpayers money to subsidize gold mines whose only market is in the U.S. at a fixed $35 an ounce in U.S. funds.

BILLS TO PROVIDE HARBOR BOARDS RUN INTO SNAG

Chevrier's Remarks Rankle Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons, offered the safe glow of harbor lights, chose Wednesday to ride into a storm.

Bills to provide harbor commissions for Oshawa, Ont., and Manitoulin, Ont., set the course for short-lempered exchanges.

Liberal members accused the government of doling out funds for harbor development. The Conservatives and the Liberals were the idlers while in power.

Transport Minister Hees said the Progressive Conservative government has had a special team available for harbors development advice since 1957, and it had visited 42 ports from New Brunswick to Ontario.

Douglas Fisher (CCF — Port Arthur) had called for Oshawa to have debate by-reranking that Oshawa should have had some master plan for harbor development as advocated by Lionel Chevrier (Liberal — Lachine-Lasalle).

Mr. Chevrier's remarks the previous day obviously had rankled the transport minister.

He said Mr. Chevrier had left the impression that government commissions should not be set up until a master plan for the harbor had been made of the whole St. Lawrence Seaway Authority.

Mr. Chevrier was not finished on reading into the record the report of the 22 communities described by the special harbors team, plus the dates of the visits and of the reports.

The team, he said, consists of engineers, engineers and economists from the departments of transport and public works. Through the team reports, the transport department was in an excellent position to take a quick over-all view of the whole problem of the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence.

The harbor bills received second reading—approval in principle—and were sent to committee for study.

Earlier, W. H. McMillan (Liberal — Simcoe East) urged the government would play in local harbor development before after the Oshawa commission was set up.

The commission would have the right to borrow money. Would public funds be available?

Paul Martin (L—Essex East) said that similar financial aspects were discussed, the Commons was precluded from determining whether the Oshawa, Ont., harbor commissions would be able to do their work.

Oshawa and Windsor, in his own constituency, could become great harbors but they would happen—unless an aggressive policy were pursued by everyone.

New Russ Insults Bury Hopes Of Cooling Tempers

Reds Urge Quick Meet Of UN Security Council

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) The Russians pressed today for a speedy United Nations Security Council meeting on American spy flights over Russia to get the lump on a United States proposal for international aerial inspection against surprise attack.

With the collapse of the summit conference, Russia's Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko issued a cablegram from Paris Wednesday night asking an emergency session of the council. The Russians charged the U.S. Air Force with aggressive flights against the Soviet Union, creating a threat to universal peace.

Sir Claude Corea, president of the council for May, told reporters he would decide today when to schedule the meeting.

WANT QUICK ACTION

The Soviet charge said the Russians wanted the meeting Friday or Saturday, obviously to avoid the pre-Monday stage without competition from the "open skies" proposal President Eisenhower said the U.S. would submit to the world organization. But it appeared unlikely that the meeting would be arranged before Monday.

It was announced Gromyko will fly to New York Friday to attend the meeting in person.

U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge planned to go to Washington for weekend consultations with Eisenhower and State Secretary Christian Herter.

Lodge was in a position to know said the U.S. made no effort to beat Russia to the punch before the UN. These sources said the U.S. wants to avoid any spirit of "haste."

Diplomats here expressed doubt that the Soviet Union could get the seven votes needed to push a resolution condemning the U.S. through the council. Only Poland is expected to join Russia in voting for the resolution, but the other nine members are expected either to vote against it or abstain. Only Russia, Poland, Britain, France, Nationalist China, Argentina, Ecuador, Italy, Tunisia and the U.S.

Russia's two seats were sure to veto any American proposal for aerial inspection. Premier Khrushchev had rejected proposal during the abortive summit conference in Paris.

Gromyko's telegram to Coreo did not specifically mention the American U-2 spy plane that Russia brought down on May Day.

West Wondering What Fresh Twist Will Emerge From K. in East Berlin

LONDON (Reuters) — Still blinking with astonishment at Nikita Khrushchev's explosive news conference in Paris Wednesday, the West wondered today what new twist may emerge from the fury in East Berlin.

Most British evening leads made sad pronouncements over the course of the summit conference. There was a world-wide fear of a new cold war.

West Germany saw firms with headquarters in West Berlin lose heavily in the Frankfurt exchange, Frankfurt exchange.

West Germans felt as let down as the big powers over failure to reach a pact.

India's Prime Minister Nehru called the breakdown "very sad." He said no good could come from angry approaches to difficult problems.

Swedish papers were strongly critical of Khrushchev's final press conference and his behavior generally in Paris.

The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda today blamed the United States for the summit breakdown and said American politicians who wanted the cold war to continue had been "scared to death" that the conference would take place.

Pakistani President Mohammed Ayub Khan said the conference gave makes it all the more necessary for the free world to strengthen its defences for the maintenance of freedom.

Yugoslav officials feared that a new cold war revival might worsen that non-Moscow Communist country's position between East and West and might encourage increased Soviet-bloc pressure to force Yugoslavia back into the Soviet fold.

Labour party leader Hugh Gaitskell said here that American errors of judgment over the spy plane incident, "grave as they were, did not justify Mr. Khrushchev's use of it as an excuse at Paris."

Liberal party leader Jo Grimond urged the U.S. not to retreat behind a curtain of "her own fears and suspicions."

General Meeting to Decide Chamber of Commerce Status

TRENTON — At yesterday's directors' meeting of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce, it was decided that a general meeting of the chamber members will be held in early June. Members will be asked if it is their wish that a nominating committee be appointed and an election of officers held at this meeting or at a September meeting.

Two of the directors said that they had received complaints from Trenton residents that the Chamber was still continuing to function as a provisional body.

Director George Kempf pointed out that the Chamber was entirely within its rights to function as an embryonic group until an annual meeting could be called in April of 1961. He said that while the group was still a provisional body, with provisional officers, it had adopted the by-laws of the Ontario chamber on a provisional basis. He said that he felt the members "would be satisfied with the present arrangements if a general meeting was called and the members acquainted with the facts.

Douglas Whitney, provincial president, said that he thought an election of permanent officers should be held as soon as possible.

Ian Darling, heading a committee appointed to ascertain the general feeling among the town's merchants to a suggestion that all retail stores should stay closed on Monsoor and open on Wednesday afternoon, reported that nearly all merchants contacted had held at some time they would approve of this suggestion, which would give store employees a two-day weekend.

He said that some merchants had postponed a decision on the matter until the general feeling was apparent.

In response to a number of complaints from merchants, the chamber had set up this committee. George Kempf said that he felt the merchants and the general public should be made aware of the fact that the idea had not come from the Chamber members themselves. He said that the public might very well think that the Chamber was "trying to run things." Mr. Kempf felt that the committee should attend to all negotiations concerning the Monday closing and that the Chamber as a whole should not receive the suggestion. He said that the functions of the chamber was to work for the betterment of the community as a whole and that the members should be careful that any one group would not feel that the chamber was "shouting" ideas upon it.

Mr. Whitney reported that Trenton's probation officer Dennie Atkins was seeking more information from the provincial government concerning an approved-ship plan, that Mr. Atkins had outlined to the chamber at the last directors' meeting. Mr. Whitney said that he would like to recommend that John Peter, Archie McNeil and Don Whitley be added to the committee appointed by the chamber to examine the merits of the plan. He said that he felt these three men would contribute to the program in a worthwhile way.

Ben Kroczsz, chairman of the committee, said that he had received a booklet from the Midland Chamber of Commerce outlining apprenticeship for boys coming out of the lower grades of high school, and suggesting careers for graduates. Mr. Kroczsz was asked to make this booklet available to the guidance department at Trenton High School.

The Trenton Ministerial Association had written to the chamber asking that in future years Easter Day parades be held on some day other than Sunday. It was decided to acknowledge receipt of the letter.

The chamber has received permission to erect a bulletin booth at the foot of Farley's Hill, and this will be arranged in the near future.

Peter DeDuke reported that William Menzies of the Trenton branch of the Canadian Legion had told him that the Department of Highways and the Department of Transport had agreed to set up picnic tables along the Trent waterway. Individuals have also offered to donate such tables.

George Kempf and Walter Wrightman agreed to supply uniforms and laundry service for the Trenton dock attendant, and Ian Darling offered to arrange to have a grist took for boat-owners to sign at the dock.

Mr. Whitney said that $500

Body Recovered

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—The body of Ernest Mills of nearby Bridgenorth was recovered from the Otonabee River Wednesday within 300 yards of the spot where he drowned Saturday. His boat overturned while he was fishing.

NOT TIRED — This could have a double meaning for 26-year-old Victor Weisnik, of Vancouver, now on the home stretch of a round-the-world bicycle safari. With still 3,000 miles to go tire trouble is his biggest worry.

Round-the-World Bike Traveller Three Thousand Miles From Goal

The end of a three year safari for the world bicycle trip-per is only another three thousand miles away for 26-year-old Victor Zeleiaski, of Vancouver, now on his way home after traversing five continents.

Victor stopped off briefly in Belleville at noon today and some time tonight expected to reach Toronto—if his tires hold out.

Since leaving Vancouver in June, 1957, Victor rode south across the United States, through Mexico and Central American countries and south through Brazil.

From there he took a boat to Africa and after crossing that continent went into Asia, stopping off in Pakistan for a month where he took a job to replenish his depleted wallet.

Since then he has crossed Russia, pedalled his way across the Australian countries and landed in Halifax around May 1.

So far the bicycle safari has cost Victor around $5,000 in cash which he considers cheap for the time element involved, has worn out 17 chains and broken five bicycle wheels.

He is soon due for another pair of new tires with the rubber on his bike getting tread bare and bumpy.

Latest tire trouble was last night at Deseronto, where he made repairs with the aid of light from a close-by motel.

Today at noon Victor stopped off briefly in Belleville where he bought provisions at a supermarket and attracted an interested crowd of onlookers along Pinnacle St.

Neighbors Help Seed Land

PICTON — Good neighbors in action were seen at the farm of Al. Flavelle, three miles east of Picton yesterday. Fifteen tractors operated by friends of Mr. Flavelle were at work from dawn to dark, cultivating, seeding and rolling more than fifty acres of land.

The seeding bee was organized as a result of Mr. Flavelle's illness. He has been a patient in Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital almost continuously since last November and two weeks ago underwent a major operation. His concern over being unable to get the spring farm work done was solved when the fifteen farmers from Green Point, Mount Carmel and Woodville converged on the farm yesterday and things really hummed.

"It was the greatest thing in our lives", said Mrs. Flavelle. "When we bought this farm last Fall, many of these same good neighbors helped us move from Green Point. Now again they have joined in banishing the worries we have had over not being able to get seeding done. It is truly wonderful to have such friends."

Instead, the Soviet foreign minister charged that American military aircraft had repeatedly encroached on Soviet air space and that the U.S. government had "adopted these actions . . . which violate the frontiers of other sovereign states to be its state policy."

"The Soviet government," the statement said, "expects that the Security Council . . . will take the necessary measures to halt the unbridled aggressive actions of the United States of America."

The Soviet foreign minister ignored President Eisenhower's announcement to Monday's Big Four summit session that American flights over Soviet territory had been stopped and would not be resumed.

Earlier, after the UN made Gromyko's message public, Lodge issued a statement denying that there had been "aggressive acts" such as the Soviet complaint alleged. He took the president's line that the flights by unarmed aircraft had been purely defensive.

Brer Groundhog, Skunks Take To City Life

Belleville as a wildlife sanctuary is becoming popular with the skunks and groundhogs.

At least that is the impression gained by city dog catcher Charles Thorn who, within the past few days has been called upon to dispose of no less than three skunks and a groundhog — all on the same street in East Belleville.

again who do not want an understanding. Certainly there were people in the U.S. who wanted to forgedo the summit for which the peoples had waited and on which they had placed such hopes.

"But the questions which were to have been discussed there have not lost their significance. These include the conclusion of a peace treaty with the Germans and a solution of the problem of Berlin which is connected therewith."

"In view of the new situation, we have to talk with comrades Ulbricht and Grotewohl. I think that the coming exchange of views will be useful for the peace of Europe."

Khrushchev made no new threats against West Berlin, but he said he was going to talk the Berlin problem over with East German Communist leaders.

While Khrushchev was receiving a brass-band welcome from East German leaders, Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin expressed "unshakeable confidence" that the Western powers would protect his government from Khrushchev's threats of a Communist takeover of the city.

Brandt told his legislature: "We all have to stand closer to each other in the future not only here in Berlin but in the whole of Germany. We must stand together as one in the rigid rejection of threats to freedom and peace.

"We have unshakeable confidence in our allies and in our guarantees and help for Berlin. Neither threats nor blackmail will cause us to lose our patience and determination."

Berlin, he added, remains "the proving stone" of Soviet policy.

There was still no expectation that the Soviet premier and the East German leaders would actually sign the peace treaty between the Soviet Union and the East German government which Khrushchev so often has threatened.

But the general belief that any peace treaty would be preceded by a peace conference with Communist countries only if the Western allies repeated their earlier doubt by Khrushchev's statement at his press conference in Paris Wednesday.

He said then that the peace treaty draft had been prepared and would be signed "when we consider the time to be right."

Khrushchev left no doubt that his aim to drive the Western allies out of West Berlin has not changed since he first raised the issue in November, 1958.

Signing of a peace treaty with the East German regime, he said, would "put an end finally to the Second World War."

"In that case, the Western powers will be deprived of their communication rights, the right to maintain troops in West Berlin."

There was speculation in Western circles that the East German Communists are delaying on the signing of a peace treaty so the Western diplomats suggested that the East Berlin regime is afraid that many of its citizens would see such a treaty as a new step toward certain, and would flee to the West.

BERLIN THREAT

He threatened to make a separate peace treaty with East Germany, he forecast that the Western allies would lose their right to West Berlin, swore he did not set a deadline for a Berlin showdown, declared the Castro government in Cuba and Communist Premier Fidel Castro decided that more Latin-American countries would find the answer is "American imperialism."

Through it all, Premier Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky, Soviet defence minister, sat beside the premier. Were a diplomat to thought Malinovsky's constant attendance on Khrushchev during his Paris stay highly significant:

A reminder of Soviet military might and possible a message sent by Kremlin advocates of a tough policy to give their leader they did not plug his previous statement of patience line even in private talks.

While Khrushchev met the press, Eisenhower visited Bonn and de Gaulle met at the Elysee Palace with foreign ministers and discussed "the international situation now prevailing." They issued no statement.

WHAT EXPERTS SAY

Among their experts, at least a large majority were in print probably if not provably true:

1. Khrushchev is not going to start World War III in 1960 or 1961 completely-controlled by him and threatening line in relations. Nothing to apologize for the spy flights. But he praised them warmly for their efforts to arrange the summit conference and save it from failure.

3. Khrushchev will never agree to another meeting at the summit so long as Eisenhower is president, even if Eisenhower could be persuaded to meet.

4. The whole theory of summit diplomacy now is in question. Professional diplomats have long feared the consequences of letting the personal feelings and prestige of two such powerful men as Eisenhower and Khrushchev.

Scale Model Steam Engine Operates Under Own Power

A lifetime dream of retired mechanic Clayton Palmer, 71 of R.R. 2 Consecon, has recently been realized in the completion of a working scale model Case steam traction engine now on display at Garage Supply Company in Belleville.

The steam traction engine, weighing about 120 is an exact-scale model of the real thing, which was in its heyday a portable steam power for farm threshing machines just after the turn of the century.

The engine will operate either by steam from its own miniature coal fired boiler, or by compressed air as being demonstrated at the local automotive supply company.

A former machinist with The Greenleaf Company in Belleville, Mr. Palmer retired about two years ago after working most of more than 25 years with the local firm.

The dream of building a scale model steam traction engine had been with him for many years, but its actual construction has been carried out since his retirement about five years ago. He built the engine in his own workshop from parts and equipment which he had been accumulating over the years.

The actual cost of the Palmer's dream engine was in the neighborhood of $500, as countless hours of painstaking machine works on parts and in castings and grinding other components.

The model portable steam engine is completed in every detail, even down to governors and forward and reverse traction gearing.

And the staccato report of the exhaust as the engine barks out under load, brings back fond memories for old time lovers of steampower.

Ted Schwab First Chairman Transit Body

Chairman of the city's newly formed Transit Commission, appointed to direct the operations of the city-owned bus line, is T. E. Schwab.

Appointment of Mr. Schwab as chairman was made during the first meeting of the commission held this week. Treasurer J. City Treasurer C. J. Bender, with Miss Muriel Johnston as secretary and Walter Lewington as operational manager.

Mr. Schwab told the Ontario Intelligencer today that the commission plans to hold weekly meetings. These to be held every Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, following which news releases will be given to the newspaper.

"It will be the policy of the Commission to keep the taxpayers informed as much as possible of the operations of the Belleville Transit Commission," Mr. Schwab said.

Mr. Schwab noted that the commission will invite suggestions or complaints regarding bus service, the only condition being that these must be in writing and signed. All signed complaints will be carefully considered at the next meeting of the commission.

Transit commission members are Chairman T. E. Schwab, Kenneth Pinder and Sidney Sillitoe.

Phyllis Marshall Once Sang at Tobe's Gardens

Toronto song stylist Phyllis Marshall, star of television, radio and night clubs, once sang at Tobe's County Gardens.

This was disclosed in an interview with the versatile jazz and blues songstress last night at the Belleville Sales and Ad Club Ladies' Night at the Club Commodore.

Miss Marshall, who provided the feature entertainment during the gala evening, said she had sung at Tobes with a small jazz group for one summer "a few years ago."

She declined to say how many years ago. She did say it was at the start of her singing career, while she was still attending school.

Miss Marshall, who has sung with such well known orchestras as the Percy Faith Orchestra, recently returned from a three-month trip to London, Paris and Rome. She appeared on BBC-television in London during most of her overseas trip, and had singing engagements in Paris. Her visit to Rome, however, was purely for a "Roman holiday."

PLANS TO RETURN

"There is a marvellous atmosphere in London, Paris, there are more entertainment mediums there than in Canada," she said in discussing the pros and cons of living abroad.

Miss Marshall, who is not content to merely have a successful singing career, is turning her talents in another direction —the field of dramatics. Encouraged by old hands in drama critic, she has entered the field of semi-professional acting and has appeared in several reviews.

Known for vocalising, she said she prefers appearing on television and in small, intimate night clubs, where the "atmosphere" is best suited to her dynamic stylings.

Her immediate commitments call for her to appear on two more television shows this year followed by "possible New York appearances."

She said she can't elaborate on the "possible New York commitments" because arrangements have not been finalized as yet.

Conference Scuttled

The Summit Conference was not torpedoed—it was scuttled.

It follows that somebody was responsible.

Who?

With one Nikita Khrushchev posing for pictures with his hand on the open sea-cocks, that may seem like a foolish question. But there is a suggestion that he was shoved.

Who might have pushed? Well, there are several suspects. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of Germany, for one, has long viewed the summit meeting with a jaundiced eye. It so happens, however, that he is usually quite innocent of wrongdoing, although possibly not by choice. General Charles de Gaulle has been something less than enthusiastic about the parley and managed to postpone it for almost a year, but here again innocence is easily proven. Prime Minister Macmillan is beyond suspicion. He had striven mightily to ascertain the guests, only to have the ship sink under him at dock-side. There remain two groups of suspects—President Eisenhower and those behind him on the one hand and those behind Khrushchev on the other.

Eisenhower did not help open the sea-cocks—but a fairly strong case can be made out for charging him as an accessory before the fact. That any shove he gave Khrushchev was not intended to have the result it did does not entirely absolve him of blame.

We are not referring here to the much-debated question of the timing of the "spy plane" flight over Russia on the eve of the conference. It is surely evident to any person of reasonable intelligence that this was not the reason why Khrushchev scuttled the conference, but only the excuse for doing so. What is not certain is whether Eisenhower intended to use the plane incident for that purpose, or whether he was forced to do so by pressure from within the Communist hierarchy. William L. Ryan, Associated Press news analyst, suggests that Khrushchev is under pressure from three sources, from Stalinists in the Russian Communist party, from the Soviet military and from those who are aware of their own technological unemployment resulting from total disarmament than many of their counterparts in other lands, and from the Chinese Communists. All this is possible, but one ought to hesitate before concluding that it is probable. If Khrushchev is not really boss, it would explain much, would enable us to assemble a pattern of response to pressures out of a long record of blowing hot and cold. But even if Khrushchev alone was responsible for the decision to scuttle the conference, it is possible to find logical reasons for his decision.

What is more difficult is to find a logical reason for the way in which the United States handled the whole "spy plane" incident. After the U.S. admitted responsibility for the flight, newspapermen reported the flights would continue. This was their interpretation of a statement by Secretary of State Herter, Sunday, on a television interview. George V. Allen, director of the U.S. Information Agency, said Herter had not said this. Herter, said Allen, had stated "that there is an obligation and responsibility on the part of the U.S. government and of the free world to try to obtain information that would prevent surprise attack, but he had not said we are going to continue to fly." Yet, up to Sunday, newspaper reports repeatedly said that these flights would continue and there was no correction, nor even an attempt to discourage this interpretation of what Herter had said. Indeed, as the Associated Press said in a report early Monday "no high administration official has given a flat statement that the flights are continuing or have been stopped."

A short time later a high administration official, President Eisenhower himself, did make a flat statement—he promised there would be no more such flights. It is not clear how long this pledge is effective. Reports from Paris say that Khrushchev's demands for an apology for past flights, punishment of those responsible and a pledge such flights will not be repeated came after the announcement the flights had stopped. But it is not certain Eisenhower's statement was made in this is a fact, or whether Allen's ambiguous television interview, mentioned above, was being interpreted as an announcement that flights had stopped. In any event, if Khrushchev knew before he spoke that the flights had been stopped, he became aware of this only a few minutes before he voiced his demands.

If keeping him in the dark in this manner was not deliberate U.S. strategy, for some obscure purpose which escapes us completely, then it can only be described as a woefully inept way to handle a most delicate situation.

Incidentally, if Khrushchev was really being pushed by "internal politics", as he hinted, his all-too-evident annoyance with Eisenhower could be the result of this timing of the U.S. announcement that the spy flights had ceased. If he did not want to scuttle the conference, perhaps he believes he could have avoided doing so had the U.S. announced earlier that the flights had ended.

Spring Visit to England A Rewarding Experience

By G. A. MORTON

Article 3

Since our return from a holiday spent mainly in London and southern England we have given considerable thought to how many of our own purely personal experiences should be included in a report on our trip. There is always the danger of getting involved in descriptions of events which would have no interest to the casual reader. And yet, when one enjoys new experiences, even small ones, there is a reasonable possibility there are many others who would like to share in them as well. It is to this end alone that we address a short series of articles which will appear daily. If we state opinions they are our own and we guess accurate it will be because there was little opportunity to check reliable sources. We would appreciate being corrected if a letter is addressed to the editor and these letters will be summarized at the conclusion of the series.

Having enjoyed an ocean voyage last spring to the Caribbean it was decided that a trip by the United Kingdom, but principally southern England, would be an interesting change. Sailing out of New York on the C.P.S. Empress of England we found ourselves in surroundings which would be hard to equal in any other way. They were only two days which demanded nothing more than the energy of moving from one pleasant activity to another during our waking hours, and a night of good sound sleep. Even the temperamental Atlantic was in peace-time mood for most of the voyage.

The meal hours with their large selections of choice food were spaced to maintain interest all the day, later on we may point the menus for one day to give some idea of the wide choice of items which could be had if appetite and good weather permitted. These menus were for the first class passengers and the first class was most equally as lavish. At 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. bouillon and tea were served in the lounges where a four-piece orchestra entertained with pleasant music. Bingo was played after dinner at 8:30 then a film, the choice of a first-run movie in Montreal. Each day the passengers in the Empress room to a lively band. News broadcasts were given regularly and also a six-page newspaper in tabloid form of interesting items of the day of a newspaper. A library with an excellent supply of books to read was available at hand also. Many booked deck chairs on the promenade deck to take the good weather discouraging their use. On Sunday, divine services were held at 11 a.m. and these were non-denominational. All available officers, especially were filled when the Captain and his staff officiated at these and kept the service. This consisted of readings from the Scriptures, singing of hymns under the lead of a string orchestra and prayers by the Captain. The service lasted for a half hour and we found it very fitting for the occasion.

After arrival aboard ship and getting settled in our stateroom which was found to be of good size and comfortably furnished, the manner in which meals were always to be attended to promptly was checking with the dining room steward and getting seating arrangements at tables.

Within a day or two during our transportation we asked to be placed at a table for six so when we inquired about where our table was, the steward said we were to be seated at the captain's table. We had been accorded this honor a year ago but were expected to have it happen again so soon, especially when there were over one hundred officers, many of whom were more deserving than we. There were the Rt. Hon. Albert Mitchell of Vancouver, Mr. Speaker of Ottawa, a surgeon specializing in abdominal surgery, a gynecology. Mr. Mitchell, who owns a large general insurance business in Vancouver, is a veteran member of the Royal Flying Corps of the First Great War and knew well many of the officers we knew. We felt honored in the esteem and affections of the public during those momentous years.

We could not have met two more delightful people in our trip that a friendship begun so auspiciously may continue even though we are separated by an inconvenient distance. This was merely the first of many happy events which fell to our lot during trip, but more about that later.

To be continued tomorrow.

Cooking Key To Fish Sales

The Fisheries Council of Canada addresses itself to the wrong people when it asks the Canadian housewife to eat more fish to help the industry along. The appeal should be directed to the restaurant proprietors. Canadians don't eat enough fish because the average restaurant cook doesn't know how to cook it.

Mrs. N. Houston, spokesman for the council, sees more hope for the future if Canadians would eat a few more pounds of fish every year. But he only goes half way when he suggests that samples of certain fish should be served in restaurants, and rid of the unpalatable name "cod fillet".

But his main ally would be the cafe manager who buys the good fresh fish and then cooks it keeps it properly and cooks and serves it with affection. Wise Listen, Others Talk

Brooks Bulletin

Are you so confident that your own judgment is sound and your own opinions are right that you don't even listen to the opinions of others?

If you were more willing to listen you might have learned enough to make you a great success in life.

You can think of men who have failed in life, but you said very little and let you do most of the talking.

You like getting what they could out of your experiences and then you went on your way and help them forward.

Too busy listening, these men and women have failed to learn much.

They would not think of relying upon themselves entirely.

They seek to get the point of view and the slant of others.

The wise man is glad to have suggestions and often he finds that study of different views enables him to evolve something better.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

As an added attraction to the already high-class program laid down by the committee in charge, two brand new motor vehicles will be sold for one dollar each at the 1940 edition of the Belleville Fair members of the Fair Board announced last night at a regular meeting. In the event of a farmer being one of the lucky winners, he will have the option of selecting an automobile or a tractor, the board decided.

Proof that the boating season has once more arrived, a count of the craft now anchored in the inner harbor yesterday afternoon revealed fourteen boats — fourteen motor and yachtsmen had their boats back into the water after the winter's idleness. According to Mr. Cook at the Belleville Yacht Club, there has been as yet little activity on the part of the club members toward planning for their first boating races of the season, which are usually held on the 24th of May.

CHILD GUIDANCE CLINICS HELP EMOTIONAL PROBLEMS

"Dear Dr. Molner: In the last few months my nine-year-old son has been doing things and trying to blame it on his brother and sister. We have to lock everything up. We can't turn our back on him, but something comes up missing. He also gets up at night and takes matches out of the cupboard and hides them under his pillow. He also steals things out of his teacher's desk at school. Can we help him to overcome this?" — Mrs. C. E. M."

Yes, but I doubt if there is anything you can do without getting some expert help. The little boy, obviously, has become very twisted in his attitude toward life, even though he wouldn't have any idea as to what he means by "attitude toward life".

Such repeated stealing is an indication that he is suffering from some sort of serious emotional quirk. And the business of taking matches sounds so potentially dangerous to me that I would get to the bottom of it before that he can't possibly get any more around the house.

I'm not a child psychiatrist and I will not pretend to understand the complex factors which lead to a case like this.

However, many cities — and not just the large ones, either — have child guidance clinics which very often can handle cases just like the one you describe. I have seen remarkable cases in which the symptoms have been quite different, but with the basic trouble due to emotional pressure which developed and their removal.

In your city (I can tell this from your address) you live not over three miles from such a guidance clinic.

I do hope, however, that we do not have enough of these clinics. I feel that there are enough to handle the very large need. Sometimes you have to be placed on a waiting list. However, the clinics try to make the most serious cases.

Anyway, whether you have to wait or not, I think you should apply at your nearest clinic as soon as possible.

Many parents who have similar problems should ask their family doctors or school officials to refer them to child guidance clinics in their areas.

Mrs. C., we don't have enough of them yet, but as people see the value of these clinics, I feel confident that there will be public support for establishing more of them.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I was told by an unauthorized person that gold flecks in the eyes of a child indicate that it is a signature of some other race. Is this true?" — Mrs. L. M.

I don't know of any reliable basis for such a statement about "gold flecks in the eyes". But you consider it logical that the eyes can disclose some racial element in a person's ancestry? There is no way by which we can determine the ancestry of anybody, except by tracing his or her family tree.

Strictly Personal

'Whitewashing' Done With Black Ink

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices:

Persons who are addicted to using the phrase "I'm sure you aren't generally having as much fun as they think they are. Joy is not diminished by conspicuousness of it.

Humility, as G. K. Thomas once observed, is a virtue that disappears the moment it confronts itself: When you say "I feel humility in this," he is no longer feeling humility, but pride in his humbleness.

Newspaper publishers ought to be provided with an electrical device on the sill so that the doors would fly open of their own accord as you are entering.

Nothing is more galling to a famous man than to be admired by being misunderstood.

Nothing is more over used who knew how to handle a wife were confused husbands.

We don't mind being wrong so much as we mind being thought stupid for not having found out our fear of disapproval that makes for so much uncertainty and timidity in human relations.

No time is riper for the appearance of an original thinker than when all the experts agree on something. This is the best sign that a revolution in thought is imminent.

We still call it "whitewashing," but most of it is done with black ink.

It's curious that nobody can be quite so intolerant of intolerance as the man who proclaims his unyielding opposition to all dogma.

Dean Inge, the Anglican prelate, made one of the most sensible remarks on political attitudes when he observed: "There are two kinds of fools — one says, 'This is old, therefore it is good,' and the other says, 'This is new, therefore it is better.'"

Open-mindedness or fortitude is mistaken for patience; and, contrariwise, how often nervousness is taken for courage.

The bad qualities we most hate in others are those we secretly suspect we share; practically nobody could get along with identical twin, accidentally met.

Three adjoining ads in a magazine: one about "Gravy Magic," "Color Magic," and "Motor Magic" — indicating that what we really want from our products is irrational, infantile and impossible.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

HANDS AND LIFE

Nothing in this body of ours is as expressive as are the hands. That is why hands were made so beautiful — and at any age.

Watch a handshake of a child and man, and the warm and sympathetic handshake of the understanding woman. I have a small scarring of hands by a scar on each. It is full of life and beauty. The story of life is in the hands, and will be to the very end of activity.

I loved my Mother's hands, because they were the hands of a Mother and worker. They were beautiful to me. I was always alert to the needs or problems of others. Rodin, the great French artist and sculptor, did a supreme piece of work, one which he called "Hand of God."

We all of us can recall the loved hands of our friend and Mother's love. In sickness, or suffering, the touch of God's love is comforting and full of cheer and to comfort. Artists study the human hand. They are the most difficult of all the organs of the body, to draw. Hands have a world of meaning to them. They create the works of craft work, but what goes on in the heart of the owners of hands is the most significant of all. Nothing is more truthful than the hands that rock the Cradle!

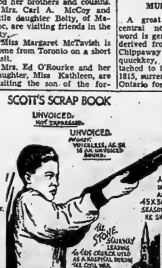
TEACHERS

"And they that are the teachers shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars forever and ever." (Daniel 12:3)



Yet both the superintendent and the teacher need to stop and consider. Nothing is more important to the future of any country than the education of children. Only children deserve the best. Nothing else is good enough.

To the superintendent I would say this: Pay less attention to reduction of classes, and more to character. Our pupils need fine teachers — not just holders of transcripts.

To the teacher I would say this: You are certainly underpaid and probably overworked. But you have the responsibility of one of the most important roles in our society. Even though we have not kept faith with you, still you must keep faith with the children you teach.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A friend who owns a convertible car took me for 4 top-down drive through the downtown district, and as we passed slowly through the traffic I was conscious of a strange nostalgic feeling. Something was missing and far away was trying to make itself remembered, and suddenly my sensation to my friend.

"It's the sidewalker buses you in London," he said, "where you sat on the open top deck in the old days before they closed them in."

That was it, sure enough. For here, in the open car, I could see something more than the old familiar first floor only of all my native city. I could see the first floors and the faces of the buildings.

For all their akyscrapers and tall handsome structures, modern cities are largely ground floor affairs behind their closed cars, in bus and street car or on foot, and only passers-by is conscious of are the windows of the street level. The big department stores, right, in storey's high, put all their display at that level, and nobody ever looks up, even to the second storey where all the world see would be packing cases, jumbles of merchandise hastily flung on window sills, and the backs of employees doing something humdrum such as filling a dress or and unseen dummy.

But in London, in the good old open double-decker days, second storey property was just as valuable, for display purposes as the costly ground floor. Copyright: Canada Wide

Will Form Minor Baseball Squirt League

The Belleville Minor Baseball Association will operate another division, for Squirt players under ten years of age, this summer, according to Recreation Director Lloyd "Red" Doran.

Doran said this morning that at the registration of peewee players recently a great number of youngsters under ten applied to get on teams. It was then decided to form the Squirt division for these "under-pee-wee-age" players.

The players have been placed on teams and the player lineups will be published shortly.

Right now, however, there is an urgent need for coaches to handle these Squirt teams. Anyone wishing to coach or help out with one of the clubs is asked to contact "Red" Doran at the Recreation Centre on Pinnacle Street.

W.H.A. Holds Panel-Skit On Nursing Requirements

On Tuesday afternoon, the Women's Hospital Auxiliary met in the new education hall. A plaque on the wall announced that the furnishings on this room had been supplied by the Auxiliary. The color scheme of yellow, off-white and green, with yellow draperies, was bright and cheerful.

Mrs. Benjamin Burley, the president, officiated throughout the interesting program.

The May executive meeting report was read by the secretary, Mrs. W. Musgrove. Mrs. W. Dallas gave the treasurer's report. Mrs. Mervyn Jones was happy to announce a membership of 180. The Opportunity Shop and Coffee Shop recorded their financial standings.

Letters of thanks were read from Mrs. L. Irvin of Toronto, a former secretary, Mrs. Werner Daechsel, and Mr. McLean Haig.

SYMPOSIUM HELD

The symposium for trustees to be held at the hospital on Wednesday was described by Mrs. Burley. Mrs. Sibett and Mrs. Jones were appointed to represent the Auxiliary, especially to hear the discussion on volunteer work which has been so successful here.

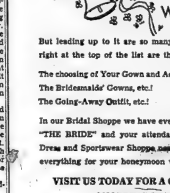
Mr. Daechsel will address the meeting and Mrs. Burley will extend greetings.

For taking a group of students to Kingston on Hospital Day, Mr. J. Sloan received the grateful thanks of the Auxiliary.

A note of regret crept into the deliberations here when the president announced that Mrs. Leroy Scott was leaving to reside in Montreal. Mrs. Scott has been guiding the work of the puppet committee, which in the last five months, with 14 members, has made 336 puppets for the hospital. The president said Mrs. Scott happiness in her new home and assured her that she would be missed.

Mrs. J. Forrester spoke effectively concerning the public duty campaign for the new hospital wing. A plan to ensure receipt of cards for the next 25 years was in the making and, with 400 on the waiting list, at present, this was an emergency situation. It would become the duty of the members of the Auxiliary to publicize this need for expansion.

APPRECIATION EXPRESSED



Mrs. Benjamin was profuse in expressing her appreciation to Mrs. Benjamin Safe and Mrs. Stanislav Kvarda for their outstanding effort in connection with the "Saturday Tea." To all those assisting she gave generous thanks.

The Tuesday program was of exceptional interest in that it dealt directly with the nursing instructors to be used out in the new Education Hall dedicated on Saturday.

Briefly Miss Doris Smith, Director of Nursing, introduced the panel taking part in the skit representing a prospective nursing student and her mother enquiring about the procedure for entering the hospital and the course of study to be taken.

The homebaking took the part of the Hospital Nursing Superintendent; Miss J. Crocker and Mrs. Percival Wesse acted the parts of student and mother. Miss M. Cormier narrated the highlights of the dialogue.

The resulting conversations brought out such important facts as entrance requirements; fees; uniforms; text books; hospital by-laws; text books; housing ceremony; hobbies, such as music; art and athletics; lectures; treatments; diets for special conditions and such like. Those present learned that a state-in-training has to spend 2000 hours in formal lectures, three months in care of the men-

"Lines on Life"

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

Nobody in his right mind would ask a dog to lay eggs or chickens to bark merely because at the moment called for eggs or barking.

Nor would we pat a tired horse and prod him by saying: "Be a man, old chap, be a man!"

Fyderowski once received an invitation to play before the Czar. The letter concluded with these words: "His Imperial Majesty is pleased that the world's most eminent musician is a Russian."

Paderewski hastily replied:

"His Imperial Majesty is mistaken. I am a Pole."

One of the most helpful aids to real stability comes with our recognition of who and what we are. Most of our personal trouble stems from making believe that we are something or somebody other than ourselves.

There are those who always are playing on the stage of fantasy the role of character whom they do not even resemble. Too often, everyone else recognizes the incongruity but themselves.

There are some who never act their age; their slips always show, however.

There are others, who, instead of trying to "live down" their folly try to hide their error by unsuccessfully "living it up."

Still others worship popularity at acceptance even at the price of self-destruction. But keeping up with the Joneses often keeps you down because you're not Jones and Jones knows it.

There is a healthiness of character in being proudly yourself. And being ruggedly so. When your child comes home and desires some stupid or even cruel things, you should know better than to surrender, whimsically, just because "everybody's doing it, or everybody's got it."

We can't tell a horse to be anything but a horse. But if you're a man, we should expect that you will act like one.

Nor should we expect Roman Catholics to be like Protestants or either to be like Jews. We ought to be wise enough to understand that all three groups have a right and a duty to themselves.

Indeed, there is something wrong in a society where they cannot be what, in fact, they are.

Those who live a life which is truly their own, have no need to beg, borrow or steal from the lives of others. They know how to live and to let live.

Don't Let Talk Stop You From Drinking Milk

EDMONTON (CP) — Don't let talk about radioactive strontium 90 stop you from drinking milk, advises Dr. C. F. Bentley, dean of agriculture at the University of Alberta.

If you do, chances are you will consume even more strontium 90 in other foods that have been contaminated by fall-out from nuclear explosions.

Dr. Bentley says fall-out now has contaminated every living plant and animal in the world. Milk probably contained less than most other foods.

He describes as misleading the talk about the radioactive level of milk, explaining that scientists use milk to test radiation levels because it is produced everywhere in Canada.

"Discontinuing or reducing milk consumption in the hope that intake of strontium 90 will be reduced is a serious mistake".

Milk contained considerably less strontium from fall-out than the feed the cow had eaten and the proportion of strontium to calcium was reduced considerably by the cow's digestive system.

"Conceivably the amount of strontium in the milk, compared with the calcium, is only about one-eighth as high as it is in the feed".

If the milk supply were cut off the human body would have to get its calcium from vegetables containing a much higher level of strontium.

ST. JAMES' C.W.L.

STIRLING — The regular meeting of the St. James' Parish C.W.L. was held on Thursday at the home of Mrs. John Keeby with 11 members present.

Final arrangements were made for the communion breakfast to be held at the Stirling Hotel on Sunday. This is for all the ladies of the parish and all who are able are urged to attend. The guest speaker will be Mrs. B. Burley of Belleville, who is the past Diocesan president.

A flower committee consisting of Miss Alice O'Donnell, Mrs. R. LeChappelle and Mrs. J. Doran, was formed, to make arrangements for flowers for the altar during the summer months. Anyone who would like to donate flowers could kindly call one of the above ladies.

The C.W.L. Diocesan convention, to be held in Kingston on June 12 and 13, will be attended by the president and secretary.

The meeting closed with prayer, followed by a social half hour.

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

The Women of the Moose held their first meeting for May in the Moose hall on Victoria Avenue, with Sr. Regt. Nellie Shandraw presiding.

Two candidates were favorably balloted on. Four new members were initiated into the chapter.

After the meeting a banquet was held for the White Cane Club with 30 members and their escorts, accompanied by Mrs. Prindle, Bernice Prindle, Evelyn Rollins, Edith Meeks, Marg Johnson, Nellie Szrymgeour and Isobel Phillips.

The banquet was served by Nellie Burke, assisted by Vivian Keller, Ruby Stapley, Nora Kiser, Gladys Ritch, Mildred Johnson to Mrs. Rollins for the White Cane recreation room.

Mrs. Walsh and Clarence Johnson thanked the chapter.

A cheque from the chapter was presented by Marg Johnson to Mrs. Rollins for the White Cane recreation room.

Mrs. Walsh and Clarence Johnson thanked the chapter.

Mildred Rushlow sang a solo and led in a singsong with Mrs. Rollins accompanying her on the piano.

At the next meeting all members are asked to bring something for a penny sale. There will be no euchre at Gladys Ritch's home on Thursday as had been planned.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Stanley P. — Is she a wife or a playgirl?

Catherine P. — He just misses his housekeeper.

Stanley P. — My wife and I are in our early 50's and we recently married off the youngest of our three children.

Ever since this boy was married, my wife has been a different woman. She took up with a group of women who do nothing all day but gad about or go out to shows or the race track. They drink cocktails together and then come home and take a TV dinner out of the freezer, I haven't had a decent meal in months.

Most of the time when I come home, the house is empty. Sometimes she runs out right after dinner for a card game or to spend the evening at the home of one of the "girls." Is she a wife or a play-girl?

Catherine P. — Stanley waking up pretty late. I had the impression that he never wanted a wife — only a housekeeper.

I've had more fun in the last few months than I've had in my whole married life. Stan never spent a cent on me. He didn't think a wife was supposed to have anything except dishes to wash and a house to clean. When I wanted entertainment he told me to sit and look at TV.

I feel I've done my duty as a mother and now I have a right to my freedom. I haven't noticed that Stan has lost any weight in spite of the fact that he complains I don't feed him. I also keep my house clean and neat — even when I'm away nearly all day.

The Council: If a small part of the effort that has gone into blame and hurt feelings were salvaged by Stanley and Catherine for some constructive steps, they might find themselves on the road to a happier existence.

When Stanley has come home to an empty house, he has undoubtedly sat around brooding and feeling sorry for himself. He has greeted his wife with an angry face and ugly words — making her remember the many times she worked hard all day and received little or no appreciation in the end.

But what could happen if he decided to surprise her by cooking a simple dinner and setting the table attractively for the two of them? And then, suppose he greeted her with a smile, a kiss and hug instead of a reprimand?

Or suppose he suggested an evening out — as if they were a young dating couple?

We think that Catherine would be far happier about getting home early, far less interested in cocktails and cards if she knew a pleasant, loving husband awaited her.

On the other hand, Catherine should recognize that she would be much happier if she could rid herself of her urge for a kind of vengeance for the past. We have a feeling that she and the "girls" get a special pleasure out of their escapades simply because they are causing their husbands inconvenience. This kind of pleasure loses its flavor quickly and an undercurrent of bitterness reveals itself in bickering and gossip among the women.

Catherine should make an attempt to find a social circle in which husbands participate. Both she and Stanley will find the experience fulfilling.

Pioneer M.A. Girls, Mothers Hold Banquet

WELLINGTON — The Pioneer Missionary Action Girls and their mothers of Wellington Pentecostal church, held their annual mother and daughter banquet on Friday evening in the town hall.

A lovely dinner was enjoyed by all present, there were about 46 who attended.

After the dinner Mrs. Bonbay, councillor of the girls' group, gave a few remarks concerning the activities and work of the girls. Their work was taken to the conference recently held in Toronto and put on display there. Later, 81 will be given out where needed.

Mrs. Bombay also thanked the mothers for their co-operation in helping to make the banquet such a great success.

Miss Diane Hennessy favored with a solo, "Mother's Prayers Have Followed Me." She was accompanied by Mrs. Pitt at the piano.

The girls' group sang that lovely hymn "Tell Me the Story of Jesus."

Mrs. Frank Easten, president of the WMC group, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Lola Kleinsteuber, who brought a message on "Faith," with real thoughts of inspiration, which was enjoyed by all.

QUESTION BOX

Question: We have recently moved to our cottage, which is situated on a lake near the city to which we live all winter. Unfortunately it is too near the city! We are already being deluged with calls from acquaintances (not friends) hoping to angle an invitation to "spend the week-end" and it isn't even our summer season yet! How do you get rid of these people without being unpleasant? We just aren't interested in having open house for mere acquaintances. What to do?

Answer: The only thing you can do, under the circumstances! Be frank. Try to soften your refusal to have them by being as tactful as possible. Something to the effect that you just haven't room may quell them for a while. Actually, many people have that insidious habit and it is really unforgivable. They ignore you in the winter and become bosom pals in the summer, simply to take advantage of you. In all else fails, I do not think it would be rude to give a flat "No, we are having no guests this summer." Actually, it's what they deserve.

Question: Will you please settle a discussion I have had with my girl friend? She thinks it is bad taste amounting to a personal affront to address a greeting card or a social invitation in red ink (written or typed). What is your opinion?

Answer: That your friend is absolutely right! Nothing could be in worse taste than to use red ink for the usual greeting card, and most certainly not for a social invitation or correspondence. Only for a Christmas greeting is it considered proper to use red ink. In passing I might add that a social invitation should never be typed and it is not good form to type greetings on any kind of card. Handwrite them, using blue-black ink, and you can't go wrong.

Question: My husband and I are celebrating our twenty-fifth anniversary in June with an afternoon reception for about a hundred and fifty guests. We are having our party in a hall and I would like to know if we stand at the door to greet our guests as they arrive? Do our twenty-year-old daughter and fourteen-year-old son stand with us, if we do?

Answer: By all means greet your guests as they arrive. You stand first to greet them. It is perfectly all right to have your son and daughter stand beside you and your husband, or they may mingle with the guests, whichever you prefer. I would suggest having several of your close friends assist you by taking over the guests as they arrive and seeing that they have refreshments and meet other people. Since you will be in the line, it will be impossible for you to attend to this all-important part of any successful party.

Finally — Turkey Croquettes

by Mary Moore

Under the impression that I had done everything worthwhile with the turkey I told you about at the end of April, I pushed the carcass into a double paper bag and shoved it into the freezer.

But one morning Pete phoned saying he was bringing home some hungry interns for dinner. My first move was to haul the old bird out of the freezer to thaw with the idea of making croquettes. It is the dinner which resulted from food on hand, with no shopping, that I want to describe.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

THURSDAY
(Guests)

Stuffed Roast Turkey; Giblet Gravy; Cranberry Jelly Mould; Fluffy Mashed Turnip; Braised Celery and Mushrooms; Cucumber Salad with Horseradish Cream Dressing; Lemon Cake Pie; Coffee.

SUNDAY

Citrus Fruit Cup; Braised Short Ribs of Beef; Pickled Beets; Noodles with Poppy Seeds; Asparagus Parmesan (see Tuesday); Baked Spy Apples with Cream; Coffee.

BAKED TURKEY OR CHICKEN CROQUETTES:

To serve 6 or 8 grind finely, enough leftover turkey or chicken meat to measure 4 cups fairly well-packed. Make 2 cups thick white sauce by melting 3 tablespoons butter or margarine and stirring in 3 tablespoons flour until blended. Stir in 1-3-4 cups milk until thick. Add ground turkey or chicken meat, 1-4 teaspoon each salt, celery salt, chopped onion, 1 teaspoon each lemon juice and chopped parsley. Mix well and chill thoroughly. With wet palms shape into 12 or 16 croquettes. Beat 1 large egg and add 1 1-3 tablespoons water to it. (Note: For 16 croquettes you will need 2 medium eggs beaten with 2 tablespoons water.) Use either packaged bread crumbs, or roll dried-out bread or cracker crumbs, finely. Dip in beaten egg mixture drain a moment, then roll in crumbs. Allow to stand on wax paper or foil for 1-2 hour to dry, out. Arrange in spart on buttered shallow baking dish and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 25 minutes. Or, of course you may fry them in deep fat at 380 deg. Fahr. for 2 or 3 minutes. Lovely served with

BECHAMEL SAUCE:

1 small onion, 2 tablespoons fat, 1 cup chicken stock, 4 tablespoons flour, 2 cups milk, salt and pepper.

Slice the onion and slightly brown it in the fat with the bacon for 3 or 4 minutes. Add the flour and, when well mixed, stir in the milk until thick. Stir until it boils, then cook 1 minute longer. Add seasonings and strain, if desired.

I did not serve our croquettes with Bechamel Sauce but chose a moist vegetable. This was kernel corn with chopped pimientos and green peppers — the liquid on the corn being slightly thickened with a flour and water paste. I added a piece of butter and a bit more than usual freshly ground black pepper. I served the croquettes from the new glass baking dish in which they were baked, set down if its blemium ring and garnished it with boiled halved new carrots.

Dessert was individual fruit salads comprising canned pears, fruit-cocktail, bananas and oranges, garnished with nut-coated balls of white cream cheese.

EAGLETON W.M.S. AND W.A.

MADOC JUNCTION — On Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Bert Browning was hostess for the May meeting of the Eagleton W.M.S. and W.A.

The W.M.S. president, Mrs. Bruce Stapley, presided and opened the meeting by reading an Edgar Guest poem, followed by the hymn "Breathe on me Breath of God."

The Scripture lesson, taken from St. Luke 9 was read by Mrs. Joyce Stapley and the commentary on the lesson by Mrs. Keith Johnson.

Mrs. S. Prest read a beautiful Mother's Day poem.

Little Miss Sandra Stapley gathered the offering, which was dedicated with prayer by the president.

There were 17 adults, several children present.

Mrs. Stapley thanked Mrs. Browning for opening her home, and also the program leaders, Mrs. Charles Stapley, for the splendid programme.

Mrs. Nathan Wannamaker informed the W.M.S.-W.A. to her home in Stirling for the June meeting. This is the annual W.A. meeting, when members pay their fees. Mrs. William McMullin was appointed to prepare the program.

Correspondence was dealt with. A letter from the Carmel group inviting the Society to their meeting on May 19th; one from St. Paul's in Stirling, inviting to their "Blossom Tea" on June 7th. The annual W.A. convention will be held at Tweed, on May 26th.

A quilting will be held at the home of Mrs. Harry Clarke on Tuesday afternoon.

The annual cemetery bee will be held June 1st, with the W.A. serving dinner at the church at noon.

Two poems were read by Mrs. Charles Stapley and Mrs. H. Clarke.

Home-School Association Sponsors Successful Fun Fair

DESERONTO — The Deseronto thriving business. A beautifully decorated cake was displayed at one end of the table. This was donated by Mrs. H. Fraser and Mrs. J. Graham sold the tickets. Mrs. Shirley Layfield was the lucky winner.

Youngsters, big and small, were standing in line at the fish pond which was convened by Mrs. N. Dimmell and Mrs. D. Armitage. Thanks to Ernie Luck for donating several cards de-ducting a free game of bowling towards the fish pond.

Another line up was observed, not only of children, at the Parcel Post table convened by Mrs. J. Spence, and Mrs. R. Cork, selling packages of all sizes and shapes.

Mrs. H. Bender, assisted by Mrs. G. Fox and Mrs. J. Hamilton convened the White Elephant table and were busy until the last little white elephant was sold.

The cartoon business was run by the principal Peter Roach, and his assistant, R. Leonard, with some of the older boys lending a hand.

The doll show held in Mrs. Boyce's room, was convened by Mrs. Boyce and Mrs. M. Ryan, and brought a great many 'Ohs' and 'Ahs' at the sight of such an array of dolls. A Teen-Age doll, donated by Mrs. E. Gardner was on display and tickets were sold by Mrs. G. Thompson. This was won by Nancy Ramsay.

Mrs. R. Bait, assisted by her husband and sons, was kept extremely busy selling cold drinks and hot dogs.

Mrs. C. Gray sold tickets on a baseball glove donated by Jack-son's Hardware which was won by Douglas Cassie.

The games room men had little rest during the evening as this room was the most popular spot for the boys.

Tickets were taken at the door at the "Fashion Show" by Mrs. D. Lord and Mrs. M. Sherman, the Fashion Show was the first highlight of the evening, beginning at 7.30. The models were pupils from Grade one to Grade eight. Mrs. Marie Knuth from Mason's Store, Napanee, supplied the fashions worn. Mrs. T. L. McCullough did an excellent job describing each model and her attire.

At 9:00 the second highlight of the evening began with the auditorium filled to capacity. Mr. John Foley, student from the O.D. Belleville, a magician, did a wonderful display of magic to please and baffle the eyes of everyone watching.

The Home and School Association is grateful to Mr. D. R. Casale for bringing John again this year. Tickets for this show were taken by Mrs. D. Castle and Mrs. K. Jackson.

The popcorn man, William Schell, assisted by Mrs. Schell, had his concession outside the entrance of the school and was kept busy popping corn until the last kernel.

Mrs. Lilly Coles and Mrs. Ger-ie Gosling, who served sand-wiches and coffee, offered a haven of rest to many a weary parent.

On behalf of the Home and School Association, Mrs. D. C. McVicker, president and Mrs. S. Knapp, vice-president, and co-vener of the "Fun Fair", wish to express their sincere thanks and appreciation to participants and partakers for making a gala eve-ning such a wonderful success.

Radio Network Dulls Edge Of Loneliness in Keewatin

THE PAS, Man. (CP) — A shortwave radio network has dulled the edge of loneliness for Roman Catholic missionaries in the huge vicariate apostolic of Keewatin.

Working in the 330,000-square-mile district are 50 priests, 30 brothers and 150 nuns. Communications problems were acute until Most Rev. Paul Dumouchel established one of the largest private short-wave radio networks in Canada.

The vicariate stretches 700 miles from northwestern Ontario to the Saskatchewan-Alberta border, and extends 500 miles north from the 53rd parallel, near The Pas, 314 miles northwest of Winnipeg.

Thirteen stations now are in operation and 11 others will be added within two months. The key station is at the bishop's residence here.

The extreme isolation of the vicariate was brought home to Bishop Dumouchel five years ago when he made his first tour of the district.

Some priests would not see another priest for an entire year. Contact among stations and with The Pas was by mail service made erratic by weather conditions and great distances.

Noting that government and private agencies in the area had radio contact, Bishop Dumouchel applied to the department of transport to establish a network.

Three years later, he says, and largely through the efforts of V. J. R. Brister, the department's regional superintendent in Winnipeg, permission was granted.

The on stipulation was that stations could be located only where provincial radio-telephone communications were not in operation.

The network now operates every evening between 6 and 8 p.m. Between 7 a.m. and 8 a.m. it stands by to handle emergency calls.

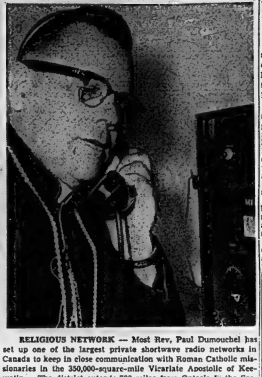
During the evening period each station is allowed 10 minutes to call any other station on the network. The bishop's house is allowed 30 minutes to call all stations.

The schedule, worked out for 13 stations, will be altered when the others are added.

"Every night now it is just as if the missionary priests were neighbors," Bishop Dumouchel says. "Before, they were alone—but not now."

SPEEDS WORK

Small duties which once might have taken weeks to complete now are accomplished in minutes.



Latest call an elderly Indian trapper called on his local priest to help him apply for old-age assistance. The priest determined that the Indian was born at another mission. A radio request for his birth certificate cleaned up the matter.

Problems concerning construction or the diagnosis of illness are handled swiftly. Food orders receive immediate attention.

Money for the $15,000 network was donated. Two standby sets are kept at The Pas to be rotated to allow all sets to be serviced annually.

Bishop Dumouchel admits another nuisance has been eliminated by the network.

"My letter-writing has been cut by 90 per cent."

RELIGIOUS NETWORK — Most Rev. Paul Dumouchel has set up one of the largest private shortwave radio networks in Canada to keep in close communication with Roman Catholic missionaries in the 330,000-square-mile Vicariate Apostolic of Keewatin. The district extends 700 miles from Ontario to the Saskatchewan-Alberta border and 500 miles north from the 53rd parallel. Bishop Dumouchel, shown here at the main radio-telephone in his residence at The Pas, Man., can communicate with 12 stations in the Vicariate. Eleven new stations are to be built soon. (CP Photo).

Collapse of Paris Meeting May Help Rescue Bomarc-B Missile From Congress Knife

WASHINGTON (CP)—Collapse of the Paris summit conference and return of the cold war may help rescue Bomarc-B missile production program from the congressional knife.

Senators who formerly criticized the Bomarc and other controversial military projects suddenly have become sympathetic during the defence department's do everything it can to boost U.S. military strength.

Senator Richard Russell, Georgia Democrat, appeared to sum up feelings prevailing in Congress when he told a Senate appropriations subcommittee Wednesday:

"A man erratic enough to do what Soviet Premier Khrushchev did at Paris is capable of doing almost anything. We have to be much at stake to deal with him except from a position of strength."

Senator Dennis Chavez, subcommittee chairman, told James Douglas, defence undersecretary: "We are ready to co-operate. Tell us what you need; we are ready to provide."

Douglas, among other things, appealed for restoration of the Bomarc-B production program which the House of Representatives had decided to eliminate.

Chavez, who previously had criticized the Bomarc as a poor performer, told a reporter after the hearing that the committee was likely to recommend restoration of funds for the Bomarc schedule.

"The defence department is likely to get whatever restoration it asks, in my opinion," he said.

Douglas asked the subcommittee to recommend that $200,000,000, which the House of Representatives withdrew from Bomarc-B production, be returned so that the air force could resume full limited production schedule.

Cancellation of production, he said, would leave a serious gap in North American air defence.

He observed that Canada is expanding, nearby on obtaining two squadrons of the Bomarc-B missile to strengthen the northeastern U.S. and two for Canada. Each squadron would be equipped with 28 launchers and 30 missiles.

The House committee recommended restoration of funds. The final decision of Congress will be handled by the Senate-House conference.

Land Sales Reservations Were Withheld

— TORONTO (CP)—Reservations about certain land sales by the Niagara Parks Commission were withheld by one member so the commission could make its decision unanimous, a royal commission inquiry learned Wednesday.

George Ingle, a former commissioner member, said that though he opposed the sale of NPC land in 1945 he kept quiet because he did not want to be provocative.

The royal commission under York County Judge Ian Macdonald is investigating the purchase of former parks commission land in 1948 by Labor Minister Daley, who is also NPC chairman.

Arthur A. Johnson, president of Ontario Paper Company, bought the land from the NPC in 1945 and sold it three years later to Mr. Daley.

Mr. Ingle, whose resignation from the commission last August preceded the inquiry, said he opposed the sale on the grounds that better prices would be obtained after the war.

TO ASK QUESTIONS

CCF counsel Andrew Brewin told the commission Mr. Daley later as to whether he had ever made private sale of parks commission services.

Mr. Ingle testified that "at one time was a conflict" in NPC meetings, that "you could speak as long as you like, but provocative."

Homer Sopha, Liberal member of the legislature for Sudbury, asked: "You didn't get along with the chairman, that's the long and short of it, isn't it?"

Mr. Ingle said the differences disagreed with parks policy.

Harold Fox, a St. Catharines lawyer and past commissioner, said he has been a friend of Mr. Daley for years, and Mr. Daley for years and both are men "of the utmost honor and integrity."

He said he had not heard of any collusion, between the two men in the land transaction.

Defence Minister Lets Fall Broad Hint RCAF's Combat Forces May Be Grounded

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Pearkes let fall another broad hint Wednesday that the RCAF's combat forces in Canada will be grounded.

He indicated that the RCAF effort in the North American air defence system will be confined to manning ground radar stations and to keeping two Bomarc anti-aircraft missile squadrons in readiness for the United States goes ahead with the Bomarc program.

Replying to a series of questions by Paul Hellyer (L—Toronto Trinity) in the Commons defence committee, Mr. Pearkes said there will be a requirement for manned interceptors as long as a bomber threat against North America exists.

But Canada was in an air defence partnership with the U.S. It was not essential that both partners provide all parts of the air defence system — warning, manned interceptors and anti-aircraft missiles.

Mr. Pearkes said there should be agreement on the types of defence provided by each partner. It was "quite reasonable" that one partner contribute "all of one and none of another."

The implication of this is that Canada will provide the warning and the U.S. the interceptors.

Canada and the U.S. last year agreed to construction of seven radar stations in Canada and Mr. Pearkes has said the RCAF will man all seven.

The U.S. Air Force now mans 20 of the 34 Pinetree radar sites in Canada. The RCAF could take this on without an increase in its manpower ceiling of 51,000 by scrapping its nine CF-100 all-weather interceptor squadrons in Canada. The DEW and mid - Canada warning lines are manned almost entirely by Canadians.

Mr. Pearkes also said that the orders of staff were instructed in September, 1958, to shop for a cheaper interceptor than the Canadian-made one for the RCAF. This was five months before cancellation of the Arrow project.

Mr. Pearkes said it was "impossible" after September, 1958, that the Arrow would be produced but that Avro Aircraft Limited, Arrow manufacturer, was not told until February, 1959.

The minister said the matter of a possible replacement for the 10-year-old CF-100 is "still under consideration." There had been no plan to replace the CF-100 before 1965.

Mr. Pearkes declined to tell the committee what attitude the NORAD command had taken toward cancellation of the Arrow program.

Two Canadian Plays Received Kind Criticism

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two Canadian plays were kindly but critically received at the Dominion Drama festival Wednesday.

"It's been a most interesting day of Canadian drama," summed up British adjudicator Phyllis Hope-Wallace.

The plays were Ballad on an Overseas Theme by Frederick Gaertner, presented in the afternoon by the Atlas Theatre Guild of Montreal, and The Killdeer by Winnipeg poet and playwright James Reaney, given an evening performance by the University Alumnae Dramatic Club of Toronto.

They were the only Canadian plays to survive the 14 regional drama festivals and be picked among eight entries for the final.

The Killdeer appeared to be the more warmly received although Miss Hope-Wallace indicated he thought both were erratic.

THINLY WRITTEN

The summation on the Montreal play: "The play was quite thinly written, as though in shorthand. It starts the audience with a little puzzled, but I hope they'll develop the play a bit and the good work went into it."

The adjudicator's view of Killdeer, based on his picture of Canada from a vision of "prairie harvest and hailstorm" to one of suicide and gruesome murder.

The Killdeer, named after a bird that plays a part in the story, is set in a small Southern Ontario city, said to be Stratford.

Its characters are involved in a complicated drama of murder, adultery and eventual settlement right. The tone varied widely, said Miss Hope-Wallace, "building up on comedy in the first act through a melodrama and then falling quite badly."

"Tonight, Leocadia, by contemporary French playwright Jean Anouilh, is to be performed by the Theatre du Coteau of Chicoutimi, Que.

Presumed Drowned

RED LAKE (CP)—A 31-year-old German immigrant is missing and presumed drowned in Red Lake in northwestern Ontario.

Jury Urges Govt. Action In Child Cases

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The Ontario attorney-general's department should study means of obtaining authority over a child whose life is in danger, a coroner's jury recommended Wednesday night.

The jury investigated the death of the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Wolfe of nearby Princeton Ont., members of the Jehovah's Witnesses sect.

The infant, victim of an RH blood condition, died in hospital March 5 after being made a ward of the Children's Aid Society and given a blood transfusion over parents' objections.

The jury recommended the attorney - general's department "study the problem of making a child whose life is at stake a temporary ward of the Children's Aid Society and, if required, introduce legislation to expedite necessary legal proceedings"

The jury found that delay in sending for Ward Wolfe as a coroner's jury played an important part in the case.

Glen How, counsel for the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, presented notice after the verdict that he would file for a writ of prohibition. Service of the writ would ask the Ontario Supreme Court to negate the hearing.

Mr. How charged the inquest was being held "for the sole purpose of casting the sect in disrepute."

The child's father produced pronouncements of various medical authorities questioning the safety and efficacy of transfusions as well as newspaper references on which Jehovah's Witnesses base their conviction that transfusions are forbidden.

The parents testified they had five children previously including a But Mrs. Wolfe said she lost two children since it became necessary was "forced" upon her in 1953 while she was unconscious.

TOUGHEST SENTENCE

NEW YORK (AP) — A white youth convicted of robbing and raping a Negro woman was sentenced Wednesday to 120 years in Sing Sing prison—the heaviest sentence the court could impose. Judge Hyman Barshay told Thomas O'Connor, 19: "One cannot pick up a newspaper these days without reading of attack and rape of innocent women somewhere in this city. For one, you are going to sit by and permit it to continue by renting out powder-puff sentences."

Canadian Dollar at Lowest Value in More Than a Year

NEW YORK (AP)—The value of the Canadian dollar in terms of the U.S. dollar now is lower than at any time in more than a year.

As a result, American exporters may find Canadian competition tougher in world markets when the Canadian dollar value was as high as $1.05 in comparison to the U.S. dollar. Today it is about two cents above the U.S. dollar. On big deals the difference is considerable.

The recent surcharge by Canadian banks on large coin orders loses much of its point, too.

As American and Canadian currency experts see it, the cause of the one-time lure of U.S. coins at a premium is to a sizable flow of them across the border, and the current penalty of six to eight per cent discount, both lose in point and edge.

The Republicans are happy to see the fall in their currency's premium. They are willing to American businessmen won't have to make up for the loss suffered when they exchange their American dollar proceeds into Canadian dollars for they can now get prices a bit to seek more sales volume.

Why did the Canadian dollar plunge so much higher than the U.S. dollar And why did it fall in recent weeks

The Canadian dollar rose to its peak of more than $1.06 in the summer of 1957 (and was quoted at $1.05 as late as the end of that year) largely because of two things:

1. A great demand for Canadian dollars by foreign investors, mostly Americans, pouring money into Canadian stocks and other investments.

2. A big demand by Canadians borrowing heavily here at lower interest rates than in their country. Part of the problem in reversing this demand lies in Canadian REASONS FOR FALL

Here are some of the turn-around in this: The Canadian government began discouraging borrowing in the United States; interest rates fell north of the border while they were rising here; the big rush to buy Canadian stocks and to invest in Canadian resources slackened; and the Canadian government cut down its own borrowing, making more funds available at home for private Canadian borrowers and less need to seek funds here.

"So the exchange picture has changed — to the benefit of American tourists and some Canadian businessmen. Full parity, however, isn't yet in sight, American bankers say.

House Leaders Close Ranks On Need for Allied Unity

OTTAWA (CP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev's "deplorable action"—Prime Minister Diefenbaker's words—in Paris recalled remark made here several years ago by Gen. Alfred Gruenther, then NATO military commander in Europe.

Gen. Gruenther was saying that as world tensions eased it would be more difficult to hold the North Atlantic alliance together.

"Satan was the patron saint of NATO," he said.

Will Khrushchev become the patron saint of a revitalized NATO?

Mr. Diefenbaker said Wednesday in the Commons:

"However deplorable Mr. Khrushchev's action in Paris, he is mistaken if he thinks that he can divide the West by such tactics.

"On the contrary, his tactics have already served to strengthen the resolve of the Western countries to remain united."

A few days previously, there was strong criticism here of the United States for the spy plane incident. General relief followed Easter Green said such incidents could trigger a nuclear war.

But this incident was all but forgotten Wednesday in Commons comments on the collapse of the summit meeting.

Mr. Diefenbaker said one cause for complaint Khrushchev might have had was removed by President Eisenhower's assurances that the spy flights had been stopped and would not be resumed.

The Soviet Union had given a no indication that it was willing to give equal assurances that it would cease its objectionable activities."

CCF House Leader Hazen Argue, one of the harshest Canadian critics of U.S. policies, said the spy plane incident was no excuse for Khrushchev to torpedo the conference.

Opposition Leader Pearson, 1957 winner of the Nobel peace prize, said this is no time to weaken the unity of peace-loving countries in the search for peace.

Of the remarks of the three leaders did not so much concern the breakup of the Paris talks as the next move.

"Efforts to make progress together in disarmament security must not be abandoned," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

NATO would continue to work toward establishment of good relations between East and West as a basis for negotiation and settlement.

It was more imperative than ever that the Geneva negotiations on disarmament and a nuclear test ban be continued.

Mr. Pearson echoed these words when he said: "This is no time to weaken any more than it is a time for surrender to the temptation to give up in the search for peace."

Mr. Argue said he hopes NATO will resist any temptation to mimic the "bluster and threat" of Khrushchev.

Average American in Accord Blaming Nikita for Breakup

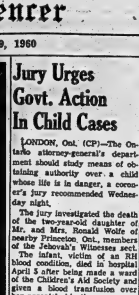
WASHINGTON (AP)—Average Americans seem in near accord in blaming Nikita Khrushchev for the breakup of the summit meeting. They are uneasy but by no means panicky about its portent for the future.

The greatest area of disagreement is on what, if anything, the summit breakup may have on next November's presidential election. A few think it will help the Republicans, others the Democrats. Some think it will not make any difference.

In a random Associated Press sampling of opinions in various cities, some typical views:

1. Who is to blame for the breakup?

2. Do you think the U-2 spy plane incident and the summit breakup will have any effect on the November election, and if so how?



3. What is your personal reaction to the crisis—fear, calm? In San Francisco, musician Bob Grant blamed the breakup on Khrushchev, adding:

"But our handling of the spy plane was partly responsible. It was stupid and unfortunate to have gone K an ou. . . . It's bound to hurt the Democrats."

Jorathan Stolt, a San Francisco author and television writer, also blamed Khrushchev, but said "I don't think there will be any effect on the November election."

However, San Francisco printer A. C. Avery thought the crisis may have some adverse effect on Republican chances, adding: "I don't think either head of state is crazy enough to precipitate a war. They know what retaliation would mean."

Nine of 10 Chicagoans blamed Khrushchev.

"I could tell you were a customer the minute you walked through the window."

'Cannot Make Men, Women Of Indian by Treating Them As Children' Committee Told

OTTAWA (CP)—Three Indian members of an Ontario government committee called on a committee Wednesday to say that Indians no longer be treated like children.

They can't make men and women of Indians by treating them as children," said Elliot Moses, chairman of the Indian advisory committee of the Ontario department of public works, as he presented a brief to the joint Senate-Commons committee on Indian affairs.

With Mr. Moses, 71-year-old Indian from the Six Nations reserve near Brantford, were Mrs. Mary Jane Simpson, 80, from the Elnwick reserve near Cobourg, and Webster White, who lives on a reserve in the Walpole Island reserve in Lake St. Clair.

The brief called for granting the Indians outright possession of their land so they can use them as collateral for loans.

Mr. Moses said no people in Canada are so backward as the Indians of Western Canada.

"We do not live any differently from anybody else."

However, he was willing to concede other Indians, particularly the northern Indians, had not moved ahead as far as the Six Nations.

In the Kenora district the Indians were in "absolutely primitive" conditions, 200 years behind the Brantford Indians.

Only them should the two parts in the Indian act, Mr. Moses said, one for more advanced reserves and the other for Indians who need more protection.

Col. H. M. Jones, federal director of Indian affairs, said Indian band councils are not legal entities and cannot sign contracts but have to call in representatives of the Crown to do so.

Senator James Gladstone, a Blackfoot Indian from Alberta, said there would have to be safeguards if Indians were allowed to put up their land as collateral. In the United States some reserves had disappeared as creditors foreclosed on mortgaged land, he said.

Mr. Moses said provision might be made that the land could be sold by a credit only to another Indian of the reserve.

Mr. Moses also asked that the government consider granting housing loans for Indians living off the reserve.

Of the 6,500 Six Nations Indians, 2,400 live permanently away from the reservation because there are no jobs for them on the reserve, he said. There should be some loans available to them for down payments on homes.

Railways Have No Difficulty In Filling Jobs

MONTREAL (CP) — A CNR spokesman said Tuesday the railway had no difficulty filling job vacancies last year and no trouble holding employees, despite the non-operating unions' contention railway wages are well below standard.

D. V. Gondar, vice-president of the company's Atlantic region, said that in 1959 an average of 15 persons applied for each position open.

He testified before a three-man conciliation board inquiring into a wage dispute between Canada's railways and their 130,000 non-operating employees.

The unions say their members need a 25-cent hourly increase over a two-year period to stay on a level with employees in comparable industries.

Present average wages among the non-operating employees not actually running trains is $1.77 hourly.

Mr. Gondar said the present non-ops wage is far above the going rate in the Maritime provinces and often is "considered a disrupting force in the labor market there."

ARCTIC RESEARCHER — Alan T. Belcher, former director of the Arctic Research Institute of North America, says northern research has advanced from an era of exploration to one requiring detailed scientific information. He is shown in the institute's Montreal office with samples of Eskimo sculpture, institute books and reports and paintings of the north. Mr. Belcher was with the RCMP for 36 years before joining the institute. He retired in April of this year after three years as director. (CP Photo)

Retiring Institute Director Got Knowledge 'Hard Way'

MONTREAL (CP)—Research in the Canadian Arctic now is more a matter for scientists than for the "old northern hands" who first explored it, says the former director of the Arctic Institute of North America.

Alan T. Belcher, who retired recently after three years at the helm of the continent's foremost establishment for the study of the north, is himself one of the oldtimers, but he feels the field has passed from an era of exploration into a scientific phase.

"Our task now is to get detailed scientific information, and for this we must have minds which have had the advantage of extended university training," he says.

FORMER MOUNTIE

Mr. Belcher got his knowledge of the Arctic the hard way—as a member of the RCMP who frequently doubled as dentist and obstetrician for his Eskimo charges in the North.

A "barracks baby" born in the force's division headquarters at Calgary where his father, then a sergeant-major, was stationed, Mr. Belcher joined the police as a trumpeter at 16 and during the next 36 years rose to the rank of deputy commissioner, which his father had also held.

His first northern assignment was at Herschel Island, just below the 70th parallel in the Western Arctic about 200 miles north of the Arctic Circle.

There he learned to handle a dog team and get along with his Eskimo neighbors.

REGARD FOR ESKIMOS

"The dogs were hard to handle but the Eskimos were wonderful. I have a high regard for the honesty, intelligence and cheerful good nature of these people."

He recalls their courage while submitting to his amateur dentistry.

"They would break into a nervous sweat while I pulled their teeth, but they never quivered or let out a whimper."

He was more expert in his obstetrical duties, having been given a course in midwifery by the RCMP but "what I did not like was the fact that we got all the tough cases."

"The Eskimos never bothered to appeal to us during the easy ones. We were brought in as 'instrument deliveries.' Anyhow, I can lay claim to never having lost a mother."

INTERNATIONAL BODY

His duties at the institute were more prosaic.

Replacing George Watson in 1956, he took over direction of the organization formed in 1945 and financed by the United States and Canadian National Research Councils and the Carnegie Institute.

In turn he is being succeeded by Dr. John C. Reed, formerly with the U.S. Geological Survey and a governor of the institute.

But Mr. Belcher is not retiring from the field completely.

After a summer in his garden at Ottawa, he will go to the University of Alberta to assist in setting up an Arctic research department there. With growing Canadian interest in the North, he expects there will be many more opportunities for helping other Canadian universities in the same task.

He Can Tell By Reaction Woman's Age

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)— Don't try to fool this professor, gals, he's likely to learn your correct age anyhow.

"The speed of apperception —complete recognition of an object — slows as a person grows older, Dr. Hans Hahn, a specialist in accident-proneness, told a safety conference Tuesday.

So, the Transylvania College professor said, a 50-year-old woman who takes his tests needn't try claiming she is 35. Her speed of reaction to a flashing red light or buzzer will give her away.

Can Toronto Support

Two Pro Football Squads? Young Executive Says Yes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Can Toronto support two professional football clubs?

A young Toronto executive is so confident it can that he has put $25,000 on the line and is negotiating with former Notre Dame star Terry Brennan to help pick a squad to play in 1961.

He's willing to invest another $100,000 if the American Football League approves his application and has already picked out a farm club—the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen. The choice of Kitchener could affect the future of the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

The promoter, A. J. (Avie) Bennett, a Toronto builder, said Wednesday he has no plans to upset the present football setup in Canada. The reaction to his announced intentions, however, varied from scepticism to concern.

NEEDS ONLY APPROVAL

Mr. Bennett's application for an AFL franchise for Toronto has been endorsed by the league's expansion committee and forwarded to a July meeting of the league executive.

Harry Wismer, owner of the New York entry and chairman of the expansion committee said he had "highly recommended acceptance of the Toronto bid, under the right circumstances."

The "circumstances" include a stadium and Mr. Bennett said he had been in touch with the University of Toronto regarding use of Varsity Stadium.

Wismer also said he had received three separate bids for a franchise from Montreal and would deal with them next week. One, already announced, was from Crawford Gordon, Montreal businessman.

TALKING WITH BRENNAN

Bennett said he is negotiating with Brennan, former halfback and coach at Notre Dame, to head his entry.

Final negotiations and a firm offer for use of Varsity Stadium depend on approval of the franchise, he indicated.

Both Wismer and Bennett emphasized they didn't want to upset the Canadian football setup.

"I have no thought or desire to kill Canadian football, the Argonauts, or the Grey Cup game," Bennett said.

Wismer said the AFL will not compete with the Canadian Football League for Canadian players or try to take players away from Toronto or Montreal. It will try to work out non-conflicting schedules, he added.

Bennett's application raised hopes in the cities in the Ontario Rugby Football Union whose football life may depend on the success of Bennett's bid.

Bennett revealed he had been in touch with the executive of the Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen in regard to operating the Dutchmen as a farm club for his proposed team.

The Dutchmen executive recently announced the club was withdrawing from the ORFU because of lack of support. This would leave the league with only three teams, probably meaning the end of Canada's oldest football league.

Lew Hayman, general manager of the Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four union said the possible AFL competition didn't worry him.

"As far as we are concerned this is a democracy and anybody can do anything they wish," Hayman said. It is no concern of ours if anybody wants to join the AFL."

The reaction was different in Montreal where Ted Workman, president of the Montreal Alouettes, said there was no doubt that some day the Canadian Football League "will be threatened by such moves as are being mentioned now."

"I don't know what should be or can be done about it all at this moment," he said. "However, the thing that has been my gravest concern is that the CFL has not taken into account the possibility that this could happen and, therefore, what to do about it."

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Max Boydston, an all-American end at Oklahoma and a veteran of both the National and Canadian football leagues, joined the American League Dallas Texans Wednesday. WOODSMAN AND HIS GUIDE — Floyd Patterson, right, ex-heavyweight champion, runs in woods near his Newton, Conn., training camp with Joe Louis, once heavyweight title holder himself. Louis has been retained as a tutor for Patterson in the latter's preparation for his rematch in June with champion Ingemar Johansson in New York. (AP Wirephoto)

Patterson Camp

Musty Abandoned Building Once Housed Mink-Sable Set

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEWTOWN, Conn. (AP)—Just how Cus D'Amato found it is a mystery because it is tucked away on a byath in the tree-studded Connecticut hills.

But before he was declared null and void in boxing by the New York State Athletic Commission, the erstwhile manager of ex-champion Floyd Patterson came across this musty and abandoned roadhouse and decided it was just the place for the fighter to train for his return bout with Ingemar Johansson all the Polo Grounds June 20.

Once it was the mecca of night prowlers from far and near, its Spanish architecture, soft lighting and fine music lurting those who craved luxury in a rural atmosphere.

Now, where once uniformed doormen greeted the mink and sable crowd, casually dressed sparring partners and camp attendants loll on rickety chairs.

Inside are traces of faded glory. The gay wallpaper is grimy, the long bench alongside the cozy dance floor is upholstered. The dance floor itself has been converted into a boxing ring.

On the small bandstand are an assortment of punching bags of various sizes.

A round table and padded chairs provide a comfortable and informal atmosphere for casual chit-chat and interviews.

"Have a cup of tea?" Floyd will ask politely. He's invariably wearing heavy paratroop boots, which he finds useful on his early - morning hikes over the countryside.

"Ever see any animals on your hikes?" a reporter asked.

"Sure, lots," Floyd said.

"What kind?"

"Oh, rabbits, and skunks."

"Skunks!" Joe Louis blurted. "Haw-haw-haw."

Louis greeted him casually, wearing dark glasses, a striped tan shirt and he loomed huge beside the 185-pound challenger.

The chit-chat included mention of "the new Johnsson."

"What was wrong with the old Johansson," Patterson said wryly, "He got the job done, didn't he? Why should he change?"

Louis predicted Patterson will knock out Johansson.

"It's going to happen somewhere between the seventh and 10th round," said Louis.

Louis said he found many flaws in Johansson's styles while watching films of the fight last June 26 when Ingemar stopped Patterson in the third round. But he declined to say what they were.

"Floyd got careless in the first fight," said Louis, who has joined the Johansson-Patterson promotion crew. "After the first two rounds he let down. He figured this boy (Johansson) was not the fighter he thought he was before the fight.

"I think Floyd had so many fights that didn't mean nothing, in point of defence, that even if a guy hit him he thought he could catch up with him later and beat him. . . . I don't think Joansson can hit Patterson with that right hand again. And that is his only punch. His jab is just a leading punch so he can throw the right hand."

2 OUT OF 5 CARS ON THE ROAD TODAY HA[VE] UNSAFE TIRES!

HOW SAFE ARE YOUR TIRES?

During sustained periods of high speed driving the bald tire you were planning to replace may give out; or the cut in the sidewall may give way under the continuous flexing as your tires roll along the highway. And in an emergency, it's the brakes that stop the wheels, but the tires that stop your car!

Of all accidents due to tire failure by far the largest percentage is caused by baldness and uneven tread wear. Don't take a chance. Check your tires now!

CHECK THESE TIRE DANGER SIGNS

BALD TREAD
Don't plan a long trip with bald tires! Smooth tread gives no skid protection and the small amount of tread left cannot provide the protection against blow-outs.

UNEVEN TREAD WEAR
This indicates wheels out of alignment, brake trouble, or other faulty mechanical condition. Uneven tread results in faster wear and can cause an annoying "thump."

PUNCTURES
Always have punctures properly repaired. A faulty repair may lead to separation of fabric. Flexing and heat build-up during fast speed driving may lead to a blowout.

CUTS AND BRUISES
You seldom remember when you hit a curb, or ran over or got a small nail from some broken glass. But these weakened areas are responsible for billions during unexpired periods of driving.

If your tire shows any of these danger signs, don't delay another minute—come in immediately and have your tires inspected FREE holes on the outside from the start to the three-eighths pole. From there on it was a gooby mess but there were no holes. "I guess the crowd thought I was nuts when I left the pack and swung to the outside after three-eighths. But I won. I didn't even tell the trainer what I was going to do because if I did and lost I'd be an awful chump.

OLDEST JOCKEY

Pat Remillard, at 54, the oldest jockey in North America, still rides in races on Ontario tracks. He first started as a thoroughbred jockey in 1920 and most of his racing has been in Ontario. His biggest victory was on the maiden filly Fleetlite, a 40-to-1 choice in the 1946 King's Plate at Toronto. It was the only race the horse ever won. (CP Photo).

"That was my biggest kick in racing."

It was his only Plate winner and could be his last.

The younger jocks are getting the favorites now, but that doesn't bother Remillard. "I still get paid for every mount I take, and I'm not down to eating hash yet."

Pat Remillard's name won't be found among the list of leading North American jockeys of 1959, or any other year. He isn't mentioned among the all-time top money winners or riders and he doesn't know where he broke his maiden.

"I'm just an ordinary guy with a lousy memory who loves to ride," he says. But there's more to this little man than that.

The racing manuals say he is 54, which would give him the edge by one year over Johnny Longden as the oldest active jockey in North America. But he won't claim this honor for one simple reason: he isn't sure of his age.

His appearance doesn't give much more than a hint of his age. He could be 45, 46, 50. There isn't a trace of grey in his slick black hair and the crow's feet lurking out from the corners of his eyes are trademarks of jocks who squint at the world from behind a horse's ears.

MOTHER FORGOT

"Believe me, I don't know how old I am," Remillard said in the jockeys' room at Toronto's Old Woodbine track the other day. "I'm not kidding. The Queen asked me the same question on Queen's Plate Day at New Woodbine last year and I told her I didn't know, my mother forgot to tell me my birthdate and I forgot to ask her."

Whatever his age, Remillard has no intention of retiring. "I've been getting on horses for 32 years now and I've never had a financially bad year, so that sort of talk has never entered my mind."

The native of Beresford, S.D., has saddled horses in practically every track in North America since 1927, the year he quit the leaky-roof circuit of county fairs to join the major circuit or, as he calls it, "the big apple." He rode his first winner the following year but can't remember the name of his mount.

He has "no idea" of the number of horses he has ridden, the total purse money, number of winners or his total earnings. He's a free-lance jockey now, and the assignments aren't coming his way as often as did in the old days but he's not worried.

"I'm satisfied if I can get a winner or two a week. I own my own home, I have nearly $5,000 in wood - working tools in my basement and my 23-year-old son graduates from college next year."

He rides only on the 196-day Ontario circuit, "then I get lost in my basement building cupboards, shelves and so on, and when spring comes I'm ready to go back to riding."

"I eat steak nearly every day and I've never had a weight problem. Ordinarily I go 111 pounds and get down to 107 on the hot summer days."

One race sticks out in his mind — the 1943 Queen's Plate when he drove the maiden filly Paolita to an upset victory in pouring rain. The filly paid $76 at the mutuels and never won again.

"It rained for three weeks before the race and the track was a mess. I studied the form every day and knew there were big holes in the mud. I figured the others would be afraid to run in the mud and I was right."

Walt Disney's "KIDNAPPED"

Excellent Version of Favorite Robert Louis Stevenson Adventure

Take a liberal dose of adventure, add a sizeable quantity of suspense, plus equal amounts of laughter and tears, and you have a sure-fire formula for high adventure, but when you wrap this exciting Technicolor thriller in glorious purple heather, such as can be found only in Scotland, you have thrills that not only challenge your emotions, but that also excite your appreciation of beauty.

Such a prize package of entertainment is Walt Disney Technicolor version of "Kidnapped." Never has Robert Louis Stevenson been brought to the screen with such authenticity and scenic beauty as a bonus. The result is something definitely not to be missed.

"Kidnapped" has been filmed before, but in each case the leading character of David Balfour was made much younger than his 17-year-old. Played by young James MacArthur, the adventures that befall him are more believable and the danger more intensified.

David, his every move is fraught with danger and frustration, starting with the warning before he ever meets him to "Beware of the Laird of Rannoch." How true! For the Laird is his miserly uncle who, faced with having to return to David the estate he has confiscated, tries first to kill him, and then to get rid of the boy, or so he thinks, by paying a sea captain to shanghai David and sell him into slavery in the Carolinas.

On board the "Covenant," David finds cruelty but also the friendship of Alan Breck Stewart, a daring Jacobite leader seeking to escape King George II's Redcoats. Washed ashore in a storm after shipwreck, Alan decides to accompany David back to the Lowlands and help him regain his rightful lands.

After an exhausting journey and many hair-breadth escapes, they reach Queensferry, where they consult a lawyer. Their plot to trick Uncle Ebenezer into a confession succeeds, and David becomes the new Laird of the Shaws, while Breck with a price still on his head leaves for sanctuary in France. Excellent performances being given by the stars are Peter Finch as Breck, James MacArthur as David, Bernard Lee as the cruel captain and John Laurie as the crafty uncle.

On the same program is this very special 25-minute featurette on Walt Disney presents new delights in his magic kingdom, "A Gala Day At Disneyland," in Technicolor.

Walt Disney's superb production of Robert Louis Stevenson's classic, "Kidnapped," in Technicolor, should prove a delight to every member of a moviegoing family.

AT THE PARK THEATRE — A scene from "Abbott and Costello Meet the Mummy", their funniest comedy now showing at the Park Theatre. On the same program Leo Gorcey, Hunts Hall and the Bowery Boys are in the second laugh hit "Jail Busters". A Three Stooges comedy is also shown.

Horrors of Warsaw Ghetto Vividly Portrayed by TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Rod Serling's grim drama about the horror that was the Warsaw ghetto during the German occupation of Poland came to television Wednesday night doubled in impact by events in Paris earlier in the day and week.

About an hour after the CBS Playhouse 90 production of In the Presence of Mine Enemies came to its bleak conclusion, the network—and rival NBC, too—was taken over by an unedified picture account of Nikita Khrushchev's long, threatening diatribe.

The Serling play was concerned with brutal German army treatment that took place in the 100-block walled compound where 500,000 Jews hungered and suffered until the 1944 uprising that killed all but a few. The play carried its bitter message. It was well acted by a cast which included Charles Laughton, Arthur Kennedy and Susan Kohner.

The Garroway program returns to its "girl of the week" policy with singer Carmel Quinn its choice for the first week. . . . TV jokes must be in short supply. Jack Carter told a story about a woman driver on Ed Sullivan's show Sunday night. Henny Youngman told the same joke on Steve Allen's show Monday night. Different networks though.

Recommended tonight:

Juckes Willing To Take Over CAHA Post

MELVILLE, Sask. (CP)—Gordon Juckes of Melville, Sask., president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said in an interview Wednesday that he is willing to become CAHA Secretary-Manager "if the executive want me."

Juckes and Bob Lebel of Montreal, CAHA vice-president, have been mentioned as possible successors to the late George Dudley of Midland as CAHA secretary-manager.

Juckes is to leave Melville today for Sydney, N.S., where he will attend the CAHA annual meeting.

Juckes, publisher of the Melville Advance, chosen top weekly newspaper in Canada in its class last year, has been busy the last week preparing the agenda for the CAHA and drafting a proposed budget.

He said the officers will hold a special meeting in Montreal Saturday to complete the agenda and discuss the budget. In past years this was done during the annual meeting and held up the convention considerably.

Delegates from across Canada will convene on Monday, Tuesday and will leave by train Saturday night for Sydney, arriving there Sunday. The convention starts Monday.

Couple Wed at Las Vegas Not Happy With Publicity

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When Dean Stockwell married Millie Perkins in Las Vegas recently, it was an unpublicized wedding a l l e d i n g an undercover romance.

They are though to make a press agent shed tears, this pair. "Millie and I have the same attitude toward publicity," said young Stockwell in a rare contrarant mood.

"There are some actors who feel they need to be seen, to go through the publicity routines in order to get ahead in this business. If I had to do that to get roles, I think I'd give up acting.

MORE STRESS ON STUDY

"Perhaps my attitude is different from others who are new to Hollywood because I have been here so long—most of my life. And I was in pictures in the early 40s, when there was more emphasis on the study of acting. Soon, But you'll note that the actors who have survived from those days, like Gregory Peck and Jimmy Stewart, are the ones who have done some studying along the way."

Unaided by publicity, Stockwell has managed to bridge the chasm between being a child star and an adult actor. But he admitted that the leap has not been easy.

"... I didn't understand how difficult acting was. An actor has to study himself. Child actors are naturals; they can't study themselves because they don't have the perception. I thought I could act naturally as an adult. It wasn't until I did the stage version of Compulsion that I realized what hard work acting required."

BUSY SUMMER

Summer stage engagements for Gene Barry, star of the "Bat Masterson" series on TV, include the St. Louis municipal opera company's presentation of "Kismet" followed by eight weeks in "Destry Rides Again" at Las Vegas.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

When he was a mite of a kid he met another kid wearing a fur coat. They started a tumbling match and Mighty Jumbo defeated the bear cub.

That was some 25 years ago. Now he's in his mid-thirties, is a Behemoth with a Beard, a Yale Bruyner pate, weighs 317 pounds and could pinch-hit for a tattoo business mail-order catalogue.

MIGHTY JUMBO

Two, is the only quarter-ton man with a tattoo on each finger—and a helava nice guy is boot.

His real name is Jim Dean. He was born in San Antonio, you-know-where, and weighed a mere five pounds before he got his first burp.

He was of normal size when he was 10, then the mushroom set started to work. At 15 he weighed 375 and at twenty was a 300-pounder.

Later he suffered a back injury, and gained another 50 pounds. Three years later he was again in hospital and this time tacked on beefage until he weighed 450. A third back injury netted him another 75 pounds.

That first boyhood encounter with a bear led to a career for Jumbo. He wrestled bears for carnival audiences.

He had a 600-pound bear on display back in 1950 and somehow the critter got loose. Jumbo wrestled him on the pavement and was the recipient of some 72 scratches and bites. But he conquered Bruin in the end.

The scratches and bites were bad enough but Jumbo's dignity was hurt. That caused bear ruined a new suit worth $200 and tore a shirt that Jumbo pays $35 regularly for.

Bear wrestling is not all beer and skittles. Many men have taken the job tangling with the tame trained Bruins. Either that or the wrestlers wound up dead or mangled.

In Jumbo's case the bears were not tame. He wound up mangled several times. He is not naturally bald. He shaves his head, Bryenner style. The bears used to claw the Jumbo negrin' so much he shaved it to avoid infection. He never got over the habit.

Through the years, Jumbo's back has been broken by the bears and he has had at least 20 ribs snapped. Altogether he has suffered about 125 bone fractures. In the ring he wears a leotard to hide the scars that disfigure his entire body.

He has a neat 63-inch chest, a 48-inch waist and a 62-inch beam. Try that on your best living room chair for size. He has to have a special automobile. He is the father of five children by two wives. He spends about $20 a day for food.

Jumbo's first wife asked for a divorce because she did not like him always eating in bed. His second wife Marion was a 135-pound lady wrestler when Jumbo met, courted and eventually married her. "We never fight," he says, "she knows too many holds."

As a tattooed man Jumbo would be the envy of any salt-water Jack Tar. He ran into a little trouble when he married his second wife because he had his first wife's name tattooed all over him. He had to get new decorations for his epidermis.

Now he is adorned with roses, good luck wishes and hearts, among others. He has a special place for the name of his second wife, Marion. He is remarkably agile in the ring for a man of his dimensions. The Kalmikoffs found that out a week ago—and they'll get another taste Friday when Jumbo teams with Don Leo Jonathan against the Russians.

His ring coup d'etat is called the Big Splasher. It is simple. Jumbo merely drops his 317 pounds on a prostrate opponent who is immediately counter-sunk in the canvas.

Braves Narrow Margin; Yankees Piggy-Back Injuns

Hand McCormick First Loss As Pirates Trump Cards 4-2; McDougald's Homer Did It

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Milwaukee Braves have finally gained ground in the National League race — and they did it while being held without a home run for the first time in two weeks.

The Braves hit 18 home runs in that span, getting at least one in each of eight games since May 4, when they were in third place. Despite the slugging they lost five engagements, and, although holding third place, dropped five games behind the leaders.

They closed the gap to four games Wednesday night, using singles and doubles for a 3-1 decision over San Francisco Giants that handed southpaw Mike McCormick his first defeat and left the Giants in a first-place tie with Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Pirates gained a share of the lead by beating St. Louis Cardinals 4-2. It was Pittsburgh's seventh victory in eight games. Cincinnati Redlegs defeated Los Angeles Dodgers 5-4 in 12 innings, Chicago Cubs and Philadelphia Phillies were rained out at Philadelphia.

McMAHON REFSCUES RUSH

The Braves beat McCormick, who won his first five, with r seventh-inning run that broke a 1-1 tie. Reliver Don McMahon then saved it by getting Willie McCovey on a fly to centre with the bases loaded in the ninth. Bob Rush was the winner coming on after starter Carl Willey was struck on the right leg by Orlando Cepeda's line drive in the second inning.

Rush singled and scored the tie-breaking run. Billy Bruton's double sent the slumping Aaron hander to third and he raced home on Red Schoendienst's short fly, jarring the ball loose from catcher Hobie Landrith after right fielder Willie Kirkland's perfect peg to the plate.

Righthander Vern Law, who has lost one game, became the first six-game winner in the majors going all the way with a nine-bitter against St. Louis. The Cards were blanked on six hits until the ninth while losing the 16th time in 16 road games.

BEAT EX-MATE KLINE

Pittsburgh scored twice in the first inning then nuffed it with two runs in the seventh against Ron Kline (1-3), Law's double, a walk, Dick Groat's single and a sacrifice fly by Bob Skinner did it.

Ed Bailey and Frank Robinson beat the Dodgers in Baltimore walked and scored on Bailey's single in the 12th inning after the pair twice had moved the Reds from behind. Robinson made it 4-4 in the 10th with his two-run homer off Reining reliever Danny McGlynn (0-1). In the eighth Robinson's double and Bailey's sacrifice fly tied things 3-3 off starter Stan Williams.

Bill Henry (1-1) was the winning hurler with one inning of relief after Jay Hook gave up 10 hits and four runs in 11 innings.

Over the winter and during spring training Gil McDougald was considered quite some big bait that he was thrown in like trading stamps in almost every rumored deal involving the New York Yankees.

But the veteran handy man is still with the Yanks, and Wednesday night he marked his survival at the player-limit deadline with a 3-run homer that beat Cleveland 4-3. It was New York's first victory in four tries against the Tribe, and jumped the Yankees past the Indians into third place in the American League race.

Chicago's White Sox, still unbeaten at home in eight games, retained a half-game lead with a 6-5 decision over Boston. Baltimore reclaimed second place by defeating Kansas City 5-4 first Jackie Brandt's ninth - inning homer, his third in three days against the Athletic's. Washington finally won one from Detroit, beating the Tigers 3-0 in 11 innings as Camilo Pascual ran his shutout string to 36 innings, best in the majors this season.

STEADY JOB

McDougald, secure at third base as he celebrates his 32nd birthday today, is batting a mere .266 in his 19th season with the Yankees. But his third homer was all they needed behind Ralph Terry's eight-hit, eighth-strikeout clinching job.

McDougald's blow followed a walk and Elston Howard's single to the second inning off losing pitcher Wynn Hawkins (3-3). Then Francona drove in both runs off Terry (2-1), with a double and a home run.

Winning reliever Gerry Staley (4-1) got the clinching run home for the White Sox with a sacrifice fly in the sixth. They had come from behind against loser Frank Sullivan (1-3) with four runs in the fifth, two on Minoso's 11th inning - out double. The Red Sox dropped their fifth in a row.

BRANDT HITS FOURTH

Baltimore blew a 1-0 lead, then twice battled back for ties after giving up two unearned runs. Gene Woodling's two-run double tied it 4-4 in the seventh and Brandt then tagged losing reliever Leo Kiely (1-1) for his fourth homer. Rookie Steve Barber (3-1) won it in relief.

John Lemon's one-on homer was ll for the Senators in a three-run 11th against reliever Dave Sisler (1-3) after they had been blanked on six hits for 10 innings by Jim Bunning, 11 was Lemon's ninth home run, tying Milwaukee's Hank Aaron for the major league lead.

Pascual (4-3) gave up five hits, two in the 11th before getting Rocky Colavito on a grounder and Norm Cash on a fly for the final outs. He fanned eight and now leads the American League with 61 strikeouts and five complete games.

Leafs Hand Royals Twelfth Straight Loss

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At one time this season Montreal Royals had a 9-5 record and were fourth in the International Baseball League.

That was May 2 after the Royals had beaten Miami Marlins, then last, 7-4. Today, they are 9-17 and haven't won since. Montreal is last, two games behind Richmond and tonight can set a club record for consecutive losses (13) if it loses to Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Leafs beat the Royals 6-2 Wednesday night, tying a 1931 club record of 12 consecutive losses. Richmond holds the record of clubs currently in the league, losing 14 straight in 1955.

Miami won its fourth straight, belting Richmond 12-5 to move into sixth place. Rochester reduced Buffalo's first place advantage in one game over Toronto with a 9-0 victory while Havana and Columbus played a 2-2 tie in the game called after 10 innings because of the local curfew.

RIDDIX STYMIES ROYALS

Steve Riddix (3-0) gave Montreal only six hits and drove in Leafs' last two runs with a one-on homer. Jim King hit one with two on for the winners, who beat John Anderson (4-3).

Richmond blew a 3-0 first inning lead when Angelo Dagres hit a one-on homer and Bom Samford singled home another run to the bottom of the first. Barry Shetrowe's single drove in the go-ahead run in the second and Leo Burke added further insurance in the sixth with a three-run homer. Dave Hoskins (6-3).

Luke Easter's three-run, first-inning homer and a six-run fifth inning were all the Wings and reliever Dick Tilton needed to beat Buffalo. Tilton took over for starter Dick Ricketts in the second after the latter was hit on the pitching hand by Fred Hopke's line drive. He allowed only five singles the rest of the way for his first victory. Art Mahaffey (4-2) lost.

Columbus's Tom Cheney was ahead 2-0 with a three-hitter with one out in the ninth when he was relieved by Don Williams. Williams's first pitch was belted for a tie-making, two-run homer by Borrego Alvarez to send the game into overtime.

Bobcats Defeat RCAF 4-1 In Softball League Opener

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Belleville Bobcats, last year's champions, officially opened the 1960 Belleville and District softball league season by defeating the RCAF Flyers 4-1 before a good crowd at CNRA Park here last night.

Other games scheduled for this week have Cobourg at Trenton tonight while the Bobcats visit Cobourg on Saturday. The schedule, which appears elsewhere in today's paper, will swing into full action next week.

Short opening ceremonies prior to last night's tilt saw league brass take to the diamond for a brief fling. OASA vice president Don Lee pitched to catcher and league past president Cy Barriage while president Harry Morgan handled the batting department and OASA honorary president Harry Rollins called the balls and strikes.

When the serious action got under way, the Flyers, one of two new loop entries, found southpaw Bobby Green at mid-season form. Green got a one-run working margin in the first frame and let the RCAF nine down on four hits over the route.

The Bobcat ace had a one-hitter going for him until the seventh when the visitors picked up three hits and their lone run. Green struck out 11, nine in the opening four frames, while walking four.

Bob Butterfield, a tall, right-handed bunt-baller, showed plenty on the losers' hilltop. He was obliged for eight hits in all, whiffing half a dozen and walking but two.

While Green got off to a shaky start, by walking two and wild pitching the runners to second and third, he fanned three to get out unharmed. Butterfield was not so lucky although he equalled Green's strikeouts and walks mark in the first. Leadoff batter Floyd Crawford laid down a perfect bunt single on the first pitch and went all the way around on throwing errors by Taylor and Desimoce on the same play.

The 'Cats went two up in the fourth when Doug Hull tripled to centre and raced home on Dave Jones' ground out to short. Meanwhile Green mowed down the Flyers until the seventh.

Cleanup hitter Des Desimone opened the top of the stretch frame with a wrong-field triple down right field line. "Corky" Corscadden, pinch-hitting for shortstop Duff, drove in the run with a single through the centre. Another single in the same spot by Wilf Borden and an error sent Carscadden to third but Borden was cut down at second and Smith popped out to end it.

The winners wrapped it up with two unearned markers in their half of the inning. Two were out when a wide throw put Faulkner on. He went all the way on John Batchelor's single to right. Batchelor took second on the throw in, stole third and raced home on a passed ball for the 4-1 score.

RCAF threatened again in the ninth when two Bobcat errors and a couple of walks had the sacks full before Green fanned pinch-hitter Gil Girard and got Smith on a force play to end it.

Earle Cousins with two solid singles topped the Bobcat batters. Doug Hull tripled, Denny Hayden doubled and Crawford, Faulkner, Batchelor and Green hit singles.

Desimone's triple, Bud Lacey's double and singles by Corscadden and Borden took care of the RCAF hits.

Leftfielder Kim Matheson pulled the game's fielding gem in the seventh when he raced back and pulled down "Wiener" Brown's line blast with an over-the-shoulder catch. It would have been a four-bagger.

Umpires — "Slugs" Zibler (p) an Don Thomas. Time: 1.31.

Orioles Call Bonus Baby

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER, Thursday, May 19, 1960 23

BALTIMORE (AP)—Baltimore Orioles announced Wednesday that bonus player Dave Nicholson, who received an estimated $125,000 when he was signed in 1958, has been recalled from Miami of the International League.

To make room for the 20-year-old power hitting outfielder, the Orioles sold veteran pitcher Hip Coleman outright to Miami.

The Nicholson move is designed to save the third and last option on the player. Baltimore officials hope will develop into a big league star. Options for less than 30 playing days do not count.

With Miami, Nicholson hit .262 with one homer and four runs batted in.

Coleman, a 36-year-old lefthander, was purchased last September from the Kansas City Athletics. He had a combined 9-10 record in 1959 and was 0-2 this season while pitching only four innings.

Earl Beatty Routs Thugs With Poker

NEWPORT PAGNELL, England (AP) — Earl Beatty ignored his family motto Thursday and played a game of poker when he heard burglars in Chicheley Hall, his Buckinghamshire home.

The burglars heard the earl coming and, taking a quantity of gold and silver plate and two swords owned by the earl's late father—Admiral Earl Beatty, hero of the Battle of Jutland.

High School Activities

By STEVIE DAHL

Once again I am reluctantly reporting the coming of that great tri-annual event—exams. Yep! For the next three weeks BCIVS students will be talking about studying, including those who have snickered at their more industrious classmates all year. This is our last grain chance. But, pass or fail, we have had a wonderful year on which to look back. Even now activity hasn't stopped; in fact, it seems to have increased lately.

On Wednesday, May 11, the BCI Cadet Corps held its annual inspection, this year presented in the evening, at the armouries, in order that more parents and friends could attend. Not only members of the school, but citizens of Belleville should be proud of these cadets. Affiliated with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, the boys have voluntarily trained for several months and through their enthusiastic efforts the inspection was very successful. The officers, under Cadet Colonel Charles Landry, deserve congratulations for the excellent leadership.

Every Saturday afternoon this year, the high school radio clubs have worked together to produce broadcasts beamed at the district adolescent. The honors for ingenuity go to Albert College, whose imaginative students have created programs of the highest calibre. However, lately the BCIVS shows have improved noticeably, and the last broadcast of the season was one of the best. The quality of the music played was the most startling change; at last someone has tuned in on the right wave length, discovering that melody wins votes anytime.

To add to the finality of this last program; a high school announcer closed each part by saying, "This is yours truly saying 'So long 'til next September'." Some day it would be interesting to discover if somebody's mother called him "Yours truly" or if there is more to his name. Many listeners have wondered all year who "Yours truly" is; cross your fingers and maybe we'll find out next September.

CJBQ's manager, Frank Murray, spoke briefly, complimenting the radio clubs on their hard work all year. On thanking the executives for their co-operation, Mr. Murray added that they had set high standards for other clubs to follow and that it had been a pleasure for CJBQ to work with the young people. Then Mr. Murray presented certificates to four boys who had passing an exam in radio broadcasting operations after taking a special course: Bruce Alexander of MSS; Peter Trill of BCIVS; Robert Smith of QSS, and David Ross of BCIVS.

As our school song says, "... in sports we all are very keen ..." Well, we are. We may not always win, but we're keen all right. A few weeks ago our girls' badminton team gaily marched into O.S.D. to participate—in the tournament, and despite valiant efforts, we were creamed. Anyway, as one Quinte gentleman recently jested, "BCI sure knows how to lose!" (Pure jealousy). He must have seen us bounding over to shake hands with our conquerors, muttering between our gritted teeth, "The fun's all in the game."

But, may we point out to this Individual that at the Track and Field meet in Trenton on Saturday, BCIVS students set two records.

Barry Roberts putted the shot (knotted the putt) a phenomenal 44 feet to shatter all previous district records. Then Sandra Claus won the intermediate girls' softball pitch by throwing the ball 126 feet. Although Sandra made a record here, at practices she has thrown it even farther. So there!

Other BCIVS winners: Evelyn Bedford came first in the intermediate running broad jump. In the junior 50 yard sprint our girls placed in the first four. The winner was Patsy Clapp, second was Sheryl Drysdale, Eleanor Redner placed third, and Carol Brown was fourth. Patsy Clapp placed first in 75 yard dash, and Sheryl Drysdale came in third. In the intermediate division Evelyn Bedford placed third. In the Junior running broad jump, Eleanor Redner placed third.

Our junior relay team won well ahead of at least fifteen other squads with a winning time of 30.8 seconds. Patsy Clapp, Heather Mills, Eleanor Redner, and Sheryl Drysdale were the members of this team.

Patsy Clapp of 9H won the junior girls' championship with the highest total of points, and received the coveted COSSA badge. In the boys' event, not only did Barry Roberts win the shot put, but also he ran first in the intermediate 10-yard dash.

For the senior events, Harvey Brant won second place in the ½ mile run and the mile run. First place in running broad jump was captured by Brian MacKenzie, who also placed first in the hop, step and jump.

In junior competition Bob Hidley came first in the 100 yard dash and third in the running broad. Larry Campbell captured a third in the high jump.

It's just no use trying to study at noon hours any more. Every day raucous cries of "Pill the unis!" "Aw, drop dead!" "Size-a-rite!", and "Well, we'll try again to-morra!" float in through open windows, luring would-be studiers down to the campus to watch interform base — pardon me — softball. The spectators, in spite of the odd casualty like being "stepped on the Bean" with a ball, enjoy the games more than the players — who just get angry and mutter all afternoon to unwilling listeners about "that flo-o-o-pid ref."

WHI contests and elections never end! The last month has been just one series of ballots flying left and right as the various clubs voted for their new '60-'61 executive. On Friday the Girls' Hi-Y elected Vicki Wheeler as president; Dianne Anderson and Allee Layton, vice-presidents; Jacquie Sills, secretary; and Carolyn Worley, treasurer. The new Keyette executive is as follows: Sylvia Schwab and Glenys Dickey, co-presidents; Pat Millar, secretary; Sharon Yeadland, treasurer; and Patti Bradford, Glenda Clare, Lynn Punchard, and Helen Walsh, directors Julie Bradford will be the Student Advisor.

Well, unfortunately for the reader, I'm not saying "so long 'til next September". Ol' Poison Pen will be back again in a couple of weeks if I don't flake out from studying.

See Reds Demand U.S. To Halt All Spy Flights

Security Council of UN To Hear Charge Monday

BERLIN (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev's mission in East Berlin appears to be to warn U.S. Communist rulers to be careful. The Soviet premier seems far from anxious for an explosion over West Berlin in the near future.

When Khrushchev blew up the four-power summit meeting in Paris before it could get started, his thunder made the storm seem close at hand. But in East Berlin today it appeared that the ominous rumble well beyond the horizon.

Khrushchev in a subdued mood, as he surely was on his arrival in East Berlin, left the West as baffling as Khrushchev roaring insults and threatening missiles. But there were a few hints grasped.

MASS RALLY CANCELLED

The first of the clues was that a mass meeting of 250,000 East Berliners scheduled by the municipal chief was called off. That could not have been done on the initiative of the East German Communist party chief unless it had first come from their Soviet superiors.

Secondly, the East Germans deliberately let it be known, while Khrushchev was still in West Paris, that he could not be expected to sign a peace treaty with the satellite East German Communist regime on this trip.

Advance word from Moscow had it that Khrushchev would probably in Berlin announce-ment in East Berlin. The notion may well get the East German Communist leadership excited about prospects for moving in some West Berlin.

MILD MANNER

But in his first day in East Berlin, Khrushchev, while saying substantially what he did in Paris, said it in a mild manner. In fact he read his speech at the airport in a monotone, as if it were necessary to.

His second speech, scheduled for today was a report to a party holding only 5,000, and hardly a stage for a Khrushchev tirade.

In what Khrushchev said on his arrival there was a slight shift in emphasis. Communist — ruled territory, cannot be settled at a conference table. That may have been one of the several reasons why Khrushchev felt impelled to wreck the summit meeting.

The implication was that the question of West Berlin, an isolated island of 2,200,000 people 110 miles inside Communist - ruled territory, cannot be settled at a conference table. That may have been one of the several reasons why Khrushchev felt impelled to wreck the summit meeting.

ELIGIBLE PERSONS OUTSIDE CANADA TO GET PENSIONS

General Approval Given to Bill

OTTAWA (CP)—Legislation to pay old age pensions to eligible persons outside Canada was introduced in the Commons Thursday night amid general approval.

The bill would send the $55-a-month cheques to such persons 70 or over if they have lived 25 years or more in Canada after the age of 21.

Few pensioners outside that category but still Canadian residents for 10 years, the pension may be payable for six months and then cease unless they return to Canada.

Health Minister Monteith, declining the bill in general terms, said it will do away with the existing regulation that suspends the pension of a person leaving Canada. This regulation entitled him to payment for a maximum six months of a year if he came back to Canada within six months.

He said a particular objective is the recognition of valid claims of "those long-term residents of Canada who can show that they have lived the greater portion of their adult life in this country and who can therefore be said to have given most of the years of their life to the service of Canada."

Former Liberal health minister Paul Martin, declaring his party had installed all Canada's social security legislation in the federal field, said he approves the principle.

Hardo Martin (CCF—Timmins) called it the best piece of legislation ever introduced by a progressive Conservative government. But he cautioned that the distinction between "residence" and "domicile" might be creating two classes of Canadians.

Macmillan Will Continue Efforts With Red Bloc

Warns There May Be 'Grave Implications'

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan warned today that there may be "grave implications" in the failure of the East-West summit meeting, but said he would continue his efforts to bring about an understanding with the Communist bloc.

Macmillan told Parliament the West must be ready for the international situation "to become more dangerous" and to meet "new threats and new dangers."

But it was too early to judge yet whether Soviet Premier Khrushchev's attitude in Paris constituted a major change in policy or was an isolated episode in East-West relations.

"In either case we must be ready," he said.

INSIDE STORY

Macmillan made the first of the Western statesmen to give much of the inside story behind the collapse of the summit parley.

He described what had happened as "a great shock and disappointment."

Macmillan further disclosed that he had received a personal message from the Soviet premier on May 3 saying Khrushchev's Big Four assembled in Paris—declined to "discuss" Russia's reconnaissance flights over Soviet territory.

"There were bound among other things to be discussions on aircraft incident," Macmillan said.

APPEAL FAILS

Having the committee's role, Macmillan said he had told Khrushchev in Paris that his fears and "conditions" had been largely met by President Eisenhower, and that he was "unreasonable" to expect more.

"I appealed to him not to make impossible the negotiations on which all our hopes depend.

"We both spoke very frankly and I was not without some hope that my appeal would result in a more favorable turn."

Works Minister And Pickersgill 'Have a Go'

OTTAWA (CP) — Amid shouts of, "Withdraw," "Sit down" and the like, the Commons became embroiled Thursday in a dispute over a document which doesn't even exist.

J. W. Pickersgill (L — Bonaventure-Twillingate) accused Works Minister Walker of an "outrageous breach" of the rights of Parliament by depriving the Commons a document which had been given to the press.

Mr. Pickersgill maintained that the press has been given an "interim report" on the feasibility study for a proposed nine - mile causeway between Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick.

Mr. Walker said Mr. Pickersgill was doing a "ball-baked job" and seldom understood what was going on. He said the government has the feasibility study, all right, but it had two progress reports on that study.

Mr. Pickersgill said Mr. Walker had tried to mislead the Commons.

WITHDRAWS REMARK

Speaker Michael Michaud asked Mr. Pickersgill to withdraw this remark. Mr. Pickersgill did so.

Later, Mr. Walker began reading a statement on the causeway. Five major questions had been asked, he said, giving information already pretty well covered.

At one point Mr. Walker paused to ask Mr. Pickersgill to listen since he had requested a report. Mr. Pickersgill protested that he was listening intently.

Mr. Pickersgill obviously "listens with his mouth open," retorted Mr. Walker, to loud laughter from government supporters."

Mr. Pearson then asked Speaker Michener to intervene so that Mr. Walker, "if he cannot conduct himself like a minister of the Crown, might at least speak like one."

There was sustained Liberal applause following which the Speaker ordered Mr. Walker not to resume his statement.

Predicts Merger American League And Big Four

TORONTO (CP)—An eventual merger of the Canadian Football League and the proposed American Football League is predicted by Harry Wismer, chairman of the AFL's expansion committee.

In a telephone interview from New York with The Telegram, Wismer said Thursday that such a merger would be "the greatest thing for the two countries."

He said the main object is to bring American and Canadian football rules closer.

Wismer said the AFL three weeks ago was considering making the Canadian single point rule but it was turned down by one vote. Wismer would not say how they voted.

"We may still have it sometime."

Struck by Truck

STRATHROY (CP)—Joy Elizabeth Harnett, 7, died here Thursday shortly after she was struck by a tank truck on Highway 81, about a half a mile north of here.

The girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Harnett, darted into the path of a truck driven by William Watson of Sarnia.

Falconbridge Mines Obtain Injunction Against Picketing

SUDBURY (CP)—Falconbridge Nickel Mines Limited Thursday obtained an interim injunction from the Ontario Supreme Court against picketing of its properties in Falconbridge and Onaping and at the McKim mine.

The order also prohibits counselling of breach of contract between the company and its employees.

Jacob Finkelman, chairman of Ontario Labor Relations Board, said the company asked leave to prosecute striking employees for taking part in an illegal strike.

The board next Wednesday will consider a company application to have the United Steelworkers of America decertified as bargaining agent for the 2,000 employees declared illegal.

Officials of Local, 598 of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Independent) and 2,300 union members have been given notice of the hearing. They include one of the Harris' Mine, who started the wildcat walkout Monday.

Local President Donald Gillis said in report to Finkelman that employees today on meetings with company officials.

The walkout initially followed a company ruling that men in all departments must wear safety goggles, was declared illegal by both sides. The miners claim the goggles are uncomfortable and unnecessary except in certain classes of employment.

Operations at company mines and plants have been brought almost to a standstill since the walkout spread to six other Falconbridge properties.

A meeting attended by 500 union members Thursday failed to settle anything.

Mr. Gillis said he will continue bargaining "as long as the company leaves the door open."

Company officials have denied reports that 17 men under Steel Union vice-president Donald McGregor at Levack were given notice of dismissal and would be disciplined when they reported for work.

Reports of picket-line violence so far have remained unconfirmed. Provincial police warned Thursday they would step in, if necessary, to clear the Falconbridge Highway, which was crowded with cars. The picketing injunction covers roads leading to company property.

Application for extension of the injunction will be made when it expires May 24.

KANSAS TORNADO DAMAGES MANY FARMS, VILLAGES

Warning Given One Dies, 28 Injured

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—A tornado tumbled across 100 miles of northeastern—Kansas and neighboring Missouri Thursday night, littering its path with the rubble of shattered farms and villages.

However, the twister gave plenty of warning and thus claimed only one life and injured only 28 persons.

The tornado first dropped out of a thunderstorm about 40 miles west of Topeka just before sundown. There was just enough light to outline the deadly funnel, and most persons in its path gained shelter.

Hundreds of buildings were smashed along a 60-mile route. But the twister was not the greatest heard when it smashed into Meriden, a village of 400 nine miles north of Topeka. The damage was apparent there.

Then the funnel skipped 30 miles to near Leavenworth, Kan., and splintered more farm buildings.

THRUST IN THE DARK

It was dark by the time the tornado dipped again and out through the centre of Edgerton, Mo., another 20 miles to the northeast. The town's fire station was demolished, a church was damaged and several houses uprooted.

At Meriden, the body of Mrs. Mildred Hundley, 50, was found in the wreckage of her tavern. Almost 50 homes in and near Meriden were destroyed or damaged severely. The business district also was damaged extensively.

A number of residents took shelter in the basement of the Meriden Baptist Church and escaped death. Only the church steeple was damaged.

Rain poured on the wreckage of Meriden and turned the town into a sea of mud. Trees were stripped to bare stubs.

Believed Drowned

PENELON FALLS (CP)—Police in this Cameron Lake community 25 miles northwest of Peterborough started a search Thursday night for the body of a teenage boy, believed drowned when a boat plunged over a dam.

One boat was rescued by a fisherman. Details of the accident have been withheld by police.

Huge Shark Attacks Teen-Age Girl, Injuries Result in Loss of Leg

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP)— A huge shark attacked a 16-year-old girl and a boy here Thursday and mangled her left leg so severely that it had to be amputated below the knee.

Suzanna Marie Theriot was swimming 150 feet off shore when the shark struck. The attack was witnessed by a score of the California coast that authorities blame on a warming trend of the waters and the movement of warm-water fish northward.

Two Californians have been killed by sharks in the last year, one off San Francisco, the other off La Jolla.

Suzanna and 38 classmates were on a high school outing. She is one of eight children of Fred Theriot, a retired physicist.

Suzanna, a Tessie Agnich, 15, Nick Beak, 16, and Larry Cronin, 16, were standing abreast in their lobe when a foot-high dorsal fin circled them.

The shark made one lightning pass, ripped the girl's leg and swam away.

Suzanna underwent a four-hour operation but surgeons were unable to save her leg. Today her condition was reported serious but improving.

Pressures May Be Behind Nikita's Switch Says P.M.

OTTAWA (CP) — Pressures from Soviet military circles and Communist China may be behind Nikita Khrushchev's switch from the hale-fellow handshake to the clenched fist, Prime Minister Diefenbaker suggested Thursday night.

The Soviet leader simply did not want the ill-fated Paris summit conference to take place even though he had asked for it for more than two years, Mr. Diefenbaker said in a national television address.

He added:

"It would appear that he (Khrushchev) has been having difficulties with the military authorities in the Soviet and has been opposed by Communist China in his stand that with its help he can now a more peaceful policy.

"It is now clear that Red Peking's leaders have been uttering some very frightening statements recently. Their deputy premier has stated that 'hundreds of millions' strong can overwhelm the enemy in the flame of an all-out people's war.'

Mr. Diefenbaker said Khrushchev, by his own words, had rejected any suggestion that the Paris conference would be held on the basis of the 1955 Geneva conference when he said he had invited Paris by the President Eisenhower about such flights in the air over Soviet territory last September. On another occasion, Khrushchev had said he was satisfied with the explanations to bring down an invading plane.

All this would seem to indicate Khrushchev decided some months ago to wreck the conference because "he had found out that the United States, France and Britain would not meet his wishes of doing so meant sacrificing the entire population of West Berlin."

This is not the time to enter into criticisms or recriminations over American handling of the spy plane matter, Mr. Diefenbaker said.

Fighter Pilots Recall Past

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian fighter pilots of the Second World War will celebrate anniversaries of war days when they met Thursday night at the 70th annual convention of the RCAF Association.

Guest of honor will be Group Captain James E. Johnson, British ace credited with shooting down 38 German planes. He was presented with a painting of himself and his Spitfire, commissioned by the Toronto unit of the RCAF.

Group Capt. Johnson said manned bombers can still get through enemy defences to deliver their attack in the event of war. Britain's new Victory-type Vulcans were capable of carrying a nuclear bomb at supersonic speed toward a target, then releasing it to send it on its own flight over the remaining distance.

The peace of the world is still being kept by manned aircraft, he said.

Turkish Police Use Tear Gas

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—Police used tear gas Thursday to disperse a crowd of 1,500 attempting to enter a cemetery during a demonstration before the tomb of the Turkish republic's founder, Mustafa Kemal Ataturk.

During the half-hour scuffle, demonstrators shouted anti-Ataturk slogans supporting recent youth uprisings against the government of Premier Adnan Menderes.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (Reuters)—Mrs. Ruth Alexander, Capetown journalist and correspondent for the Manchester Guardian and the New York Post, was released from prison, the political correspondent of the Rand Daily Mail reported today.

Mrs. Alexander, who was arrested April 11 under the emergency regulations banning gatherings following serious racial disorders in this country.

The correspondent said in a Capetown story that Mrs. Mackeurtan and another woman were also released with her. Mrs. Jean Bernard, wife of a lawyer, have been barred from publishing any condition of their release.

Justice Minister Francois Erasmus said May 3 that Mrs. Mackenzie was being held for reasons not connected with her journalistic activities.

TORONTO (CP) — Industrial fatalities in Ontario decreased from 452 in 1959 to 436 in 1960, E. Z. Sparrow, chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Board, reports. Joint Three-Nation Team Climbs World's Third Highest Mountain

KATMANDU, Nepal (Reuters) — The third highest unclimbed mountain in the world, 26,041-foot Annapurna II, was conquered Tuesday by a joint British-New Zealand-Nepalese armed services expedition, it was announced here.

The expedition battled through high winds and heavy snowfalls to reach the top of the mountain, described as a "killer" by Col. James Roberts, the British leader.

The highest remaining unclimbed mountain is Gosainthan, Lhotse II on the Nepal-Tibet border and 26,811-foot Dhaulagiri in Central Nepal.

Roberts' message did not name the climbers who reached the summit. It is assumed they were men named in plans for the assault.

These were Capt. R. J. Grant of the British Royal Marines, Lieut. S. J. Bonington of the British Second Royal Tank Regiment and a Sherpa, Nyima, a lance corporal in the Ghurkha Rifles.

Nyima was with the British expedition that conquered Mount Everest in 1953. It carried equipment to the highest camp at 27,000 feet from which the final assault was made.

The last attempt to climb Annapurna II was made in 1957 by the British Dr. Charles Evans was beaten back by bad weather 1,500 feet from the top.

Meanwhile, Pakistan radio quoted a report in the Nepalese newspaper Gorkhapatra saying a Soviet - Chinese expedition had reached the top of 25,026-foot Muztagh Ata in the world's highest peak. The report gave no details.

TOKYO (Reuters)—A Japanese mountaineer claimed Thursday he climbed the hitherto unconquered peak of 23,308 - foot Mount Api in Nepal. Katsutoshi Hirabayashi, 25, cabled to the Himalaya committee of Dushoha University at Kyoda that he and a Sherpa reached the Summit May 10.

Atlas Missile Blasts off On Long Trip

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) An Atlas missile blasted off today on a hoped-for journey of more than 7,000 miles past the tip of South Africa to the southern reaches of the Indian Ocean.

The intercontinental range giant powered into the sky from its missile test centre at 11 a.m. EDT and 11 west right on southwester flight would last about 32 minutes. The air force was expected to announce results shortly afterwards. The exact impact range was not revealed in advance.

The Atlas was geared for the longest surface-to-surface missile flight on record, exceeding the 7,760 miles claimed by the Russians for a rocket they fired into the Pacific Ocean in 1957. The greatest distance flown previously by an Atlas was 6,325 miles.

Ike Pays Visit To Lisbon On Way Home

LISBON (AP)—President Eisenhower left for Washington today to report to the American people on the failure of his efforts to discuss peace with Nikita Khrushchev.

The president paid a 24-hour visit to Lisbon on his way back from the disastrous summit conference in Paris.

A crowd of about 2,000 at Portela Airport cheered Eisenhower as he warmly shook hands with his host, Portuguese President Americo Tomaz.

The president's goodwill visit to Portugal included two banquets, three receptions and a 40-minute talk with Salazar during which Eisenhower gave the Portuguese premier a report on the Paris conference.

A White House spokesman said they had also discussed common defense problems and the Congo problems and reviewed the general world situation.

Eisenhower left was to arrive in Washington at 3 p.m. EDT.

The Portuguese government's national TV networks made plans to cover his arrival. Microphones were ready for whatever speech he cared to make.

Greeting him from Mr. Eisenhower, Vice - President Nixon, members of the cabinet and of the diplomatic corps and congressmen from both parties were assembled at the airport.

Thousands of school children and office workers planned to line the route along the seven-mile 15-mile drive to the White House.

Eisenhower's homecoming contrasted strongly with his simple sendoff last Saturday. Then only a handful of officials were on hand to see the president off.

Cleland Allison Completes 45 Years Service With CNR

Tickets please, tickets please—

After 33 years the above familiar phrase is but a memory for CNR conductor Cleland Allison, 10 Bradgate Road, who yesterday wrote finis to a railway career dating back over 45 years.

Thursday afternoon he punched his last ticket with the CNR as he worked the No. 8 passenger train on the Montreal-Toronto run. Railway officials were on hand to greet him at the Belleville station, while Mrs. Allison boarded the train here and rode with her husband for the last half of his final run into Toronto.

Starting with the GTR as brakeman back in January 1916, Mr. Allison was classed as conductor in 1928 and for the past 32 years has been on the Toronto-Montreal passenger run.

Born in Tyrconnel, Ont., just west of Perth, he got his first taste of railroading as locomotive fireman with Dominion Construction Company during the construction of the CPR line between Agincourt and Glen Tay. When the job was completed he went to Perth and came on with the GTR as a brakeman.

FISHING IS HOBBY

Now with his railway career behind him, Mr. Allison is looking forward to a full summer of fishing and lolling in the sun at the Allison summer cottage north of Maynooth.

CLELAND ALLISON

"I am looking forward to getting a lot of fishing this summer," he says. "Mrs. Allison and I spend a lot of time at our cottage in the north."

Mr. and Mrs. Allison have two sons and a daughter. One of the sons, Thomas, is railway yardmaster at Fort Erie, while a second son, Jack, is a druggist, son, has a practice in Toronto. Their daughter, Mrs. Jack Hunter, lives in Belleville.

Bridge Street AOTS Hears Talk on 'Men'

The regular meeting of Bridge Street A.O.T.S. club on Wednesday featured an interesting talk on "Men" by the Rev. Donald Pipe, of Consecon. Mr. Pipe came to Canada a few months ago from Nottingham, England, where he attended university and served with the Union Church. He brings to Canada valuable experience not only from the English Union Church but as a leader of a Wednesday noon park or Sunday morning meeting.

Outdoor meetings or debates of the type discussed by Mr. Pipe, although common in England, are practically unknown in Canada. The church, he says, differs in that the working man in England does not attend church services on Sunday morning as regularly as his Canadian counterpart.

Mr. Pipe's meetings will continue every week during all seasons of the year and those conducted by the speaker might have an attendance varying from five to 50 or 60 whether it be dozen or so in rainy or snowy weather or 500 in fair rain or mild winter or summer, the same faces would appear on the Noon Hour square and the speaker at noon to enjoy a debate — a bit of heckling, either as a listener, a speaker or hecklers, and the latter were numerous.

WHAT'S NEW CURRENT EVENTS

The speaker was expected to know all about current events such as the current "Profumo scandal" gossip — what is going on in the foreign affairs and entertainment is doing — what is happening at United Nations — or the latest weather forecast or pendings in the news.

He was also expected to make predictions or voice opinions on any of these subjects. One does not always get a hot and lively wire-walking debate but it is often challenged, rarely can quote refuse but there is always.

The majority of the attendees are critical of the clergy, their sermons, and are always ready to criticize. Mr. Pipe's aggressive attitude in the pulpit and his sincerity of purpose and heart. Such people consider themselves a different species of society, which is in continuous conflict with "the boss" or management, who do not respect the church because they do not attend it, or the power of the boss. The church might gain more of their respect if it would be a friendly, democratic stand on important issues.

YMCA CLASSES

Some of these people are seekers who come to hear and learn. They are not aggressive in critics, but are endeavoring to seek information. Others are dodgers, who come to heckle or to introduce a red herring to the discussion to break up a meeting, or gain attention.

Mr. Pipe was a minister in England whose ambition was to fill the pews of his church on the morning of worship. Mr. Pipe tried many things. He found that music was very much in the way of increased church attendance, but he did not succeed in getting the audience at his outdoor meetings.

Do outdoor meetings without offerings, without singing and without prayer, is going to motivate the men? Mr. Pipe answered this with a story—"like the Salvation Army, they do not let a bite all day—he had caught none."

Mr. Pipe's experiences have certainly helped to sharpen his wits and to give him a sense of humor. His congregation in Consecon will be fortunate in having such a capable man as its leader.

His informative talk on "men" was much enjoyed by all members present.

Again Bridge Street A.O.T.S. enjoyed a delicious turkey dinner supper. A novel birthday celebration for Mrs. Morgan, the Rev. Bob Sherwin, Fred Adsett, Willys Brenton and the Rev. Pipe was enjoyed (birthdays during the month of June) including a delicious assortment of strawberry shortcake, m-m-m-dessert each.

Milton Blakely and Bill Wilson were visitors for the evening and Al. Banting conducted the worship service.

The congenial pianist, choirleader, organist and music leader, Cliff Gordon conducted the singing.

The next meeting will be on Wednesday, June 15th at Quin-Mo-Lac Camp with other clubs from Consecon, Trenton, and Stirling. Bring a lunch, a strong band and more mosquito and black fly lotion.

Centennial Year of Lodge Marked by 'Family Night', Enjoyed by Large Crowd

By GLADYS WARD

Centennial year for The Belleville Lodge A.F. and A.M., No. 125, has been marked by several special occasions, and last night at the Masonic Temple "Family Night" was observed when an overflow crowd gathered in the parlais of a turkey dinner and enjoy a treveloque. The tables were decked in the blue and gold of the Masonic order added to the attractive setting.

The head table guests were Mr. and Mrs. Fredrik of Campbellford, and included Wor. Bro. Cecil Hall, Belleville Senior, Rt. Wor. Bro. Ray and Mrs. Gonsolus, Rt. Wor. Bro. R. J. and Mrs. Woolley, Rt. Wor. Bro. Douglas McMaster D.D.G.M., and Mrs. McMaster, Wor. Bro. Cecil and Mrs. McMullen, Wor. Bro. C. A. Stanley and Mrs. Smith, Wor. Bro. Carmen and Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Smith, Attorney General the Hon. Kelso Roberts and Mrs. Roberts, and the speakers, Mr. Carmen and Mrs. Adams.

Grace was invoked by Bro. George Mountford, and the toastmaster was Wor. Bro. C. A. Stanley Smith, who introduced the guests at the head table and also Bro. H. Emerson of Pacific Grove, California, a former member of the Lodge.

Mrs. R. H. Ralph was heard several delightful vocal selections which included "Whispering Hope," "Danny Boy" and "When You Come To the End of the Day." Her accompanist was Mrs. Leo Grills.

Bro. Cecil McMullen proposed the toast to the ladies which he said, were the artistic part of humanity, by nature interested in the finer, more artistic things beautiful. They had a great influence in the world and her balance, with the ability to adjust successfully to modern living. Women are far more men than women committed suicide, Mr. McMullen noted. They needed a sense of humor, a helpful partner, and those partners appreciated their capacity for love and understanding.

Mrs. R. Gumsolus responded with the toast. The ladies of Belville Lodge would continue to grow and have great success in the future, she said.

INITIATED 38 YEARS AGO

Rt. Wor. Bro. Douglas McMaster addressed the assembly briefly.

Hon. Kelso Roberts recalled that 38 years previously he reminded him if was thirty-eight years ago that he was initiated into The Belleville Lodge, and his father had been Master of Moira Lodge. He was grateful for the opportunity of being in the fine new Lodge for Mr. Anderson to the vocalist, Mrs. Ralph and her accompanist, Mrs. Grills, and by Mrs. Leo Grills, and thanked the ladies who had catered for the banquet. He complimented the signed sprays of flowers were presented to Mr. Adams, Mrs. Ralph and Mrs. Grills, and each lady present was given a rose corsage.

The evening was concluded with dancing to the music of the Club Commodore orchestra.

Adams, Rt. Wor. Bro. R. C. Woodley described his early life in Belleville where he attended No. 2 public school on Coleman St., now Queen Mary school, and the high school. He was initiated into The Belleville Lodge in 1919, and had retained his membership since, although he moved to the States the next year. Mrs. Adams developed into a super-salesman, and had his own electrical equipment firm in Detroit. Mr. and Mrs. Adams have three daughters, and are active in the Presbyterian church in Birmingham, where they have made their home.

In showing the colored slides of their trip, Bro. Adams explained that he and his family chose the Orient because there was more diversity of culture there. Their interest increased as they visited the countries and had been marvellously rewarded.

Their daughters had teen-age friends to accompany them on their visits to various places. Everywhere were an outstanding part of their trip, and they were greatly impressed with the hospitality which was given beyond their means by Masons. Adams developed into a friendship which was offered them so freely.

Their greatest impression on their return was the wonderful Christian faith of the people of the Orient, which should be cherished. Other countries are bound by tradition and by their ancestors. Mr. Adams displayed some Japanese dolls of beautiful brocade embroidered to represent weddings, marriages or periods of history.

Mrs. Adams gave a commentary on the slides were shown describing Manila where there are "Boys for Hire," "Girls for Sale" and the people were gay and friendly. The picture of Thailand showed the priests in their saffron robes and shaved heads, the temple of Buddha. Many live on the river and their homes are built still. Hong Kong was the "most interesting place they saw,"where the harbor is filled with three-masted junks and the refugees. Many people spend their lives on the streets, where they are born and die in cramped quarters.

Japan was like a fairy story with modern cities and yet enchanting in its beauty and country.

There were many views of Shinto temples, and the festivals where colored crepe paper streamers and pictures decorated the streets. The youngest daughter had to have an emergency operation in a Japanese hospital and this turned out to be one of the most rewarding incidental on the trip, experiences of their trip, because she was cared for by the Japanese as one of their own. Rev. Ernest Smith expressed the thanks of all at the meeting for the educational and entertaining program. A collection was also given by Wor. Bro. Gordon Anderson to the 15th Boy Scout Nominations List Presented

On Wednesday evening the members of the 15th Boy Scout Auxiliary met at Sir Winston Churchill School with Mrs. Margo Agar presiding.

After a brief business period the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Helen Chipps, nominations chairman, to present her list of candidates. Who with the assistance of Mrs. "Dolly" Scott, had phoned all the mothers.

Mrs. L. Blake will be present and to install the new officers at the September meeting.

As this is the close of the season, an affirmative vote was received to continue the Sadie Hawkins dance on the third Wednesday of the month at 8 p.m.

Over a cup of coffee, the guest of the evening, Mrs. Blaker outlined a variety of programs that would encourage all the mothers to participate and that would carry their interest over from one meeting to the next.

She also pointed out that raising was not the prime objective of the Auxiliary, instead, more knowledge of Scouting would help maintain a son's interest in his Scout or Cub activities.

CIRCUS MUSIC

Failure to Inform Clubs Leads to Softball Schmozzle

Loose administrative work on the part of secretary-treasurer Bob Bissett resulted in the Cobourg Merchants failing to appear in Trenton last night for their Belleville and District Softball league game, it was learned from league president Harry Morgan this morning.

Trenton had a full squad ready for action last night, decked out in brand new uniforms, the umpires and scorers were present and a full crowd arrived for the 8.30 till under the lights.

Not a soul showed up from Cobourg and the Trenton management said it had received no word from either Cobourg or the league executive that the Merchants would not be there.

The allotted 15 minutes grace was given the Cobourg club, Trenton submitted a 7-0 forfeit and took the field and pitcher umpire Jim Tetworth then defaulted the game to Trenton by a 9-0 score.

Later however Morgan said that the game could not be awarded to Trenton. Morgan told the Ontario Intelligencer this morning that Blaind had called him Thursday night after being notified of the default.

"Blaind told me that Huck Matthews, the Cobourg manager, called hi mat midnight Wednesday and said that Cobourg could not have a team in Trenton for the Thursday game. Blaind was then to notify Trenton and announcement was to be made that the game was postponed?" Morgan said.

"The secretary told me he "forgot to call Trenton. As far as I am concerned we can't take the game away from Cobourg because of one of the league executives mistakes", Morgan continued.

"I realize that Trenton will blow up when they learn of this. They were mad enough as it was last night, even when they thought they were getting the game by default, but now it will be worse and I can't blame them anymore than I can Cobourg.

"It will just have to go down "no game" and it will have to call Trenton and tell them this. Trenton was absolutely correct in his decision last night but its a different story when the fact's are known."

Morgan also said that he was changing the games of May 26 and June 1 at Trenton's request and Trenton was scheduled to play the Bobcats in Belleville on May 25 and Cobourg was to play here on the 26. Trenton also plan to play at home on the 30 and St. Dezereville on the 31 giving them three games in as many nights. However Cobourg will play in Belleville on Wednesday the 25 and Trenton will be here the following Wednesday, June 1.

The loop head also said that he had received calls from Deseronto complaining that they had advertised their game on Saturday, May 20 (tonight), However they do not play until next Friday, May 27. Morgan said that nothing could be done about this now.

Cubs and Scouts Of St. Michael's Hold Banquet

The annual father and son banquet of St. Michael's 3rd Belleville Cubs and Scouts was held recently in the Knights of Columbus Hall with 150 present.

The tables were tastefully decorated with small green and white flags and Union Jacks. At the head table fresh flowers and candles completed the setting. After The Queen's toast was said by Rt. Rev. J. P. Sullivan, parish priest, Rev. T. F. Murphy, group chaplain, Rev. W. J. McGee, Rev. Jackson, Field Commissioner, Mrs. E. Bleck Auxiliary president, Mrs. L. Allore, District Council Commissioner, F. J. Lancaster, president District Council, Dr. L. Allore and George Wilson, committee members.

Much to the amusement of all, a huge lemon meringue pie was given to Commissioner Jackson, as he was once heard to complain about a shortage of lemon pie.

Cub Robert McCallum was presenting with a plaque on obtaining all 13 Cub badges.

Guest speaker for the evening was Commissioner Jackson, who gave an inspiring talk on the aims and ideals of Scouting, using for his theme the initials S.C.O.U.T. He said they could be used as constant reminders if used in this way: S for the Supplementing of school, church and citizenship; C for Character; O for Others; U for Yourself and T for Training.

A reading sheer was given to Mrs. H. Glaney, convener for the banquet, and the Ladies' Auxiliary for the lovely dinner they had prepared.

PUC Will Increase Power Rates in Town by June 15, Commission Losing Money

TRENTON — Local power consumers will be paying more for electricity by June 15. This was the decision made by the commissioners at Thursday night's Public Utilities Commission meeting.

For the past few years, the electric department of the Trenton PUC, which previously had shown a healthy annual surplus, has been gradually slipping into the red. Early this year the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission increased the cost of power to the town. The Trenton commission ended 1959 over the HEPC $14,000. Officials of the HEPC met with Trenton authorities and advised them that the rates to domestic, commercial and industrial users would have to be increased.

For weeks the commissioners and PUC manager James Page have been pouring over various rate schedules supplied by the HEPC. They have finally come up with a schedule which, while being the fourth lowest schedule in the list of possible rate schedules, would have the desired effect of putting the electric department back on its feet.

If the HEPC approves the commissioners decision it is expected that by June 15, domestic, commercial and industrial users will be paying 10 percent increase tacked onto their bills. This would mean that the minimum bill of 83 cents would be increased to 91 cents, gross, or 81 net, if paid within the discount allowances after receiving the bill.

There will be no change in the charge for power used for water heaters. These rates will undergo an adjustment which will result in a lower rate for the majority of users, and in a few cases, a higher rate.

With the cost of power from the HEPC to the town increased by $90,000 this year and the existing debt to the Ontario Municipal Board of $50,000 per annum, the commissioners, while loathe to advocate raising rates themselves "between the devil and the deep blue sea."

However, the commissioners point out that the extra charge to domestic consumers will work out on an estimated 60-cent increase in the regular bill.

DETAILS UP

In other business, the PUC decided to go ahead this year with the installation of the Sidney Street well. Although several wells have been installed on the property and a pumping equipment program has been discussed for the past few years since the accidental discovery of the well site, the commissioners thought it unwise to continue the project for a few years. However the announcement of the Stokely Van Camp food processing company would resume operations this year, has made the situation in a different light. If there is to be an extra water shortage in Trenton during the summer, an additional water supply must be available.

The cost of the latter stages of development of the well will be about $25,000. H. Jones and Sons, well-diggers, reported that the screen for strictly undrivable elements from water has arrived and that the casing to be main test well has been installed. Surging and pumping operations are being carried on at the present time of dirt and gravel. Within a few days a test will be made of the water. Between 400 and 450 gallons of water a minute are being obtained from the test well.

Commissioner C. A. Baker pointed out that if the expected annexation of parts of Sidney and Murray Townships takes place within the next few months there will be a greater demand on the commission to supply water to new sub-divisions, as well as to established residents of the areas under consideration for the annexation.

Meanwhile, the Trenton Dyeing and Finishing Company in the west end of the town, notified the commission that the well recently discovered on their property will be in probability, supply enough water for its needs.

While this will give the commission more available water for distribution to other users at the same time it will represent an annual revenue of around $7000 from the commission's facility. As well is producing 13,000 gallons of water per hour at the present time with an estimated potential of 30,000 gallons per hour when well will be in full production within four to six weeks.

CONSIDER LETTER

The commission considered a letter from O. W. Larry, town clerk-treasurer, stating that Gus Scarlett, local realtor, had applied to council for permission to install water and sewer services in a new subdivision on the south of Highway 2, adjacent to Dundonald Avenue. Before further permission to hook a sewer line into the main town line at the west end of town.

The commissioners were of the opinion that this request would nullify their resolution of last year not to extend any mains beyond the town's boundary. Mr. Baker said that he was not involved because the subdivider would pay for the project. It was a question of policy, he said.

However, as the subdivider has made no application to the PUC, the problem may be solved by the end of the week when Council's plans for annexation carry through.

Mr. Page read a letter from the Cooper Equipment Ltd., offering to do a complete appraisal of PUC buildings, including garages, transformer cabinery, the filtration plant, pumping station and undeveloped areas, for $935. It was decided to get a second quotation from another firm for comparison.

The Department of National Defence had written to suggest that the commission waiver a 10 per cent surcharge added to regular billing when the consumer fails to pay the bill within, 10 days of receipt. The department also pointed out that there was little chance that the Crown's ability to pay liabilities, but that the accounts must be cleared in order to get funds for the delay of payment. The commissioners agreed to waiver the application. Mr. Baker suggested that a letter be sent in the department stating that the commission did not doubt the Crown's ability to pay, but that the charge had been added as an incentive to prompt payment.

"They've been paying more promptly since we suggested the surcharge, anyhow" observed Mr. Baker.

The commission was notified that the Lakeside Gas Company was installing a 16-inch pipeline under the overpass at the CNR tracks on Bleecker Street. The PUC will be able to install a water pipe in this pipe, and the town will be able to install a sewer pipe, along with the gas line. This will result in a considerable saving to the PUC and the town when services are extended in this area.

Mr. Page said that copy had been prepared and some copy was still in the process of being prepared for a booklet about the PUC's annual 1959 report. The booklet will list the commission's assets, liabilities, revenues and so on, and will also contain a list of all past commissioners. Copies of the report will be available to the public.

OCE Sponsors Summer School, Says McIlwain

TRENTON — E. S. McIlwain, Trenton High School principal, has announced that the Ontario College of Education is sponsoring a summer school program at Kingston Collegiate and Vocational Institute July 11-August 19.

The course will provide a training program for prospective high school teachers and at the same time enable students who failed by more than three subjects during the term to receive extra instruction and to write examinations at the end of the course.

Favorable results of the examinations will be accepted by the principals of the schools which the students ordinarily attend.

Students who have been weak in certain subjects may attend the classes to raise their standing.

The classes will be held five days a week, Monday through Friday, from 9.30 a.m to 1.00 p.m. It is hoped that enough students that would start at Trenton in the morning and pick up students along the way to Kingston may be arranged. The bus would return each evening.

Students from Grades 9 to 13 may attend the classes. Subjects covered will be English, history, geography, mathematics, physics, French and Latin.

No fees will be charged for the course. In former years such summer courses were held in Belleville and Picton but these similar courses will be held at London and Kingston.

Fireworks Show At Point Anne

The Joint Union Safety Advisory Committee of the Canada Cement Company Ltd. is once again sponsoring the annual Victoria Day fireworks at the Point Anne ball park Monday night.

Always one of the best displays in the district, it is said that this year's display will be the best ever. Other entertainment will be held just prior to the actual fireworks.

The affair is scheduled to get under way at 8 p.m. and everyone is invited. Kids are admitted free while a small admission charge will be made to adults.

Public Works to Recommend 'Clean Your Own Sidewalks'

Snow shovels may be in extra demand by city householders next winter if a recommendation of snowfall may have little to do with the matter.

At least the snow shovel demand would result if a public works recommendation to dispense with sidewalk plowing next winter is given ratification in regular council next week.

At this week's meeting of the public works department, committee chairman Alderman Eugene Harrison brought in the recommendation to dispense with sidewalk plowing and the motion saw majority approval on the part of the council.

Accordingly it will go before the regular meeting of council next week.

In fact a bit of delving into the ball records indicates that a 1903 by-law calling for householders to shovel their own sidewalks may still be in force.

No record of the rescinding of this by-lay has been found and the present system of the city public works plowing sidewalks was brought into being merely by recommendation of council.

Public Works Committee chairman Alderman Harrison said he was going along with Alderman Harrison's motion and will make the recommendation before council next week.

The False Face

Some time back we remarked editorially on the basic difference between the Russian way of thinking and our own and how this difference was one of the major factors which would have to be reckoned with in any summit meetings or dealings with the Russian leaders. We pointed out that the Russian way of thinking was several centuries behind that of the western democracies because the Soviet Union is, sociologically speaking, currently at a point in their development that the English-speaking democracies reached back in the 1600's and 1700's.

This difference is certainly evidenced by Khrushchev's actions and words of the past few days. To him power is all powerful—might is right. This attitude was in evidence back in the Elizabethan times when Englishmen sallied forth upon the high seas to plunder the Spanish galleons, and to build up the basis for what became known as the British Empire. Time has wrought a change upon our attitude however.

We have reached the point where we realize that the wanton use of force and armed might does not necessarily achieve the best results for humanity in the long run. The Russians, however, do not appear to realize this despite their grandiose lip service to the cause of world peace and mankind.

The Russian premier has been feted off any hopes which we might have had that he was earnestly and honestly seeking for the most peaceful path to the settlement of world problems—to the settlement of the differences of two ideologies. Russian leaders are undoubtedly faced with their own problems in going about the imperialistic period of their country's development. They know that people whom they wish to impress and win over as friends will not cater to the use of force. They also appear to have a deep set feeling that they must flex their muscles in order to make headway in dealing with the western democracies.

Apparently the latter method is coming to the fore. The Russian premier's latest statement on the German question clearly indicates that he has little concern for the international tension which a separate peace with East Germany will create. It is also apparent that he has given little real consideration to working effectively for world peace.

If he truly had humanity's best interests at heart he should have magnanimously dismissed the business of U-2's spying over Russia. This gesture would have done more for the cause of peace than would have a most profuse apology by Mr. Eisenhower.

It may be that Mr. Eisenhower muffed his lines when it came to making a statement on the spy-plane incident. But his was a small error compared to that of the Russian premier. He appears to have completely thrown away the script when it came to speaking on Russia's desire for world peace and harmony.

The false face of smiling benevolence and Soviet goodwill is all appears to have slipped. Having done so it does not present a pretty picture for "peace in our time."

A Lesson

Two men drowned near Picton a short time ago. Both of them were apparently trying to swim to safety from their overturned boat.

It was a tragic accident, but we hope other boaters learned a lesson from it.

Safety councils preach stick to your boat if it overturns. Never, unless land is within arm's reach, strike out for safety. An overturned boat will float. It can be the best life preserver ever made.

Rail Subsidies

If we must subsidize the railways, let us do it in such a way as to promote the development of the nation on an even basis, rather than in a manner favoring the centre against both ends. (Fredericton Gleaner.)

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

GRATITUDE AND HAPPINESS

"Rejoice in the Lord, ye right-eous: and give thanks." The Hebrew psalmist who write this verse more than two thousand years ago had learned what a great many people living today have never learned—the connection between gratitude and happiness.

It is a strange thing, but we can almost never enjoy our blessing to the fullest extent unless we are grateful for them. Perhaps it is because we do not realize what blessings they are until we also realize how much we owe to the provider of them. And for almost everything which make us truly happy, we are gifts, or generosity of someone else.

Real "gratitude to the giver makes us enjoy the gift more. But ingratitude prevents us from enjoying it as much as we might. It is only when we fully appreciate the value of the gift. What we do not give thanks for, we do not value much; and what we do not value much, we cannot greatly enjoy.

Happiness is at once the cause and the result of gratitude. If we are grateful to those around us for their goodness to us, how much more we should be grateful to God as the giver of all goodness and the source of all beauty and joy.

"Oh give thanks unto the Lord, for He is good."

Spring Visit to England A Rewarding Experience

By G. A. MORTON

Article 2

Captain Bell, not many years from retirement, while friendly, was not given much to conversation at the table and what he did say was often spoken in such a low tone it was difficult to follow him. His home is south of London where he owns a few acres of land. Mrs. Bell, he told us, is an agriculturist raising commercially small fruits and vegetables and about one hundred hens annually. She has competent help and does very well with her business. But the Captain preferred to grow flowers.

Before dinner one afternoon he invited the five of us to his private quarters for cocktails. It was then that he told us more about his work and career than he likely would have during the meal times. He showed us pictures of his son and daughter both of whom were particularly handsome. We found the Captain well informed on a wide range of topics which along with his dry sense of humor, made him a very pleasant host, indeed.

During the voyage we met a number of other passengers including a Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Anderson from Medford, Oregon. Mr. Anderson is manager of a bank in that city. He told us much about the delights of Oregon and the fruit the coast and to believe him where the finest pears, apples and other fruits in the world were grown. We were also taken to visit the famous fruits of Ontario, but promised to do so at the first opportunity.

There was no difficulty putting in the time for the seven days and it was with some regret that we left the coasts of Ireland and Scotland come into view six days out of New York.

Greenock, the first stop, is located on the Clyde river and where a number of passengers disembarked for Scotland and northern England. It is also an over-night sail to Liverpool from where the train for London, a distance of two hundred miles. There we were met by Mr. and Mrs. Stan Hagerman, formerly of Belleville, and Mr. Hagerman's parents have lived in London since the First World War. He is a native of this city.

There is something very pleasant about being greeted by old friends at the end of a long trip and particularly so in a strange city. Brown's Hotel on Dover Street was our home for a considerable part of our stay in London and we could hardly have been better off in one which would have pleased us more. We were told it was a most hotel with plenty of old fashioned English atmosphere where the tempo was sedate, because it catered to the type of clientele which wanted it that way. It has 130 rooms and was founded in 1830 by Lucius Brown formerly butler to Lord Byron's family.

When we told our steward on the Empress we were going to stay at Brown's he exclaimed, "It is the hardest hotel in London to get into, much more so to get a room." It was very expensive places." Reservations had been made three months earlier and as it was a quiet time of year Stan had been able to get a room. We have never found a hotel staff which went out of its way to be helpful more than at Brown's. The meals, excellent at all times, were moderate in cost. Afternoon tea was served at four to five and it was then that the five of us on our arrival enjoyed one of the pleasantest hours of our holiday.

Brown's is located in the Mayfair district, a fashionable shopping centre in London and it was not a great distance by car or a taxi every time we wanted to go to the business section. However, such famous departmental stores as Harrods, Selfridges, Marshall and Snelgrove, Peter Jones and Libertys were far enough away to need transportation. At night there was never any noise either from the street or neighboring rooms to disturb our rest. To say that we liked this hotel is putting it mildly and would return there during any future visit to London.

There is one new hotel—The Westbury—which caters to Canadians and Americans. It has all the usual appointments associated with hotels as we know them. We stayed there four days when our time had run out at the other hotel and liked it. It, too, is in the heart of west end London and reservations are needed well in advance.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

May 20th, 1940

At Belleville General Hospital the spring semi-annual meeting of the Ontario Medical Association, District No. Six, took place with a large attendance of members. Dr. H. M. Yelland of Peterborough is convenor of this district which comprises the counties of Victoria, Peterborough, Durham, Northumberland, Prince Edward, Hastings and Haliburton. Dr. Gerald Allison of Picton and Dr. H. D. Logan of Lindsay, are vice-convenors. An interesting program has been arranged, opening at ten o'clock with an address by Dr. Gilbert Cleghorn on "The value of Hormone Therapy in General Medical Practice." A business session followed, the agenda including discussion on the topics of Medical Relief, Cancer, Tariff and Hospitals, meeting with the Canadian Medical Association in June.

A lighthouse leaning far out of the perpendicular as read from appearances in dire danger of tipping over into the water, is drawing the attention of strangers to the district as they come to the Long Bridge Road these days. The lighthouse is the one situated in the Belleville harbor, and for many years the principal aid of navigation for those parts; and its "Leaning Tower of Pisa" effect is quite a sight.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross E. Neal will be in Hamilton this week-end for the Rotary International Convention.

Kaganeh Cherry Jack Hilchey and Don Strickland have been accepted for training in the Royal Canadian Navy. They have left to report at the naval base at Esquimalt, B.C.

First Belleville Settlers.—Away back in 1789 the first white settler in this section, Captain John Singleton, a United Empire Loyalist, obtained a grant of 200 acres of land which now forms part of Belleville, and erected a log house near the bay. An old and partly filled well marked the spot up to a few years ago; but every trace of the log house has disappeared. For a time the river was called Singleton's River after the first settler. There is nothing left now, not even the name of a street, to bring to mind or mark the event of the first settlement of Belleville. At that time there was a thickly wooded swamp on both sides of the river as far as Front Road, consisting of 200 acres of timber. The mouth of the river was an Indian burial ground and the land was later occupied by Indians. Captain John Singleton might have felt rewarded for all his privations if he could have seen the beautiful city of Belleville rise up from the wilderness where he built his first home. The scene is one of perpetual interest now owing to the surrounding Old Boys' Reunion in July next.

Master Uncle Tom's Cabin Company will be the attraction at the opera house here on the evening of May 20th.

Massey Music Park will be opened for the season on May 24th. Baseball and other games will be enjoyed and there will be dancing in the afternoon and evening to the music of the I.O.O.F. orchestra. Meals will be served at the hotel. Special cars will leave Belleville at 11 a.m., 2 p.m. and 3.30 p.m.

Mr. L. Sister of Toronto is visiting friends in the city.

Mr. Herbert Lyons, the old Belleville boy, is home from the Pacific Coast on a visit.

Strictly Personal

Syd Evidently No Admirer of Autobiography

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

What seems the easiest sort of book for any person to write? Naturally — an autobiography. And what, actually, is the hardest book for anyone to write? Again, autobiography.

Hardly anyone you meet does not think, secretly or openly, that his life would make a fascinating book "if only I had the gift of words"; actually, the reason this remains merely a wistful thought among so many is that it amounts to an obsession. Only the very strongest of famous personalities can write for all his autobiography.

Most have just finished reading another depressing one, which is why this chain of thought. It is a quite bad book, although the author has been a professional writer for all his adult life. And it is (like most autobiographies) also a rather harassing, self-deceiving and utterly pointless.

Even the greatest writers have faltered and failed in this peculiarly difficult task. Mark Twain's worst serious book was his "Autobiography," and it was grossly displayed all his faults and none of his genius. His biographers, Albert Bigelow Paine, as writers, did a much better job than Twain did on himself.

In our own time, that splendid writer, Somerset Maugham, attempted his autobiography, with disappointing results; his biography, by Maurice Sorel, is incomparably superior job. Chesterton's magic of vision, which was marvellously acute when applied to the outside world, was terribly obtuse when turned inward on him.

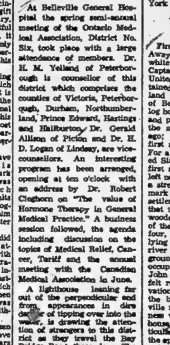
Not more than a half-dozen worth while autobiographies have been published in the 1900 years since St. Augustine gave us his "Confessions." After Cellini and Rousseau, we have Benjamin Franklin, what do we have? Gossip columnists, society, mawkish recollections, dreary travelogues, self-justification, libel, half-truths and untruths.

It used to be, at any rate, that only the famous could get away with such a task: eminent authors, statesmen, generals, scientists, divines, whose personalities were projected at least a footnote to history.

Today all that is changed: we find the autobiographies ranging high with autobiographies (mostly of Hollywood movie actors, comedians, dress designers, innkeepers, and — the latest stratagem by a new publicity agency, Parvis Meets.

The other field of writing is so beguiling, so treacherous and so abysmal as that of autobiography. Literary skill is not enough; psychological insight is not enough; honest intentions are not nearly enough. Where is the author who has written the successful heart operation upon himself?

A great autobiography is a miracle; even a good one is beyond the age of most geniuses. I could be grateful Shakespeare never felt the urge to write down his love he would have succeeded.



Ruml's Idea Widely Used

St. Thomas Times-Journal

It is not given to many men the opportunity for one of their ideas to change the lives of their contemporaries. Beardsley Ruml was one such man. His idea just died and probably the mass of people are not aware of its part in placing his name.

Ruml was the man who proposed the income tax in the U.S. be withheld by employers at the source. Prior to that time the idea that he made tax payments a much less painful proposition. So he opened the door to higher rates and higher income for his country because of it.

The ripples from his pebble are still spreading. For good or ill, the idea of withholding tax installments for one less than the actual number of dependents prevails to be existing on. Because this results in a "bonus" refund each April, Ruml's idea appears to be leading to Uncle Sam taking on the responsibility for doing some of the saving for Americans. Might be something for "Uncle" Donald Fleming to think bout.

To Your Good Health

SLEEP REQUIREMENTS VARY IN OLDER PERSONS

"Dear Dr. Molner: I'm a widow 67 years old and would like to know how much sleep I require? I sometimes nap in the afternoon. I go to bed about 1 a.m. and wake at 9 or 9 a.m., drink coffee, then go back to bed but sometimes I can't go to sleep again. What is the cause of this? I have heard people say an older person doesn't require as much sleep.—Mrs. L. B.

It's quite true that many older people do not require as much sleep as when they were younger. And yet some seem to require more. Certainly many get along well on eight hours, and a lot, rarely, on less. Awaken with a good deal less sleep than that. If you, for example, did no napping or resting during the day, you'd probably soon find that you required more sleep at night.

There's nothing wrong with the way you do it — naps in the afternoon and less sleep at night. The important thing is to feel rested and ready to get up again. The coffee may disturb your going to sleep.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is it harmful to take gastic water if you don't think you have high blood pressure?—K.S."

No, if you don't expect it to do any good, either. The main point in "shaking" you have high blood pressure. Your doctor can tell you for sure.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My 14-year-old son has a chronic sinus condition. The doctor says it is the after-effect of a tonsil and adenoid operation which he was given and not to worry about it, that it will outgrow it. But I'm wondering if there's any connection with the operation and the sinus trouble?—Mrs. R.G."

Sinusitis includes inflammation of the nostrils, if such an ulcer is present, it can be cauterized.

The continued disturbance suggests an allergy. There could be a polype (small growth) in the nose, which also can cause bleeding. Nasal polypus, or the tendency to become allergic to dividuals. Hence my suggestion would be to have the boy examined for the presence of either an ulcer or polypus in the nose.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I noticed a reference in your column to a mum who had a baby born on the temple, and you said you had got medical help before it was too late.

"I sincerely hope he takes your advice. I have had a niece on my check. After a series of X-ray treatments, it is all gone today. The total cost to me was $7, as my insurance took care of the rest. You can publish this if you like. — W.M."

It delights me to print occasional accounts of cases which work out just the way they ought to. We always hear about any case that leads to criticism; we don't often enough bother to mention the majority of cases which result happily. So thank you.

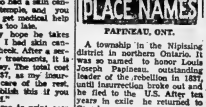
"Dear Dr. Molner: Do penicillin shots relieve colds?—A.N."



No, because most colds are the result of a virus, and penicillin has little effect on any effect on viruses. The penicillin makes sense, however, if a bacterial infection follows the cold, which happens quite frequently.

Gallant 900 At Pentagon

New York Herald Tribune

If the defences of the Pentagon are ever breached, it will be for any lack of communities to man the ramparts. It is hard to find that in the fewer than 900 committees exist at the Pentagon, of varying membership, each convinced that if them nevertheless bona fide committees. And why not single this situation and dug it out? A subcommittee, of course — one consisting of Senator Gore or other generals.

We don't wish to encourage the formation of still more committees, but we would to suggest that perhaps some study could be made of a possible "Committee to Study" number of Pentagon committees—say 60 or 70—with those of a wholly regard committees as inevitable as weeds in the garden or lumps in the mashed potatoes, a certain curiosity over the functions of such Pentagon groups as the Joint Master Menu Board, the Interdepartmental Band and Thread Committee, the Department of the Army Accelerated Service Committee, the Golf Group, and the Helium Policy Coordinating Board. It might be the obvious, is a real gauge: "Is the Pentagon suffering a bundrrrd Tennyson wrote: "Theirs not to make reply. Theirs not to reason why." Presumably much the same can be said of the Pentagon's equally noble Civil Committees, forward march! Subcommittees, shoulder arms. Panels, boards, teams, advisory councils and study groups, fall in! TODAY'S TALK

THE BOOKS ONE READS

In a book, recently sent me, I came to this line: "A man is himself plus the books that he reads."

Tell me the name of the books a person reads and I can tell what his mind immediately are opened wide! So much of each one of us is the books that we read and learn to love. Great books are the rest.

The first things in a home that attract me are the books in that home. They are the first things I spell "paper back," or the beautifully bound books that I have become fearless. Books are like people. They feel bitter when dressed up! I have a friend who is the best in hands and likes to talk. A great book cannot be bound and loved too carefully.

Books are my friends and people — their daily life and in their books. Though I have many silent companions whom you know not, I have a host of friends.

In all walks of life we have our book friends awaiting us. I have a host of them. I could add two of these silent friends near at hand. You try it.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The worst way to travel is by motor car. Twenty or thirty years ago, when the ruts of road was reasonable, motoring was not too mean a way of going from place to place, though sadly cramped.

The next worst way to travel is by aircraft. It is strictly for people in a hurry, and there are other things on their mind and don't notice much at the moment. People with clients find nothing lovable about air travel.

The best worst way of travel is by railroad. Back in the great days of railroading, when there was a tradition to uphold, it wasn't too bad to go by train. But nobody is in railroading any more. They are all in the haulage business.

Therefore, this leaves only the one way to travel that is without doubt the best and that is also the longer, I admit. But it all depends on what you are going. Out walking yesterday, I encountered an elderly gentleman whom I had known for a busy intersection.

"Here I am," he said, "darn near eighty years old. I've been peddling money in a small way world, travelled a million miles. Well, before I left the house an hour ago to walk over here to the drug store for a bottle of milk of magnesia, I phoned my broker to sell. I thought to give him a ring on the pay phone in the drug store. He tells me I have just made $171,000!"

We didn't walk fast. But we walked jaunty. Copyright Canada Wide

Some Educators Consider Themselves God, But Really Have Inferiority Complexes

"Some professional educators liken themselves unto God and are really like little boys suffering from inferiority complexes," W. E. Huskilson told members of the Belleville and district home-and School Council at their annual dinner meeting yesterday evening.

The guest speaker was talking about one of the major problems which home and school associations might find, and how to overcome. He added that the attitude of some professional educators of school principals is one of fear and they try to undermine the efforts of an association.

The Cobourg high school teacher said that he felt there was tragic because the teaching staff would of necessity have to follow the lead of their principal.

Mr. Huskilson also stressed the importance of having objectives for a local association or district council to achieve. He suggested that the provincial ideals of the home and school movement should be applied to local situations where applicable.

Unbalanced programs were another pitfall which local associations had to be on guard against ,the Acadia University graduate said. He cautioned people not to get speakers who had something to offer in respect to the best interests of the association rather than speakers who were merely entertaining. In closing he also stressed that it was most important to get people active in the meetings rather than have them attend as mere spectators.

Poor leadership is another hazard for the home and school association to be on guard against, the teacher of 12 years' experience told his audience. One of the earmarks of this problem is a domineering principal and indifferent teachers. Teachers have a high calibre, Mr. Huskilson said, but suggested that they were turning their high calling from a service into silver.

"We are naturally snobs", said the guest speaker and advised that any new people showing up at an association's meeting should be made welcome no matter what their initial dress or appearance might be. He also suggested that there should be a good opportunity for parents to meet and talk to teachers when a meeting was held.

WANT MORE MEN

In winding up his address, Mr. Huskilson pointed out that there were too few men in the associations and councils saying that there were 125 women to three men on the provincial executive.

"When we degenerate into a mothers' club it is time to disband", he said and urged that members seek to get more men into their associations.

His listeners were also cautioned to keep their fingers on the activities and the effectiveness of the district council and advised them as individuals to determine as to whether they were really active members, the kind of member that would be missed.

A special presentation was another highlight of the evening's program. The Ontario Education al Association Centennial Award was presented to Mrs. R. G. Williams in recognition of the 16 years of work she has given to local associations. Mrs. Williams has been active in both public and secondary school associations and has served in all of the committees of a home and School association at some time or other. She has also served local associations in various capacities as a member of the executive including the position of president. Mrs. Williams was presented with the award by Mrs. R. D. Jones, president of the Belleville and district association, on behalf of the provincial organization.

The installation of officers for the 1960-61 term was also conducted with Lawrence A. Reid, superintendent of public schools, officiating as installing officer.

NEW EXECUTIVE

The new executive includes: Mrs. D. Jones, past president; A. Fort, Mrs. R. Lee and Mrs. G. Ling, vice-presidents; Mrs. R. Lovelace, recording secretary; Mrs. C. Wilson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. A. Winstanley, treasurer; and Mrs. F. Beatty, Mrs. W. J. Drew, Mrs. H. Friel, Mrs. F. Hamilton and Mrs. M. Lovelace, executive members.

Committee chairmen include: Mrs. W. Ironside, Mr. G. Hutchison, Mrs. G. Digby, Mrs. R. G. Williams, Mrs. D. McDonald, Mrs. R. F. Wheeler, Mrs. F. Van Rompary, Mrs. R. Liddle and Mrs. R. G. Lane.

Mrs. Kells also brought the greetings of the local Public School Board and spoke briefly, reminiscing on the history of the home and school association movement in Belleville. He described the movement as being "one of the most valuable in the province." Mr. Kells also commented on the problems which annexation had created for the local public school board especially with reference to a new school in east Belleville. He said that by September will see a few unusual cases of overcrowding but several months at the new school building will not have been constructed by this time, adding however, that progress towards this goal was under way.

The meeting, which saw more than 50 persons present representing all but four of the home and school associations in the district, was under the chairmanship of Mrs. R. Jones. Among the special guests were the Rev. James E. Eastcott, William J. Musgrove, Leslie Reid and A. E. Orr, principals of the three local high schools.

The meeting was held at Bethesda United Church with the turkey dinner laid on by the ladies of the church and head table decorations made by the grade 7 pupils of King George School.

Brush Wolf Shot at Rossmore By 72-Year-Old Resident

Within two miles of the city limits a brush wolf was shot on the Herrington Brothers' farm at Rossmore last evening. The animal was shot by Rossmore resident Frank Belnap from a range of little more than 30 feet.

The wolf was first seen Wednesday by Elgin Herrington as he worked with a tractor in an orchard at the edge of a wood which runs across the farm.

Thursday the wolf was seen again in about the same locality and Mr. Herrington left his tractor and ran to the home of Mr. Belnap who killed the animal with a blast of his shotgun.

"It's the first wolf I ever killed, and it's the first one I ever saw alive", the 72-year-old Rossmore man said.

Mr. Herrington said wolves had never been seen before in the Rossmore area, although they have been occasionally seen in the Marysburg area in the southern part of Prince Edward County.

It is expected the wolf may be one of a pair of adults which were likely to have a family of pups hidden in the woods covering an area of several hundred acres between Rossmore and Redeersville.

The ladies are reminded that the W.A. is catering at Scott's Sales Barn on May 31st.

Woman Collects Buttons, Says Fine Hobby

EMPRESS, Alta. (CP)—Button-collecting can be educational as well as fun, says Mrs. A.T. Barber, who took up the hobby to fill idle hours after she and her husband retired from their farm in 1965.

After settling in this southeastern Alberta town, she says, she missed the farm chores and time hung heavily on her hands.

"Then I read about a man in New York who had given up his business and was starting to collect buttons.

"When I was a small girl my parents were pioneers in Ontario and my mother took me to quilting bees. To keep me quiet, the women gave me their button boxes to play with.

"But I didn't know it was a business, nor that present-day men and women noticed them as a hobby.

"Now I am quiet for hours, sorting and sewing on my buttons, writing to people all over the world and exchanging buttons with them.

"I have more than 8,000 different kinds of every conceivable color, shape, material, from 1-16th of an inch to five inches wide.

"There are amber, bone, glass, tin, pewter, gilt, silver shell, stone made of mining corn, casein and milk composition and many others."

Mrs. Barber's most prized button is hand-carved from an elephant's tusk.

PROGRAM

Mrs. M. Ayrshart opened the program with "Spring Cleaning". All people, young and old long to see the silver sunshine of April and May after a lengthy winter.

The world, in spring, freshens itself inside and out; here are some rules to try on spring cleaning of one's weaknesses:

Those painful, hasty words, you said, need a sturdy broom to clean it away; trust worthiness and love instead of hate open the windows and let warm faith to shine in; climb to the attic and discard destroy the sighs and tears; sweep it clean of grouch and grumble; dust it well of fears. Now your life is free of the old searching summer sun, you've driven out the winter and spring has begun.

Here's hope and happiness have gained a splendid start; you say "I'm sure its been worthwhile to spring clean this old heart.

"How to Holiday at Home," by Mrs. G. McMurray: take into consideration the happy memories you; take stock of the interesting things your community has to offer; go with a long-time friend. These few suggestions will reap satisfaction beyond price to you, and, too, you will find your purse will not be hard done by either.

This was followed with a contest on "Birds" by Mrs. M. Ward.

"Women As First Class Citizens" was given by Mrs. E. Foster. "How thankful we should be—God has been most kind to us. These are but a few words that their meanings are great, it spells kindness—gratitude, self-giving, humbleness and above all, its comforting to feel there is One who sticks close to help us along.

"There are so many ways we can give of our services in church, schools and community to be given the strength and ability to give of our best to others, gives us a wonderful introduction to the world and its citizens. Such are the educational programs of the Women's Institute.

"Citizenship is a virtue that encircles the world, and good citizenship carries with it the confidence of the best of living."

A tasty lunch was served and visiting with one another took up the social hour.

Mrs. M. Williams voiced a pleasing "thank-you" to the hostess and program committee for this outstanding meeting.

MODERN MANNERS

Carolyn Hagner Shaw

GETTING ALONG WITH PARENTS

Does handling parents come under the heading of "manners"? It would definitely seem so. After all, getting along with people is, wonderful reaction all the time, and parents are people. Getting along with them makes life smoother for everyone concerned. So in answer to pleas from a few teen-agers, I will try to offer a few helpful suggestions.

First, let's remember that tolerance, like charity, begins at home. When you reach the age of sixteen, I agree it is very upsetting to have mother treat you as if you were six. But try to be tolerant, and remember that your parents have tried their best to guide you ever since your first faltering step. In all probability, they will always feel that, no matter how old you are, they have tried their best for you.

So when you make the discovery that you have suddenly grown up, use a little diplomacy in breaking it to Mother and Dad. Realize that while they were overdue it with their advice, their help and counsel is not welcome. They are not trying to police you, by chaperonage, even though it may seem that way at times.

When you first start dating, problems will crop up. They are bound to. Talk them over with Mother and Dad. They've been through it, too, and maybe they learned a few things that might help you. At any rate, they think we all felt that we knew pretty much all there was to know. At twenty-one we waked up to the fact that maybe we didn't, after all! So be smart and open your ears wide, and listen.

Then, when introduced to the teen-ager, in dealing with parents, is to try not to antagonize them, or argue over every suggestion they make. You can be friendly with them, but only if true courtesy and consideration are observed. Outside you are not inclined to put our good face and manners forward. At home, the inclination is to let our hair down, forget the daily courtesies, a few "thank-you's" and "I'm pleases." Wailing that "Mother and Dad just don't understand" may be due in part to your own lack of co-operation with them.

Open up a little and give them half a chance. You might be amazed at the result.

Try a few of these suggestions before you call me as stuffy with this advice as you sometimes think Mother and Dad are!

Question: When and with whom you are only slightly acquainted, and whom you also haven't-seen for years, suddenly pop into town and call you up to say you are a long lost friend. Is it necessary that you entertain for them?

Answer: I see no reason why you should entertain for casual acquaintances from out of town, unless you wish to do so. It is entirely up to you to make the decision.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two workers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Irma K. — He's just afraid of losing Vivian.

Arthur K. — Not true — I want her to enjoy her freedom.

Irma K. — My husband and I are having a serious disagreement about our daughter, Vivian.

She has been going out with a very fine young man of 21 for the past year. They want to marry and I'm all for it. George has just left the service and is going into his father's business. He comes from a good family and is everything we could want in a husband for our daughter.

My husband feels they are both simply too young. At least, that's what he says he feels. I think he hates to see Vivian leave home. We have two younger sons, and he has always been very much attached to Vivian. He doesn't want to lose her so soon. But after all, it is more important for her to live her own life.

Arthur K. — What Irma says is just isn't so. Of course, I'll be sorry to see Vivian leave our home, but that's not the main consideration.

The main thing is that she is a kid. Just getting out of high school. She doesn't know anything about life. Right now, she thinks of being married and having her own home seems like the most romantic thing in the world to her. But she doesn't know the meaning of real work and responsibility. In a year or two, she'll be raising a family and wondering why her parents didn't warn her that marriage is not one long picnic.

Why shouldn't Vivian enjoy a few more years of freedom? If George loves her he'll wait, if not, she'll find another boy, just as good.

The Council: There has been much controversy among various experts in the fields of human relations about the desirability of early marriages. Those who are for it point out the "steadying influence" of marriage on both young men and women.

No doubt many of these early marriages work out well. But the statisticians point out that the divorce rate for brides under 20 is three times the overall average in the country. That is certainly something to think about. It must also be remembered that for every couple whose marriage flounders completely, there are many others whose marriages verge on disaster through many years.

It would be impossible for outsiders to judge how much chance Vivian has of making a success of marriage. The fact that she has found a highly desirable young man speaks well for her, but it is only a beginning. It is important to consider her general maturity.

Few girls of 18 today are well-prepared to take on homemaking and family-rearing responsibility. They think that modern conveniences have taken all the drudgery out of homemaking and are much surprised when they find more is involved in the job that just taking care of the food in the freezer. Most of them are also totally unprepared for dealing with another individual's tastes and habits. It rarely occurs to the girl of 18 that her ardent suitor could ever become demanding, morose, unyielding.

Vivian could be the exception. She could have rare common sense, a heavenly disposition, a love of homemaking. In that case, it would be a shame to put a few more years between her and great happiness. But if she isn't that exception, we think a two-year waiting period would be all to her advantage.

Readers' Friday Column

As conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

We are serving a breakfast for about 20 men and would like to serve sausages and scrambled eggs. I believe you had a recipe in your column for creamed (scrambled) eggs, which would keep for a few minutes if breakfast needed to be held up. Would you kindly reprint it for me. Mrs. E. H.

ANSWER:

What follows is the recipe for Scrambled Eggs for 80 which I gave here on August 10, 1956, but it is multiplied to serve 80 for 70 people. You cannot make it up in one batch to serve 200. You will have to make at least 3 separate batches.

NOTES:

It could be baked in institution oven pans if it were frequently stirred and prewarmed milk were used.

Select 1 beef heart, or 3 or 4 calf hearts. Wash, and slit the heart, removing all clots and blood vessels and some fat. For the stuffing, chop an onion and a stalk of celery and fry gently in 3 tablespoons of fat. Add 2 or 3 cups of soft bread crumbs and season to taste with salt and pepper. Sage or rosemary goes well with heart — add a little to the stuffing. Fill heart with the stuffing; tie or sew up the slit. Brown the heart on all sides in fat; then put it in baking dish or casserole; add 1-3 cup of water, cover closely, and cook until tender at 300 deg. Fahr. A beef heart will require about 4 hours. Calf or pork hearts will require much shorter time — about 1-2 hours. Make gravy of the drippings.

Cross Canada Survey

No Prospect of Higher Pay For Federal Members, But MLAs Gave Selves Raise

By JAMES NELSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Legislators in Ontario, Manitoba and Alberta voted themselves salary increases this year but there is no prospect of higher pay for federal members of Parliament.

Though the MPs vote the appropriations to cover their own indemnities and expense accounts, they cannot raise the present $10,000-a-year rate in Ottawa until the government agrees to introduce the necessary legislation. None is in sight until after the next federal general election.

A cross-Canada survey of legislators' salaries by the Canadian Press shows that, for the time consumed in parliamentary sessions, MPs are paid less than members of the legislatures of most provinces.

The federal session lasts six weeks to three months, legislation rules range from $1,950 in Prince Edward Island to $7,000 in Ontario and $8,000 in Quebec.

MORE FOR MAYORS

By way of comparison, Halifax pays its mayor $9,000 a year, Vancouver pays $12,000, Montreal $13,500, Winnipeg $11,800, Toronto $13,000.

But MPs really envy their U.S. counterparts. Members of the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives receive $22,500 a year and are given $40,000 allowances for secretarial help.

Included in the $10,000 paid to MPs and Senators in Ottawa is a $2,000 expense allowance which is tax-free for Commons members but not senators. Their stenographic help is drawn on a first come-first-served basis from a pool. If they employ private secretaries, they pay.

All legislatures also give expense allowances which are tax-free. In addition, Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia have daily living allowances, MPs get free railway passes and one free trip home by air each session if they live beyond Ontario and Quebec.

DOCKED FOR ABSENCE

Most provinces and the federal Parliament make reductions for absence but it is usually left to the individual to decide when he has missed a sitting.

Parliament and all legislatures make special allowances for cabinet members and opposition leaders as well as presiding officers.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker receives a total of $27,000, composed of an $8,000 indemnity and $2,000 tax-free allowance as a leader, $25,000 salary as prime minister and $2,000 taxable automobile allowance. He has the use of the prime minister's residence, 24 Sussex Street, Ottawa, and a summer home at Harrington Lake, Que., but pays $5,000 to wards their upkeep.

Federal cabinet ministers get a total of $27,000 and the same is paid to the leader of the main opposition party. The Speakers of the Commons and Senate receive $22,000 each.

Parliament last raised indemnities in the 1953-54 session. Politicians are generally reluctant about speaking out in public about raising their own salaries but have no hesitation in pressing their claims in the privacy of pello. eings.

Douglas Fisher (CCF—Port Arthur), father of three, spoke in Parliament a year ago, saying $10,000 is insufficient to draw good men to Parliament. This spring, however, he said most people think MPs are well enough paid now—some of them, perhaps, too well paid.

Art Smith (PC—Calgary South) said it is ridiculous to expect MPs to maintain two homes in widely-separated parts of the country on $10,000. He is reported to have been ticked off privately by the government for embarrassing it.

James Greene, Conservative opposition leader in Newfoundland, pointed to a father of four, said he could not give them a proper education on his $5,000 income as an MLA. He moved a motion that Ottawa $3,000 as opposition leader.

JOB ON SIDE

Dan Campbell (SC — Comox), father of three, said he has to teach part-time if he isn't to starve on his $5,000 income as a member of the British Columbia house. Don Robinson (SC—Lillooet), in addition to asking more money, said B.C. should provide offices for legislators in their home communities to carry on government work while away from the capital.

"The indemnity certainly isn't enough," said John E. Ahern (L—Halifax North), who receives $4,800 as member of the Nova Scotia house. "The Halifax county warden gets $5,400 . . ."

This is the province-by-province salary situation:

Newfound land: $5,000 ($1,666 tax-free) for session of six weeks; premier, $8,000 ($2,000 tax-free), raised from $7,000 in 1958, for session lasting more than 30 days. In shorter session, allowance is $25 a day but most sessions run three months. Ministers to four months; ministers get extra $10,000 and the opposition leader $3,000.

Prince Edward Island: $1,950 ($450 tax-free) for seven-week session; $6,000 extra for premier and $3,000 and up for ministers.

Nova Scotia: $4,600 ($1,600-tax-free), raised in 1958 from $3,600, for seven-week session, plus $12, 000 for premier, $10,000 for ministers and $6,000 for opposition chief.

New Brunswick: $3,600 ($1,200 tax-free), raised in 1957 from $2, 000, for seven-week session; $7, 500 more for premier and ministers and $3,000 for opposition leader.

Ontario: $7,000 ($2,000 tax - free), raised this year from $5,- 000, for two to three-month session; $18,000 more for premier and $14,000 for opposition leader.

Manitoba: $4,000 (one-third tax-free), raised this year from $3,- 000, plus $10 a day up to 60 days for session; premier gets average two-month session; premier gets $12,000 extra, ministers $10,000 and opposition leader $3,500.

Saskatchewan: $4,800 ($1,600 tax-free), raised in 1958 from $3,- 600, for seven- to eight-week session; $9,500 extra for premier, $2,000 for ministers and $5,000 for opposition leader.

Alberta: $4,500 ($,500 tax-free), raised this year from $3,600, plus $15 a day for members living outside Edmonton and automobile allowance, for session about eight weeks; $6,500 additional for ministers and $2,500 for opposition leader, being divided among the four opposition MLAs this year who represent different parties.

British Columbia: $6,400 ($1,000 tax-free), plus $15 a day for 40 days also tax-free, making a total of $3,000, raised in 1957 from $3,000; premier gets $13,000 extra, ministers $12,500 and opposition leader $3,500.

The success story you wrote...

In just six short months after their introduction last Fall, Ford of Canada's compact cars have climbed to the top of their field in registrations. Here are some of the many reasons why.

You told us what you wanted. Falcon and Frontenac were built to answer a very specific demand for practical, economical transportation, with the comfort and convenience Canadian drivers were accustomed to.

What were your specifications? Room for six adults; you said—yet with a foot or two to spare between parking meters. You wanted power and pickup for Canadian hills and highways . . . with maximum economy on regular gasoline. As for comfort, these smaller cars must have the ride and feel of their bigger brothers. And styling? Beautiful!

And so we set to work. Supposing you yourself set out to design a compact car. Would you make it bigger than Falcon or Frontenac? If you did, you probably couldn't get up to 35 miles to the gallon. If you made it bigger, the price would be higher and so would the weight, which would cut down on economy. If you made it smaller you would sacrifice headroom, legroom and trunk space.

We selected a 109.5-inch wheelbase—long enough to seat six comfortably and to give you a solid, smooth ride . . . yet small enough to fit into just about any parking space.

We used single unit construction to cut down weight while giving maximum strength and long life.

And we designed a brand new 90 hp. Six cylinder engine that has the pep and pickup you need for Canadian roads and loads . . . and still delivers up to 35 miles to the gallon on regular gas.

In short, we chose the sizes and specifications that answered your demands. And to top it all off . . . we proved that economy needn't mean austerity—it can still be beautiful.

Then it was your turn to make the decisions! Since the beginning of the year, as thousands of Canadians shopped and compared, Falcon and Frontenac pulled ahead of all the other new compact cars—ahead of even their long established competitors. And with more and more Falcons and Frontenacs, both wagons and sedans, being sold every day, we're confident the trend will continue.

If you have never driven a new Falcon or Frontenac, may we invite you to do so soon? We think you'll find it a pleasant and most rewarding experience.

If you already own a Falcon or Frontenac, we salute you! You helped write this success story!

Sunday School Lesson

Keep the Left Hand Ignorant

By ROY L. SMITH

Nothing in modern life calls for more intelligent skill than does the fine art of giving money away.

One of America's richest men died the other day, and left behind him this bit of wise advice: "It takes a lot of thinking to give money away, and do it well. Don't do it in a hurry."

Jesus had a great deal to say about money, and in the scripture set this week's Sunday school lesson He said, concerning the matter of charity, "Do not let your left hand know what your right hand is doing."

JEWS CHARITABLE

The ancient Jews, like the modern Children of Israel, were devoted to charity. In the first place, every Jew was taxed to provide funds with which to care for the needy. This money went through the hands of the synagogue authorities and was administered in something like the circumspect way of the modern social agency. Then, in addition, special collections were taken in the synagogues from time to time to provide help for emergencies or for special causes. Still further, in addition, a great deal of charity was dispensed on the streets in the form of gifts to street beggars, the poor, and the unfortunate.

Nowhere in the Roman Empire could a hungry or a sick man have expected so much help as might have been given him in Jerusalem. And during the feasts at the Temple this spirit of charity was especially conspicuous.

CONTEMPTIBLE CHARITY

There was then, however, as there is now, a considerable amount of charity that was thoroughly contemptible because it was not aimed primarily at the relief of the distress of the poor but at the fame of the contributors.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for May 22: "SINCERITY IN RELIGIOUS PRACTICES." Matthew 6: 1-18; Luke 18:9-14.

There had grown up a rather numerous group of individuals in Jerusalem who dispensed their charity with a great show. In ways often very disgusting they contrived to make a spectacle of their generosity. Their aim was not to help, but to buy praise for themselves.

Jesus had no thought of discouraging an honest effort to help the needy, but He despised those showmen and said, "Keep your left hand in ignorance of what your right hand is doing."

DESERT SYMPATHIES

Modern life and society is pretty rough on the weak, the handicapped, and the helpless. And there is a vast need in this world for the sympathy that is accompanied by a certain sense of decency.

The more highly organized society becomes, the more necessary are the organizations that dispense our charity. If we do not extend our help through an accredited agency, we are apt to encourage beggary.

There is something understandable about the indignation of the one who has extended help and who has been ignored by the recipient. Common decency requires that the assisted shall in some way express their appreciation. But the giver who gives in order that he may be admired can become a social menace.

In the opinion of this writer the whole system of tipping is wrong. It encourages a superfluity attitude on the part of those who gives the tip, and an attitude of subservience or beggary on the part of the one who receives it. Better by far to pay fair wages and save the self-respect of the wage-earner. Incidentally, most of the social stuff of the tipper can be saved by the same process.

CHRISTIAN CHARITY

There is needed in American life today a very considerable amount of education on the subject of giving, not for the sake of raising more money for charity, but that our charitable giving may contribute to our soul growth.

Christian charity seeks no reward for itself, but is satisfied if the gift satisfies a need and contributes to the growth of the character of the recipient. If most therefore be actuated by complete unselfishness and accepted with a proper degree of humble gratitude.

Nothing is more difficult than to give help as Jesus would have given it.

BETTER HOMES MAKE BETTER FAMILIES

What You Should Know About Home Improvements

Improving your home can mean better living for you now, a better price should you decide to sell. But the first rule is this: don't over improve it. It's hard to sell a $30,000 house in a $15,000 neighborhood. Keep its value reasonably on a par with those around it.

Are the improvements you plan well within your means, or are you going to be strapped? A complete kitchen overhauling may cost as much as a car. On the other hand, a change is likely to prove more of an investment than money irretrievably spent. It is almost certain to increase the value of the house a dollar for every dollar spent.

A new house may demand as many or more improvements than an older one. But go slow in making any big changes in any house, new or old, before you've lived in it a while. The test of time may radically change your notions about what should be done, or how it should be undertaken.

Don't make extensive changes for which you won't have lasting need. Plan for the future as well as the present. Families change rapidly in what they require in a home. Five or ten years can turn its space and equipment requirements upside down.

Give priority to improvements which are most urgent, or which can be taken care of in a hurry. The following list may stimulate your thinking:

1. Not enough living space.
2. Shortage of storage.
3. No place for needed appliances.
4. Cross-traffic in the living room.
5. Inefficient, step - wasting kitchen.
6. No entry. No protection from the front door.
7. No provision for outdoor living.
8. Look-alike house, lacking in personality.
9. Inadequate lighting.
10. Poor ventilation.
11. Drab, out-of-date exterior.
12. Uninspired, outmoded interior.

Don't list items like "crumbling chimney" or "sticking doors." They must be taken care of, but they are maintenance problems, not improvements.

Not enough space. More living space is the most needed improvement in a majority of homes. The least expensive way of getting it is by finishing off an attic or basement, or by converting a garage.

The next best source of quick space lies in converting a carport, breezeway, or all or part of a porch. Most porches in older houses are outdated and useless anyway.

If you can't find space within your house for the added room or rooms you need, an addition may be the only answer. Check building line restrictions and local code requirements to find out in which direction, if any, you can extend your house. Make a sketch of your house, and draw in the suggested improvement. Proceed with caution. A house can be ruined by a hastily, - conceived "improvement." Where problems are complicated, get professional help.

When you build, build big enough. A 16 x 24 foot room is twice as big as a 12 x 13 one, but its cost may be only 1/3 more. On a two-storey house, you may find it worthwhile to add an upstairs room as well as a downstairs one. Foundation and roof costs are likely to be identical in both cases.

Shortage of storage. The simplest solution to the problem of "no place to put things" is to remodel existing space so its space really counts. The most common error is making storage too deep. Don't make a 12 - inch shelf where many items will be hidden behind others or you can contrive 4-inch shelves where things can be stored one deep.

The inexpensive way of building closets is to run them_completely across the end of a room, and from floor to ceiling. In that way, you need neither ends nor top for the closet, only a front.

Small improvements can make a big contribution to better living. A sliding glass door can enlarge the outlook of a room beyond its walls, lend something of the spaciousness of outdoors. Underground garbage receptacles can remove an eyesore, eliminate the possible nuisance of stray dogs getting into them.

No space in the kitchen for a dishwasher? Perhaps it can occupy the place now taken in the kitchen by the washing machine, and the washer can be relocated. Laundry equipment is both logical and convenient if located in a bathroom or bedroom area.

If your house is afflicted by an "old fashioned look", you may be able to bring door and window moldings up to date by replacing them with simpler, modern types. You may even be able to salvage the old moldings by merely cutting them down.

Can you do it yourself? Fact the problem honestly. Do you have the tools to do it right? Do you have the time? The pleasure of completing a project yourself will wane if it has to drag on too long or if you feel yourself under pressure to get it done. In some cases it may be advantageous to have the heavier, less appealing jobs done by others—such as the hard work of concrete pouring and foundation building. Plumbing, wiring and heating tasks may also be wisely assigned to others if a choice among jobs must be made.

Get your major home improvement project financed and you won't be haunted by the bills. Your bank offers low-cost home improvement loans which you can pay back over a period of up to five years.

If you have an open-end mortgage, you can borrow on it without facing the prospect of making monthly repayment. The period over which the mortgage runs will merely be extended. Another method of getting cash for home improvements is to refinance the mortgage . This is simply getting a new and larger mortgage on your house and liquidating your older one. In this case, too, repayment is relatively painless.

Color and More Color Is Rule In Modern Bath

Today the bath is a jewelbox of color in the average home—a room that shows the homemaker's color sense as surely as the shade of lipstick she chooses for her various fashions.

And best of all, combining color, fixtures, wallpaper and bath accessories costs little, yet adds that finishing touch that points up your decorating skills.

The bath is the one room in the house where every woman can go all out in the use of lavish color—color she wouldn't dare to try (and probably wouldn't like) in any other room.

In selecting your bath linens, forget about convention, and make the room a true conversation piece. The array of colorful accessories for the bathroom is practically unlimited, and you'll have no trouble mixing and matching.

In a report on color preferences in the bath, Dial research laboratories lists the current favorites as pink, tan, blue and green, in that order. There is, of course, a much wider choice for the more daring homemaker.

To blend with the wealth of wallpaper, washable throwrugs and towels that are available, Dial adds three soap colors—pink, aqua and gold — to provide that extra decorator value.

These final color accents match or contrast with the dominant color selections as follows:

Pink bath — pink for emphasis aqua for lush contrast.

Tan bath—pink or aqua for flair, gold for extra warmth and richness.

Blue bath—pink for dalntiness or gold for contrast.

Green bath—gold or aqua for off-tint contrast.

Although these four colors have proved to be the most generally favored, the pink, aqua and gold soap colors can be used effectively with any number of background and linen shades.

To carry the color themes through, try matching soap and towel colors. You'll find this provides an emphasis that lifts your bath color scheme out of the ordinary and into the realm of gracious living.

Canada's first TOTAL gasolines are here!

Today ushers in a dramatic new concept in motor fuels – TOTAL gasolines. New White Rose TOTAL gasolines are first in Canada to combine today's major advances in petroleum chemistry. First to give you total benefits in both the regular and premium octane grades – with no price increase for either! First to restore clean engine performance and prolong fuel system life – while you drive. TOTAL gasolines are a petroleum first for Canada, an economy first for your car. Proven results? Only White Rose TOTAL gasolines can offer you • From 3% to 12% improved mileage • As much as 5% increase in usable horsepower • 70% reduction in pre-ignition • Over 145% longer sparkplug life • Elimination of costly carburetor cleanouts

What are Total Gasolines? Late last year our chemists in Sarnia, working with leading international petrochemical firms, met the challenge of combining—for the first time in Canada—the major gasoline improvements known to modern chemistry. These include:

Carburetor detergent.* Removes airborne dirt and gummy deposits from the carburetor and prevents their recurrence. This remarkable detergent action actually takes place while you drive, restoring to your carburetor its original clean performance.

Fuel system de-icing.* Prevents stalls from carburetor icing in cool, damp weather and reduces gas-line freezing in winter.

Anti-rust protection.* Prevents the formation of rust and corrosion in the fuel tank, fuel lines, fuel pump and carburetor.

Storage stabilizer.* Maintains uniform quality of gasolines while they are in storage, awaiting delivery to you. In effect, keeps them in refinery-fresh condition.

Sparkplug fouling preventer.* Controls deposits that cause sparkplugs to misfire in high compression engines. Maintains balanced combustion and ensures maximum sparkplug life.

Control of pre-ignition.* Prevents the glowing of carbon deposits within the cylinders of high compression engines. This glowing ignites gasoline prematurely (thus the term "pre-ignition") and causes knocking or rumble during acceleration.

Refined toluene component.* Increases the usable energy of modern motor fuels—a benefit pioneered in Canada by White Rose gasolines.

The new TOTAL benefits begin, where high octane benefits leave off. So you still pick the grade of gasoline that meets the octane needs of your car—new White Rose or new White Rose Ultra. They are both TOTAL gasolines—and you pay no more for them!

Proved Increased Mileage and Operating Economy. Before TOTAL gasolines were introduced, their benefits had to be tested fully—both in the laboratory and on the highway. The most precise laboratory measurements and extensive road tests, in many different kinds of cars, showed proven mileage increases from 3% to 12%. Cars obtained up to 5% more usable horsepower. There was 70% reduction in pre-ignition and over 145% longer sparkplug life. Besides these year-round advantages, stalls due to seasonal icing were reduced as much as 77%. And these are merely the measurable results.

The detergent action of new TOTAL gasolines makes possible other economies—in car maintenance. It cleans out carburetor deposits, eliminates costly carburetor cleanouts, keeps your engine in tune—while you drive! Thus, not only is your mileage increased, but your operating costs are reduced as well.

So start using—and stay with—new TOTAL gasolines. They are available today at all White Rose service stations. You'll discover why now, more than ever, The man who knows—buys White Rose.

Controversial TV Program Postponed Indefinitely

OTTAWA (CP) — The CBC carried. She said the program postponed indefinitely Thursday a controversial television program in which it planned to interview a woman said to earn $100 a night acting as co-respondent in divorce cases.

A CBC spokesman said the filmed interview, originally planned as part of the program Close-Up on the TV network, has been postponed to "an indefinite date."

The program instead featured a special discussion on the breaking of the week's summit conference at Paris.

A number of protests had been voiced over the original plans to interview the professional co-respondent. A CBC spokesman said last week said the woman, a Montreal secretary, was to get $70 a week at her job and $100 a night acting as co-respondent to obtain ing evidence to be used in divorce proceedings.

In the Senate Wednesday Senator Muriel McQueen Fergusson of New Brunswick suggested that the government consider legal charges if the program was

Report Denied Queen Mother To Re-Marry

LONDON (Reuters)—A report that 59-year-old Queen Mother Elizabeth contemplates marriage to Sir Arthur Penn, 74, was officially denied here today.

The report was carried by a New York newspaper, The Daily News. The denial was issued in a statement by the London lawyers of Penn, treasurer of the Queen Mother's household. It said:

"As solicitors for Sir Arthur Penn we are authorized to state on his behalf that the story published in the New York Daily News, as reported in certain newspapers in this country this morning, that a marriage is contemplated between Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother and himself is wholly without foundation."

The News had said protocol decreed that the widow of a monarch should not remarry and that the Queen Mother's plans "have created a tense situation in Royal Family." The report quoted "sources close to British royal circles."

The Queen Mother is at present out of the country, touring Southern Rhodesia and Central Africa.

Rumors that she wanted to remarry have hovered around society salons for weeks now.

Sir Arthur is a bachelor. He is groom in waiting and extra equerry to the Queen as well as treasurer of the Queen Mother's household.

AID FOR STUDENTS

TORONTO (CP)—The Automotive Transport Association of Ontario announced Thursday that it has set aside $37,900 to aid deserving university students in the 1960-61 term.

Air Force General Urges Restoration of $294,000,000 Estimate for Bomarc Missile

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air Force Gen. Thomas S. White told senators Thursday that the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile will "knock down very high performance bombers."

The top air force officer urged the Senate appropriations committee to restore $294,000,000 for production of the missile cut by the House of Representatives from the $39,000,000,000 defence bill.

"Just yesterday," White said, "three more Bomarc-A missiles were fired each of which performed a completely successful test." White also noted that all recent tests at Eglin Air Force Base, Florida, had proved successful.

He said that on May 12 a Bomarc "intercepted and destroyed at long range, a supersonic Regulus III missile."

While said the $294,000,000 will produce nine squadrons of Bomarc-B missiles "recommended by the force and concurred in by the secretary of defence."

While opposed the House proposal to use most of the Bomarc production funds for supersonic fighter interceptor aircraft.

He said the fighters would cost twice as much as the missile and would not be in operation quick enough.

While conceded there had been difficulties in early firing tests of the Bomarc-B, but that the first of any new missile and "there have been a number of successful near successes in the last month."

He said Gen. Lawrence Kuter, head of the North American Continental Defence Command, regards Bomarc "as the backbone accidentally discharged.

Air Force Urges Restoration of Bomarc Missile of our defences" and wants twice as many squadrons as are now approved.

While also told the senators the irrational behavior displayed at the Paris summit conference might make it wise to strengthen American defences.

While said that earlier this year he had been convinced U.S. defences were so strong that "no rational decision could be made to attack us."

Any attacking nation would face destruction from American deterrent powers, he said. Then he added:

"What would be a deterrent to a rational point of view might not be a deterrent to an irrational point of view."

While did not pinpoint his remarks further, and when a reporter asked him afterward if he was referring to Khrushchev as irrational he smiled and said:

"You will have to draw your own conclusions."

While said that probably the easiest way to step up U.S. defences quickly would be to add more squadrons of Atlas intercontinental missiles.

WOULD CONTROL GUN-USE

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, Ont. (CP)—Control of the sale and use of all firearms was recommended Thursday night by a coroner's jury investigating the April 28 shooting death of John McMillan.

The jury returned a verdict of accidental death. The boy was hit in the back by a 22-calibre bullet when a gun in the hands of a 12 - year - old companion accidentally discharged.

Birthdays of Two Queens To Be Honored on Monday

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The birthdays of two Queens are honored on Monday, the first warm-weather holiday of the year in Canada.

Victoria Day for many years was celebrated on May 24 in Canada, but since 1952 the holiday has been held on the first Monday immediately preceding May 25. It commemorates the actual birthday of Queen Victoria May 24, 1819.

In 1952, the same Monday was fixed for annual celebration in Canada of the birthday of Queen Elizabeth, whose actual birth date was April 21, 1926.

POPULAR HOLIDAY

The holiday is a popular one for outdoors celebrations, sports events and fireworks displays.

Official salutes will be fired by detachments of the armed forces at many centres and there will be military parades at some points. But as in previous years the holiday will be a great outdoor of town and city dwellers to the countryside.

Among colorful traditions of Victoria Day is the annual distribution of bread and cheese at the Six Nations Indian Reserve near Brantford, Ont.

Queen Victoria early in her reign pledged a gift of bread and cheese to all members of the Six Nations confederacy. Last year, more than 700 loaves of fresh bread and 700 pounds of cheese were cut up by the Indian councillors and their families, members of the reserve filing past to receive a quarter of a loaf and a half-pound of cheese.

Commonwealth Day, which replaces the old title of Empire Day, is being celebrated May 24, in Canada, Empire Day for years was marked on May 23, but it was celebrated for the first time in Commonwealth nations around the world as Commonwealth Day in 1958.

Commonwealth Day is the occasion for exchange of friendly greetings between government heads of the member nations. It is featured in schools, in which pupils get a chance through essays to show how much they know of the widespread association of nations in the Commonwealth.

Barrette Agrees To Public Debate With Lesage

MONTREAL (CP) — Premier Antonio Barrette, confronting the speaking tour of northwestern Quebec, agreed Thursday to a public debate with Liberal Leader Jean Lesage in their campaign for the June 22 Quebec election.

Mr. Lesage kept his promise to set a minimum and carried his grassroots campaign into the Beauceville and Mistisquoi ridings south of Montreal, visiting factories, meeting people in small groups, and shaking hands.

Mr. Barrette, who addressed a political rally in Ville Marie, 325 miles northwest of Montreal, said he is willing to meet Mr. Lesage on a public platform anywhere in Quebec City or Montreal for an "assemblee contradictoire" — a face-to-face debate — on the subjects of federal-provincial fiscal agreements and the university aid program.

His decision Mr. Lesage's proposal, made Wednesday, that the debate be made on a provincial television network.

Mr. Barrette told the citizens of Ville Marie his Union Nationale government is ready to spend "millions and millions of dollars" on a provincial road network.

Mr. Lesage promised his party would, if elected, legalize the sale of alcoholic apple cider in Quebec and would extend provincial government subsidies to farmers for the purchase of chemical fertilizers.

In Farnham, Que., he said legal sale of hard cider is necessary to give apple growers a supplementary source of income. Present Quebec law limits the alcoholic content of cider to 2.5 per cent. He also said a Liberal government would set up a system of factory grants based on population for municipalities and school boards. His government did not want to have municipal and school authorities to come on bended knee for aid.

Chinese Roar Approval of Russian Action

PEKING (Reuters)—Hundreds of thousands of Chinese roared approval at a mass rally today when President Eisenhower was denounced as "a bloodstained butcher."

Liu Ning-yi, president of the All-China Federation of Trade Unions, also called Eisenhower a "bandit ringleader."

Amid thunderous approving noars from the crowd, Ling said: "If the United States imperialists dare to unleash a new world war, the powerful Socialist camp, headed by the Soviet Union, and the peace-loving people of the whole world will resolutely liquidate imperialism forever from the earth."

"It is as unrealistic dream to place hope on warmongers like Eisenhower," he said.

Peng Hsiao-ping, general secretary of the Communist party central committee, told the rally that Britain and France must be condemned as well as the United States for spy flights over Russia.

APPLIES TO BOTH

Teng declared: "Any aggression and provocation against the Soviet Union is aggression and provocation against the People's Republic of China.

An estimated 1,500,000 Chinese attended the rally in support of Russia's stand at the Paris summit conference.

They carried multi-colored banners and placards blaming "United States imperialism" for wrecking the Paris summit meeting and condemning American "provocation and aggression" against Russia and the Communist bloc.

Other slogans demanded that the Americans get out of South Korea, the Philippines and Formosa. The demonstrations included young men and women of the people's militia armed with rifles.

It was the fourth and biggest mass rally in this capital in three weeks.

Diplomats Predicting New Tremors When Council Meets

By JOSEPH McGWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Diplomats are predicting new tremors when the United Nations Security Council begins debate on the avalanche that the Big Four leaders created at the summit.

The United States and the Soviet Union have all veloped in advance the first explosions expected to come before the 11-member council whose emergency meeting is a direct result of the summit debacle.

Authorities are at least hopeful that the diplomatic disaster in Paris will not cause despair where disarmament negotiations are concerned—the separate conference that has been pending laborious progress in Geneva.

Whether any progress on all sides be lost was apparent in UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold's address to the conference Thursday he pleaded with East and West to make use of the world body for peace.

Hammarskjold, a dedicated international civil servant and proponent of quiet diplomacy, never rushes into print with either statements—especially not when the air is filled with the words of world leaders.

But he felt it necessary to stress that the problems remain and require renewed intensive efforts and should be wiser for what has gone before. And encouraged by the feelings to which recent events may have given rise."

The 10-council meeting scheduled for Mon. diplomats said it will be up to each country to say whether a compromise can be reached to which the U.S. and Russia might agree.

Besides the five veto - holding members of the council—U.S., Russia, Britain, France and Nationalist China—the six non - permanent members on the council now are Argentina, Ecuador, Ceylon, Italy, Tunisia and Communist Poland.

Observers are certain Russia will not be able to win the necessary support for any motion condemning the U.S. for sending U-2 spy planes over Soviet territory. Soviet Premier Khrushchev has already scorned President Eisenhower's proposal for "open skies" inspection.

The Soviet charge is similar to Moscow's action two years ago in asking the Security Council to call on the U.S. to stop sending aircraft carrying nuclear bombs in the direction of Russia.

The U.S. countered then with a proposal that the council endorse international air inspection of the Arctic areas (— a proposal, supported by Canada. The Soviet resolution never reached a vote and Russia vetoed the American proposal.

Open to speculation was whether the Soviet Union will seek a special meeting of the 99-member UN General Assembly in the face of a defeat or vote in the council.

French Offering Said Charming But Immature

VANCOUVER (CP)—A group from Chicoutimi, Que., gave the Dominion Drama Festival its first French offering of 1960 Thursday night, a presentation described as both charming and immature.

Le Theatre du Coteau performed Lecacdia, a fantasy by Jean Anouilh based on the love of a prince for his dead wife.

The play" said British adjudicator Phillip Hope - Wallace, "is a lovely music."

"I greatly admired your efforts, which possessed a certain appearance and charm. You have certainly merited a larger audience."

The 2,800-seat Queen Elizabeth Theatre was about one - third filled.

Mr. Hope - Wallace used his usual French for his main adjudication and summarized his remarks in English.

The acting was in places "slightly immature," he said, adding: "You have been a very young group of players, not shirking their task."

Tonight, London Little Theatre will present Six Characters in Search of an Author by Nobel prize-winner Luigi Pirandello.

Calm West Berliners Confident Won't Be Abandoned by the West

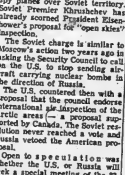
BERLIN (Reuters)—The new East - West crisis following the collapse of the summit talks was accepted easily but calmly today by West Berliners, confident that they will not be abandoned by the West.

There was no sign of nervousness among West Berlin's 2,200,000 residents despite the breakup of the Paris summit conference. The feeling of the man-in-the-street was not one of disappointment but of conviction that somehow world war would force the West to move its estimate 11,000 troops out of the city.

"Let's be calm," said one typical West Berliner. "It's not going to get excited. What can we do to scare it or we have done all these years."

IN BEST OF TERMS

The American, British and French occupation forces have been and more won the friendship of West Berliners in recent years. They no longer are regarded as occupation troops but as a shield against encircling communism.



West Berliners have made it abundantly clear that they will not bow to the East Germans, although their city is 110 miles behind the Iron Curtain.

Willy Brandt, the city's 46-year-old mayor is progressively a year-by people here that they can place full confidence in their Western allies and in the United States military guarantees the West has given.

But a separate peace treaty between the Soviet Union and East Germany would result in difficult conditions for West Berliners. The Soviet government, which is not recognized by the West, then would have full control over access by rail and road to West Berlin and also could interfere in the air corridors between the city and the free world.

West Berlin has enough food supplies to maintain the present prosperous standard of living of its citizens for at least a year, long enough to blunt any East German blockade.

DESERONTO

Fluorescent Street Lights Are Approved

DESERONTO — At its regular meeting on Monday night Council authorized the Public Utilities Commission to install a new system of street lights along Main St. and part of St. George St. These new lights will be fluorescent fixtures and show considerably more light than the ones in use. Two of these fixtures were installed at the corner of Centre and Main Streets some weeks ago as a donation from the supplying company for trial. The cost to the town for the 17 lights needed will amount to some $180 per year for ten years and council felt that the saving in power will offset the outlay. It is expected that the lights will be installed during the summer.

Another item that Council discussed at some length was the grant to the Athletic Association. Councillor Spence asked for a breakdown of the grants authorized and Reeve Metcalfe revealed that the Association had been granted $275, of the $400, asked for. The Legion received $150, for work on the War Memorial, the school scholarship fund got $75, the Girl Guides $75, and sundry requests amounted to some $50. Councillor Spence thought the Council should grant a further $125 to the Athletic Association but Reeve Metcalfe advised that the town did not have the money. He said that when the county rate was struck that the town would likely end the year with a deficit, as all estimates had been slashed as much as possible. Adjutor McGregor of the Athletic Association also spoke to council requesting an additional grant for the Legion. Councillor Spence made the motion none of the councillors would second it. Council complimented the Association for its work on the wading pool and the mayor said that he would gladly give a donation to help the work. Councillor Spence also introduced the subject of dog nuisance and suggested that the dog catcher be hired on a commission basis to take the dogs to Napanee to be impounded. Council merely referred the matter to the police committee to take the necessary action.

TOWN DUMP PROBLEM

A letter from the Lennox and Addington Health Unit brought to the attention of council, apparently considerable complaint has been done along the road and the dump is overrun with rats. The health unit also made a recommendation concerning the dumping of refuse from private. The health unit asked to be advised of any action taken to correct the conditions. Council referred the matter to the property committee for its action.

In the correspondence there was a letter from Mrs. D. C. McVicker about the flooding of the basement of her home. A request from Mrs. Travers to have a tree trimmed was referred to the streets committee, as was a request by P. Beretta to install a drain. The Legion and W. Rosebrugh on Mill Street offered to pay certain amounts towards the cost of installing a drain on Mill Street. This was referred to the streets committee for a recommendation.

Father G. T. Martin complained about the condition of the sidewalk in front of St. Vincent de Paul Church, the street committee was given the responsibility to deal with this.

Council also granted the firemen permission to erect a garage on the fire hall property to house the emergency truck. This will be done at no expense to the town.

NORTHERN POTATO CROP — A potato crop grows in bright sunshine at a federal department of agriculture experimental station at Fort Simpson, N.W.T., near Whitehorse in the Yukon. A department official says farming in the sub-Arctic should no longer be considered a novelty. There are at least 1,000,000 acres of agricultural land in the north, divided almost equally between the Yukon and Northwest Territories. (CP Photo)

Permanently frozen soil—permafrost—lies under all the land but it is well below the surface after the land has been tilled a few years.

Peas were planted in 1956 on land which had only 14 inches free of permafrost. Some stunted plants blossomed but there was no crop. The following year peas were again planted in the same location and the permafrost level dropped to three feet. The plants were healthy and yielded a small crop.

PLASTIC PROTECTION

Green peas and lettuce have been grown successfully at Inuvik. Strawberries and egg-plants have been produced at Fort Simpson, 150 miles north of the British Columbia border in the Yukon. Broccoli, celery and cauliflower grow at Whitehorse.

Corn, tomatoes, green beans and more tender garden crops are being grown under light frame covering with plastic sheeting to protect them from frost.

Potatoes have been grown on irrigated land. The watering has provided not only moisture but protection from frost. When the early-morning temperatures drop to the freezing level, sprinklers are turned on, and while the plants may be coated with ice before the sun raises the temperature and icicles fall off, they thrive.

FERTILIZER COSTLY

The department says most of the land needs fertilizer but transportation costs run high. It would cost $130 in freight alone to move a ton of fertilizer from Vidall, B.C., to Whitehorse.

However, there are 200,000 acres of good agricultural soil 50 miles north of Whitehorse in the Dezadeash Valley and a market for produce among 12,000 people.

Mr. Nowosad says the Yukon and Northwest Territories may never develop field crop farming but the demand for fresh vegetables exists and they can be grown.

"Development of natural resources in the Canadian north definitely includes agriculture," he says.

Dollar Sale Brought Profit Of 5.1 Cents

TORONTO (CP)—Canadian manufacturers in 1958 made an average profit of 5.1 cents on each dollar's worth of goods they sold, says an annual survey by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

This was five-tenths of a cent higher than in 1958 when, at 4.6 cents, profit on the sales dollar was at the lowest in the survey's 12-year history. The average over the 12 years has been 5.58 cents, and the highest figure was 7.1 cents in 1950.

George H. Craig, chairman of CMA's public relations committee, said in announcing the survey's results that "they prove again that average sales profits are less than a third of what the general public, in previous opinion polls, considered a fair margin."

The survey covered 2,043 companies across Canada, of which 155 had losses.

Ham and Eggs Too Costly In Arctic, But Try Broccoli

By JAMES NELSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — If you're thinking of moving to the Arctic and growing your own food, your tastes had better run to eggplant, broccoli and such exotic vegetables. Ham and eggs are too expensive.

The federal department of agriculture has found that small fruits and leafy vegetables can be grown far inside the Arctic Circle without too much difficulty.

Although hens will survive there, cost of feed is almost prohibitive.

The department established an experimental sub-station near Whitehorse in the Yukon 16 years ago and has supervised experimental gardens as far north as Inuvik, the new location for Aklavik, on the shore of the Arctic Ocean at the mouth of the Mackenzie River.

PLENTY OF SUNLIGHT

F. S. Nowosad, officer in charge of northern agriculture, says farming in the sub-Arctic should no longer be considered a novelty—"it's a reality."

One of the problems encountered by the market-gardener is the lack of rainfall during the short growing season. But the long hours of sun each day are a compensation and produce rapid growth.

There are at least 1,000,000 acres of agricultural land in the north divided almost equally between the Yukon and Northwest Territories, the department says.

NBC and CBS Bored Viewer Stiff With Unedited Versions

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—NBC and CBS bored this viewer stiff by putting on unedited versions of Nikita Khrushchev's Paris discourse through the two hours Thursday.

Meanwhile, small and bright ABC wrapped up the whole thing in 46 minutes ending nestly at midnight.

Actually, Khrushchev's press conference was not such an incredibly long affair. It consisted of a statement and about 10 questions. What took up the time were the French and then the English translation. Why both NBC and CBS felt it necessary to air these interminable periods is hard to understand.

ABC, which like the other two networks had the tape run by 10 p.m., merely chopped out the wearisome translations and had Nicholas Orloff, a skilled translator, interpret as the Soviet leader talked along. His voice, from New York, was heard over the sound track of the Paris-made tape.

Pruned a bit more, Thursday night's CBS adaptation of Ernest Hemingway's The Gambler, the Nun and the Radio, would have been a natural for the Loretta Young Show. Not that Eleanor Parker wasn't winsome as a nun with an Irish brogue—she was—but there was a comedy quality about the 90-minute show.

The plot concerned a small-time Mexican gambler, critically shot by a loser at cards, and his quest of faith, health and even friends in a hospital ward. The merry little sun arranged it all.

Richard Conte played the wounded gambler. The only time it sounded like Hemingway was when, for no reason at all, Charles Bickford, playing a testy patient, talked about Spanish bullfighting. It was obviously not quoted Papa's best pieces to start with.

Gene Kelly to Stage Ballet Based on Concerto in F.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Such is the state of culture in the United States that Gene Kelly has to go to Paris to stage a jazz ballet based on George Gershwin's Concerto in F.

He has been commissioned by the Paris Opera to create the Gershwin ballet, and the choice may never be the same.

"I dreamed up a plot in which Aphrodite comes down to earth and falls for a muscle man, then Zeus comes down to talk her out of it," related Kelly. "The whole thing is pretty wild.

"The Paris dancers are great, but they've been schooled in the classical ballet and don't like jazz. All their movements are the long, flowing line, and I've had to teach them to be cramped and jazzy. I conduct classes every morning and they're catching on fire."

IT'S OUT FOR U.S.

The Kelly creation will premiere June 30, and he admitted that anything might happen: riots or cheers. He regrets that the same sort of thing can scarcely be done in the U.S.

"The Paris Opera is state-supported, of course," he said. "There is a constant supply of talent from the local school which the Opera runs. . . . They take kids when they are eight and start training them."

This is true in every major country except the U.S., Kelly points out. There is only one resident dance company, the New York City Ballet, municipally aided in part. But it, like Ballet Theatre, Agnes and TV, stage and movies, must rely on private dance enthusiasts for talent.

"We subsidize wheat and pigs and oil fields and everything else," Kelly argued, "but we won't spend a dime for art."

Yankees Trade Andy Carey To Kansas A's for Bob Cerv

CHICAGO (AP) — The New York Yankees and Kansas City Athletics did it again Thursday when the Yanks traded third baseman Andy Carey to the As for outfielder Bob Cerv, a former teammate.

It was the 161h deal between the two clubs, involving a total of 61 players, since the Philadelphia American League franchise was shifted to Kansas City in 1955.

The Yankees acquired a power hitter to fill their left field needs although he is batting only .200. In return they gave the As a front line third baseman who missed most of last season because of illness and was beaten out of the job by Gil McDougald in spring training. No cash was involved.

Acquisition of Cerv gave the Yankees two-thirds of the 1959 Kansas City outfield. Roger Maris, hitting .333, came to the Yanks with reserve infielders Joe Demaestri and Kent Hadley last December for Norm Siebern, Hank Bauer, Marv Throneberry and Don Larsen.

LONG-BALL MAN

Cerv, a 34 - year - old long-ball hitter, normally plays left field. That has been a trouble spot for the Yanks ever since they traded away Gene Woodling. Cerv, the muscular former Nebraska football player, had a tremendous year with the As in 1958 when, playing with a wired-up jaw after an accident, he drove in 104 runs. But last season he batted .303.

His average dropped to .285 last year but he hit 39 homers and knocked in 87 runs. This season he is hitting .200 with six homers and 12 RBIs.

Carey, 28, played only 41 games last year before he was placed on the disabled list, suffering from mononucleosis. He batted .251. McDougald took over the third base job at St. Petersburg this spring, leaving the slick fielding Carey on the bench. He had been up only three times with one 1960 hit for a .333 average.

ROYALS SWITCH PLAYERS

MONTREAL (CP)—The International Baseball League Royals have acquired outfielder Rod Graber from Toronto Maple Leafs, and are expected to release outfielder Joe Caffie. The Royals also have recalled catcher Clarence Coleman from Macon of the Sally League.

Will Select Boxing Team After Tourney

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's five-man Olympic boxing team will be selected May 26 after the winding up to the national championships, a three - day tournament that has drawn 63 amateurs from coast-to-coast.

The talent is seasoned, the prospects hopeful.

Montreal's Dennis White, a railway baggage agent and leading figure in Canadian amateur boxing for more than 30 years, has already been named manager of the squad.

White, the boxing chairman of the Canadian Amateur Athletic Union, will lead a selection committee in a huddle to choose the five team members immediately after the final bouts.

The championship matches in the elimination series will be the first program in a new municipal sports centre in the east-end housing a 4,500-seat gymnasium, giant swimming pool and training facilities for police cadets.

TORONTO (CP)—Cuban heavyweight Nino Valdes has agreed to fight Canadian heavyweight champion George Chuvalo of Toronto here Tuesday night, June 7, matchmaker Jack Allen announced Thursday.

His last engagement was a seventh - round knockout over Brian London in London.

Kaline Admits He, Gord Howe Part Owners Racing Stable

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Tiger outfielder Al Kaline has confirmed reports that he is part-owner of a string of race horses.

The disclosure Thursday came as a surprise to the Tiger management. President Bill de Witt told reporters:

"I just heard about it Wednesday. I'll say this—that I don't believe baseball and racing mix. I'll have a little talk with Kaline. Perhaps he needs a little guidance."

E. C. (Doc) Greene broke the story Thursday in his sports column in the Detroit News.

De Wit pointed out that since the days of the late baseball commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis, there has been more or less an unwritten rule in baseball circles that baseball and horse racing do not mix. The policy developed because of Landis' fierce desire that baseball players and professional gamblers did not fraternize.

HOWE A PARTNER

Explaining his horse racing activities, Kaline said:

"Gordie Howe (the Red Wings' hockey star) and I have this company and it makes a good investment for tax reasons — horse racing expenses can be deducted for a period of three years. Gordie is not much interested in horses and hasn't much to say in this. A third partner, Frankie Carlin, runs the stable now."

"We run as the HKC (Howe-Kaline-Carlin) stable and have been at Thistle race track and will be at the Detroit race course which opens tomorrow. We've been doing fair."

Howe told reporters he had first returned from a Florida vacation and was surprised to hear that the horses were running under the HKC sponsorship.

"I've never cared much for horses and as far as I am concerned, none of my personal funds are invested in any race horses," said Howe.

Friday Night Garden Fights End Tonight

NEW YORK (AP)—Since the days of Tex Rickard, Friday night has been fight night at Madison Square Garden. Tonight the series ends.

The Friday NBC network television series will continue through June 24 in other arenas. But this is the last of the Friday fights in the garden.

When the fights resume on a regular basis in October, the TV series will be moved to Saturday night on the ABC network.

The garden finale is a heavyweight bout between Eddie Machen, No. 4 contender for the world crown, and Alex Miteff, rated No. 7.

Victoria Park May Withdraw From Preakness

BALTIMORE (CP)—The race for the black-eyed Susans and Preakness Stakes loot will be staged Saturday, possibly without Canada's Victoria Park.

Toronto industrialist E. P. Taylor was having trouble lining up a top jockey to handle his wellstanding colt in the $150,000-added event, second jewel in horse racing's triple crown in the United States.

Word of Victoria Park's possible withdrawal came from Joe Thomas, manager of Taylor's Windfields Farm. Thomas said a decision would be made today on whether to run Victoria Park, who finished third behind Venetian Way and Bally Ache in the Kentucky Derby.

Manuel Yrzas, aboard Victoria Park in the Derby, has an assignment at Aqueduct.

The Preakness still shaped up as a two - horse race between Venetian Way and Bally Ache, Venetian Way, winner by 3¼ lengths in the Derby, was the favorite at even-money odds. Bally Ache was rated at 8 to 5.

Victoria Park's stock shot up sharply after a sensational work out here Tuesday. He was quoted at 6-to-1 odds.

Scott Meets Virgil Akins In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Young, determined Charley Scott of Philadelphia meets aging, ring - wise Virgil Akins of St. Louis tonight in a 10-round welterweight bout neither can afford to lose.

Proceeds of the 8100-a-ticket fight at the Chase Hotel will go to charity. Sponsors hope for a formally attired turnout of 1,300.

Scott, 22, currently ranks fifth in the welterweight division. Akins, 32, in a talepin since winning the 147-pound championship less than two years ago, is unranked.

The Philadelphian was headed for a shot at Don Jordan's title when he lost a pair of decisions to Benny Caret of Cuba. Caret has a date with Jordan May 27 in Las Vegas.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The question of whether Canada will continue to participate in world and Olympic hockey tournaments will be one of the main items on the agenda of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association at its upcoming annual meeting in Sydney, Nova Scotia.

The player situation which developed prior to the last Olympics and the financial set-up of world tournaments in general, have given rise to an opinion of some hockey men that Canada should withdraw from international competition.

Others believe that with the proper adjustments financial and administrative, Canada can maintain her high place in world hockey and regain lost prestige, if she has mislaid any.

Lloyd Pollock of Windsor, an OHA director of some years and its second vice-president, who will attend the CAHA convention, is quoted as saying that the CAHA is not satisfied with the current system of tournament arrangements and unless improvements can be made may withdraw its seal.

"The financial planning in the past has been altogether too loose and left undone," Pollock said. "It was not uncommon for a team to board an aircraft for Europe still requiring as much as $15,000 to finance the thing, and with no positive assurance of where and when the money would come."

Pollock hinted that the CAHA was becoming weary of being delivered into the hands of international chief J. F. "Bunny" Ahearne, who for years has dispensed the financial format of Canadian teams appearing in world tournaments and pre-tournament exhibitions abroad.

Canadian teams in general and the Belleville McFarlands in particular, knew that it costs a hare sum to send a club representing Canada to a world hockey championship. Several necessary financial items mush room the costs to a tremendous size.

Hare crowds running into the thousands watched the McFarlands play exhibition games in England, Scotland, Germany, Sweden, Finland, Italy and Switzerland. Fan-packed stadia in Prague, Bratislava, Ostrava and Brno, with thousands outside clamoring for tickets, watched them in tournament play.

In Prague it cost Canadian spectators, and others, five dollars per seat per game. Standing room was tabbed at $2.50. The stadium held 7,000 sitting and 3,000 standing.

No wonder the estimable Mr. Ahearne told us at a press conference held in the Carleton Hotel, Bratislava, that the tournament would gross a half-million dollars.

What became of the money. Qien sabe? Mr. Ahearne said a lot of it would go to the International Ice Hockey Federation. Wherever it went, none of it came the McFarland way, and it is presumed, none of it went to other national clubs. As is well known, Ahearne refused to allow the McFarlands to embark for home on the Queen Elizabeth before a bill of $1,900 was paid "for excess baggage on aircraft during the European exhibition tour."

At the press conference Ahearne predicted the time we sets far distant when international hockey would play world hockey on a money-making business. He did not say how, but the prediction came following his statement that it would not be too long before world television would be in effect and that world tournament games could be seen "live" by the folks at home.

If Ahearne has a plan to put world hockey on a club money-making basis the CAHA will be glad—very glad—to hear about it.

Until that day comes the Canadian situation, at least, will have to undergo drastic financial changes. As has been pointed out before, a single Canadian community cannot finance such a venture. And it shouldn't be expected of them.

We are a young nation, old perhaps in the realm of hockey. But we are not too old to be unable to take a lesson from European nations. They have national teams trained for months as a unit with all expenses, training and transportation, paid by the government.

Perhaps the CAHA could work toward that end. In any event it is a big problem. It is reported that George Dudley, deceased secretary-manager of the CAHA, had prepared important agenda material to present to the convention.

As one writer puts it, "the CAHA will sorely miss his guidance and will be hard put to find a strong man to replace him." The writer suggests Jack Roxburgh, the CAHA first vice-president, a man well-versed and experienced in all phases of hockey. We second the motion.

Hand St. Louis 8-3 Setback As Reds Nail Dodgers 5-4; Russ Snyder Was Oriole Hero

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Bill Veeck screamed and Frank Lane scoffed at the latest New York Yankees-Kansas City A's trade. But pity poor Paul Richards, whose Baltimore Orioles were stopped short of a tie for the American League lead by the swap.

Russ Snyder, who broke into the A's lineup after Thursday's deal sent Bob Cerv to the Yankees for Andy Carey, batted in four runs and beat the Orioles with his second two-run single as Kansas City scored five in the eighth for a 7-6 decision.

The game, delayed three times by rain, covered four hours and 20 minutes.

The loss left the Birds in second place, a game behind Chicago While Sox, whose game at Boston was rained out. No other games were scheduled.

EX-YANKS SHINE

Snyder and Norm Siebern, two of the 35 players who have gone to the A's since the 1st 18 years with New York—over the last five years, drove in six Kansas City runs against rookie Chuck Estrada and losing reliever Jack Fisher (3-3).

Southpaw Bud Daley (3-2), lifted for a pinch-hitter in the eighth, was. He allowed only four hits but all Orioles runs. Walt Dropo drove them in with a two-run homer in the first and a two-run single in the eighth.

Estrada relieved rookie Chuck and struck out seven, but walked eight in his 6 1-3 innings. Snyder's single tied it 3-3 in the seventh and the A's then went to work on Fisher.

Jerry Lumpe, former Yankee, opened with a single, and after Carey struck out a second time the fanned as a pinch-hitter with the bases loaded in the fifth). Fisher walked three in a row, forcing a run home.

Snyder then won it with his single and Siebern added a two-run triple.

The deal that sent Cerv back to the Yankees—the 34-year-old outfielder went to the A's in 1956 sale — brought a "What, again!" yell from Veeck, While Sox president. "The Yankees," he quipped "keep sending players to Kansas City for seasoning."

PATTERSON SIGNS

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes announced Thursday that Hal Patterson, 29, three times all-star end, has signed his 1960 contract. Patterson last year underwent a knee operation to correct an injury that had been giving him a great deal of trouble. The club said Patterson should be able to play this season without difficulty and that conditioning schedules for servicement of the knee are being prepared.

Pittsburgh Pirates, overcoming timely pitching with their bats, have battled back for a half-game lead in the National League race as they open a three-game series with San Francisco's second-place Giants tonight.

Pirates, lacking a sturdy No. 3 and 4 pitcher behind ace Vern Law and Bob Friend, stopped 13 hits, picked up four unearned runs and whipped St. Louis Cardinals 8-3 Thursday night. That broke a tie for first with the Giants, who were rained out against the Braves at Milwaukee.

It was the Pirates' eighth victory in nine games since blowing a two-game lead two weeks ago when they lost four in a row—the first three at San Francisco.

Cincinnati Redlegs skimped past Milwaukee into third place, four games back, with a pair of two-out, ninth-inning runs that beat Los Angeles Dodgers 5-4. Chicago Cubs clobbered Philadelphia Phillies 4-2 and jumped over St. Louis into fourth place.

GIBSON'S FIRST WIN

Southpaw rookie Joe Gibson (3-1) won his first as a starter for Bob Friend, who received Pirates relief help to do it. Gibson's bat had the Cards out of it four hits for six innings, then gave up four more hits and two runs before retiring the side in the eighth inning.

The Pirates, topping the league with .283 batting average, scored all their runs before the fifth inning. Dick Stuart, who's knocked in three, two with a second-inning homer off rookie Ray Sadecki, a first-inning lefty making his major league debut. Bob Clemente, batting .333, drove twice and drove in the final Pirate run with his second double.

Gibbon walked only two men and struck out seven, but the Cards (all hitless last time up) complete game beyond the 10 hits they collected. Ken Boyer, batting .417, registered 11 of Pittsburgh's 21 victories.

Reliever Lindy Maddix (2-1) goes against the Giants and right-hander Sam Jones (4-3), who has won all on the road, at Pittsburgh tonight.

REDLEGS STOP DODGERS

The Redlegs clipped the Dodgers 5-4 for the second night in a row. Vada Pinson's triple capped the ninth-inning rally after Chicago got it started with a bunt. Chacon Pedro scored and scored on Eddie Kasko's single, Jim Brosnan (1-0) was the winner, pairing with Joe Nuxhall for a four-inning, one-hit shutout performance in relief of Bucky Buff McLish.

Loser Sandy Koufax (0-4) went all the way for the Dodgers, blowing a 4-0 lead after piling up eight of his 10 strikouts in 4 1-3 innings. Koufax's scoreless twenty hasn't won since he tied the major league strikeout record with 18 against the Giants last Aug. 31. He has worked 56 innings and struck out 56 men since, but has lost all six decisions in that span.

The Cubs broke a 2-2 tie at Philadelphia in the seventh inning when Richie Ashburn tripled and scored on Bob Will's foul fly. Bob Anderson (1-1) was the winner with a five-hitter and his first complete game of the season. Robin Roberts (1-4) was charged with the loss.

Leafs, Royals Play 0-0 Tie; Buffalo Wins

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitcher Don Erickson of Buffalo Bisons seems to have found prosperity after being on relief for most of the young International League season.

Erickson emerged from the Bison bullpen less than a week ago and has turned in two complete-game victories. Thursday night he beat Rochester 3-1. The right-hander has given up only three runs in 18 innings as a starter, for a 1.75 earned-run average.

In as many innings as a reliever he had a 3-3 won-lost record and a 2.50 ERA.

SCORELESS TIE

The victory gave the front-running Bisons a 1½-game advantage over Toronto, which played a scoreless, 10-inning tie with Montreal. The game was called by agreement to allow Montreal to catch a train.

Havana defeated Columbus 6-2 as Richmond snapped Miami's four-game winning streak, 14-4.

Erickson gave only eight hits and struck out 10—giving him 13 in his two starts—while Bob Winsett had the winning homer, Bill Kunkel and Nels Chittum allowed the Leafs only three.

Grob started but retired in the second inning after being hit by a line drive. Kunkel gave only one hit for 7 1-3 innings.

ARROYO SAVES GAME

Reliever Luis Arroyo struck out three men in the eighth, coming on for starter and winner Orlando Pena with two on and none out. Dan Morejon's triple scored three in the first and the Jets' Prentice Browne and Harmon Jim Pendleton traded two-run homers later on. Ron Blackburn lost.

Richmond's Ell Grba belted a grand - slam homer while Jack Reed had four hits including a home run to help Vito Valentinetti to his loss and the Marlins back into seventh place, a half game behind the Vees.

Ray Didn't Scare Promoter Two Nearly Came to Blows

BALTIMORE (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, who did not show up for a fight here last Monday, almost came to blows Thursday with the angered promoter, Al Flora.

There was a sharp exchange when "lies" and then:

"For two cents I'd punch you right in the mouth," stormed Sugar Ray at a hearing before the Maryland Athletic Commission.

"Maybe you're the world champion but I'm not going to take that from anyone," shot back one - time boxer Flora, as he charged toward Robinson.

Only hasty action by Robinson's friends and members of the commission who stepped between prevented the bitter verbal exchange from becoming a fist fight. The hearing is being continued.

Robinson, former world middleweight champion from New York, was here to explain why he didn't appear for a 10-round fight against Pedro Gonzales of Rankin, Pa.

The bout was called off last Saturday because of cold and threatening weather. Flora received $1 for Monday night.

It was half of a scheduled double feature, in the other main event of which welterweight champion Don Jordan took his second straight non - title fighting when Candy McFarland defeated him in a unanimous 10-round decision.

Three Lead Hot Springs Golf Tourney

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (CP)—A veteran and two rookies led the field into the second round of the $20,000 Hot Springs open golf tournament.

Gene Littler, a seasoned campaigner, and newcomers Al Geiberger and Bob Nichols fired five-under-par 67s Thursday, Littler is defending champion.

Five golfers tied for fourth place at 68, four under par. They included Stan Leonard of Vancouver, who went out in 33 and came back in 35.

Al Balding of Toronto recorded a 36-32—70 and Jerry Magee of Toronto 37-36—73.

CUBS CUT PITCHER

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Chicago Cubs sent southpaw pitcher Art Ceccarelli and some money to New York Yankees Thursday for righthander Mark Freeman. Freeman, 29, has been with Richmond of the International League where he compiled a 3-1 won-lost record this spring. Ceccarelli appeared in seven games this season and had no record.

Rocket Retire? Habs Will Know In Few Days

MONTREAL (CP) — Maurice (Rocket) Richard, hockey's most prolific scorer, will let Montreal Canadiens management know in a few days whether he will retire.

That was the outcome of a meeting Thursday between the 39-year-old star and Frank Selke, general manager of the National Hockey League Canadiens.

Selke said he had requested Richard to decide within the next two or three days and not wait until September, when the training camp opens. Richard said he would comply with Selke's wishes.

The famous Rocket, who will be 39 years old Aug. 4, has suffered serious injuries on last three seasons—an almost severed achilles tendon, fracture of the shin bone where it joins the ankle, and a cheekbone fracture.

These injuries, coupled with his age and difficulty in keeping down to playing weight, have led to general conclusions that he is ready to call it quits.

There is a belief that if he retires he will be offered a position with the club, possibly as a good-will ambassador - at - large. Richard, however, is believed to have no particular financial worries since he already has an interest in several businesses.

Pay-Now-See-Play-Later Adopted by Chatham City

CHATHAM (CP)—It's been a short summer for Chatham Maroons.

Less than two weeks after they returned from Trail, B.C., with their first Allan Cup title, Maroons opened a month-long blitz Thursday in which they hope to sell 1,200 season tickets for next winter.

Success of the campaign would guarantee senior hockey here next season and pave the way for a Chatham trip to Russia for a three-week exhibition series.

For the first time since Maroons returned to senior hockey in 1948-50, fans are now able to purchase their season tickets on a budget plan. Subscribers to the plan may buy tickets with a $10 deposit followed with monthly payments of $5 until the season starts.

All money is to be held in trust by the Chatham Hockey Association until the first game is played.

On the Track

TORONTO (CP)—Victoria Regina, Victoria Park's little sister, will run the first race of her career at Old Woodbine today.

Victoria Regina's debut will be watched with considerable interest because of her close relationship to the brilliant colt Victoria Park. The latter, third finisher in last season's Kentucky Derby and entered in Saturday's Preakness Stakes, is probably the best colt ever to be bred in Canada.

Thursday, Ann showed why she is considered to be the gutsy est filly on Ontario tracks. The small chestnut, owned by Ann Old Woodbine, in a fine display of courage, outlasted Peggy Fair and Sun and Wind to win a three-horse photo finish in the featured Grand Seed Purse.

Dutchies Silent On Tie-Up With Pro Club

KITCHENER (CP)—Kitchener-Waterloo football interests kept silent today on details of a proposed alignment between a Kitchener senior football entry and a Toronto entry in the new American Football League.

Alex (Bo) Annis, member of a group trying to keep senior football alive in the twin cities, said the person who first broached the idea of the hookup, said Thursday:

"We are not making any announcements. That is up to Mr. Bennett."

He was referring to A. J. (Alvin) Bennett of Toronto who has deposited $25,000 in the AFL's expansion committee as a bond until his application for a franchise in Toronto is accepted by the new league.

Annis said his discussions with the Toronto promoter didn't get down to details as to the type of affiliation and how it would operate.

If the affiliation does come about it would have to be effective immediately, since the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen have already called it quits, withdrawing from the Ontario Rugby Football Union because of debts totalling $15,000.

Some local football men apparently think Dutchmen might need next season to train coaching staff and players in preparation for the new league's opening game in the fall.

Toronto's city stadium is expected to go into operation in the AFL.

Public, College Libraries Said To Be Firetraps

MONTREAL (CP) — The National Fire Protection Association was told today that many public and college libraries are dangerous firetraps.

The Association's committee for libraries urged that hazards be corrected and a carefully planned fire detection and fire extinguishing systems built into the buildings.

"Contrary to popular belief," the committee said, "books, being neatly stacked on library shelves can burn. Such fires, fed by vast quantities of book paper, may spread so rapidly that lives are endangered. Books could be lost before traditional fire fighting methods would be effective."

The committee, made up of librarians and fire safety experts, was speaking to the final session of the National Fire Protection Association conference. More than 1,500 fire safety experts attended the convention.

STANDARDIZATION PLEA

A Canadian engineer said Thursday that countless lives and property loss could be saved from fire simply by standardizing the threads on fire-hose couplings.

C. B. Tebo, manager of the Canadian Standards Association Testing Laboratories, called this major result from a seemingly minor action the most significant contribution his organization makes toward safety.

Mr. Tebo said a sectional committee of his association had been working for more than 10 years on the problem. Its recommendations of hose - coupling threads used by fire departments in Ontario alone. This made it almost impossible for departments to give effective mutual aid in attacking major fires.

A program to standardize the coupling, beginning with the Ontario fire marshal's department, has covered years and cost more than $1,000,000.

But the cost "has been repaid several times over in reduced fire losses, more effective use and interchange of equipment and lower cost of the standardized couplings."

Senate Decides Adultery To Remain Sole Ground for Seeking Divorce in House

By KEN KELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Adultery, real or pretended, is to remain the sole ground for seeking a divorce in Parliament.

The Senate decided this conclusively Thursday when it upheld the majority decision of its divorce committee in refusing to hear the case of a Quebec woman seeking to divorce her husband on the ground of desertion.

Views of senators were expressed about the nature of the evidence now presented to establish adultery.

Senator Arthur Roebuck (L—Ontario), who said he strongly supports adding desertion as a ground for divorce, says the final to raise the question of the evidence heard by the divorce committee of which he is chairman.

"We sit there knowing that the one ground that is being pressed before us is not the real trouble in the case at all between the parties, and it is only by discovering or stimulating adultery that we will grant relief."

PLEADS SEQUESTER

The 82-year-old lawyer made an eloquent plea on behalf of women left destitute with their children but tied, like the Quebec petitioner, "to a barn."

Senator John T. Haig (PC—Manitoba), an opponent of wider divorce grounds in the past, also expressed doubt about the type of evidence offered in many cases.

He also expressed concern that the Senate "is getting a reputation all over Canada of being a divorce mill." The Senate should insist that some other organization be set up in the country to deal with these petitions."

Most of Parliament's divorce cases are from Quebec and Newfoundland, the only provinces without courts empowered to deal with divorce.

(The CPC, which has put up a blockade against divorce bills in the Commons, wants the job handed to the Exchequer Court of Canada.)

NO REASON TO HEAR IT

Senator W. H. Golding (L—Ontario), who spent a night in the Senate divorce committee's room hearing the desertion case, said the Senate is not a

Rev. I. Fleming Accepts Call To Georgetown

PICTON — Rev. Ian M. Fleming of Cherry Valley announced yesterday that he has accepted a call to St. John's United Church at Georgetown, and will commence his ministry there on July 1. Mr. Fleming came to Athol township charge of the United Church of Canada three years ago, following graduation at Queen's University and ordination at Bay of Quinte Conference. He had previously been student minister for five years in Bay of Quinte pastorate.

Mr. Fleming's father, Rev. J. M. Fleming, now retired, lives at Minden. A brother, Duncan Fleming, of Toronto, has just been accepted as a candidate for the ministry, while another brother, Gordon Fleming, is teaching and is choirmaster at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Peterborough.

Mr. Fleming has enjoyed a very successful ministry on Athol charge, with churches at Cherry Valley and Wellington Point. There has been a notable increase in membership and attendance and a great improvement in financial standing. Projects completed under his ministry include the erection of new church hall at Cherry Valley.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RICHTER

Saturday, May 31

General tendencies: You now have a day when so much energy and power is released that you need to use it wisely and constructively. Be sure you think out the new ideas and plans that are important to you and that you use this Saturday in getting every single decision reached that can aid your current potential upswing. Then have fun tonight. Accept temporary delays early in good spirit. Make careful plans.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Be most friendly with those whom you contact today who can be helpful to you in your career or personal wants. However, be most respectful to higher - ups. You can make real strides forward at this time.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Put behind you quickly and in a cheerful attitude that large number of small chores that are facing you. The latter part of the day is then fine for following the good advice of authorities who have your interests at heart.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — During A.M., it is possible that unduly dependable friend will not see eye-to-eye with you. A higher - up has given him, or her, erroneous information with regard to present situation. P. M. go out socially and have a good time.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Be sure you do not enter into that altercation between an associate and a higher-up. The rest of the day is then excellent for social pleasures and increasing prestige. Dress formally in the evening.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — While morning chores may not be very inviting, it is important you put them behind you, so that the remainder of the day can be free for social activities, sports, making new contacts, etc. Be devoted to loved ones.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Take care you are not extravagant this morning. Then follow your intuition with regard to pleasing those you love and becoming more secure and happy yourself. Evening fine for romantic leanings. Be very thoughtful.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Rather than start an argument with close tie, get out early with an associate for calls or shopping, important duties. P. M. fine for recreation, sports with attachment.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Take particular care in motoring, driving this morning. Then the rest of the day is ideal for social pleasures or creative work that you want to indulge in. Be kind with anyone who helps you. P.M. improve health.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Be most careful with the expenditure of money this morning. Then the evening is one of those when you can be with compatibles and have a truly satisfying and happy time. Be cheerful and dynamic.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Be sure you are not too forceful with others in A.M. or there can be serious arguments. Tonight's aspects are fine for enjoying Mix in love and achieving greater harmony in that sphere of your existence. Buy little gifts.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — A private anxiety could limit you a good deal in A. M. if you permit. Work constructively instead. You can achieve closer relationship with family this evening. Be of good cheer and have lots of fun.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Don't depend upon a tried and true friend to any extent this A. M. since he, or she, is very busy. Tonight is ideal however for working constructively on books or financial planning repairs to real estate, etc.

If your child is born today — there will be a great ability during adulthood to get into modern day activities and become very successful in them. However, youth is rather difficult, since your youngster will want to learn mainly through experience. Also, it is imperative to give excellent training in spiritual matters, or there could develop a disinterest in the feelings of others while following own desires and ambitions.

Curve Lake Indian Can Make Totem Pole While You Wait

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP)—Want a totem pole for your living room? Curve Lake Indian Austin McCue will turn one out while you wait.

The young-looking 37 - year-old resident of the reservation 25 miles northwest of Peterborough has made a specialty of carving totems since the first Labor Day pow-wow with the Six Nations Indians from Brantford, Ont., four years ago.

At that time the village council wanted to erect a couple of 12-foot poles. Mr. McCue volunteered to make them.

"They turned out so well, I thought I'd supplement my income by making them for tourists".

DYING ART

He has carved poles as tall as 24 feet and as small as six inches and can produce one three or four feet high while the customer waits.

Mr. McCue is one of 20 or so reservation residents carrying on the young, but already dying, tradition of souvenir-carving. The industry annually brings about $3,000 into the reservation.

Several years ago Mr. McCue, the reservation carpenter, carved a 24-foot totem for a motel near Toronto and earned $100 for a three-day job.

However, he doesn't count on more than $200 or $300 a season from his hobby and, he says, "luckily, I don't have to rely on them for a living".

CARVES DUCK DECOYS

During the summer he looks after a boat-renting business for Cliff Whetung, operator of a fishing lodge, and sells live bait to fishermen. Once a year he shows his skills in public, demonstrating how to carve duck decoys at the Toronto Sportsmen's Show.

"Souvenir-making used to be the main livelihood of the Indians years ago", he says. "But now it's only the older ones who do any carving. The young people take very little interest".

While Mr. McCue carves cedarwood, his wife, Hazel and sister, Mrs. Richard Taylor, are buckskin jackets, moccasins and gloves, thread porcupine - quill necklaces and weave porcupine quill baskets.

One of the few youngsters interested in the art is 16-year-old Rita Knott, daughter of Curve Lake Chief Elsie Knott. Rita makes dolls by soaking corn husks in water, moulding them into doll shapes and dressing them in buckskin.

Chief Knott doesn't make souvenirs but, by attending the Sportsmen's Show as representative of the Kawartha Lakes Tourist Association each year, she says a part in attracting an estimated 10,000 tourists to Curve Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rhiwaga and family, Mrs. Carrie Rollins and children of Brighton and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rhiwaga Jr., and family, of Picton, visited Mrs. Estelle Reid on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Reid and family of Belleville were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. Leslie Reid.

Donna and Gary Whitehead of Toronto are visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Lockhart.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Shaw and Mrs. William Shaw visited Mr. and Mrs. Percy Rollins of Thurlow, on Sunday.

A number from this district attended the funeral of Mrs. Jean Thompson, held in St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, on Wednesday afternoon. The sympathy of this community is extended to her daughter, Mrs. Clifford Mitz and family.

DYING TRADITION — Chief Elsie Knott (left) and Mrs. Richard Taylor, sister of Indian Austin McCue of the Curve Lake Indian reservation near Peterborough, Ont., display some of the souvenirs produced by the tribe for sale to tourists. About 20 reservation residents still carry on the young, but already dying, tradition of souvenir-carving. The souvenirs, which bring about $3,000 annually to the reservation, include model canoes, totems, knives, bull-sized bows and arrows, decoy ducks, buckskin jackets, moccasins and jewelry. Moscow Greets Khrushchev With Warm Reception

Thousands Jam Tarmac U.S. Not Represented

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev returned to Moscow today after a week of diplomatic encounters which rocked the world.

He landed at Vnukovo airport from Berlin where he had cooled world war fears by saying the Soviet Union would not press for a new status, which would include the departure of the Allies from West Berlin, for the next six to eight months.

The crowd at the airport shouted approval for the stand Khrushchev took at the frustrated Paris summit session.

Thousands of citizens representing factories, intellectual circles and other phases of Moscow life jammed the airport.

Representatives of each sector took the microphone to pledge support to Khrushchev and hail him for the stands he took in Paris and Berlin.

As usual in his airport appearances, Mr. Khrushchev smiled broadly, waved enthusiastically, and affectionately patted children who clustered around.

Correspondents were notified the Kremlin leader had predicted a Khrushchev homecoming in the Lenin square of Moscow which is to be held until next week, allegedly in order not to interfere with the weekend.

U.S. NOT REPRESENTED

Not represented was the United States embassy was at the airport to welcome Khrushchev although officials called the Soviet premier Edward L. Freer to be present.

Freer said he stayed away from the airport because there was no clarification of remarks made about President Eisenhower by Khrushchev at his press conference in Paris on May 16.

Representatives of British and France were present, however.

Khrushchev said Friday the day night to leave things as they are in West Berlin and was ready for a new summit conference. He read this from a statement in a tired voice at East Berlin's Schoenfeld airport:

"We know we spoke with leading personalities of East Germany over international problems and particularly those problems resulting from the torpedoing of the Paris conference. Collaboration was absolute unanimity between us.

"We will work persistently for

Executive Given Free Hand to Select Sponsors

VANCOUVER (CP)—The executive of the Dominion Drama Festival has been given a free hand to seek commercial sponsorship.

The governors' court, comprising executives from across Canada, voted unanimously at a meeting here that the executive seek financial aid after hearing from festival president Lt.-Col. Yves Bourassa of Montreal.

"It is obvious we are facing a very serious situation," Col. Bourassa said, referring to the withdrawal of Calvert Distillers Limited from a sponsorship it has maintained for eight years. It was announced earlier that the festival and the distillery were parting "by mutual consent."

"A cultural organization like ours cannot go on unaided," Col. Bourassa said. "It is inconceivable that a group as virile as the festival should not find the support it needs."

A financial statement listed donations from Calvert's of $21,000 for the fiscal year ended last March 31.

The court also heard a report from Mr. Justice Gerard Richfret of Montreal, chairman of a committee arranging for the 1960 festival next May 15-20 in Montreal.

He said the festival will be held in the 1,300-seat Comedie Canadienne theatre, where plans are available for simultaneous translation into English or French.

The national officers were re-elected for another year. Col. Bourassa will serve his second term as president, with Roy A. Stewart of Toronto as first vice-president.

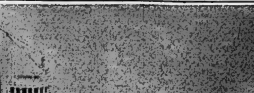
Elsie Thomson of Hamilton is treasurer and Jean Pelletier of Quebec secretary.

$351,800 Suit Is Dismissed

TORONTO (CP) — A $351,800 suit arising from the death of Rev. R. S. K. Seeley, former provost of Trinity College, was dismissed Friday in the Ontario Supreme Court.

The suit was brought by Mrs. Seeley and Michael MacKenzie, estate solicitor, against Vauxhall Motors, Pink Bulk Limited, and May Company, service manager for Pink Bulk.

Mr. Seeley died in an auto accident July 15, 1962, the day after a new Vauxhall he bought from Pink Bulk had received a 1,000-mile checkup, Mrs. Seeley and Mr. MacKenzie claimed the brakes of the car were defective and caused it to swerve into the path of another vehicle.



Mr. Justice Leo Landreville said he would give reasons for his judgment later.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: The sun was expected to break through in many Southern Ontario areas this afternoon to send the summer climbing well into the 70s. There was still a threat of showers or thunderstorms but indications were that these would not develop until late today. A vigorous storm now over Iowa is forecast to move through Central Ontario Sunday. This will induce a westerly circulation or drier air over Southern Ontario Sunday with clearing skies. Prospects for Monday are for sunny skies and pleasantly warm temperatures.

HOUSE AGREES FAMILY FARM IS REAL BACKBONE

Commons Approves Stabilization Act

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons agreed Friday that the family-life farm should remain the backbone of Canadian agriculture.

In a debate which occasionally became heated, members said the farm family must be protected against competition from big commercial factory-like operations, and against domination from foreign labor union leadership.

After hours of debate, the House approved continuation of the Agricultural Stabilization Act, under which the federal government bolsters a sagging farm prices.

Agriculture Minister Harkness, answering criticism that the government's price support program isn't all that it was promised to be, said it is especially designed to help the average, and small farmer.

The big commercial operators, whose production is integrated with food processing plants or geared to big lucrative markets, don't need the same help, he said.

SHE WOULDN'T STEER

The labor unions were brought into the debate by Jack Horner (PC—Acadia), a rancher, who accused CCF House Leader Hazen Argue, a leader in a new political party movement, of having sold himself as a farmer "down the river to the labor party, which is controlled by unions in the United States."

Mr. Argue replied heatedly. In his Saskatchewan riding of Assiniboia, he said, he represented both farmers and labor union members.

The new party, being sparked by the CCF and the Canadian Labor Congress, is not technically a political party, and is not dominated by foreign union leaders, Mr. Argue said.

"I do not have to malign and smear the trade union movement in order to win the support of farmers," he added.

In the prime support debate, Osie Villeneuve (PC—Glengarry, Prescott) said $1.25 per cent of Canada's hog producers and 90 per cent of the hogs marketed, were produced by commercial farmers selling to the big Toronto and Montreal markets. Harry Jonora (PC — Saskatoon) said substantially the same situation prevailed with egg producers.

U.S. Confident Russia Will Be Rebuffed in Council

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Secretary Christian Herter was flying back to Washington today to take charge of administration strategy aimed at defeating Russia's drive to brand the United States an aggressor before the United Nations.

Herter's return from Paris coincides with mounting U.S. confidence that Russia will be rebuffed in its follow-up move to exploit the controversial American spy flights into a resolution of censure in the world organization.

State department policy makers, after canvassing prospects, were reported confident of defeating the Russians in both the Security Council and the UN assembly.

The language Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko uses in denouncing the spy flights may offer a clue about the future of Soviet-American relations.

When he arrived in New York Friday night, Gromyko told reporters the international situation can become "even more aggravated" unless the U.S. stops its "aggressive acts."

He said it is "incumbent upon the United Nations . . . to devote serious attention to this (spy plane) matter and to take necessary measures to end the policy of provocations and aggression."

President Eisenhower, on returning Friday from the wreckage of the Paris summit meeting, warned that "more irritations, possibly other incidents" could crop up as an aftermath to Premier Khrushchev's blowup of the talks.

But some U.S. authorities, talking to Khrushchev's relatively mild - mannered language in Berlin, said the Russians might switch to the polite talk of a sorrowful, aggrieved victim.

A weekend series of strategy talks has been arranged for Herter in order to approve a step-by-step counter - attack of Russia's accusations. The American defence is expected to be threefold.

1. A counter - attack by citing the history of scores of Soviet spy efforts in the U.S.;

2. A reaffirmation of Eisenhower's announcement that spy flights have been called off;

3. An appeal for a UN or surveillance task force to check possible future preparations in member countries.

Many diplomats say Russia's attitude at the East-West talks on a nuclear test ban could also provide an inkling about future Soviet policy.

These talks in Geneva are expected to resume early next week. During the last exchange of words in Paris Soviet-American scientists continued to meet confidentially in the Swiss city to discuss technical problems.

Eisenhower came home to a cheering welcome that left him misty-eyed.

"I truly means a lot to me," he told the throng that turned out to greet him at Andrews Air Force Base. He had returned from a great triumph, instead of the summit debacle Khrushchev estimated at 80,000 lined his route from the airport to the White House.

The president arranged to fly to his Gettysburg home this morning for what a White House aide called a "well - deserved rest." The White House said the president definitely will speak on television on the meaning of the summit failure, probably about the middle of next week.

SHIPPING STARTS TO MOVE SLOWLY AFTER COLLISIONS

One Vessel Sent To Channel Bottom

SARNIA (CP) — Great Lakes shipping started moving slowly upbound at midnight after being blocked near here for 12 hours by a double-collision Friday.

The first collision sent the 444-foot lakes vessel Standard Portland Cement to the bottom of the fog-shrouded, 31-foot deep shipping channel two miles out from Port Huron. About five feet of her deck remained above water.

The United States Coast Guard reported the Standard Portland, owned by the Inland and Cornelius line of Buffalo, was downbound into the St. Clair River on the U.S. side of the 800-foot-wide channel when she collided with the upbound August Zeising of the Pittsburgh Steamship Division of United States Steel Corporation.

There were no injuries.

About 20 minutes later two other upbound ships, trying to avoid the damaged vessels, collided.

The 372 - foot British ocean freighter Tygemouth, owned by the Tyne Tees Steamship Company bumped with the 429-foot motor vessel Paul Townsend of the Huron Cement line. The Tynemouth was reported taking on water.

An skeleton crew remained aboard the Standard Portland where it went down with two miles north of the Bluewater Bridge between here and Port Huron, Mich.

The Zeising, which had her bow damaged in the Standard Portland's hull, was pulled away late Friday night and temporary repairs started. The 580-foot ship, empty at the time of the crash, had a hole below the waterline between her third and fourth hatches.

Capt. William Graham, 52, of River Rouge, Mich., skipper of the Standard Portland, refused to discuss the collision except to say the engine room filled with water immediately afterwards.

Although room was left in the channel for two vessels to meet at a time, traffic was held up until a U.S. Coast Guard cutter arrived to take charge. At one time about 20 ships were waiting to move through the channel.

The Standard Portland was being towed to Sarnia behind a tug-boat captain working on a channel deepening project near the accident scene said he believed the Standard Portland could be repaired and refloated.

E. Germans Claim 'Force-Down' Of American Plane

Eight Occupants Held After Crash-Landing

BERLIN (AP)—A spokesman of the Soviet Embassy in Berlin said today that Soviet forces "forced down" a United State: air force transport which crash-landed in East Germany Friday.

American officials announced that Gen. J. Jakoboski, commander-in-chief of Soviet forces in East Germany, advised U.S. authorities at Berlin that the "stranded safely" near Schwerin and that the plane, crew and passengers were safe.

The plane, crew and passengers were reported landed under control of Soviet military authorities pending an investigation.

Unofficially it was learned that the Russians said the aircraft had violated territory of the East German state.

Jakobovski's communication was in response to a message from Col. Clyde R. Eddleman, commander of the U.S. Army in Europe.

The text of the message was not made public but it was known that Eddleman had advised the Russians the C-47 had strayed from Copenhagen - Hamburg route through a navigational error.

The press officer of the Soviet Embassy said he could give no further details. The plane was forced down he said the Soviet military command in East Germany was handling the case.

Western circles saw the possibility that the unarmed American plane last following Friday night's international contact in East Germany that the twin-engined C-47 had landed on her soil.

The United States Air Force said the plane was returning from a "morale flight" to Copenhagen and was en route to Hamburg in West Germany.

The incident, coming on the heels of the U-2 spy plane case, created an additional strain on East-West relations.

The seven airmen aboard the plane were unharmed. A serviceman's wife soon after the plane came down near the Baltic coast town of Klueis about 15 miles east of the Iron Curtain border.

All aboard escaped injuries, East Germany police said. The plane was not slightly damaged.

The transport plane disappeared after taking off from Copenhagen for Hamburg on a route close to the Iron Curtain.

Several hours later the U.S. Air Force announced headquarters reported the plane ov-

Cop-Biting Snake Gets Fourteen Days

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A snake that bit a policeman and ran afoul of the state's 90-day sec ory ordinary culprit.

Manager Leonard Bonner of the animal regulation department pronounced the snake's 14-day quarantine for a two-foot gopher snake which bit officer Gordon Cox.

Bonner says it's known that rattlesnakes and bull snakes don't carry rabies, but only antivenin serves that any wild animal which bites a human must be checked for the disease.

If snakes had lawyers, it might be argued that the ordinance applies only to wild animals, not reptiles.

Good Swimmers Only Should Use Snorkels, Masks

OTTAWA (CP) — Only "competent and confident" swimmers should use underwater equipment, the Toy Testing Committee says in a report on snorkels, fins and swimming masks.

The report is the first departure by this national committee of the Canadian Association of Consumers and the Citizens' Committee on Children from its usual role of testing toys for durability and play value and rating them as safe or unsafe.

It represents the results of a series of tests on underwater equipment by eight consultant divers and includes ground rules for all swimmers who want to use underwater performers.

Special stress is given that swim equipment issued simply as toys should "not be expected to function as a substitute for sports equipment."

SWIMMER RULES

These rules are laid down:

The only persons who should use underwater swimming and diving are those who have good health, good physical fitness, swimming skills and water-safety knowledge, proper equipment, proper training in the use of that equipment and, finally, constant supervision, including a companion, once other qualifications have been met.

The report lists equipment which has passed the tests of durability, value for money and safety, it added.

"Every piece of equipment requires additional knowledge by the swimmer. For this reason, he should never, when using this equipment, venture beyond the limits of his natural swimming ability."

Canadians Let Holiday Hair Down In 'the 24th of May' Celebrations

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada's first warm-weather holiday of the year—Victoria Day, better known as "the 24th of May"—will see many outdoor celebrations Monday.

Since 1952 the holiday has been celebrated on the first Monday preceding May 25, the day many people a three-day weekend.

Victoria Day was celebrated on May 24 for years—marking the birthday of Queen Victoria of Queen Victoria. The switch to the first Monday prior to May 25 came in 1952 and was followed in 1953 by a ruling fixing the same date for Canadian celebration of the birthday of Queen Elizabeth — born April 21, 1926.

There will be the usual holiday exodus of town and city dwellers into the countryside, but the Canadian Highway Safety Council has estimated that only 20 will die on Canadian roads. The figure is proportionately half the average Victoria Day weekend holiday toll during the last four years.

The council said the lower figure is in recognition of the fact that "weekend highway fatality statistics do not vary from midweek traffic deaths as much as they once did."

In Ontario, the Niagara Falls fruit belt is expected to draw thousands of visitors with blossoms at the height of their glory. Regattas and horse racing feature events around the province.

In Ottawa celebrations will be held apart from the crash of the 21-gun Queen's birthday salute. Parliament will all as usual.

Trade Balance On Bond Market Slow This Week

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The bond market this week was featured by two separate government of Canada issues totalling $240,000,000, which were issued for refunding purposes.

The issues consisted of $100,000,000 one-year treasury bills maturing June 1, 1961, and $140,000,000 4 1-4 per cent bonds due June 1, 1965. The Bank of Canada acquired $50,000,000 each of these issues at the average price paid for the remaining $140,000,000 of seven-year bonds in competitive tender to primary distributors. The bonds yield an average price to the government of 99.40 on the 4 1-4 per cent Dec. 1, 1982, bonds and the 366-day bills sold at an average rate of 3.39 per cent.

Little change was noticed in the price of government bonds on balance as trade this week was slow.

2,000 Workers Of Nickel Mines Return to Jobs

SUDBURY (CP) — More than 2,000 employees of the Falconbridge Nickel Mines Limited were back to work Friday, ending a four-day strike by union members.

The walkout followed a company ruling that men in all departments must wear safety goggles. Miners claimed the glasses were uncomfortable and unnecessary except in certain cases. The issue is to be further discussed by the union and company.

Men at the company's Hardy mine were first to walk out Monday. By Tuesday, the strike had spread to five other mines, bringing production to a standstill.

Company management Thursday announced an interim injunction order from the Ontario Supreme Court restraining strikers from picketing company plants.

A meeting of members of Local 598 of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) Friday voted to engage a Toronto lawyer to contest the injunction.

The court order also prohibits counselling of breach of contract between the company and its employees, and forbids molesting or threatening any employee seeking entrance to company property.

Daring Pilot Picks up Injured Pair From Reaches of Tallest Mountain

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)— A daring bush pilot plucked an injured rancher and an Eskimo from the high reaches of North America's tallest mountain late Friday and flew them to the crash of another rescue plane.

Don Sheldon, 34, of Talkeetna, flew Mrs. Helga Bading of Anchorage and Andy Day of Central Point, Ore., here in separate flights of his single - engined plane.

Three injured men remained on Mount McKinley, where the men were hurt in a fall and Mrs. Bading became sick from the altitude late Tuesday.

Day said the other men were Canadians but not servicemen. Rescue efforts were pressed.

Mrs. Bading was picked up at the 17,000-foot level by Link Ouckett, of Anchorage, flying far above the normal ceiling of his conventional helicopter.

Sheldon made a precarious airplane landing on skis at the 16,500-foot level of the 20,300 - foot mountain and flew the injured Eskimo to Talkeetna. He used the same thing earlier to rescue Bading, 31.

Mrs. Bading flew to hospital in Anchorage. The hospital said Mrs. Bading was in good condition and would probably be released within 48 hours.

No report on Day's condition was immediately available.

William Stevenson, owner of an Anchorage excavating firm, and two employees had been reported killed when a light plane crashed and burned about 300 yards from where the injured men lay.

Market Attracts Scores of Buyers

The weekly Belleville farmers' market is getting larger as the weeks go by and the weather warms up. Today's market was no exception - as more than a dozen farmers drove in town and attracted scores of buyers.

Only change in prices was among eggs which were down a nickel across the board. Extra large sold at 45 cents a dozen, large 40 and mediums between 35 and 40.

Certified potatoes were $4.75 a 75-pound bag, while tapers were $4.

A wide variety of plants, cut flowers, vegetables and fruit was available.

Bob Blaind Resigns From Softball Post

Bob Blaind announced today that he was resigning as secretary-treasurer of the Belleville and District Softball League.

Blaind said: "I have been very busy with personal business matters and have found that I have not had as much time as I would need to handle the softball job. I had hoped before long to feel that after the incident concerning the Trenton game the other night, that would be a good time to bow out of the whole thing".

President Harry Morgan, contacted shortly after, said Blaind had notified the league of his resignation Friday night but as yet no one had been named to take over as secretary-treasurer.

Heavy Traffic Stream Passes Through City

Although a heavy stream of holiday traffic has been pouring through the city and district on highway since late Friday afternoon, the Belleville area has escaped any serious accidents up until late morning.

Provincial police reported one or two minor mishaps resulting in small property damage but no personal injuries.

In the city the report was the same with only three drunks and a few minor complaints being reported.

One mischievous character, returning home late last night - or early this morning - ripped up several tulip beds in the Great St. James and Brown Street area and tossed the tulips onto the roadway.

Three-Year-Boy Drowns In Trent River

A three year old Frankford boy, Brian Forbes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Forbes, was drowned in the Trent River at Frankford this afternoon when he fell into 10 feet of water while playing with another child.

Police said the boy, had been playing at the home of Andrew Belden, aged 6, when he fell into the river at the rear of a used car lot on the main thoroughfare in the village.

The Anglian boy ran home to tell his mother who raised the alarm.

An hour later Harry Bowman of Frankford and Frank Willis of Belleville, sponsor of the boy's body from a boat and it was recovered by Sandor Mikulik.

Artificial respiration was given for an hour under the direction of Dr. J. Beech of Frankford while a resuscitator owned by the Trenton Fire Department was also used without avail. Dr. D. McMullen of Frankford acted as coroner.

Provincial police from Belleville under the direction of Sgt. J. Lewis, investigated.

Quinte seems to be taking over again! No sooner did we get out all the trophies we won last year, dust them off and prepare ourselves to give them away again, than we won them back and more besides.

In the Lou Colling Memorial Race our own Bill Vermilyea took first place and Alex McVaugh, second. Quinte Quints did not quite succeed in a sweep, their fourth man provided relaxation for everyone and successfully humored the audience for the remainder very that gruelling day.

The commercial department has contributed some more knickknacks to our trophy case.

TAKE TEN!

At a special assembly May 18 the winners of these trophies were presented with their awards. Judy Lang and Lois Rombough each placed first in the district typewriting contest (60 wpm) and Judy Lang received trophies for their achievements. Others here the girls proceeded to the provincial competition where both were successful in their events. Judy placed in the senior division with 67.2 words per minute to capture the Smith Corona Trophy.

Judy took third place with 64.2 words per minute in the Underwood Cup.

In the option division of the district competition Loone Waite took first place to add another trophy to the trophy case.

During the assembly, Miss Ann Hamilton of the Girls' Athletic Association presented the girls' sports trophies. She was loved by everyone for her good humor and sound advice on success in business".

Mr. Jones, our esteemed instructor of history, has assured us that no one (but we) could have much to do for we shall probably be the possessors of some small insignificant country like Russia or the (Oh! Dear-) Soviet Parliament, or a very worthy organization, is sponsoring a sale of white cotton shirts and blouses to keep their shoulders cool in the summer and at the same time to maintain a school spirit.

The school crest is silk-screened in blue and grey on the pocket. The reasons for this are due to a seasonal lack of funds common to all students, but the school has always threw very weeks of study time left before the big sale and the sale has begun. Study now! Avoid the last minute rush! Don't be like me (I can) and cram your brain! You will be glad you did. (Because if you don't, oh Brother!)

THE KIWANIS BANQUET

The banquet hall was in the Kiwanis Centre. Yellow and purple daffodils, the group colors, graced the tables and the decorations followed the same yellow theme. After a smart flag parade, "The Queen" was in attendance by Rev. C. W. Coleman a very appetizing dinner was served by the ladies. A variety of tasty dishes was a welcome departure from the usual meat and the boys and fathers thoroughly enjoyed it. Then Chairman Hal Floyd introduced the "stirds" and gave the "stirds" and gave out.

A beautiful corsage was presented to Mrs. C. W. Coleman in appreciation for the help the ladies gave to the group, and certificates for 10 years excellent banquet. The chairman mentioned in his remarks that the Kiwanis was one of the older groups with a fine history to be proud of, in spite of difficult times they managed to pull through. District Chief Jack Ellis installed and Mrs. Rouse was presented with the 5 year pin. His Majesty's forces as a unit. He appealed to fathers to join the Scouting movement and presented all members are Kiwanis Boys. Scouting is a game and not too good from the Scouts' point of view. Bring, said the president of Kiwanis, welcomed the fathers and guests and thanked Floyd for arranging the banquet.

DON ALLAN, RETIRED

It was announced with regret that Don Allan is retiring as Scoutmaster, but we are not going to let him go entirely. He will serve on the group committee and has many years of Scouting experience which will be very valuable. His latest good turn was to help the place cards which were admired by everyone. He attended a Patrol Leaders' camp, complete with two tiny Scouts, a troop pennant and a Patrol Leaders' Pilate! Really Unique and wonderfully made. Many of the boys have followed his favorite pastimes. Sporting interests combine with him with the presidency of both the curling and bowling clubs. At the present time he is the honorary president of the Belleville Bowling Club. In his younger days he was also asked fathers to be group members.

DCC PHIL ALLCORN

The Commissioner in his brief, inspiring address emphasized that the Boy's Scouting motto be kept, and urged leaders to get closer to their sons and brothers. Scouting, unlike other interests is important, success in life is measured by our service to others and we should always do our best in everything we undertake. The Commissioner said He welcomed banquets because it is the opportunity to meet the members. The excuse of "I haven't time" to belong to the movement is a poor excuse. Remembering the old saying "Every minute you spend is time yet", they should make time because of the importance to the future of young men. Fathers were urged to work with the Scouts as the boys' interests objectives are ideal to apply to Cubs and Scouts. The Rev. C. W. Coleman up and did and with the personnel on hand will again form one of the best packs and troops in the district.

JUDGE DISPLAY

Doug Foley explained that in Japan cameras were prohibited in the lower classes and they practised judo as a means of defence. Four of his boys put on a remarkable exhibition, proving that size is no drawback. It was a pleasure to watch these well trained boys and their performance was a credit to themselves and their leader.

The singing of the "Vesper" brought another successful Kiwanis banquet on a close.

June Brides May Expect These Changes in Bridegroom

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK, (AP) — Note to June brides: Here's a thumbnail sketch of the changes you may expect in your bridegroom, after the wedding.

You fell in love with a gorgeous hunk of man, no doubt. What appealed to you was not only his innate charm, but also his handsome appearance. You were proud of him when you walked down the street together — his head high, his broad chest, his air of good grooming, his immaculate linen and well-pressed suit.

Well, get set for a shock. Even before the honeymoon is over you may wake up some morning to behold a fuzzy, shaggy creature yawning and scratching as he pulls on a pair of dirty dungarees and a torn T-shirt, saying:

"Gosh, it's great not to have to dress up any more. What say we go fishing, baby?"

SHOCKING REVELATION

Could this be your prince charming, your knight in shining armor?

It could be and it is, says Bill Doniger of New York, an authority on the subject. Doniger has had adult life in research on the habits and behavior of the species and origination of the human male.

Bill, husband Harry, Bill runs one of the world's largest men's sportswear firms, and in the course of his investigations of manners and appearance of men throughout the world.

"Little boys are born with a bath, a comb and a shoeshine," he says. "They hate to wash their ears, and prefer their clothes rumpled.

THE BIG CHANGE

"This continues until the age of 21 when they suddenly discovers girls. Overnight a miracle transpires. They take showers, ears without having id be bound and gagged, he experiments with his dad's razor, he puts oil on his hair and acquires a stock of cologne and deodorant.

"Now this guy keeps getting neater and neater until he gets married. After that he reverts to his basic nature and gets sloppier and sloppier until he gets 65 years. His wife starts producing babies and they move to the country, where she joins him in his downward movement. She wears blue jeans and his old shirts. He wears anything he can find out of the attic.

"Then in his middle - 30s the guy suddenly takes a look at himself and screams. He also takes a look at his wife and mutters to himself: 'Where did she come from?' At this point he seeks psychiatric help, and proceeds to get

Talented Elder Sister Gave La Fleche's Singing a Boost

By GERRY LA FONTAINE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—Georges La Fleche admits that having a talented elder sister gave his singing career a boost, but the ultimate result is that people expect him to be as good as she.

"As Gisele MacKenzie's brother I was able to get a lot of introductions that otherwise might have been very difficult," Georges said in an interview.

"But directors and producers also expect me to have Gisele's talent.

"She is a wonderful performer, in my humble opinion, but she also has been in show business for 25 years. Really I'm just starting."

At 21 Georges has behind him a string of successes—and one notable flop — in radio, drama, night club work and television.

FIRST TV SHOW

Three years ago, Georges said, he was invited to be a guest singer on Billy O'Connor's CBC television network show. The invitation came partly, at least, because he is Gisele's brother.

"It was too happy about that performance," he said. "I think I was too inexperienced. It was the first time I had ever seen a television camera.

"Frankly, I flopped.

"One good thing came from that show, though. When I came back to Winnipeg I was able to get an audition here on the strength of the guest shot in Toronto."

Georges is the first son and fourth of five children of a physician in adjacent St. Boniface. Largely at the insistence of their mother, all the children received musical training on the piano and one other instrument.

TALENTED REPRISING

The three young sons of his eldest sister, Huguette, have appeared as guest on Georges' half-hour CBC Television network show, Stage Door.

Janine, Gisele's younger sister, sang and accompanied herself on the piano during the dinner hour at a Winnipeg night club where Georges performed for seven weeks this spring.

The youngest of the family, 17-year-old Claude, is an arts student at University of Manitoba. But Georges said he has exceptional talent as a singer and a flutist.

Georges attended St. Boniface college and enrolled at University of Manitoba in an arts course but quit to become a staff announcer at St. Boniface's French - language radio station CKSB.

WORKED IN QUEBEC

After three years he moved to Montreal where he worked for six months at another French-language station, CKVL. From there he moved on to Quebec City where he worked at the French and English - language television stations — CFCM-TV and CKMI-TV.

In 1957 he returned to Winnipeg.

His talent as a relaxed master of ceremonies and as a singer became apparent to a wider audience last fall when the CBC brought the program on its national network. Eleven more were seen this winter.

Georges returned to Toronto for guest appearances on two network shows early in May. Toronto has an appeal, he said, but he hopes to stay in Winnipeg at least a few more years.

He also has a regular radio show in which he acts as master of ceremonies and sings.

London Little Theatre Wins Warm Reception

By PETER BUCKLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — London, Ont., Little Theatre got a warm welcome Friday night for its Dominion Drama Festival entry of Charles Characters in-Search of an Author.

But adjudicator Philip Hope-Wallace was merciless when it came to the new adaptation of the modern classic that tor troupe used.

Tyrone Guthrie, noted British director, and Robert Weaver adapted the Luigi Pirandello tragi-play so that, said Mr. Hope-Wallace, "we haven't seen Pirandello tonight, but 20 players in search of-Tony Guthrie."

"He's a chef, a cook of genius who has been serving up wonderful food for a long time—surprises one after the other . . . Now he's passed the cook on to drunk on the cooking sherry.

"And you feel there is essentially a backstage farce, interrupted from time to time by melodrama."

GOOD PERFORMANCE

The adjudicator, music and drama critic for the Guardian in Manchester, was kinder about the performances. "They did it absolutely splendidly."

A near-capacity audience of 2,700 saw the presentation.

A matinee performance today by the University of Sudbury of Doune Hommes en Colere — translation of Reginald Rose's Twelve Angry Men—and an evening presentation of William Inge's Come Back Little Sheba by Montcine Hat Civic Theatre wind up the festival.

Air Service Would Not Hurt Railways

By DON HARVEY

The East Central Ontario Airport Committee's cause was further gratified this week when it received the moral backing of Toronto planning consultant A. Vanchieriti.

The seven-man committee, set up by Deseronto Chamber of Commerce, is working toward the establishment of a central civilian airport within a 40-mile radius of Belleville.

Mr. Vanchieriti met with the committee over dinner and discussed the merits of a civilian airport in the Quinte district. He was convinced the project would benefit the district and foresaw industrial growth as a result.

I asked his opinion about whether the presence of a civilian airport offering airline feeder service to larger cities would hurt Belleville's present position as a railway division point. He did not think so. After all, he pointed out, rail transportation still has some advantages over air travel. The feeder service would not replace the railways. In fact, it might even increase business for the railways. Look at this way. More and more companies today look upon the availability of air travel as an attraction for locating branch factories. The type of aircraft that would use our airport primarily would be passenger carriers, not freighters. Although aircraft could be responsible in part for transporting highly paid executives whose time means money, manufacturing companies would have to be transported by rail.

Mr. Vanchieriti mentioned one large American company that installed a Canadian branch at Toronto mainly because air - and rail - service was readily available. Such a company considered locating in a much smaller community, providing air transportation was available.

I think there are possibilities of attracting industries like that to the Quinte district if an airport is established. Big companies seem to prefer locations in smaller places for a number of reasons. We in the Quinte district are overdue for industrial expansion. Progress has passed by many of our towns. A civilian airport might just be the stick of dynamite we need to touch off that expansion. Remember this: the Quinte district is very favorably located. A spanking new expressway cuts through the district and we are not far from the St. Lawrence Seaway. In addition, Belleville is a railway division point and there is no real shortage of land for industrial expansion.

I do not know of any community that has not felt the benefits of an airport. Look around the Quinte district and see the places which are developing airports.

If you are in favor of or opposed to establishing an airport in the Quinte district, please drop me a short note and, if you wish, include some reasons and suggestions. Remember, the airport committee has no axe to grind. Its objective is to find out what will be beneficial to the whole district. The investigations so far have borne out this belief.

LESS VITRIOLIC

The 66-year-old Soviet leader spoke twice before in public during his stay of less than two days in the Czechlish half of this divided city. Both times his words were soothing, despite violent attacks on President Eisenhower and Konrad Adenauer, the West German chancellor.

He told East German Communists Friday that things will have to stay as they are, as far as Berlin and Germany as a whole are concerned, for the next six or eight months.

Then he will be ready for a new summit conference. Whether that newly elected leaders are president will also be ready is a question he did not discuss publicly.

There was no mention whatever of Khrushchev's fairly subdued and apathetically delivered address of an apology from the United States for the spy plane incident and punishment of those responsible as prerequisites for another Soviet conference.

THE PICTURE TODAY

This is how the picture of the Soviet manoeuvering is beginning to shape up now to American sources here:

The Russians saw no possibility of significant concessions from the West at the summit on the West Berlin and German questions. They ran the risk of a showdown with the — unless they wanted the most dangerous crises to develop—the Russians would have to backtrack.

For Khrushchev, the spy plane incident probably was a piece of good luck. It gave him the excuse for blowing up the summit conference and avoiding the unpleasant aspects of a showdown in Paris, which could have precipitated serious repercussions for Khrushchev in his own political backyard.

But by exploding the summit, the Communists created a new feeling of cold war tension in the Western world. Moscow now understands to suffer propaganda setbacks as a result.

COEXISTENCE DOWN DRAIN

Khrushchev, having probably fulfilled the Stalinist and Chinese Communists and whatever other forces have been exerting pressure on him, his own position now must take a look at the "peaceful and competitive coexistence" and executed peaceful coexistence. The Communists had hoped to accomplish much in this campaign by way of diplomatic and propaganda words and weakening the resistance.

Pressure on West Berlin at this moment would only heighten the feeling of the free world's artists and stiffen the back of the West. Moscow obviously wants to avoid shoulder the blame. So Khrushchev has to link West Berlin Communists empty - handed and tell them they had no choice but to mark time.

Truck Accident Claims Life of Allan Bailey

MARMORA (Special) — A 22-year-old truck driver for Armstrong Construction Co., Allan Bailey, was fatally injured early this morning when the Zenith truck he was driving turned over on a stock pile in the construction company yards, about two miles south of Marmora.

Mr. Bailey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bailey, of Marmora, was trapped in the truck when it overturned. The accident occurred between 8 and 9 a.m. today.

He was rushed to Civic Hospital, Peterborough, by Howden ambulance, but was pronounced dead on arrival.

The injured man was attended at the scene of the accident by Dr. T. F. McCarthy and Dr. H. Parkin, of Marmora.

Mr. Bailey had been employed with Armstrong Construction Company for the past three years.

His eldest sister, Mrs. Stockier, was killed in an automobile accident approximately 10 years ago.

Kennedy Sweeps Oregon Primary For 7th Victory

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic presidential nomination campaign reached its climax at the stage today after the sweeping victory by Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts in Friday's Oregon primary.

Kennedy filed a first-mortgage claim on his party's nomination. It was his seventh straight triumph in the primaries.

But it remained obvious that he has not yet captured enough votes to foreclose the bids of his chief remaining rivals, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri.

Nor could Kennedy assume he had disposed of the possibility that Adlai E. Stevenson, twice the party nominee, might capture the nomination again.

With Oregon's 17 convention votes, Kennedy's publicly recorded total of pledged votes rose to 378½ of the 761 needed.

Johnson's total remained number-tiered among those chosen delegates who remain publicly uncommitted and those not yet selected, he still would be short of the ball-bearing victory.

So for the period of less than two weeks, the campaign now up to July 11, when the convention opens in Los Angeles, the infighting is likely to be some of the bitterest ever witnessed.

His unbroken string of primary victories puts Kennedy in erdue and launched an air-sea search of the Baltic area.

Both President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Khrushchev made public reference to the missing plane at about the same time.

Eisenhower, flying back from the Paris summit conference shattered by the U-2 case, was told the missing C-47 just half an hour before he landed in Washington.

"We do not know that any debilbeen act" caused it to vanish, he told Washington reporters on arrival. "But we cannot be sure the worst not happened."

At about that time, Khrushchev, discussing the U-2 incident before an East German audience, ominously referred to American planes flying over Soviet territory as "pirate aircraft."

East Germany's official news media said nothing until midnight when the East Berlin radio confirmed the landing in a terse announcement.

A spokesman at a U.S. Air Force headquarters here said the plane, stationed at a base in Libya, had been on a "morale flight."

"Once during their two-year tour in North Africa, airmen and their dependents are flown by the air force to the Continent to see what we call a morale flight," he said. "Normally they go to Italy, France of Germany. I believe this is the first time they flew to Scandinavia."

OTTAWA (CP) — The landing of a U.S. Air Force transport plane in East Germany "sounds like a legitimate misadventure," an external affairs department official said Friday.

The official, who declined to be identified, said it appeared likely that the plane lost its course.

"It sounds like a legitimate misadventure, and let's hope the Russians regard it in that way," he said.

A position to say that he has the grassroots support of members of his party, that he has been campaigning hard to get votes in areas where it counts.

Kennedy can contend, moreover, that he has disposed in West Virginia of the issue of his Roman Catholic religion.

He can assert that his record on his public service has been approved by Democrats in the east, the midwest and the far west. He can even contend, on the basis of scattered support, that he would be acceptable to potentially rebellious southern delegates.

Kennedy can be counted upon to use every one of these weapons in an attempt to bowl over the opposition for an almost-necessary first-ballot nomination.

Planning Board Holds Informal Topical Meet

TRENTON — The Trenton and Suburban Planning Board held what Saturday evening to a number of Trenton citizens in an informal meeting.

Present at the meeting and leading the informal discussion on planning was John Pierson of the Ontario Department of Planning and Development.

Mr. Pierson said community planning was essential, but that any board must find the most democratic approach to present it to the public as a whole.

He said one or more meetings should be held, to which 50 people will make decisions in the community should be held. Board members should attempt to give this group an objective picture of planning. Following these informal meetings, a general meeting could be held.

Grant Gooding, a member of the board, said that the benefit any further meetings should be open to the public.

General opinion at present expressed the opinion that it would be better to hold the smaller, more informal meetings first in order to assess the representative's attitude to ward planning.

Mr. Gooding continued his argument by saying that he wondered if the general public might not feel that it was being "pressurized" into planning by having this "select" group only attend the meetings.

Mr. Pierson said that if the people did not attend the smaller meetings were selected on the basis of leadership, that the general public would be well represented because the leadership in any community was basically sound and positive in its approach to a situation.

Members of the group decided that the first informal meeting would be held in September or October.

Odd Accident

TRENTON — Shortly before 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the lead car on a large truck transport struck a cement hydro pole in front of the Canadian Brothers Garage on Dundas Street West in Trenton, knocking the pole and the fluorescent light suspended by the pole onto the garage lot.

The transport driver swung out from Hotston Street to the wide arc to avoid hitting cars parked on the light to change at the intersection.

There were no injuries.

Following the addresses of the guest speakers, the annual election of officers of the club was held.

Mrs. Jenny Wills was returned for a second term as president. Other members of the executive elected were Miss Marion Baker, program chairman; Mrs. Retiha McCrodan, ways and means convener; Miss Alice Wilson, emblem convener; Mrs. Elsie Westfall, publicity; Miss Clarabelle Allison, social; Miss Rhoda London, membership convener; Mrs. Gertrude Crouch-man, telephone convener; Miss Ruth Shiles, cards and flowers convener.

Opportunity Class Proves Successful

TRENTON— Miss Laura Harrison, teacher at the Opportunity Class, Trenton Public Training school, was the guest speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Trenton and District Association for Retarded Children on Wednesday.

Miss Harrison said that this "experimental" class in Trenton had proved to be most successful. Several children have benefited from the program and to the extent where they have been returned to their normal classes.

Attendance had been exceptionally good, whereas last year it had been poor when the children were in regular classes.

John Turner, president of the association, announced that $1,000 had been realized from a recent dance.

Early in June the association will hold "Open House" at the Opportunity Class premises in North Trenton school. Parents and friends will be able to see what the children have accomplished during the school term.

Mrs. K. J. Reid reported on a recent association conference in Hamilton.

Are Prisons Too Posh?

We note by several recent articles and news stories in both weekly and daily publications that there is an increasing sympathy on the part of judges and prosecuting attorneys towards heavier sentences for those persons appearing in court who have criminal records rather than trying to give them "another chance" with a light or a suspended sentence.

This has always been a moot point amongst those concerned with the problem of law enforcement and administration. Are the best results achieved through being tough with lawbreakers or by handling them with kid-gloves, so to speak? Is the present penitentiary program going too easy on criminals or is it actually reforming them?

Figures show that the largest number of "repeaters" have been to prison on one or more occasions. They also show that the chances of a first offender being rehabilitated through a suspended sentence or probation are quite good. Apparently the answer to efficient use of our penitentiary system lies in a combination of justice tempered by mercy in some cases with justice tempered by hard facts in others.

There has been much done to "improve" the conditions of the federal prisons so that prisoners will not feel they are forgotten or being harshly treated by society. There are many material benefits and comforts awaiting the prisoner upon being admitted to prison so long as he is sensible enough to keep his nose clean. In fact in many instances these benefits are superior to those which the prisoner might find available to him at home.

The point is that certainly justify the actions of one offender who, on being convicted of an offence and sentenced to an under two-year term in the provincial reformatory, confessed to several more crimes in order to have his sentence increased so that he would automatically be sent to a federal prison.

In a short conversation this young hoodlum frankly admitted that he had no desire to return to the provincial reformatory, where he had been before, because life was "too tough" there but he desired to get into a federal penitentiary since it was an acknowledged fact amongst his social set that therein life was pretty comfortable.

The question that is begged is whether modern penitentiaries are performing the duty which society expects from them in their apparent current form. Or are they an extra expensive necessity where those who have committed crimes against their society are in a place where they never had it so good at the further expense of society.

If prison is such a pleasant experience we cannot see where it is going to do little more than provide a soft cushion for hardened criminals to fall back upon if they get caught in the commission of a crime. We certainly do not feel that a prison should be a happy haven for unsuccessful thugs and hoodlums who will emerge no more penitent, although somewhat better fed, than when they entered.

This can only encourage crime, not deter or prevent it.

Pumping Gas

In an address the other day a Mr. K. W. Walter, geographic adviser to Imperial Oil, presented an argument against the wisdom of allowing municipal bodies to determine the number of or the location of service stations within their communities. The speaker presented an interesting case for the oil companies inasmuch as they may be considered experts in determining the best locations for service stations according to traffic surveys, information and experience.

There were also a few figures which went along with this speech. The most noteworthy of these, we felt, was the breakdown of street traffic composition around service stations. This was stated to be 90 per cent provincial cars, nine-per cent light trucks and two per cent out-of-province cars. In our books this adds up to 101 per cent.

Perhaps the oil companies would show us how to put five gas stations on four corners in order to handle this business.

A BOOK OF PROMISES

People very often miss the fact that the Bible is a book of promises.

The Bible is divided into two parts, the Old Testament and the New Testament. The word testament means "covenant" or "promise." So the Old Testament is the promise made to the Israelites that the Messiah would come, and the New Testament is the promise made to the world that though this Messiah was rejected by the Jews, yet He would come again and the New Testament is the promise made to the world that though this Messiah was experience the forgiveness of sins and the power of a new life.

These are the great promises of the Bible. But there are hundreds of other promises made. There are the promises of comfort in sorrow, of victory over temptation, of the eventual triumph of peace over human strife. The Bible bids us hope for better things. God is pictured as saying to give — more eager is fact than we are to ask or to receive. Everywhere in the pages of the Bible has some great promise in it by which the heart of man is comforted.

It is for this reason that because the Bible is a book we cherished the Bible. It is the most hopeful and optimistic of all mysteries of human life, although it is also unbelievably realistic. The fact that so many people whose minds are becoming heavy with sorrow should know so little about this Book which fairly bristles with promises of help, is a tragedy of the first magnitude.

Spring Visit to England A Rewarding Experience

By G. A. MORTON

ARTICLE 3

During our visit to London two events of considerable news importance took place—the visit of General deGaulle early in April and the visit of the Prince of Wales in May. The metropolitan press really went to town on both occasions, whipping up interest with vivid descriptions of preparations for the reception of the famous French visitor, and, particularly, the plans for the wedding.

Perhaps, we should tell of this first. Much was made of the day in the early hours of one royal family after another on the Continent sending their regrets at being unable to attend. Reasons chiefly were engagements made earlier and which they felt could not be altered. We thought the rebuffs stemmed from the fact that Tom Armstrong-Jones was a commoner. Whether or not does them an injustice, but the reasons given were rather flimsy for there are but many functions that cannot be postponed for one or two days in the royal social notice. However, only one member of a royal family attended and she was the Danish princess on a visit.

The only decorations of any consequence that we saw were on The Mall, which is the "Fifth Avenue" of London. It runs between Queen Victoria memorial statue immediately in front of Buckingham Palace to Admiralty Arch then into Trafalgar Square and the Strand, one of London's famous business streets, a distance of about a mile and a half. On the south side is St. James' Park, which is one of a number of park system containing the Palace Gardens and Regent Park. Then, immediately to the left, containing three other royal residences, Marlborough House, St. James' Palace and Marlborough House.

BEAUTIFUL AVENUE

The Mall is a beautiful avenue lined with trees, wide boulevards and grass areas and a wide roadway of bare earth along the curb to the centre. It is the mecca of all the great parades of the city take place. It is needless to add that the light standards line the roadway and from arms stretching horizontally from the top of the light standards line the roadway and from arms stretching horizontally from the top of the light standards line the roadway and from arms stretching horizontally from the top of

Complete Bible Printed in 219 Languages

The complete Bible has now been printed in 219 languages and at least one book of the Bible has been issued in 1,181 languages. The Scriptures were published in 15 new languages last year and have been circulated in the languages spoken by 95 per cent of the people of the world.

In lands of greatest missionary need, where the Bible Society is the sole source of Scriptures supply, only one volume for each 190 people is distributed annually. World population grows by 42,000,000 a year, according to a United Nations estimate, but the Bible societies are not distributing even 20,000,000 volumes a year. India has a literate population over 15 years old of about 150,000,000. The Foreign Language Publishing House in Moscow is said to be pumping into India more than 4,000,000 subsidized books a year but the Bible Society distributed only some 1,250,000 copies of the Scriptures in India in 1959.

Western technology is creating a new framework of life for Asia and Africa today. This change is essential for the material well-being of millions of people, but it often produces a spiritual vacuum. There is abundant evidence that in lands like India and Japan Christians who have no contact with any church are seriously studying the Christian Gospel. As the Gospel slowly seeps into the hearts of millions of people in Africa, Asia and Latin America it is gradually building a new spiritual foundations. There is an opportunity now for Scripture distribution which may no longer be there in five years time.

Because Scriptures produced by The British and Foreign Bible Society are usually by far below cost and often given free there is an annual gap of some $1,375,000 between receipts from sales and the cost of translating, printing and distributing the Scriptures. Last year the Canadian Bible Society, Auxiliary of The British and Foreign Bible Society, sent more than $450,000 to help bridge this gap.

At the annual meeting Dr. Platt paid tribute to Canada for this contribution and stressed the increasing role played by Canada, Australia and New Zealand in world-wide Bible Society work. The increased production called for by the present world situation will be impossible without increased contributions. The Canadian Bible Society's 1960 objective of $750,000 for world work is high, but Canada is a wealthy country and the need is great.

The Bellerville Branch of the Society is holding its annual meeting Sunday at 8.45 p.m. in the parish hall of St. Thomas' Anglican Church when the speaker will be the district secretary, the Rev. C. R. Rudd, who will also show a colour motion picture entitled "The Potter's Wheel."

The annual drive for funds in Belleville will begin the following week under the leadership of the local executive, of which the Rev. R. D. Macfee is president.

Belleville did well last year and nearly $1,200 was raised which was an increase of $500 over the previous year.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

The Tattler

What a pity it is to earn for oneself the nickname of "The Tattler"! However, a whole community of assorted creatures is constantly produced with such ease. Robins, magbirds, and several other members of Birdland make splendid sentinels, kicking up a fuss and a rumpus at the approach of suspected danger that all birds and animals within a mile or more are alerted, and "freeze". The above birds known as yellow-legs have the trait to a high degree, the greater yellow-legs being dubbed "The tattler" or "tell-tale" by hunters.

GREAT TRAVELLERS

These long-legged waders are great travellers. The majority have spent the winter in the West Indies, Mexico, Central America, or anywhere in South America as far down as the Argentine, and as far up as the Strait of Magellan; but some have stayed in the northern U. S. In the month of May many congregate at Cape Hatteras on the eastern coast, where a veritable low, grassy pond. Thence the greater yellow-legs journey with other shore birds, and guard the nesting assembly of perhaps 2,000 or more by watching out for trouble and giving the alarm. Their cry is the same tattler's cry and fly about in circles.

Before the end of May the greater yellow-legs are on their way to their breeding grounds, scattered across Canada and Labrador to southern Alaska, while a few remain north as far as to southern B.C. When in flight, they have a lilting song and tell helps identification; on the beach the long, yellow legs and long, slightly-curved bill are distinguishing marks. The plumage of back and wings is much like sandpipers in general — a white bird with brown clocks.

HEAD SOUTH EARLY

The nest is in or near a wet, boggy stretch of tundra or muskeg. A small nest with a dent in the middle is chosen as a safe spot for the four, dark marked eggs. The young are able to fend for themselves very soon after hatch, so that the adults are usually start south again unusually early, even before the end of July.

Nevertheless, it is possible to see yellow-legs any time from then until as late as early November, the latter ones having to defer migration until they are sufficiently feathered and strong enough for the long flight. The best place to look for them is on a good-sized pond where there can wade in up to the tops of their legs, so that the adults easily start south again unusually early, even before the end of July.

A Lift for Living

Justice Key to Other Virtues

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

One of the first qualities in a normal child to which the parent or teacher can appeal is a sense of fairness. Be fair. Play fairly. Justice is the foundation "on which other virtues rest.

No social relationship is safe without a foundation of justice. Consider the home. At marriage a husband and wife may feel themselves so romantically in love that questions about the just and equitable arrangement of duties and property may seem unnecessary to consider. But their love is not likely to remain on that high level unless it is founded on fairness and equity.

Or when a parent tries to be generous without first being just he is likely to demoralize the character of his children, in a dastardly fashion. Kidnapped several years ago, reference was made in the fact that one of the criminals was a son of wealthy parents who had spoiled by easy money in his youth. It is unwise to children that money should be poured out to gratify their every whim.

Think of our philanthropies. When we divorce charity from justice, it demoralizes the recipient without remedying the causes of the distresses.

Now granted that justice is basic to all good deeds, what is it to be just? Justice may be defined as the giving to every man his due. But what is a man's due? A just man may be described as one who habitually respects the rights of others. But what are those rights?

MORE THAN LAW

It must be admitted that a man has more rights than he ever claims, and justice is a wider concept than law. Take a single illustration. The law will protect the person who steals your purse but not one who robs you of your good name by gossip and insinuation unless he does it in some public or spectacular way. Conscience will penalize the neighbor who poisons your dog but not the one who poisons your boy's mind with filthy stories and twisted ideals. Yes, justice outruns the reach of law. We can't pass laws to make people just.

And how about our rights? We Americans hold that there are certain inalienable rights, among them life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Yonder is a bright, energetic boy. Certainly he has a right to develop his life and pursue his happiness. But in the race of life there are other boys, equally earnest and energetic but less brilliant. He is a ten-talent lad; they are one-talent or two-talent lads. There are also those lads who through no fault of their own are handicapped with crippled bodies, impaired health, or social barriers.

Now if the bright ten-talented boy dashes ahead and gets the inside track in the race, what happens to the less talented? (I am assuming that you are sufficiently familiar with horse races to understand what I mean by the inside track.) The lads with less talent not only cannot match the brilliant lad's speed, but they have to run farther because he has the best position. It is not just to the brilliant runners to hold them back from their best efforts. Nor is it just to the less talented that they should be compelled to the outside.

AN EQUAL CHANCE

Justice requires that the rules of running should be planned after the track meet rather than before the race. For the athletes the course are so marked that all competitors run the same distance whether they are on the inside or the outside.

Justice is symbolized on courthouses as a blindfolded woman with scales in her hand. The implication is that justice is the weighing of the facts in hand with an impartiality which might be lost if we could see the parties involved. But such a portrayal is hardly adequate.

If we would weigh a situation justly we must look behind the face of the facts to the background of those involved. The delinquent boy from the city slum should not be judged on quite the same basis as the lad who has had every advantage. A school or teacher should make allowance for nervous temperaments and shy little lads who do not lik themselves justice. Thus only can we arrive at a just decision. We need Christ's divine insight to exercise justice to God's children.

HULL — CALCUTT

St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Belleville, was the setting on Saturday, May 14 at 2.00 p.m. for a very pretty spring wedding, when Linda Jean Calcutt, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Calcutt, became the bride of Lawrence Albert Hull, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hull, of Belleville. The Reverend Canon A. S. McConnell, rector of the church, officiated before a lovely background of white Calla lilies, snapdragons and chrysanthemums.

Mr. Donald Davenport, church organist, and brother-in-law of the bridegroom, rendered the traditional wedding music.

The floor-length skirt was gracefully full. Her finger-tip veil of silk illusion was held by a lace crown-style headdress encrusted with seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of red roses and white stephanotis tied with white satin ribbon.

Miss Carol Fisher, of Belleville, as maid of honor, was gowned in turquoise blue taffeta with white picture hat, white accessories, and cascade of pastel mums.

The bride's maids, Miss Gloria Steward, of Belleville, and Miss Donna Sweet, of Belleville, cousin of the bride, were gowned in blue chiffon and pink chiffon, respectively. They wore white picture hats, white accessories, and carried cascades bouquets of pastel-tinted mums.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Jack Hull, of Woodstock, Ontario, while Messrs. Donald Raycroft, and James Graham, both of Belleville, ushered the guests.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held at Club Caravan, where the guests were received by the bride's mother, who wore a gown of beige silk jersey, dynamic endeavor. Every with matching chiffon duster, beige accessories, and corsage of red roses.

The bride's table was daintily appointed with white damask, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake topped by a tiny bride and bridegroom beneath an arch of white roses, and clouds about the base with pink tulle. Tall, pink candles in silver holders, and the bridal bouquets completed the nuptial setting.

For travelling to Niagara Falls and Buffalo, the bride wore a beige linen dress, beige wool coat, and green accessories, with corsage of red roses.

Guests were present from Toronto, Belleville, Brighton, Point Anne, and Trenton.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained at a shower given by the Bell Telephone Company, of which she is an employee.

Quintena Rebekah Lodge Marks Forty-Seventh Anniversary

Not many ladies will admit their age, but Tuesday night Quintena Rebekah Lodge proudly celebrated her 47th birthday with a gala banquet in the Odd Fellows Hall.

Lodge was opened in regular form with Sisters Verna Summers N.G. and Ella Addy V.G. in their respective chairs. Visitors were welcomed from Picton, Belleville, Parham, following which four Charter Members — Sisters Mary Ann Hall, P.D.D.P., Helen Blair, Cecilia Briens and Annie McKee were escorted to the centre of the floor through the Guard of Honor in pink and blue and presented with red carnations by Sisters Eva Addy, Ella Hall and Maysill Sills; then introduced by Sister Eva Judge P.N.G. and seated at the right of the hall. All the Past Guards present were also called up and welcomed, each receiving a corsage from the Noble Grand.

Also, all those initiated during the past year were presented with red carnations and welcomed to their first birthday in Quintena Lunch Lodge.

JEWELS PRESENTED

Business was attended to, after which Sister Georgina Charlton, N.G. of 15 years ago, presented a mother, Sister Ida Hall and daughter, Sister Ida Stanfield with their 15 year jewel.

Sister Phyllis Burley P.D.D.P. also living with 15 of 18 years ago, presented Sisters Helen Miller P.D.D.P. and Jean Hall with their 15 year jewels. Each charter member was presented with gift by Sister Summers. N.G. from Lodge, for which they expressed their thanks and spoke briefly of the changes since this Lodge received its Charter.

Sister Verna Summers N.G. was thanked by all for the lovely corsages which she had presented to the officers and Guard of Honor.

After closing Lodge, a lovely and informative pantomime describing the beginnings and growth of Rebekah Lodges all over the world, was presented under the able direction of Sister Mary Plumpton P.G. The narrator was Sister Georgina Charlton P.G. The lights were dimmed and the spotlight took over highlighting each character as she entered the Hall.

THREE LINKS

First came the Three Links, followed by Rebekah herself, then the four Emblems, all in lovely colors. As these took their places, the lovely voice of Sister Dorothy Webber rose in the lovely song, "As Some Lily Fair". After these came the American Flag, followed by Iowa, New York and Nevada, all telling of their birth and growth as they stood under their flag.

The Union Jack then entered, and as each province of Canada took its place it, too, stood under the flag. Both flag bearers stood at attention as the other countries of the world entered and continued with the story of the growth of Rebekahhood in all parts of the world, and each character was dressed to represent her country. As each one finished speaking, she took her place on the floor and all formed the letter "R". As the last character finished, Quintena entered with her flag to complete the "R" then all stood and joined in softly singing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds". As the last strains of this beautiful old hymn died away, all rose and led by the Noble Grand marched out in formation.

THE STORY PORTRAYED

Following the pantomime, all retired to the upper hall where refreshments were served and spread. The head table, backed by basket of pink carnations and centred by the beautiful birthday cake, representing the Bible story of "Rebekah at the well, complete with tiny water buckets and Rebekah standing beside the well. The floral arrangements were pansies, and the table cloth was topped with a spray of pansies. The cake was presented by Sister Ann Gerow P.N. and the pansies were also made and given to the ladies present by Sister Verna Summers N.G.

Sister Ella Addy was celebrating her birthday, the anniversary, and also the receiving of her 25 year jewel. She presented her with a beautiful corsage from the lodge members.

Also, all those initiated during the past year were presented with red carnations and welcomed to their first birthday in Quintena Lunch Lodge.

All Children Need Praise

By ALMA MASON

There are many varieties of praise. Praise is often born of weak flattery. Praise can be closely allied with vanity, particularly when it is administered in the presence of others to one's children. It can be linked up with a desire to extract gain; it can serve as a mask to hide jealousy; it can often pave a deadly road to degradation and shame. One would say that these types of praise are not praise at all in a real and true sense of the term. Flattery is shallow and meaningless, like twisted and mangled out of its steadfast original shape is another thing altogether.

Growing children need praise linked with love, praise related to faith and belief; praise endowed with a keen desire to enhance and foster achievement and worth while desires. They thrive and grow on praise for the tasks of growing up confronting them! Of course, this would be impossible. However, a magic, restorative power for youth is daily at our fingertips. Praise, received with, done, for ambitions reached for and attained can ease our burdens and lift and lead the young within the radius of our care and attention.

LACKED DISCIPLINE

One mother was fortunate enough to have six promising sons. She possessed a sweet and sympathetic disposition. She was endowed with a keen and broad continuity. However, her sympathy and her praise were not always paving the hard weakness. She sympathized too much, and praised too generously disciplined them seldom; she did not stress the importance of becoming strong in nobility of character; of placing their feet firmly on the path of right living, less, dynamic endeavor. Every son acted upon impulse and was fast as possible and entered the business world intent on making money quickly and easily and by the wayside.

Walter Ravenshinbush once said, "To break down a man's sense of his own worth murders him as surely as faith in his higher possibilities unmans him and robs a new birth."

The genius of Edison can, in part, be attributed to the praise his mother so lavishly bestowed on him. Edison's mother was a woman of very strong character. She was a person of keen and firm disciplinarian. She believed in praise when praise was due, without allowing her heart to cloud her very clear and sound judgment.

Edison's teachers pronounced him stupid, that he would probably not be worthwhile to keep him in school. His mother firmly believed in his genius. She felt he had something outstanding in him and that it was contributed to the world. She told his teachers they were wrong. She carefully championed him and encouraged him.

She and she alone saw the divine spark flickering in the heart and mind of a potential inventor. Edison determined that he must live up to his mother's steadfast praise; showing them that we believe in their potential abilities and the subsequent development of them, will drop a glowing fruitful seed of beauty in our own lives. As they grow strong in purpose, godly and far reaching in endeavor, they will stand in the limelight of their fulfilled purpose, proud that we had a part in their growth that reached out to nobility of character and dominion place in the world of men and in the sun of God's love.

Words of hope truly said, will lift up a head

Bowed down with trouble and sorrow,

For the kind things we say will brighten today

And bring out the sunshine tomorrow.

A brisk pat on the back when the clouds turn black,

Will give them a lift with the load;

For it's better by far to point to a star

Than to count every rut in the road.

The true faith that we send; the love that we lend;

Will creep back and glimmer and glow

And fill every part of a warm human heart,

And transform it with beauty divine.

Christ Church Chi Rho Tries Bowling

Wednesday evening saw the Christ Church Chi Rho out in full force at the Bowl-O-Drome to try their luck at the popular indoor sport.

In the two game parlay, the high scorers were as follows: high men's double, Art Kellar, 393; high men's single, Bill Hairs, 228; high ladies' double, Eleanor Bulcock, 291; high ladies' single, Eleanor Butcher, 212. The clattering of the pins subsided as the bowlers adjourned to the church hall for tea and refreshments.

On the agenda for business was the sale of pictorial plates to the congregation. Members of the group has sold ten dozen and were receiving and ordering for the sale of another ten dozen. The gold-edged highly glazed plate features an exciting full color reproduction of Christ Church in attractive ceramic color. The project, less than a month old, has received tremendous response from the congregation. Also so sharing the spotlight for interest was the introduction of the group's proposed constitution, and, as always when every group gets out an active member wants to get his or her two cents worth in writing "Articles of the rules," received lively consideration. "There's no room for more fun before it is passed through and ready for the future," commented one of the group.

After such physical and verbal exertion, the group brought their second wind over raisin bread and coffee.

The next meeting will come following a little mission work consisting of the old folks' home on the Trent Road, a week hence.

The couples from the group and a guest performer put on an evening of entertainment for the residents and officials of the home. Ken Stapley, accompanied by Mrs. Stapley on the guitar, sang several western hits, was followed by Mrs. Ken Mackenzie, a demonstration of square dancing. The program concluded with a reading chosen for which all took part with Marg Hall and Ida attending will be made welcome.

Travellers Just Swallow Pride And Take These Tips on Tipping

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

Our recent piece on tip techtique has brought the predictable barrage of letters. Some, as usual, object to the whole principle of tipping and like that, also as usual, ask how much to tip in given situations.

Before we answer some of those, we'd like to go on record once more about where we stand on tipping: Like everyone else, we tip whether we like it or not.

Tipping is here to stay. It probably will never be outlawed and if it is, the law will be violated as cheerfully as prohibition; nobody but the waiters and bellhops would like to see it outlawed.

Many Belleville people have a handsome living and the rest a living, anyway, out of it. The hotel, restaurant and other travel-oriented industries are not going to vanish from the face of overhead by banning it. The proof is the very fact we have tried to so far.

For courageous travellers to conduct single-handed campaigns against this custom will lead them not to victory but only into embarrassment and bad service. Remember the Boston Tea Party!"

— Miss J.S., Papillion, Nebr.

(A) June does bring frequent weddings. Right here there should be enough warm sunshine between the nuptial vows to dry all you'll see at Cape Canaveral will be melted. Orange blossoms will be draped like roses on the highway.

(Q) "We are planning to drive to California with a five-boy-ten foot rented trailer, about 1,000 lbs., but friends have advised against it. What do you think?" — Mr. and Mrs. T.R., Woodbury, N.J.

(A) If you can possibly do without it and you have no experience with trailers, take these advice. It will slow you down and make for many packing and unpacking problems you don't need anticipate now. Since there are only two of you, why not load up the back seat and trunk instead? Safer, too.

TOBACCO'S ROAD

"The secret of success is constancy of purpose."—Disraeli, 1870.

"Cigars have never been more popular than they are today." So claims Mr. Donald Thomas, proprietor of Ed Thomas Tobacco Store on Front Street in Belleville, who explains:

"In the twenties, cigars were in great favor. The depression in the thirties lessened the demand; and World War Two in the forties lessened the supply. Now, however, the supply, selection and demand are excellent. Many smokers have never had it so good."

Men the world over have smoked cigars "Among them was the Czar of Russia," claimed a Toronto owner of a Yonge Street cigar store some years ago, "I know, for I was his former cigar maker." But cigars became popular in the United States only after condact with the Mexicans, who, with Spanish gusto, enjoyed them. It is claimed one of Columbus' sailors took back some dried tobacco which the Indians offered as a gesture of friendship, to Spain, where he lit and smoked it and was swiftly jailed by the Inquisition for breathing smoke. Columbus himself tossed his gift of tobacco from the Indians into the sea. Tobacco, actually, upon his polite acceptance of the gift, for he was in search of spices, not a withered weed. Quite a few of Columbus' sailors took to it when they saw Indians in Cuba smoking the "herbidge" in a cigar, or in an Indian Y-shaped tobacco pipe, which eventually gave the leaf its name.

Through the United States does not celebrate its bicentennial until 1976, the 200th birthday of cigars and their tobacco composites on earth, first started in 1776, is being celebrated this year, 1960. A business that thrived beyond the wildest dreams of the 104 year-old French Huguenot, from Montpellier, France, who began as a small tobacco shop in 1760. His name was Pierre Lorillard.

And a plucky venture it was. Though the Indians had started the settlers cultivating tobacco, the leaf was not in England and very little returned for the use of any but "the best people" and then most of the tobacco processed their own or relied upon local small manufactories, such as Pierre's on the High Road to Boreton, near New Bow.

Pierre personally bought his tobacco leaf, insisted on painstaking grinding, almost as much snuff instead of merely rubbing tobacco through a grater. He acquired and developed a variety of "popular snuff" recipes and pioneered the idea of packing snuff in tanned animal bladders to "keep it fresh," later his glass jars were to become collector's items.

He married and raised a family of five sons. Then came the Revolution and Pierre was killed by a Hessian bullet. His wife braved the British business going until the two eldest boys, Peter and George, could return to assume the U.S. department of labor.

Peter's two sons married before they were old enough to graduate from college, will start raising families soon, which provides time to the time when they must retire from work. If they are to make the most of their abilities, they must have the education and training necessary for interesting and responsible jobs."

As chairman of the U.S. Commission on the Education of Women last year, Dr. Bunting aired some strong views on the responsibility for developing the full potential of women's talents.

MEN FIRST BUT . . .

"It's a matter of course these days that women's education and job training continues almost indefinitely, first at college and universities, later in business and professional organizations," she says. "But the matter of women's education has been taken too lightly, by both educational and parents.

"Girls are too likely to consider their education automatically ended when they marry. Actually the years immediately after marriage, when the children are small, offer the best opportunity for a young woman to continue her education.

"It's easier to study at home than to go out to a job, and there can be co-operative plans for caring for the children when the mother must go to class. In some colleges young mothers have organized baby - sitting plans, so that one can care for a group of children while others go to classes."

Switzerland. Strange and remarkable that it should be located only ten miles from Switzerland, France—the birthplace of the founder in America; Pierre Lorillard.

Colleges Must Adjust to a New Situation

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—The time may come when women's colleges will provide day nurseries to care for the children of married students, says Dr. Mary I. Bunting, new president of Radcliffe College, Cambridge, Mass.

"We can find some way of encouraging girls to continue their education, even though they marry and have babies before graduation," said the public practical educationist, the widowed mother of four teen-agers, who has attained prominence in the field of women's education in the United States.

Dr. Bunting, who has been dean of Douglass College, New Brunswick, N.J., for the last five years, says the national epidemic of youthful marriages is one of the gravest problems facing educators.

MANY WILL WORK

She does not condemn the trend, but says colleges must adjust to a new situation.

"Our girls today face complex problems," says Dr. Bunting. "This year's girl high school graduates must look forward to working outside the home for 25 years," is the statement of the U.S. department of labor.

"Women should marry before they are old enough to graduate from college, will start raising families early, will be ready by the time when they must retire from work. If they are to make the most of their abilities, they must have the education and training necessary for interesting and responsible jobs."

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

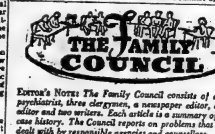
AWAKE, MY SOUL, AND WITH THE SUN

Awake, my soul and with the sun
Thy daily stage of duty run;
Shake off dull sloth, and joyful rise
To pay the morning sacrifice.

Wake, and lift up thyself, my heart,
And with the angels bear thy part,
Who all night long unwearied sing
High praise to the eternal King.

All praise to Thee, who safe hast kept,
And hast refreshed me while I slept;
Grant, Lord, when I from death shall wake,
I may of endless life partake.

Lord, I my vows to Thee renew;
Disperse my sins as morning dew;
Guard my first springs of thought and will,
And with Thyself my spirit fill.



Direct, control, suggest, this day
All I design, or do, or say;
That all my powers, with all their might,
In Thy sole glory may unite.

Praise Father, Son, and Holy Ghost.

The verses of "Awake, My Soul" are from the bishop's "Morning Hymn" which, with his other two poems, was written for the use of students at Winchester College. They were included in a manual of Prayers which Bishop Ken published for the use of his large students in 1695, and their circulation was accompanied by the counsel:

"Be sure to sing the Morning and Evening Hymns in your chamber daily, devoutly remembering that the Psalmist upon happy experience assures you that it is a good thing to tell of the loving-kindness of the Lord, early in the morning, and of His truth in the night season".

Bishop Ken. It is said, used to sing the stanzas of "Awake, My Soul" each morning when he awoke. As he sang to a simple tune of his own composition, he would say his prayers as he dressed. Ken, who was born at a little village named Berkhampstead, Hertfordshire, England, in 1637, was buried at Frome, which he had chosen as his last resting place.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Karen R. — I don't know whether I really love him.

Mrs. L. R. — This is no time to back out of the marriage.

Karen R. — I am 19, engaged to be married and worried to death.

My fiance is 33, very nice looking and a good provider, but I am beginning to feel I don't really love him. We have had physical relations and ever since I haven't felt the same about him. It isn't simply that I found love-making disappointing. I realize this my change in time. It is more that I see many things about him that I don't like. John is arrogant and pushes everyone around. Maybe he'll start treating me like that.

My parents think a lot of John and my mother thinks I should go ahead with the marriage. My dad wishes his hands of the whole thing because of what I've done.

Mrs. L. R. — This is no time to back out of the marriage. If Karen doesn't marry now she may I don't know what will become of her.

I feel I've failed as a mother. I tried to bring Karen up with the right attitudes. I never suspected she would go and do a stupid thing like this. She seems to think it's better to find out before the marriage that things are not as they should be, but I can't make her understand she will feel differently once she is married.

I am annoyed with John for insisting Karen into having relations with him, but outside of that I feel he is a good man for her. She needs a strong person to keep her under control.

The Council: We don't go along with the idea that any adult person should have someone else "to keep her under control." If Karen is mature enough for marriage she must be her own supervisor. If she is not mature enough, it is doubtful whether the marriage can be a success.

We suspect there has been far too much parental pressure behind this emotional upset. Beginning, Karen may have developed doubts about the immediate confess to herself or her parents. Possibly the thought having physical relations with him would be a "trial" to see whether really loves him. Now she feels she has a more solid basis for her ambivalent feelings.

Of course Karen should be made aware of the fact that she has had the worst possible introduction to the physical side of marriage and that her immediate reaction is no indication of what the future holds in store. But we don't think her objections to John's personality should be completely glossed over by her parents.

Mrs. L. R. is evidently afraid that daughter will "go wild" if she continues unmarried. We think, however, that the danger may be just as great if she is pressured into this undesired marriage. No one can "control" a wife who doesn't respect him and deeply wish to give her loyalty and love.

Mrs. L. R. attaches too little significance to John's role in this affair. She doesn't seem to realize that the maturity and strength with which she has strictly credits him failed him completely on a crucial issue.

Karen needs help in gaining emotional maturity, but probably from a qualified doctor — not from a man who has proven his lack of good sense and moral stability.

MODERN MANNERS

Carolyn Wagner Shaw

ARE YOU A BORE?

To quote the dictionary, a bore is a person who "exercises tedious repetition." We all have the human trait of criticizing others and putting them in the "bore" category, but I suppose if we ever ask "Am I a bore? Do I unconsciously inflict on others the same faults?"

Suppose we take a look at some of the habits that result in inevitable boredom for those with whom we come in contact.

A host and hostess have a definite obligation to guests in their home. They should ask themselves the following questions: Do you take for granted that your guests want to listen to a radio program or see the television show that you want to see? Unless you invite a friend to come asked for the particular purpose of doing so, it may prove extremely taxing to have to be forced to talk against a blaring radio, or pay silently through a television play.

Do you bring five year old Junior in to show off the latest bon mot poetry he learned in school? Do you insist that your guests have another piece of cake "because you made it yourself"? Do you try to force your guests to sit through an hour-long home-made movie of your trip to Europe summer last summer? Do you make every effort to be with your spouse when he or she is telling a story? Do you sit, do you avoid blickering with each other when guests are present?

A question or two for the ladies: Do you discuss household affairs at great length? I guess without any fear of contradiction partner will be bored to death if you detail your every household items, your difficulties with the butcher and your every battle with Junior's teacher. Stay off this subject, too, of Junior's cunning habits and his pet comments.

A failing indulged in just as much by the listeners (even if what they say) as by the ladies, is that of belittling the other fellow. The person who is always condemning with faint praise, or spreading gossip, in the end can prove more boring than all the rest put together. There is one thing, "There's so much good in the worst of us and so much bad in the best of us, that it hardly behooves any of us to talk about the rest of us," and no one that would all do well to follow.

Take stock of yourself and make sure that you are not guilty of inflicting boredom on others. Or, perhaps, as others see you, even if it hurts!

Question: My nephew is being married in a church at a family wedding in June, to take place in the afternoon. My difficulty is what to be properly attired so as not to be criticized. I am planning to wear a black lace dress, street length, with a pastel shade accessories. Will this be correct, or is it better not to wear black?

Answer: While black is sometimes worn by guests attending a wedding, it is considered bad taste for a member of the family to do so. Much more appropriate is a gown of a pastel shade with contrasting, or matching, accessories.

Symposium Held

Need for Co-operation of Hospital Authorities Stressed by Speaker

"The Ontario Hospital Services Commission and the hospital trustees of the province must pull together like a team in double harness in order to give the highest standard of service to the hospital patient," stated Dr. Ian Urquhart of Toronto, chairman of the Ontario Hospital Services Commission, to 50 delegates attending a Trustee Symposium sponsored by Regional Hospital Council No. 9 and held in the Belleville General Hospital on Wednesday.

G. E. Carson of Kingston, chairman of the Regional Hospital Council, described the symposium as an "attempt to bring better understanding and knowledge to trustees and administrators that they might provide better hospital service."

Dr. Urquhart spoke to the morning session on "What Does the Commission Expect of the Trustees?" He stressed the need for partnership in combining economy with a good quality of hospital care. Questions from the delegates pointed out the need for greater contact between the commission and the local boards of governors, for greater participation by outlying areas in raising funds for hospital construction in main centres, and for day care centres to treat ambulatory cases, thus releasing more hospital beds. A. N. Chown of Kingston introduced Dr. Urquhart and he was thanked by N. Greg of Trenton.

The second speaker of the ronto, legal adviser to the ronto, legal adviser to the Ontario Hospital Association, who spoke on "What Does the Law Expect of the Trustee?" He outlined the immense responsibilities placed on hospital boards by the Public Hospitals Act, its regulations and by-laws.

Guest speaker at the luncheon was Mrs. G. H. Raymond, president of the Brockville Women's Auxiliary speaking on "What Does An Auxiliary Expect of the Trustees?" She described the three fields of volunteer work as fund raising, hospital service and public relations, and showed the great need for co-operation and a free exchange of information between the auxiliaries and the board of governors. She felt that auxiliaries could function more effectively if represented on the boards as both are volunteer bodies working for a common end, the welfare of the patient. Mrs. Raymond's remarks on the useful projects undertaken by the auxiliary were aptly illustrated by the fact that the symposium was held in a new building of the Belleville General Hospital where the attractive decoration and furnishings have been provided by the local auxiliary.

At the afternoon session W. F. O. Daechsel, superintendent of Belleville General Hospital and vice-chairman of the Regional Council chaired a panel discussion on "What Does the Medical Staff Expect of the Trustees?" The panel consisted of two doctors, Dr. Bruce Cronk of Belleville and Dr. W. A. L. McDonald of Trenton, and two trustees, Bruce Matthews of Kingston and K. W. Rodgers of Brockville with Mr. Daechsel representing the administration working as liaison between the two.

RESPONSIBILITY SHARED

This panel produced a discussion of the division of responsibility between medical staff and trustees. According to the Public Hospitals Act, the board of trustees bears the ultimate responsibility but in most hospitals the medical staff is allowed self-government and is expected to carry out the disciplinary measures necessary against any member of the profession who fails in his duties. The complaints are dealt with by a medical advisory committee which reviews each case and presents a recommendation to the board of trustees. The board implements these recommendations.

The panel also discussed the accreditation of hospitals, the mark of an inspection for minimum standards. Dr. Cronk pointed out that it was a great advantage in attracting interns and nurses in training. Fee splitting was defined, discussed and condemned and Dr. McDonald outlined the steps used in this area to combat it.

George Carson, chairman of the Regional Hospital Council, No. 9, thanked the panel and conducted a general question and answer session which concluded the day's meetings.

VOLUNTEER SERVICES DISCUSSED

Held in conjunction with the trustees' symposium was an institute for Directors of Hospital Volunteers on the theme "Co-ordination of Volunteer Services in the Hospital." The main speakers were two directors of volunteer services from Montreal hospitals, Miss Flora Baptist from Mohtreal General and Mrs. Vivian Ross from the Royal Victoria Hospital. They spoke on "Duties of the Director of Volunteers and Why Co-ordination" and "Co-operation Within and Without the Hospital," respectively. Mrs. B. E. Burley, president of the Belleville Auxiliary, welcomed the delegates and Mrs. Nesbitt McKibbon of Picton, the auxiliary representative on the regional council, introduced the speakers.

Hospitals participating in the trustees symposium and the institute for Directors of Hospital Volunteers were Trenton Memorial Hospital, Campbellford Memorial Hospital, Prince Edward County Hospital, in Picton, Belleville General Hospital, Brockville General Hospital, Hotel Dieu Hospital in Kingston, St. Mary's-of-the-Lake Hospital in Kingston and Ongwanada Sanitarium in Kingston.

PUBLIC ASSETS

Above may be seen several of the speakers at the trustee symposium for hospitals within this region held in the lecture room of the new nurses' residence of the Belleville General Hospital, Wednesday. From left to right are: G. E. Carson of Kingston, chairman of the Regional Hospital Council, No. 9; Mrs. G. H. Raymond of Brockville, president of the Women's Auxiliary of the Brockville General Hospital, one of the speakers; Dr. Ian Urquhart, chairman of the Ontario Hospital Service Commission, main speaker; Mrs. J. E. Buchan, director of volunteers for the Belleville General Hospital, and Mr. M. Fleming, legal advisor for the Ontario Hospital Association, another speaker.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

This Widow Proved Lot of Money Unnecessary for Happy Retirement

By THOMAS COLLINS

"This is just to prove to older women that a lot of money is not necessary in the retirement years if you have an adventurous spirit."

This statement comes from a gracious lady in Pennsylvania who has a story to tell about her mother.

The mother was left a widow at 44. She had four children, a brick home and little else. She found ways to manage and to finish the education of her children. As they left home, she converted her brick house into furnished apartments, and through the years did very well.

"Then finally," says the daughter, "came her 70th birthday. She was no longer able to keep up her apartments. What was she to do? She received only $64 a month in pensions.

"She could not take financial help from the children, but my brother was allowed to find a more suitable place for her to live. He found a small, older home with two bedrooms, which Mother could buy for $4,400. Meanwhile, I found a buyer for her brick home for a net of $12,000.

CHILDREN HELPED

"She got $2000 down payment on the brick home and used that as down payment on the little house. Then all the children went to work making the little house attractive. We put in a new gas furnace, renewed the floors and painted the house inside and out.

"Mother with the help of a lawyer provided that the buyer of the brick house pay her $100 a month on the $12,000 he still owed, plus 6 per cent interest. This plus the $64 in pensions has worked out splendidly for Mother, and she has whittled the mortgage on her little house down to $1,200.

"She has enjoyed her little house greatly. She has cultivated many older widows like herself and they have a grand time playing cards and arranging parties among themselves.

"But here is the icing to the cake. Four years ago she and three other lady friends decided to take $200 each and go to Florida for the winter. They went by bus to Fort Myers and got a four-room apartment with two bedrooms for $30 a month. They each put $5 a week in a kitty for groceries. Every week there was grocery money left over because they always had Sunday dinners and Friday night suppers out, and each paid her own way. (The ladies, while taking only $200 each on the trip, also were using their pension benefits to meet expenses.)

"All of the ladies closed their homes in the North when they made this first trip and estimated they saved $25 to $30 a month on heat and cooking."

According to the daughter, this past winter was the fourth year in which her mother and three lady companions had gone to Florida for January, February and March. They go now to Hollywood, Fla., where they rent a two-bedroom cottage near a park. They belong to bridge clubs and shuffleboard clubs and actively participate in the social affairs of the older people in the town.

WANT TO JOIN

"Mother now has a list of six other ladies who want to join them on their trips but four seems to be the proper number for a life such as this.

"Mother enjoys a life of friends and simple pleasures. When the time comes that she can no longer travel to Florida, she already knows what she will do. She will bring one of her widow friends into her little house to live. This could provide additional income and it would also provide company for my mother."

This story, of course, is the story of four loving children who were looking in on their mother's welfare. But the plan which this mother has followed has much to commend it for the many widows who go into their gray haired years with bleakness and want. The hundred dollars a month which this mother is getting from the brick house she sold will end about eight to ten years after the sale. She was 70 at that time so at age 79 she may find herself with nothing but a little house and $64 a month in pensions.

It is not a bad gamble to take at age 70, especially when good children are looking over your shoulder.

CCF Leader Claims Full-Time Parks Employees Worked on Daley Farm After Purchased

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario CCF Leader MacDonald Friday urged Premier Frost to permit a wider investigation into the purchase of former Niagara Parks Commission property by Lake Minister Daley. Mr. Daley is NPC chairman.

Mr. MacDonald made the request some two hours after Judge Ian Macdonell stopped a line of questioning before royal commission hearings at city hall.

The judge said his terms of reference, outlined by Mr. Frost during the last session of the legislature, did not include what Mr. Daley had done on the property since his purchase in 1948.

Mr. MacDonald urged that an order-in-council be issued immediately "authorizing the broadening of the terms of reference so that a full judicial inquiry can be made at this time."

"Otherwise the job will, at best, be half done, and this issue will be unresolved despite the large effort and expense devoted the present inquiry."

Mr. MacDonald said his counsel, Andrew Brewin, is prepared to call witnesses to testify that as full-time employees of the parks commission they were on the Daley farm.

He said the witnesses also allege that Mr. Daley sold farm produce to the NPC and was paid for it.

(Mr. Frost was in Kingston attending graduation ceremonies at the Royal Military College, and will return Tuesday.)

Mr. Brewin raised the issue when he asked Judge Macdonell if he would be entitled to ask the labor minister whether parks personnel had been used on the Daley property to do painting, carpentry and gardening.

Judge Macdonell ruled the questions would be beyond the scope of the present terms of reference. The commission was to inquire only into the purchase of the 46-acre property by Mr. Daley in 1943, the sale of it in 1945 to Thomas Schnoe, St. Catharines millionaire, and its subsequent sale to Mr. Daley three years later.

Observers Wonder Out Loud Whether Wise to Advertise Can. Getting in for Small Fee

OTTAWA (CP) — Some officials and political strategists here are concerned over repeated statements by cabinet ministers about how little the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile is costing this country.

One of the ministers making these statements is Prime Minister Diefenbaker. In a television speech Thursday night, Mr. Diefenbaker noted that construction of two Bomarc sites in Canada will cost only $15,000,000.

The precise day in Toronto, Associate Defence Minister Sevigny said the same thing and added that the United States has spent more than $2,000,000,000 on Bomarc development. $1 million statements have been made by Defence Minister Pearkes and Postmaster — General William Hamilton as well as some Progressive Conservative backbenchers.

The government apparently feels Canadians want defence expenditures kept to a minimum.

GOOD ADVERTISING?

But some observers are wondering out loud whether it is wise to advertise that Canada has admission to the North American air defence system for a small fee, especially in light of the missile controversy.

Canada is spending about $225,000,000 annually on North American air defence, the U.S. about $1,000,000,000.

There are some indications that the Liberals may soon suggest that Canada withdraw from defence at the expense of reducing U.S. membership in the defence budget.

Liesel Hellyer, former Liberal associate defence minister, said Friday in the Commons defence estimates debate that Canada wasn't obliged under the North American defence plan to have even though Canadian participation was "minor."

INTERCEPTOR QUERY

At the time, Mr. Hellyer was seeking comment, which he didn't get, from Hon. Pearkes on the statement of Gen. Laurence Kuter, Norad commander, that the RCAF's CF-100 jet interceptor should be replaced with a new manned aircraft.

By his questions, Mr. Hellyer appeared to indicate that he disagrees with Gen. Kuter, though the Liberals have never come out to cancellation of the supersonic Arrow, originally planned as the replacement for the CF-100.

Angry Students Protest Japan's New Alliance

TOKYO (AP)—Angry students protesting the first parliamentary approval of Japan's new security alliance with the United States fought club-swinging police on the grounds of Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi's official residence today.

Kishi was not there. He was reported in his private home four miles away.

Some 30 students and policemen were hurt in the free-for-all before the demonstrators were driven off. Co-eds shrieked support for their male colleagues who clambered over the walls of Kishi's residence and then forced their way through a thin line of policemen at the main gate.

The rush on the prime minister's house came after between 15,000 and 20,000 opponents of the security treaty demonstrated in the rain outside the parliament building. There were only Kishi's Liberal-Democrat majority in the lower house ratified the pact after it was hammered through with Socialist opposition.

The Diet was not in session at the time of the demonstration, and a strong line of police barred the crowd from the building.

The mutual security pact, stubbornly fought by the left wing Socialists, provides that Japan may involve Japan in another war, gives the U.S. the right to maintain bases here for about 10 years in exchange for a pledge to defend Japan against aggression.

The treaty now goes to the upper house of parliament for ratification.

POTENTIAL A-POWERS

PARIS (AP) — A report prepared for the Western European Union said Friday that 11 economic powers, including Canada, have the ability to produce nuclear weapons in the near future. The other nations are West Germany, Belgium, West Germany, Italy, Canada, East Germany, India, Italy, Japan, Switzerland and Sweden.

Press Search for Three Men Who Killed Bank Manager

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal police are pressing the search for three masked men who shot and killed a 59-year-old bank manager during a $1,-780 hold up Friday.

Three other bank holdups, a court house shooting and double shooting rounded out one of the most violent days in the city's history. Another major hold-up occurred outside the city.

Royce Smith, manager of a central branch of the Bank of Montreal, was returning from lunch when he saw three men wearing stocking masks and climb from a car outside the bank.

Mr. Smith, a bushy six-footer, tussled with one of the men. Then, as two of them held his arms, the third shot him.

The trio rushed into the bank shooting to employees to empty the till. After scooping up $1,780 they returned to their car and fled.

Mr. Smith, manager of the bank since 1956, left a wife and an 18-year-old son.

Earlier in the day shots echoed through the halls of the main Montreal courthouse as five young prisoners, scheduled to appear on charges arising out of 35 holdups, made a sudden break for freedom.

The five leaped from the prisoner's dock and ran for the courtroom door.

Provincial constable Adelard Girard fired at the group hitting Claude Nadeau, 18, in the leg.

Three other prisoners, identified as Jacques Duquette, Lucien Simard, 20, and Georges Perusse, 24, were recaptured almost immediately.

Jean Guy Bisson, 22, escaped and became the object of a city-wide search.

In suburban St. Laurent, Fred Reigrer, 39, the father of seven children, fired four shots at his estranged wife and their boarder, Angelo Kulos, also 24, then limited himself with the same gun.

Mrs. Reiger was in serious condition in hospital with a bullet wound in the abdomen. Kulos was shot in the shoulder and above the left eye.

Four other holdups in the Montreal area brought the total loot from the day's bank robberies to over $30,000.

Closed-Tender Policy Charged By Party Leader

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec Liberal party leader Jean Lesage has charged the Union Nationale government with bolstering its election fund through a closed-tender policy for bridge building.

Bridge construction contracts were awarded for twice what the structures ought to cost, he said Friday at a rally in St. Johns, 20 miles southeast of Montreal. In return, contractors made solid contributions to the electoral fund.

Mr. Lesage was continuing a grassroots campaign for the June 22 provincial election with a swing through a dozen small towns in the area.

Premier Antonio Barrette, taking a weekend rest from active campaigning, is to return to the hustings Wednesday.

ATTACKS BEAULIEU

Mr. Lesage directed a scathing attack at Quebec Trade Minister Paul Beaulieu, describing his department as a clearing house for patronage.

Nobody but Mr. Beaulieu, member for St. Johns riding, is to open his campaign Sunday, Mr. Lesage said he would not be surprised if the minister announced plans to bring French Renault or Peugeot auto plants into St. Johns.

"If he is as successful as he was in his plans to bring the World's Fair to Montreal, there will be much guarantee for the people of St. Johns."

Mr. Beaulieu was Quebec representative on the delegation that tried to get the 1967 world's fair for Montreal. Russia won the right to stage the fair.

COSTS STUDIED

In the study on Union Nationale bridge-building, the Liberal leader said he had ordered statistical engineers into eight constituencies. The figures showed every cost twice what they should have.

The federal, Quebec and province tariff governments co-operated for the Alumet Island bridge across the Ottawa River to Pembroke, Ont. It was three-span structure, each of the governments paying for one section.

The total section built by Ottawa was 1,100 feet long and cost $867,000. The Quebec section was 633 feet long and cost $1,782,000, "Where's did the difference go?" he asked.

NRC's Floating Laboratory Develops Fishing Device

OTTAWA (CP)—Thousands of dollars' annual loss in fishing nets may be prevented by a new device being developed by radio technicians of the National Research Council.

Science may also soon replace the lighthouse-keeper and make it possible for ship captains to use a telephone dial to call for foghorn signals in dangerous waters.

These are among the projects being undertaken this year by the NRC's floating radio laboratory, Radel II, a converted Fairmile entering her 11th season on the Great Lakes, used principally in the development of marine radar.

Capt. H. R. Smyth, 54, Montreal-born master of the Radel and head of the navigational aids work in the research council's radio and electrical engineering branch, said in an interview tests will be made this year of new lightweight miniature transmitters. Attached to floats holding fishing nets, they can be traced through fog or high seas by simple detection equipment in fishing boats.

DRIFTING NETS

Thousands of dollars worth of fishing nets are lost every year, particularly in the Grand Banks off Newfoundland. They can drift as far as 30 to 40 miles in a fog, carrying their catch with them. Sometimes they are lost completely automatically, even when fog is some miles away from the mainland, will be tested this year. An electronic flash will be set off periodically on a buoy and, if shrouded in fog, the reflection on the reflection of a automobile's headlights in fog on land will trigger equipment sending a signal to the shore and activating the horn.

A ship approaching a foghorn station and wanting a signal will be able to use its regular ship's radio equipment to turn on the horn. A telephone dial can be hooked into the equipment so that all the master has to do is dial the code assigned to the horn. He can turn the horn off by another signal, or it will stop automatically after a predetermined length of time has elapsed.

Capt. Smyth, stocky, square-jawed electronics engineer equally at home in his radar lab and on the bridge of his ship, will also measure water currents in Lake St. Peter, between Sorel and Trois - Rivieres, Que., this season. The hydraulics laboratory of NRC wants more information on the collection of silt which has to be steadily dredged out of the ship canal in the lake.

The Radel II spent the winter in a lock of the Rideau Canal at Ottawa. Early this month it moved down the Ottawa River to a private berth behind the NRC headquarters. It will take about three weeks to install the test equipment and experimental devices for this year's program.

About May 24 she will move through the canal to Lake Ontario and spend the summer moving between Trois - Rivieres and the upper end of Lake Erie. Most of the work is done in Lake Ontario, far from shore interference.

UNDERWATER TV

The chemical balance of Lake Ontario water is constantly changing. This year the Radel II will test and also the transmission of radio waves over the Lake. Experiments will be made with the usage of transmission of new radio signal equipment on buoys.

An underwater television camera, employed in the examination of retaining walls during construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway, will be used this year with a Polaroid Land camera producing prints quickly to see whether good underwater pictures can be taken by sighting the camera at a TV screen on the ship's deck.

ANOTHER BOMB HOAX

TORONTO (CP) — A bomb hoax delayed departure of a Trans-Canada jetliner for 70 minutes at Malton airport Friday night while officials searched the London-to-Montreal plane and the baggage of the 39 passengers. An anonymous telephone caller told the Trans - Canada Air Lines switchboard operator there was a bomb in a suitcase aboard the plane.

Russia Says Americans Still Making Flights

LONDON (Reuters) — Russia today accused United States planes of "provocative" low-level flights over Soviet merchant navy ships.

Tass News Agency quoted an article in the newspaper Vodny Transport by Vasily Zharkov, a high official of the Soviet ministry of shipping, who claimed American planes made 23 flights over Soviet ships since the start of the year. He said the planes dived to within 165 feet of the ships and in some cases various objects were thrown on the vessels.

Meanwhile, in Tokyo, a Japanese foreign ministry spokesman said a check would be made on a Russian accusation that Japan has permitted U.S. aircraft based there to make spy flights over the Soviet Union.

"The accusation was made in a note handed to the Japanese ambassador in Moscow. It said there had been "more than one instance" of such flights and they were made with the consent of the Japanese government."

Zharkov's article in the Soviet shipping newspaper, said the U.S. air force has recently "intensified its provocative flights" over Soviet ships.

Prisoners Will Help Clean up Foleyet Debris

TORONTO (CP) — Prisoners will probably go to aid flood workers at Foleyet this weekend, Reforma Minister Cathers said on Friday.

About 15 inmates of the Monteith Industrial Farm are expected to help clean up debris left by the flood and assist residents in repair work at the community 167 miles northwest of Sudbury.

Mr. Warrope and Lands and Forests Minister Spooner, the provincial flood assistance co-ordinator, conferred on the subject Friday.

Collapse of Summit Talks Not Disaster for the West

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Writer

The bipartisan cheers welcoming Prime Minister Macmillan back to the House of Commons on his return from Paris serve as a reminder that the collapse of the summit talks was not an unmitigated disaster for the West.

The unavailing attempts at mediation by Macmillan and President de Gaulle have enhanced their prestige. Both have won both Premier Khrushchev and Premier Adenauer have paid sympathy over their handling of the U-2 episode.

Macmillan's immediate reward was the encouraging response of Conservative backbenchers to other Labor and Liberal party criticism. The report on the summit proceedings.

SOLACE FOR GENERAL

De Gaulle could draw solace from a newspaper article in Pierre Mendes-France, one of his severest critics, declaring that upon the British and French leaders "the obligation to consolidating their new role as peacemakers."

Elsewhere himself, despite his acknowledged responsibility for the misadventure, President Eisenhower will receive a measure of public sympathy as a result of the intemperate attacks on him against him in the course of Khrushchev's press conference today.

Throughout the Western alliance there are indications of political tone and deliberate hostile, not all of them deserved, to be heard from the Kremlin's relocation of the cold war.

TROUBLES AT HOME

Both Macmillan and Gaitskell have been in trouble with their own parties over defence matters since Britain's abandonment of the Blue Streak rocket left her without the means of delivering a nuclear blow against her enemies.

De Gaulle has been criticized for using his augmented constitutional powers to override the functions of France's Chamber of Deputies. Chancellor Adenauer's insistence on a firm line against the Soviet Union has been constantly deplored by West German Social for a four-day official visit.

Queen Mother Marriage Report Said 'Nonsense'

KITWE, Northern Rhodesia (Reuters) — Queen Mother Elizabeth has publicly described a report that she plans to marry her treasurer as "absolute nonsense" — but she used "a stronger word" in private, an aide said Friday night.

The touring Queen Mother issued a formal statement to the press here denying reports that Prince Philip's mother and Arthur Penn were contemplating marriage.

The Queen Mother spoke by telephone Friday night to her daughter, Princess Margaret, and new son-in-law, Antony Armstrong - Jones, who are on board the royal yacht Britannia in West Indian waters.

A statement said the call was placed three or four days ago and was purely a family reconnection. It had nothing to do with the press report.

NEHRU VISITS TURKEY

ANKARA, Turkey (Reuters)— Police used tear gas to disperse anti-government demonstrators as Premier Adnan Menderes drove through Ankara Friday night with visiting Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru. Nehru arrived for a four-day official visit.

Federal Grants For Small Fairs Is Requested

OTTAWA (CP) — Pleas were voiced on both sides of the Commons Friday that the federal government make it easier for small fairs to get federal grants similar to those paid to the fair's prize money, many were unable to qualify.

Mr. Harkness said the government attempts to aid larger regional and provincial fairs and the provincial government's smaller fairs offering a prize money of less than $2,000.

Larks' Boss Won't Take Club To American Football League

MONTREAL (CP)—Ted Workman, president - owner of the Montreal Alouettes, made it clear Friday night he is not happy with the Canadian football league but indicated he has no definite intention of taking his team to the American Football League.

Workman said he did not know whether the Big Four Ass would join the AFL next year. There are two alternatives, he said: "Fight them or join them."

"In any event the CFL must get together with the AFL. I think that a co - operative could be worked out between the two leagues and no one would get hurt."

He said the CFL has failed to take a long range view of matters concerning Canadian football.

The problems involving the relationship between the CFL and the AFL, he said, were "the most crucial [illegible] to Canadian football."

HIDDEN FEARS?

"It is my opinion that the leaders of the CFL are afraid but that they are afraid to admit it, and I don't understand why.

"Just where is Canadian football going?" he asked, and admitted he did not know the answer.

He said a nine-man meeting of the CFL was a necessity. The CFL usually met twice a year but had cancelled its semi-annual meeting this year.

"If the CFL has no interest in us then we'll have to look after ourselves."

He said three Montreal concerns are reported to have made application to the AFL for a franchise. They are major football teams operated in Montreal, Workman said, one would fold within a year.

Eddie Machen Soundly Drubs Alex Miteff

NEW YORK (AP) — Favored Eddie Machen gave Alex Miteff of Argentina a sound drubbing Friday night in winning a unanimous 10-round decision at Madison Square Garden. Machen weighed 190¾ and Miteff 202.

Machen, an 11 - to-5 favorite, was given a strenuous battle for five rounds. But from the sixth round on Machen's stiff left jabs and left-right combinations to the head took its toll.

From the seventh round on, it was only a question of whether the tiring South American would be able to go the distance. He just made it.

Machen, the fourth ranking heavyweight contender, scored his third straight victory. This boosted his won-lost-drew record to 33-3-1. Miteff, ranked sixth, had a winning streak snapped at three fights. His record is 23-6-1.

The first half of the fight had the crowd of some 4,000 rooting Miteff made it a rugged battle as he waded in and bombed his brave rival with a blistering body attack that had Machen wincing at times.

Free-for-All Halts First Lacrosse Game

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — If the season opener between St. Catharines and Peterborough is any indication, it's going to be a wild and woolly Ontario Lacrosse Association senior season.

The opening game Friday night was called early in the third period after two policemen failed to quell a free-for-all that had spilled right on the arena floor.

Peterborough, ahead 9-2 at the time, were leading 5-0 in the second period when referee Mit Burrows, who handed out 13 penalties, eight of them to St. Catharines, didn't bother to start any during the third-period brawl. He decided he'd seen enough and ordered quick action for their money and sent the teams packing.

Harry Ferguson paced the Petes with four goals. Buddy Evans added three, two each went to Ken Ruttan and Bobby Cook. Scoring singles were Roy Wood and Cyril Coombes.

Kaline Severs Connection With Racing Stable

DETROIT (CP)—Detroit Tigers' outfielder Al Kaline said Friday he is severing his connection with a horse-racing stable and a partner that he had never been an actual owner of any interest in the animals.

"I never have put up any money," Kaline said, "so I'll have to say I'm not."

He said he dropped his plans to buy into the six-horse string of racers "because of all the flak."

The stable was formed a month ago and named for Goalie Glenn Hall, Detroit Red Wing hockey star. Kaline, an industrialist, Frank J. Carlin. The three are partners in another financial venture which incorporate several firms as manufacturers' agents.

"Since never was intended," Kaline said, "But I was. I like racing. I like horses. I was going to put up my money today. But there has been so much fuss now that I won't."

Homers High But Hits Low

MILWAUKEE (AP)—"I guess I'm just fortunate enough to catch a few guys on base when I hit."

That's the way Ernie Banks reconciles his low average with the fact he's among National League leaders in home runs and runs batted in.

The Chicago Cubs shortstop, who accomplished the unprecedented feat of winning the National League's most valuable player award two years straight, 1958-59, said he's not hitting the ball solidly yet he's a three-way tie for second place in home runs with eight and he's third in RBIs with 27. His average is only .239.

Cooke Adds To Player Stock Pot

TORONTO (CP) — Jack Kent Cooke, owner of Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League, shelled out $40,000 Friday for three baseball players.

Cooke paid $15,000 each for southpaw pitcher Rip Coleman and first baseman Earl Hersh of Louisville, Shortstop Ted Kazanski, also of Louisville, cost $10,000, but most of this will be returned if Kazanski fails to make the team.

Coleman was acquired from Baltimore of the American League.

The 26-year-old, six-foot veteran of the minor and major leagues is scheduled to report to Leafs today.

Frank Pollock, Leafs assistant general manager, predicted Coleman will be "a terrific asset," and could be the top pitcher in the league.

"I tour innings this season, including one start, Coleman yielded five earned runs and produced a record of two wins and two losts.

He was in 39 games with Kansas City Athletics last season and three with Baltimore, winding up with a 2-3 record over the two stops with an earned run average of 4.34. He pitched for Buffalo Bisons and New York Yankees in 1958.

Coleman is reported to have told Baltimore officials he wanted to stay in the big time. Cooke has been trying to obtain him for the last two seasons.

The addition of Coleman gives Leafs 10 pitchers.

Brass Puts Whammy on Golf Balls

NEW YORK (AP)—A spokesman for the United States Golf Association said Friday several makes of golf balls failed to pass recent tests and can not be used in next week's qualifying rounds for the U.S. Open.

Makes of the discredited balls were not given out by the USGA except that "one is a nationally known ball and others not quite as widely known."

Sterling Slappey, assistant executive USGA director, said balls could fail to qualify in various ways—by being too heavy or too light, by being too large or too small or by having too much spin.

Slappey said the unidentified nationally known ball is used by many pros who are among the 46 players exempt from the qualifying tests next Monday and Tuesday.

Dodger Boss In Favor Of Expansion

NEW YORK (AP)—Highly informed sources told The Associated Press Friday that a major league expansion was discussed at the secret baseball meetings in Florida last week with the possibility of the National and American leagues going to 12 clubs each by 1962.

Should this come to pass, the sources said, the National League would move to New York and the American into Houston.

No positive action was taken, the sources added.

The clubowners contacted all acknowledged that expansion was discussed at the Chicago meeting but they differed on the degree of interest.

"We touched on the expansion issue extremely lightly," said Walter O'Malley of Los Angeles. "I've always felt that was inevitable. I voted to expand to nine clubs and to 10 clubs. I'm not in favor of expansion at our Columbus meeting last May.

"The National League fails to get off the ground, we still have to expand. There's no doubt about it. I think, however, the Continental League should be given every opportunity to get started and we in baseball should co-operate. Los Angeles club has attempted to co - operate. We've offered them our Atlanta and Montreal franchises."

Junior Tennis Prospects Good

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Lawn Tennis Association announced Friday 1960 tournament dates and tournament chairman Lorne Main said junior tennis prospects in Canada have never been brighter.

Main, a former player on the senior Davis Cup team and trainer of Canada's junior team, said he is extremely pleased with the progress of the junior development program.

At present he is working with the junior Davis Cup team which will meet the United States at Lake Placid N.Y. in July. Training for this event is a major part of the junior development program.

Main referred to Harry Fauquier, 19, of Toronto as the most promising youngster on his team.

U.S. LEAD

LINDRICK, England (AP)—America's women golfers stretched a remarkable British comeback Friday and took a 2-1 lead in their quest to recover the Curtis Cup. The U.S. team of amateur stars, which in this biennial competition since 1954, captured two of the three two-ball foursomes and became the favorites to regain the cup in today's six singles matches which climax the two-day duel.

LEAGUE'S OLDEST

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Winkleman, who at 95 was one of the oldest ex-major league baseball players, died Thursday night. His exact age was a mystery until a nephew revealed that he would have been 96 next February. Winkleman's first appearance baseball was played with Louisville of the American Association. He played semipro ball in Washington in 1903 and in 1936 pitched for Milwaukee.

Won't Suspend Ray Robinson

BOSTON (AP) — The Massachusetts Boxing Commission ruled Friday there is no compelling reason to suspend Sugar Ray Robinson in this state.

Robinson is scheduled to meet Paul Pender June 13 at Boston Garden for the Massachusetts-New York version of the middleweight title. Pender took the title from Robinson.

The Maryland Boxing Commission suspended Robinson Thursday for failure to appear for a scheduled May 16 bout in Baltimore.

Four Ottawa Rough Riders Want Transfer

OTTAWA (CP)—Four members of Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four Football Union have asked to be traded to other clubs but no satisfactory deal has been arranged, general manager George Terlep said Friday.

Hardiman Cureton and Ron Stewart want to play with Toronto Argonauts but I have not talked trade to Toronto about them because I'm not sure they're available," he said.

Harry Lunn had also asked to go to Toronto but refused.

Davey West had requested a move to Vancouver Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Terlep said attempts to make a satisfactory trade for Lunn and West had failed.

Stewart, 170 - pound halfback whose offensive sparring has pleased Ottawa fans, will have to move to Toronto in 1961 for law studies he can't get in Ottawa, said. "But we expect him to play here this year or else all our lads option."

Imlach Says He Will Draft Richard

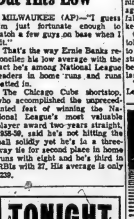
TORONTO (CP)—Coach Punch Imlach said Friday Toronto Maple Leafs will draft Montreal Canadien star Maurice (Rocket) Richard if Canadiens do not put him on the protected list.

National Hockey League teams can protect 26 players. Anyone not on the list can be drafted by another team for $20,000. The annual draft meeting is scheduled for early June in Montreal.

Imlach said Leafs would draft Richard even if Canadiens said they would try to persuade him to sign a contract and play for Leafs.

He said he felt Richard would be of greater help to the Leafs team than to the star-studded Montreal team.

"We have lots of good players but men of Richard's calibre and inspirational leadership only come along once in a lifetime," Imlach said. "Bert Olmstead has given us two good reasons and Richard could do the same."



Richard has often praised the fairness and enthusiasm of Toronto fans.

Leafs would have last chance at obtaining Richard. As the second-place team in last season's NHL series, Leafs would be allowed to draft only after New York, Boston, Detroit and Chicago.

In Montreal a spokesman for Montreal Canadiens said that if the Rocket continues to play he will be for Canadiens.

If the Rocket decided to retire then he would sign a retirement papers and no other club in the league could draft him.

MODEL FOR SPEED TRY — British daredevil Donald Campbell, holder of world speed record on water, displays model of car in which he hopes to set a new land speed record at Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah, next September. Campbell, shown at press conference in London Tuesday, will try to reach 400 miles an hour in the Bluebird car which will be powered with a Bristol Siddeley engine similar to that which is used in the Britannia airliner. The present record of 394.196 mph was set by the late John Cobb of Britain.

TIPS

by JOHN WETTLAUFER

Television is certainly one of the biggest electronic marvels of our time . . . yet it is constantly undergoing improvements in design and construction.

One of the major advances has been the introduction of the aluminized picture-tube. This aluminum coating inside the tube gives down on light absorption and gives a brighter picture . . . even during daylight viewing.

Whatever the age or make of your TV set, CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 364 Coleman St, can make and inspirational leadership only come along once in a lifetime," Imlach said. "Bert Olmstead has given us two good reasons and Richard could do the same."

Richard has often praised the fairness and enthusiasm of Toronto fans.

Democrats Ready to Put On Show at Convention

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — If the Democrats have their way, home viewers will see an American political show July 11-15 as slick and exciting as a TV western.

Says J. Leonard Reinach, director of the 1960 Democratic national convention "My colleagues (the Republicans) in Chicago are having a tough time making their affair exciting. We're much better off. We've got a script."

The Democrats also have the spacious new sports arena here to add glamor to their attraction. The blue-and-white pavilion is the first political convention site built to accommodate the searching eyes of television cameras.

Reinach frowned through the arena this week to show off its assets. "It's superb," he said. "Every seat in the arena will have an unimpeded view of the proceedings."

UP-AND-DOWN PODIUM

"The speaker's head will always be 11 feet, 4 inches above the delegate floor, no matter how tall he is," Reinach said. "The podium will be on an elevator to adjust to height. Also there will be lighting from underneath to eliminate chin shadow that is uncomplimentary to speakers."

The show has been planned for viewer impact, he said. Speakers will be asked to curtail their oratory—"you can't hold a TV audience with a political speech over 30 minutes." Demonstrations will be permitted, but no motions will be permitted, but no to unrealistic lengths. Sessions will start at 3 p.m. in order to draw prime viewing time across the continent.

While the Democrats are joyfully awaiting their big moment, some TV people are not. CBS long ago nailed down Westinghouse to sponsor its convention coverage but ABC and NBC were dying on the vine. This week NBC finally came up with three bankrollers to foot the bill, needs three more to break even.

ABC is still prowling Madison Avenue for angels. Coverage of the two conventions and pre-empting of regular shows can run $5,000,000 or more.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Monday the Twenty-third of May, the (two) Queens' Birthday and even the shrews will get a holiday.

The lakes and bays of the northland and southland will likely be dotted with Izaak Waltons pickerelling, piking, trouting or just blackmarking.

Provincial and other perks will be the mecca for picnic-lovers who will usher in the season before the ants appoint their annual committees.

And somebody will phone in early Tuesday morning to say that little Ebenezer Milkshake of Cracked Lip village was the first swimmer of the season, not counting whether he was pushed, shoved or fell in the water.

This department's champion early season swimmer, Stan White, hasn't ducked himself in the bay yet, although he looked a little pale this morning when he was carving roast beef fillets in the White Frock Tea Room pavilion. Brother Joe was smiling wisely but there was no look of guilt on Stan's face, so mebbe he is postponing the big dip until July 4.

Many will take to the highways and byways for the long holiday visiting friends, in-laws or just getting away from the city grime for the fresh air and faces of farmway places.

And as is the inevitable way of things and people, there are a few, we hope not many, who will not return. Highways, waterways and other rural sites will likely claim another quota of victims through accident, carelessness or other reasons.

Word from the forested northland has it that a big trek is expected up thataway for the fishing or just a neutral celebration. Many resorts have been booked while it is likely not a few private cottages and cabins will get the annual airing, and house the first parties of the year.

For sports addicts in general and softball aficionados in particular, the Bobcats hike to Cobourg tonight to take on the Merchants of the lakeside town in their first jousting of the season. The Cats have one victory tucked under their belts and hope to make it two at the expense of the Sleepy Dawe outfit.

Here in the city the Commercial Softball League flips its spring lid opening at the CNRA Park Tuesday night starting 8.45 with a clash between Canadian Legion and Belle Cleaners. The game has been laid over from Monday.

On the baseball scene the South Hastings League starts its spring jaunt tonight at the CNRA Park where the Belleville Juniors take on the Read squad in the loop opener, starting 8.30. Intermediate "A" game between Foxboro and Shannonville scheduled for tonight has been postponed until Monday starting two o'clock in Foxboro.

The "Twenty-fourth" and fireworks are as synonymous as salt and pepper, Mutt and Jeff or Khrushchev and vodka. Speaking of the pyrotechnics, Point Anne is holding a colorful night show at Ox Point Monday, when the sky will be illuminated with a giant aerial performance.

Tennis fans are in for a treat starting today between four and six when touring pro George Mansfield of Toronto will be at the Quinte Tennis Club giving demonstrations, and free coaching to juniors and members in the sport. Sponsored by the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association, Mansfield gives his instruction free gratis and local tennis officials invite all interested in the game to attend the pro show.

If you like outboard racing you can trek to Little Lake at Peterborough where the local hydroplane club is staging a regatta on Monday starting at one o'clock. There will be a big parade in the morning with bands, majorettes and other colorings. The regatta classes from B stock hydroplanes to the 280 Chevy V8 stock which can kick up a 130 mph speed. Big day for you putt-putt lovers. P.S.: there will be outboard racing at Picton Sunday afternoon.

HODGE PODGE

For the sports shut-ins this afternoon, the Yankees and White Sox clash in the "Game of the Week" on the living room one-eyed monster. Maybe you can see the Preakness . . . There's horse-racing at the Old Woodbine today and Monday and on the 23rd also, there's harness racing in Kingston . . . The baseball Maple Leaf Conference Rochester on Monday and at Barrie there are official motorcycle races . . . Marlene Birett and Stan Leonard set the pace for National Golf Week, April 24-31 . . . And if you like the hospitable atmosphere of "Curryville", the opening dance in the Tweed Pavilion is scheduled for tonight . . . So is that of the Belleville Kinsmen Country Club . . . There is a fish derby at Coe Hill today and tomorrow with some nice prizes awaiting the catchers of the biggest . . . Land the 1960 Islands International Ontario board Marathon is slated for Alexandria Bay on June 12 . . . So there it is, the holiday is yours. Whatever you do, think first before you do it. If you drive stay on your side of the highway. The other side is suicide . . . If the boat upsets, stay with in and cling to it. That distant shore is twice as far as it looks and what you think . . . So there you are. Relax, have fun, obey the lines, long drives, a short rest, sun-tan and whole skins.

Court Fight Better Weapon For New League

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former senator Edwin C. Johnson expected Friday the idea of launching the new Continental League as an outlaw on the fringe of major league baseball.

Johnson told reporters a court fight would be a better weapon against what he termed monopolistic efforts by the American and National Leagues t. block the Continental from big-time organized baseball's ranks.

Johnson is a democratic former governor of Colorado who represented the state in the Senate for many years. He is a former long-time president of the Western League, and one of Continental's founders.

He spelled out his views in an interview as the Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee completed hearings on a disputed bill which, among other things, would make it a Federal offence for any one to hinder the formation of a new baseball league. It also would subject the national pastime to some new federal control.

Johnson endorsed the bill in the hearings, at which baseball commissioner Ford C. Frick and George M. Trautman, executive head of the minor leagues, condemned it roundly.

Big Klu Drives Home Four While Tribe Scuttles Bosox; Cards Nip Reds, 'Bums' Lose

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

No matter how you spell it—Ted Kluszewski or Kluszewski, as did the talker who probed—he's still Big Klu.

The guy whose arms and bet resemble tree trunks drove home four runs for a 5-3 victory over New York Yankees Friday night as Chicago White Sox remained unbeaten at home and took a full game lead in the American League race.

Cleveland Indians moved into second place by defeating Boston Red Sox 3-0 on the three - hit pitching of Mudcat Grant and relief ace Dick Stigman. Baltimore Orioles slipped to third, blowing a 3-1 lead in the ninth for a 4-3 loss to the Tigers at Detroit. Washington's game at Kansas City was rained out.

'SOMES FORD

Kluszewski, whose name was misspelled on the back of his road uniform, brought the White Sox from behind with his first home run of the season, a two-run shot off loser Whitey Ford (1-2) in the third inning. Then he clinched their ninth straight success at Comiskey Park with a bases-loaded single in a three-run eighth off reliever Ryne Duren. The Yankees, outhitting Chicago 10-6, chased winner Early Wynn (2-1) in the ninth, when Mickey Mantle hit a two - run homer. Reliever Turk Lown finally salted Wynn's fifth career victory by fanning Bill Skowron with two on.

INDIANS RALLY

The Indians broke through against Bill Monbouquette (3-3) after being shut out on one hit in the innings. Tribe Pierzall's two-run single did it in the seventh, after a single by Harvey Kuenn, a double by Tito Francona and an intentional walk to Vic Power loaded the bases. Grant (1-1), making his first start of the year, gave up Boston's only hit.

Stigman saved the win by striking out Don Buddin and pinch-hitter Ray Boone and getting Frank Malzone on a fly with the bases loaded in the eighth. The southpaw rookie then struck out Carl Yastrzemski to Vic Power and went down to their sixth straight loss.

The Tigers, held to four hits, got their three runs in the ninth after singles by Norm Cash and Frank Bolling chased reliever Hoyt Wilhelm. Milt Pappas (6-2) lost it without allowing a hit. Two walks, pinch-hitter Charlie Maxwell's sacrifice fly and a error by Walt Dropo did it. Tom Morgan (3-0) was the winner in relief of Don Mossi.

'No Contest'

Jumbo, Jonathan, Misters K. Live to Fight Another Day

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

"K" stands for Kalmikoff and also for "Kute".

The bearded Russky split a pair of decisions with a half-ton of reality meat, to wit: Mighty Jumbo and Don Leo Jonathan last night then declined on strategy.

It didn't win for them. Neither did they lose. It wound up in a Sivviestenth of Ireland outside-the-ring donnybrook. Referee Joe Gollob who needed a helicopter to see what was going on, announced "Amen" and called it "No Contest".

When the dust cleared through the ringside crowd, Don Leo was busting Karol Kalmikoff's noggin in an effort to dislodge the ring supports, while Jumbo was tackling wicked judo chops to the chin and whiskers of Tovarich Russky.

But that apparently was the Russian strategy. Jumbo frowned Ivan or Karol so flat with his "Stalin" act in the first half, he couldn't tell him from his shadow.

In the second chapter, the K's spun big Jonathan's eyeballs so much he was wandering aimlessly through the spectators. He overstayed the time limit and Uncle Joe swarmed the fall to the Russ.

It was evident in the third stanza that the Beards were in for a tough time. Don Leo saw to that. He swung Ivan like an aerial concert flail and crashed him to the canvas.

Enter the smiling Jumbo. He started to finish the job, but he hadn't reckoned with the crafty K. Brothers. They joined forces and succeeded in bumpty-dumpering Jumbo out of the ring. Don Leo jumped in but he too was inveigled into finishing the fight on neutral territory and the call ended with Lonesome Don Leo swinging quits on the ropes.

Joe had his troubles all night. He was punched, pummelled, stepped on and "whooped" during his tenure as arbiter.

Jumbo at one time corralled Ivan in a corner and Joe was giving them the stomach treatment when Joe tried to halt the proceedings. He was tossed into the sandwich-filling roles and huffed and puffed as Jumbo blasted him with a wicked left to the tree-layer lineup.

Joe was in trouble with Big Ed Miller as referee-by-virgin is a colorful semi-final bethe. The crafty Miller danced a jog on Joe's fingers, punched and swayed him when he wasn't looking. He finally Joe was wise and pulled a few bone-jarring rights to the Miller puss, with Crunchy Frog in the ball. At that the Frenchman who spotted his huge German some 70 pounds nearly won the bout.

He had Big Ed flatter than a pancake, was sprawled over the fallen foe while Gollob toiled off the attack. Miller and Joe had barely intoned "two" than the song runs for game-and.

Handler George Drake defeated Tiger Taker after twelve minutes of a rough-and-tumble preliminary.

Dressing Room Comments Banal Says Editor

VICTORIA (CP)—Stuart Keate, publisher of the Victoria Times, said Friday sports writers should combine a genuine love of words with a deep understanding of what is grammar.

He said during a panel discussion on sports pages at the annual meeting of the Canadian Managing Editors Conference here it is no longer sufficient for a sports writer to tell readers only which team won.

"They already have that from radio and television. He must produce the colorful side-bar, the illuminating incident, the off-beat interview which will bring the whole picture into focus."

V. P. Wade, managing editor of the Saskatoon Star Phoenix, said a good sports story should tell why a team lost or won and which players were responsible.

"I detest the stereotyped dressing room comments we get from players after the game. Most of the comments are banal and could have been written from the press box."

Football Boss Little Enthused Over 'Merger'

WINNIPEG (CP) — Commissioner G. Sydney Halter of the Canadian Football League showed little enthusiasm Friday for a predicted eventual merger of the CFL and the professional Western Football League.

His only comment—and with a chuckle—was "very interesting," when informed of a Toronto story quoting Harry Wismer, chairman of the AFL's expansion committee, as predicting such a merger and saying it would be "the greatest thing for the two countries".

On the Track

TORONTO (CP) — All Canadian boosted his stock in next month's 101st annual running of the Queen's Plate when he scored a handy victory over eight three-year-old rivals in Friday's featured Avrida Purse at Old Woodbine. Al Canadian, owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Taylor and ridden by Avelino Gomez, powered 5½ furlongs through the mud in 1:01 1-5 as he whipped Windy Ship by three lengths. Oil Can finished third, beaten by a nose by Windy Ship.

TORONTO (CP) — Old Woodbine's holiday program of thoroughbred racing begins today with the running of the $7,500 Star Shoot Stakes which has attracted a field of twelve.

Monday's Victoria Day holiday program will be featured by the $7,500 Swynford Stakes, expected to draw the best handicap field to be seen in action on Canadian tracks so far this season.

TRADING STAMPS

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Red Sox announced Friday a ticket plan with a supermarket chain aimed at installing some life into a slumping gate. The plan, to begin Monday, provides for one free grandstand ticket at any Sox home game for every $30 worth of purchases by a customer at the supermarket.

Lowly Royals Drop 13 in Row; Leafs Idle

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Montreal Royals—masters of the International League cellar from the middle to the mid '50s—are approaching the lowest depths in the 76-year history of organized baseball's greatest minor league.

A pinch-hit single in the ninth inning by Luke Easter gave the Rochester Red Wings a 4-3 victory over the last-place Royals Friday night and made it 13 losses in succession for the hapless Montreal club.

The Royals are just one loss short of equalling the league record of 14 straight losses, set by Richmond in 1895. They already have set a record for losses by a Montreal team.

The victory kept the Wings in a tie for fourth place with Columbus which edged Miami 3-2. Havana topped Richmond 3-2, Jacques Jeading Buffalo and second-place Toronto were idled by rain.

Rochester 4, Montreal 2

Montreal's record - setting defeat came shoot on a fluke hit by Easter. With two on and two out in the ninth, Rochester pinch hitter Luke Easter gave the pitcher's mound that kicked off the leg of Ron Pyrzanoski and bounded into centre field. Chris Cannizzaro, who had doubled, and Ron Roberts, who walked intentionally, scored on the play.

The loss left the Royals still looking for victory No. 1 at home this season. They dropped 12 in a row before playing a 10-inning scoreless tie with Toronto Thursday night. The game will be replayed later.

Julian Javier delivered the key blow for the Jets, homering with two out in the ninth to win it. Dick Ruthven got the Columbus ahead 2-1 in the fourth with a roundtripper. Miami's Jose Martin forged into a tie and set up Javier's drive.

The Sugar Kings moved ahead to stay in the sixth when Jack Jacelich hit a two-run single. A grounder go through him for an error and Larry Novak scored to break a 2-2 tie, Ted Wieand won it although he needed relief help from Ken Nunn after the Vets' Deron Johnson homered in the ninth.

Tail Setting

Harness Racing Bible

By Phil Stewart

The district racing season rose to the post with a holiday afternoon meet scheduled for Kingston on Monday. Still traditional season's opener always attracts a large field and the fans usually turn out pretty strong to see their favorite sport after a long winter layoff. Kingston Raceway's Dowling Gain has been completely re-organized and are trying to offset the problem of blitting privileges still should present a very interesting 12 race card. Local fans will press the first 1980 starts of John Weir's "John De Kuyper" who raced quite well last year and Shaky pacer "E. L. Mac." Jack Jeffrey also intends to start his mare "Betty Abigail" who has already made one start at Connaught Park Raceway.

WENT TO OTTAWA

A group from the Belleville district went to Ottawa on May 14 to the opening night at Connaught where we saw locally trained horses do quite well.

Allan Pacey who trained at Belleville won the first race of the season when he took the night's opener with "Atomic Carl." Mr. Pacey drove "Carl" superbly and had been made the betting favorite at less than 2 to 1. The second race was won by Lawry "Brandywin Boy" from Orono, who paid off at $30.90. J. Lazier who was driving for himself in the race hold a win ticket on this one.

Mrs. Jeffrey drove "Betty Abigail" to a second place finish at 13 to 1 paying off about $12.50 to place. Allan Pacey was third in this one with his good colt "Win Boy". The race was won by a very fast three-year-old called "Belmont Bertha".

Bob Givens, who also trained at Belleville, was third with his good trotter, "H Bomb", and sixth with "Eddie Mac Jr." It was "H Bomb's" sixth start of the season and the third made his record read two firsts, one second and three thirds.

WILL OPEN MAY 19

The Quinte Driving and Riding Club has their inaugural meet of the 1980 season slated for Saturday, May 24th, getting under way at 6:30 p.m. There are races of two heats each are scheduled, there will be betting privileges at the track and a good 'entry list for each event. Racing fans should not miss this one.

Future Quinte club plans call for a gala event on June 28. This will be a horse show, followed by a regular race meet. The show will start in the afternoon, the races following in the evening, all for one admission price.

A feature of the horse show will be jumping events. Hunters or jumpers have not been shown in the city of Belleville for at least 20 years and we think these events would be enjoyed by anyone, be he horse-lover, horse show fan or just curious for some new and exciting form of entertainment.

There seems to be a lot of interest in the Quinte Driving and Riding Club this year and any sport fan who has not seen a harness race is encouraged to attend our opening meet to see what makes harness racing America's fastest growing sport. We think our sport has all the speed, excitement and color that anyone could desire as well as providing the opportunity to make or lose a little at the book.

COACHED McGILL

MONTREAL (CP) — Doug Kerr, 36, who coached the last McGill University football team to win a senior intercollegiate title, died Friday after a long illness. In addition to his intercollegiate crown in 1958, Mr. Kerr led the old Montreal Westward teams to seven Quebec Rugby Football Union championships and to the Dominion intermediate title in 1959.

Marr Leads Snead Tourney

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. (AP)—Dave Marr, a little known pro, shot another 67 Friday and took the midway lead in the Sam Snead Golf Festival by two strokes with a 36-hole total of 134—six under par.

Gary Mann, Snead's assistant here, and Babe Lichackos were in another tie with the 67's, 68's with 139, was having trouble hitting the ball on the fairways cut off the tees.

BRIGHT OUTLOOK?

EDMONTON (CP) — Hard-running fullback Johnny Bright has signed for the 1980 season with Edmonton Eskimos of the WFL. It makes his seventh straight year with the Esks.

Venetian Way Is Even Money To Win Preakness Classic

BY JOHN CHANDLER

BALTIMORE (AP) — Venetian Way is the even-money favorite for the 105th running of the Preakness today, but there was a sneaking hunch that he might be derailed in a bid for triple crown honors.

Furthermore, it needn't necessarily be Sally Ache, the speed horse, who would flip the fly into the Pimlico Racetrack ointment. In the Kentucky Derby, has shown he likes the Pimlico track. Colonial Ash is the choice of many Marylanders.

Six three-year-olds, the remnants of a nomination list of 161, stayed healthy enough and good enough in the eyes of their owners and trainers to contest the middle bauble of racing's Triple Crown. The distance is a mile and three-sixteenths, or 110 yards shorter than the Derby.

HARTACK ON FAVORITE

Venetian Way, owned by Isaac Blumber of Chicago, outbustled the pace-setting Sally Ache in the Kentucky Derby two weeks ago. With Bill Hartack in the saddle, Venetian Way overhauled Sally Ache on the turn for home and won by 3½ lengths. If he wins today Venetian Way can shoot for the weeks June 11 in the Belmont Stakes. That is 1½ miles.

Tony Dalgleish, Mercer — old dark haired New England jockey will ride E. P. Taylor's Victoria Park.

Meanwhile it was announced that temperamental Sally Ache's attack would get the cold shoulder today from Pimlico - track officials. Hartack fell in the Belmont viewers a bad limo of occasion. HE'S NOT POPULAR

Charles H. Johnson, director of public relations for Maryland Jockey Club which operates Pimlico, put out a memorandum to the press. It read in part:

"I cannot in good conscience instruct you to make any effort in connection with photographs, interviews or quotes from W. Hartack because he is a big enough ungentlemanly conduct makes it likely that such effort would be rewarded only with unprovoked abuse and insult.

"There is no reason for professional persons in pursuit of their duties to be so degraded by an impudent youth capable only of sitting on the back of a horse."

As far as his department is concerned, said Johnson, there would be no statement for or about the 27-year-old Hartack before or after the $130,000-added race.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Sunday, May 22

General tendencies: You can certainly see more clearly how to live your life as a pattern for others to follow in the down-to-earth duties of everyday living, and be happy in so doing, if you will attend studies, services, worship of your choice early today. Then tonight you have real ingenuity for putting in effect these new arrangements. Think of worldly matters, too.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — In A. M. concentrate upon the far-reaching ambitions which you and closest ties are striving for. Then get together tonight with partners and obtain their views concerning your mutual efforts. Be very co-operative, understanding.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Be sure to listen to the greatest philosopher or religious leader, personal adviser you know this A. M. Pattern your life according to such teachings and know how to handle people more wisely, adopt new systems that are far more efficient.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Meditation and getting into the so-called Silence for awhile today will give you inspired, intuitive thoughts that will help bring many benefits your way. P. M. sit down and plan your new week's activities very intelligently.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Seek better understanding with associates today and become reconciled with those who are seemingly against you. Show how truly conscientious and right-thinking you are. Spend tonight being kind to those who are in need.

Virgo (August 22 to September 22) — No better day than this to be with those individuals who can help to increase your knowledge, education. Be sure you attend services, then get to nice places with the people you like and respect. Expand.

Libra (September 23 to October 22) — Follow those good hunches that will help to bring about greater success with creditors and increase your circle of good friends. P. M. fine for romance. Then plan new week's activities.

Scorpio (October 23 to November 21) — You have every opportunity now to know what your true position is with associates and decide upon the policy you wish to follow in the future. P.M. talk over any different viewpoints you may have with friends.

Sagittarius (November 22 to December 21) — It would be highly desirable to assist those who look to you for help this A.M. Later you can think much more clearly about the best methods to use in your regular work so that you can realize greater success.

Capricorn (December 22 to January 19) — A. M. is fine for doing nice things for those whom you love and thereby gaining their favor and better understanding. P. M. fine for going to charming social affairs and having a most delightful time.

Aquarius (January 21 to February 19) — Reflect seriously upon achieving greater harmony with close ties and you will know just what to do or say to have greater rapprochement. P. M. will then be ideal, since you can entertain, have fun under own roof.

Pisces (February 20 to March 20) — Ideal morning to be off with intelligent comrades to garner the information you need. Learn the right system that will bring you financial success. In connection, down-to-

M. fine for having fun with kin, good friends as they most prefer.

If your child is born today he, or she, will be tremendously attractive, but will have the tendency to born and has a good deal before deciding upon anything. Your training will determine the extent of the success in this horoscope. Be patient, encouraging.

Monday, May 23

General tendencies: This is certainly a day when you would be wise to carry through with any plans in which the details are facing you for competion. Don't try to make any big changes, but be sure that you do show you have the stick-to-itiveness to get the financial and practical phases of every chore completed in very efficient fashion. Listen to long-time expert, albeit tedious strivers.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Better put aside all thoughts of romance right now and busy yourself with the important practical and monetary affairs of your life. Set up a better bookkeeping system, too. P. M. improve health through right treatments.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Here is one of those days when you want to take your ire out on innocent family ties. Go to the source of your troubles and clear things up intelligently and equitably. P. M. spruce up your appearance — fix clothing.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Delve right into all those small tasks that need clearing up this morning. It is not wise to spend much time socializing with your friends for a good time today! P. M. concentrate upon more efficient ways to operate so you can increase income.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — While business and monetary affairs may seem rather boring to you today, it would be wise to handle them properly, with the assistance of good advisers. Then tonight is fine for social activities. Be gay-charming.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Instead of giving vent to that inner discontent, occupy yourself with important practical matters and you win out. Seek the advice of higher — ups who really know their business and can give you excellent pointers.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) — Realize that fret because your financial condition is not so good, listen to the advice of new friends who know what they are talking about. Learn of more efficient methods of operation. Then full speed ahead!

Libra (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) — Avoid gossipy individuals who would waste your time today and contact that successful adviser who can give you good ideas, show you better methods of operating. Expand.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Be loyal to down-to-earth partners instead of being impressed by a highfalutin higher-up. Put on a better system or schedule that will mean more profits for everyone. Don't be impractical in any way.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — If you forego that little escapade for pleasure today and stick to what is practical and important, you can hit upon new methods of operation that will be very successful. Put that searching mind to work early.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Avoid that hit-or-miss way of views are not to your liking. Follow own intuition that will lead you in the right channels so that you have more success and can enjoy the pleasures that most suit your desires.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Better follow the good, sound advice of a close tie today instead of being carried away by one who talks big, but has little earth, resourceful. Keep busily occupied, day and night.

"Sure he can talk. Who do you think's been bidding against you the last ten minutes?"

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Don't pay any attention to co-workers today who are out of sorts; but follow the ideas and advice of associates, close ties or good friends. Fine day for correspondence, making use of the fine medium of advertisement, etc.

If your child is born today he, or she, will, from earliest youth, be inclined to pose, look and act important. Quickly teach your progeny that innate talent should be put to work constructively instead of dwelling in the realm of the impractical and impossible, or there will be difficulty in adjusting to life. Then the chart is fine, especially in the field of banking or producers-by-products and the like.

Your Car

Seek Protection In Your Car's Road Conduct

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

This is a good time of year to check closely on your car's roadability, paying particular attention to steering, braking and tuning. Road test the car and be a demanding critic. Don't be satisfied with less than peak performance. Steering response must be quick and dependable — no excessive oversteering or understeering tendencies; no wandering, no great effort required for normal maneuvering.

Braking action must be consistently smooth and positive. Only light pedal pressure should be necessary. Any sign of a pull toward one side, brake grab, fade, slow or weak response should certainly be investigated promptly.

Your car is also safer if it rides well. Severe vibration, jarring, bouncing, shaking, etc. will make driving difficult and the car harder to control, especially at higher speeds.

From P. C.: "I just purchased a brand new 1960 four-door sedan. About how much will it depreciate in the first year?"

(A) After one year, your car's worth will be approximately 70 to 75 per cent of its original cost.

G. T. writes: "I have an opportunity to buy a 1957 car at an a very good price. Today, I drove the car. It seems to run well enough but I could hear an engine knock at times, especially when driving very slowly."

(A) Either main bearing trouble or a loose flywheel could be the reason. Get a mechanic to road test it and advise you.

K. B. asks: "What should I do about an engine miss which occurs when I accelerate? Starting and idling speeds are fine."

(A) Have, the spark plugs cleaned and adjusted, or replaced if necessary. In addition, see that there are no loose ignition cables or corroded terminals.

J. D. writes: "Putting air in my tires the other day, I happened to notice that the right front wheel was quite hot. I checked again after using the car yesterday and found the same condition."

(A) A wheel bearing in need of grease or a dragging brake is probably the reason.

TWEED (Staff) — A golden page in the 100-year history of St. James' Anglican Church was written here this week.

The opening and dedication of the beautiful new brick and stucco edifice was conducted last Sunday by the Right Rev. K. C. Evans, Bishop of Ontario.

The new church is situated 100 feet north of the original white frame structure and is a "symbol of the faith and progress of the 80-family congregation who helped physically as well as financially in its construction."

Several special services took place during the week which featured addresses by former rectors and other Anglican clergy of the district.

These included the Rev. W. J. Robinson of Ottawa; Archdeacon J. B. Creegan, Belleville; Rural Dean Kenneth Blashford, Trenton and the Rev. Desmond C. Hunt of St. James' Church, Kingston.

On Sunday May 22 Archbishop of Ontario, and Bishop of Algoma, the Right Rev. William L. Wright will speak at a special service at 3.30 p.m.

The first sod of the new church was turned in 1955 and at first progress was slow. "But we kept going" said the rector the Rev. L. E. Hawkes "and now we have a church valued at $45,000 with an outstanding debt of only $8,500."

The cornerstone was laid in 1958. It contains several historical documents valuable to the church's history.

The architecture is semi-modern while the general exterior is of modern simplicity. The ends and part of the sides are of bark brick veneer with the buttressed centre walls of roughened cream stucco.

The side entrance adheres to the modern trend as does the canopied doorway. There is but the semblance of a steeple to fit in with the simplicity of design.

The swinging entrance doors to the nave of the main auditorium are of blonde oak panelling. This also predominates in the communion table, choir pews, pulpit, prayer desk, bishop's chair and altar.

The pews, a donation from a former parishioner, along with those from St. James' Church, Kingston (dated back to 1844) will accommodate 165 worshippers.

The sanctuary, panelled in blonde oak, features a seven-foot cross of the same wood with special molded design at the cross sections. At each side of the sanctuary is a vestry for the wardens and the altar guild.

An innovation is the amplifier system which will permit worshippers unable to find seating in the auditorium, to follow the service in the basement.

The church organ was completely rebuilt by Mr. Gerald Ingles, a member of St. James' congregation.

The basement, which will be utilized as a parish hall, measures 60 by 36 feet. Bright and airy, its steel beams have been encased in bleached mahogany panel board.

Cheery, thirty-foot folding doors completely partition the kitchen, equipped with appliances to provide refreshment for church gatherings.

The old church, demolished in 1956-57, was erected, as far as can be ascertained, between 1900 and 1863. The names of James Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Moucks, Grahams, Porters, Setmiths and Clarks were among the families of pioneers who gave and financial assistance in those pioneer days.

The bell, cast in 1865 in Baltimore, Maryland, has been preserved in a miniature belfry as a fitting memorial to the contribution made by the old edifice. It stands on the site of the former church at the corner.

When the original church was built, the local parish was a part of Roslin. It became a parish of its own in May, 1892. From 1892 to 1914 it was also a part of the mission of Tweed and Madoc. In January, 1953, these were separated and Tweed, still a mission, absorbed Flinton, Stoco and Crookston.

The little church at Hungerford Station was moved to Sulphide in the 1940's, and Holy Trinity is still ministered by the rector of St. James. The parish became self-supporting in 1958.

At the time the Tweed parish was included with Roslin the rectors were: Rev. W. Fleming, 1859-66; Rev. W. Bond, 1866-68; Rev. W. Roberts, 1868-74; Rev. S. Foster, 1874-77; Rev. H. H. Coleman, 1877-8; Rev. G. Greenhill, 1878-81; Rev. G. Garrow, 1881-84; Rev. S. Bennett, 1884-87; Rev. C. P. Anderson, later the Bishop of Chicago, was assistant to Mr. Bennett; Rev. J. Partridge, 1887-89, and Rev. J. W. Forster, 1889-92.

After Tweed became a parish the following rectors served: Rev. W. H. Barnes, 1892-94; Rev. C. T. Lewis, 1894-99; Rev. W. Huntingdon, 1899-1902; Rev. F. G. Kirkpatrick, 1902-14; Rev. Evelyn Lloyd, 1914-18; Rev. C. T. Ryan, 1918-28; Rev. A. E. U. Smart, 1928-35; Rev. William L. Wright, the present Bishop of Algoma, 1935-39, and the Rev. W. G. Hope Swayze, 1939-53.

Tweed and Madoc parishes were amalgamated during Mr. Swayze's incumbency. He was followed in 1939 by the Rev. A. E. Pepper, who served until 1941. The Rev. William J. Robinson, rector of St. Thomas' Church, Belleville, and now of Ottawa, came to St. James in 1941 and remained until 1948.

Madoc and Tweed were made separate parishes again in 1945. Mr. Robinson went to Napanee and the Rev. F. F. Downing came to St. James and served from 1948 to 1952. On his removage to Merrickville, the Rev. L. E. Hawkes of Sussex, New Brunswick became the rector of St. James, where he still serves.

Teacher Fired For Praising Mr. Khrushchev

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A school teacher has been fired after telling Nikita Khrushchev "the greatest man alive" said Thursday he did so in an attempt to stimulate class discussion.

Winston McDaniel, 32, also told his high school class that Soviet Premier Khrushchev "should be put to death."

McDaniel was fired Wednesday night by the North East Independent school board after members listened to a tape recording made Monday in one of his classes with McDaniel's permission.

The tape showed that a vigorous give-and-take discussion took place between the teacher and his students. One student who disagreed with him sharply was ordered to leave the class.

Speaking of President Eisenhower McDaniel said, "I don't think he's a great mind, but he's not stupid."

"Some of my remarks were my opinions and some were not," McDaniel said after the class had been dismissed. "I believe in making statements that are not my point of view but will get student response, and I got excellent response—too much, in fact."

Tidal Wave Smashes Into Japan, Hawaii

Created By Quake Said 800 Persons Dead Or Missing

● Hundreds of Miles Of East Coast Battered

TOKYO (CP) — About 800 persons were reported dead today in the city of Ocotal north of here after giant dial waves ripping across the Pacific from the Chilean earthquake slammed into the coast of Japan at 400 miles an hour.

Waves inundated thousands of homes and sank 900 fishing boats.

The United States Air Force had a report of 150 dead in Mumuishi, about 30 miles southeast of here, a war base, but officers were unsure of its accuracy.

National police reported 51 dead. The Japan Broadcasting Company's total was 85 dead and 78 missing.

Waves swept Japan's entire eastern coastline after wreaking havoc along the coasts of Hawaii, Okinawa, New Zealand and Australia as well as Chile itself.

At least 20 waves were counted at Sendai, and 20,000 refugees sought shelter. Hundreds more places reported only debris and wreckage where the city of Iwata, north of Sendai.

In the northern city of Shiogama screaming women and children were trampled as the panic-stricken population stampeded to the hills after a third of the city was inundated.

Miyako, another northern city, was the first to be hit and was reportedly badly damaged. Sendai, a city of 34,000 on the island of Honshu, also was reported severely hit.

Experts said it was the first time Japan had experienced such extensive conditions from earthquakes on the other side of the Pacific.

Besides the mounting Japanese figure, the death toll in various areas caused by the Chilean tidal waves was reported near 300.

Along the coasts of the United States, the Philippines, Australia, New Zealand and Formosa also there were varying degrees. Some effects of the waves were felt as far as parts of the British Columbia coast.

The semi-official Japan broadcasting service reported that at least 85 dead, 78 missing, 884 injured and 900 fishing boats flooded, destroyed or washed away.

The waves rose to 30 feet at some points in Japan, and casualties were not broadcast until after the waves began subsiding and ebbing.

Another report from Sendai said the waves broke over a breakwater protecting the city's harbor. The report said Kirikyuk was hit by a huge wall of water and debris that swept through the city.

Waves also struck the coast of Okinawa, where U.S. personnel and their families live.

Tidal waves were reported in the Philippines, Australia, New Zealand and Formosa.

Waves were also reported in Australia as well as Chile itself.

Taximan Hauled From Car and Beaten to Death

TORONTO (CP)—A 29-year-old man was hauled from his car and beaten to death at a busy downtown intersection early Monday morning following a minor traffic accident.

Police said George Larkin of Toronto, father of two, stopped his car at the intersection of Dundas and Bay streets and was dragged from behind by unidentified vehicle.

One of two men in the second car jumped out, pulled Larkin to the road and beat him as shocked bystanders looked on.

Philip Starks, 30, was charged with manslaughter.

Police found Larkin sprawled on the pavement, his skull shattered.

Larry Starks, 18, of Toronto, was charged with assaulting Inshmuth Hazlet of Newmarket, who apparently tried to intervene and stop the beating.

Detroit homicide detectives later reported that Starks came from Detroit and said he was known to have ties with Willie Sonny Jones in Atlanta, Ga.

Police said Larkin was on his way home after a shift as a driver with City-Wide Taxi.

After the collision, which police said caused less than $2 damage, Larkin got out to survey the situation. A man from the other car grabbed him, yelling "I'll get you."

Starks is a five-foot-eleven, 180-pounder. Both he and Sparks were unemployed.

Larkin, who stood five feet, seven inches and weighed 145 pounds, was a native of St. John's, Nfld.

Two witnesses heard the commotion as they sat in a nearby restaurant.

A supervisor at City-Wide Taxi said Larkin was a quiet, capable driver who wouldn't have challenged anyone.

Canada Should Warn Russia of Surprise Attack

TORONTO (CP)—A committee on methods of disarmament at the University of Toronto has suggested to Prime Minister Diefenbaker that Canada should advise Russia if Canadian radar reveals the United States planning a surprise attack on the Soviet.

A three-stage plan leading to ultimate world disarmament was drawn up by the faculty-student committee at the request of Mr. Diefenbaker.

The brief bluntly warns that the West's reliance on nuclear deterrence involves a fearful risk of war and tells the government it would be unable to protect the Canadian people in a nuclear war.

LIBERAL REQUESTS GOVT. TO HEED OR FIRE COYNE

Finance Minister Accused of Meddling

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has been challenged to heed economic storm warnings raised by the governor of the Bank of Canada or give him the heave-ho.

The single voice giving leadership in economic matters is that of James Coyne of the Bank of Canada, Paul Martin (L—Essex East) told the Commons Monday. It was a "serious reflection" upon the government.

"The governor of the Bank of Canada has not been afraid to state economic realities, actual and potential, as he sees them," the former health minister said. "He has regarded this assessment as part of his function."

VIEWS DIFFERENT

Mr. Martin, introducing a non-confidence motion and tucking in a birthday greeting to Finance Minister Fleming, said the 59-year-old minister would seem to have views other than those held by Mr. Coyne, especially about combatting unemployment.

He flung down this challenge: "If the government of the day feels that the governor of the Bank of Canada is not expressing its views there are constitutional processes open to which the government of the day can finally resort to remove any incumbent in the Bank of Canada, or remove from any responsible position in this important institution responsible to this Parliament those who express views which the government of the day does not rely on or does not believe in."

Mr. Martin returned again to this point in a catch-all speech that finally led up to the non-confidence motion. Mr. Fleming was absent in the interim of introducing through the House with questions.

TWO COURSES OPEN

The minister of finance, he said, must either accept the Coyne conclusions "or repudiate them and resort to the necessary

Lodge Gives New Information On Accused Russian Spy

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — United States delegate Henry Cabot Lodge gave the United Nations Security Council some new information Monday on Vadim A. Kirilyuk, an accused Soviet spy whose case Vice-President Richard M. Nixon disclosed last week.

Lodge said the man was caught seeking data on cryptographic machines that have to do with secret codes.

Nixon, speaking in Buffalo, N.Y., Wednesday, had said only that Kirilyuk was trying to get highly classified information from an American in Springfield, Mass., when the Federal Bureau of Investigation found him out.

He said Kirilyuk then was dismissed from his accountant's job at the United Nations.

Lodge named Kirilyuk with 10 other Russians on what he called an illustrative list of Soviet spies exposed in the U.S. since Stalin died seven years ago.

Lodge said the U.S. understood that at least 360 Russian espionage agents have been convicted in different countries of the free world."

Besides Kirilyuk he listed 10 Russians as "unmasked in the United States and expelled from the U.S. since Stalin's death.

Many were attaches at the Soviet embassy in Washington.

Lodge also referred to Colonel Rudolph Ivanovich Abel as convicted "right here in New York" of spying for Russia and others in the U.S. and abroad.

He said a Soviet vessel in recent weeks committed "an aggressive act" by deliberately interfering with vessels of the U.S. Navy off Long Island, N.Y.

Russians Agree to Release 9 Occupants of U.S. Plane

BERLIN (Reuters) — Russia agreed today to hand over the nine occupants of an American transport plane forced down in East German territory Friday.

A Soviet Embassy spokesman said the occupants of the aircraft —eight American servicemen and a serviceman's daughter — will be handed over to an American representative in Berlin as soon as they are landed.

The plane came down near Grevesmuehlen, East Germany, Friday, apparently straying on a flight from Copenhagen to Hamburg and being forced to land by Soviet jets which intercepted it.

The Russians said the date of the handing over would depend on a reply from Gen. Clyde D. Eddleman, United States Army European commander, to a letter from Gen. Ivan Yakubovsky, Russian commander in East Germany.

Eddleman demanded the release of the Americans in a letter to Yakubovsky Saturday. Soviet officials said Yakubovsky's reply protested the infringement of East German air space and demanded measures to ensure that there would be no further violations.

The plane came down about 12 miles inside East German territory near the Baltic coast. Eyewitnesses reported that Soviet jets fired warning bursts after intercepting it.

The decision to return the Americans followed top-level talks Sunday between Soviet and East German officials.

Meanwhile, Heinrich Rau, deputy premier of East Germany, was quoted as saying he hoped the plane's intrusion on East German air space would turn out to be a "harmless affair." But he said an investigation is under way to see whether "somebody wanted to provoke" and that there would be "no question of any sovereign rights."

He should like to think it will prove to be a harmless affair," Rau said.

Rau, answering questions about the Berlin issue, said East Germany does not recognize Bonn's "so-called" West Berlin.

"We want negotiations. By these means West Berlin can receive the lines of communication it wants."

Nikita Khrushchev has repeatedly said he would sign a peace treaty signed with East Germany, the Western allies would have to negotiate directly with the East Germans on access to West Berlin.

400 SAID DEAD, 800 MISSING IN 3-DAY NIGHTMARE

Quakes and Tidal Waves Hit Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The toll of dead, injured and missing continued to mount today as rescue workers dug in towns and cities shattered by a three-day nightmare of earthquakes and tidal waves.

By Monday night 400 persons were reported dead, 800 missing and about 1,600 injured. But an exact count of the casualties still was not available because of shattered communications in the hard-hit areas.

The damage in wrecked buildings, twisted roads and other losses through nine central and southern provinces of the narrow South American country bordering the Pacific Ocean ran into the millions of dollars.

EMERGENCY ZONE

Tidal waves which battered the Chilean coast, sweeping 130 persons to their deaths and leaving seaside villages, raced across the Pacific to hit the shores of such far-away spots as Japan, Hawaii, the Philippines and New Zealand.

Fresh convulsions of the earth took place again Monday in southern Chile.

Adding to the havoc was an avalanche of rock and mud at the Osorno Volcano, 600 miles south of Santiago. The volcano did not erupt, but tons of rock crashed into the valley below, killing several persons.

A new tremor Monday night shook the city of Concepcion, where 12 more dead were found in the ruins of a collapsed hospital. The air force said the small port of Saavedra in southern Chile was completely inundated.

The Santiago newspaper El Mercurio said tidal waves as high as 24 feet washed over devastated towns in southern Chile, washing away scores of houses.

ISLANDS COVERED

Jaime Silva, deputy secretary for the interior ministry, reported communications still out with many towns and islands in Chiloe province, and said many fear the feared under water.

Early government planes had flown over the town of Queule, in Cautin province, 600 miles south of Santiago, where 400 persons were reported missing and another 200 have been taken refuge in the mountains.

Several villages have been completely destroyed by the tidal waves.

The disaster began Saturday with a heavy initial shock that took more than 200 lives. There were spasmodic tremors through Saturday night, then on Sunday came a violent quake that now appears to have been the worst, followed by the tidal waves.

Security Council Called Back After Hearing Charges

Proposal Calls on Big 4 To Resume Negotiations

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Trying to repair the wreckage of the summit, the United Nations Security Council was called back into its emergency session this afternoon after hearing the Soviet Union and the United States accuse each other of charges.

Britain's Sir Pierson Dixon was among those expected to speak, and in the background of the debate was a proposal calling on the Four to resume the negotiations collapsed at the Paris summit in Paris last week.

Russia's Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko charged at the opening of the council session Monday that U.S. spy flights were aggressive acts creating a threat to world peace. U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge retorted that thousands of spies around the world.

MORE MODERATE TONE

Gromyko, the Russian prime minister in the debate, spoke for an hour, following in more-moderate terms the U-2 incident the U.S. unleashed by Premier Khrushchev in Paris.

Lodge spoke for only 15 minutes.

Gromyko, wearing his customary grandpa expression, was the centre of attention, carefully attended-chasing when he entered the council chamber, but he and Lodge exchanged not a word.

At the outset of the debate, council president Sir Claude Corea of Ceylon pleaded for a "renewed spirit of conciliation."

Corea was given much of the credit for a compromise resolution, sponsored by Ceylon, Argentina, Ecuador and Tunisia, which circulated after the council adjourned Monday night. It calls for a resumption of East-West negotiations on disarmament and other big issues.

The resolution noted with regret that the world's hopes had been dashed for a fourth-power summit meeting. It now was necessary to "make every effort to restore and strengthen international goodwill and confidence."

The four smaller members of the council urged the U.S., Russia, British and France to "resume discussions as soon as possible" and to "refrain themselves from the assistance of the security council and shall keep appropriate UN organs.

Diplomats said today is virtually no chance of Gromyko's resolution, asking the council to "condemn" the overflights, ever to serve votes for approval.

Gromyko said the flights of a aircraft into other states as aggressive acts, getting the necessary

Nature Doing Its Worst to Make '60 Top Earthquake Disaster Year

LONDON (Reuters)—Nature is doing its worst to make 1960 the most disastrous earthquake year in modern times.

Some 18,000 lives have been lost in quakes around the globe in the first year, with seven months still to go, seismologists say, and now Chile have suffered most in a series of quakes and waves of shocks in the earth's crust.

The record of earthquakes this year began Jan. 31 when a severe shock hit southern Peru, killing 66 persons while demolishing the city of Arequipa. More than 70 per cent of the city was destroyed, with a population of 200,000, were uninhabitable.

On Feb. 21 nearly 46 persons were killed when a quake destroyed two villages in Algeria. A witness described the villages as "heaps of dust and earth" after the quake.

This proved to be a warning for the greatest earthquake disaster of recent years when in neighborhood of Agadir, on the port of Agadir was devastated. The death toll was 12,000.

A series of moderate tremors about the town for several days afterward.

Dismay over the Agadir tragedy was just dying down when the worst quake in 45 years hit southern Yugoslavia, killing one person and destroying homes in a wide area.

A month free of earthquake disasters ended April 24, when a severe quake lasting 30 minutes struck the town of Lar in southern Iran. Over 2,500 of its inhabitants were killed and 17,000 made homeless.

Not a single wall was left standing in the village which, according to Iranian officials, has completely destroyed than Agadir.

The Lar quake was followed by earthquake to hit East Africa where 1905 killed two natives in Uganda and put five passengers in nearby Entebbe out of action.

The countries which have experienced medium earth tremors, since Jan. 1, in chronological order, are Romania, Afghanistan, Italy, Japan, the Philippines, India, Italy, Turkey, Italy, Greenland, Morocco, New Zealand, and Italy again.

Alumni of Albert College Hold Enjoyable Re-union

Over the weekend members of the Alumni of Albert College held their annual homecoming, which was highlighted by the registrations and a coffee corner in the Ella Gardiner annex on Saturday morning.

President of the Alumni, G. W. Thompson of Toronto, presided at the banquet in the evening which was held in Ackerman Hall with a good representation of the members. The president welcomed the guests and pledged support to the school in their endeavors, particularly to their becoming a liberal Arts college.

In his toast to the school Miss Baker expressed the thought that in memory Albert College brought to mind, not only the teachers, the chapel, the study hall, the lights, stone and mortar with which it was built, the playing fields, but more importantly the indefinable the school stands for. These things must be maintained values, the standards of values one learned in the melting pot of the friendships made in broad contact with different races and people, the unforgettable ties which were a part of the privilege of the university.

"The fact is, this is a precarious moment in the history of Victoria College," she said. "We have to consider how far we can go. There has been a public relations committee studying the prospects of making this junior college or a liberal Arts college. An approach has been made to Queen's University and we received a favorable response but no commitment has been made. We have been encouraged by the response of the alumni and parents. We of the staff have become aware of our need and our responsibility and have a clear conception of the type of training we should undertake. To do this as teachers we need a spirit of inspiration in our young people. I want to thank you for your generous gifts and your support."

SPLENDID ARRANGEMENT

Seated at the head table, which was arranged with bowls of spring flowers, were President and Mrs. Gerry Thompson, Dr. and Mrs. MacKenzie, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Deacon, Dean J. F. MacKay, Ken Meserve, N. A. (Pete) Beach, and the speaker of the evening, Miss Jessie Tuite.

Copies of the history of Albert College were written by Dr. Waldo Smith were presented to several individuals and to the Presidents and associations with the school.

The entertaining feature of the program was an editorial in the Athli-Elite of 1940, in which the public school system was criticized in twenty years, and foretold what the future would become by then. Mr. Beach read the article, and then explained to what had actually happened to each person. Several of the young men had lost their lives in the war, and none was present for the re-union of 1940.

Lively assembly singing was led by choirmaster J. H. Mac-Kay with Cora Sharpe at the piano.

Mr. Murray Irwin needed to give no biographical account in introducing the speaker to the audience, for Miss Jessie Tuite had had a long association with Albert College. "In every class there are a few people who have the gift of enriching the lives of those with whom they come in contact," he said. "These people are the salability and make life worthwhile in an age when we seem to be a satisfactory standard of living. One of those rare individuals who has enriched our lives is our own beloved Miss Tuite."

Miss Tuite had many humorous recollections of her years at Albert, and although she disclaimed reminiscences as boring, they proved to be just the contrary. The speaker recalled the day she registered as a student, being 49 years and overwhelmed by the surging crowd of co-eds. The dingy dining room and the long walk with the pails set under them to catch the drips. There were monthly serenades when they walked arm-in-arm around the room, and no refreshments were served afterwards. Three years later she came back to teach. That teaching staff was one of the finest in the world, and included Miss Madelene Young. They made their own fun and had lots of it.

GREAT KINDNESS REMEMBERED

In Massey Hall which was given by the Massey Foundation the alumni society had programs of music of speeches. This lovely hall and the administration building were destroyed by fire in 1917, as well as the sleeping quarters of the domestic staff. The great kindnesses of the Masseys affected the life would always be remembered.
